STROLLERS TO PRESENT SKIT AT ROTARY CLUB

Cast To Have Charge of Entertainment Program Tomorrow

GUESTS AT LUNCHEON

The Rotary Club has asked the Strollers to have charge of its entertainment program at its weekly luncheon Friday, and the comedy skit by William Shinnick, "How the Ham Saved the Homestead," will be given by the same cast which recently presented it before the student body in chapel. This is quite an honor for the Strollers, as the Rotary Club is composed of the most prominent men in Lexington, leaders in all local activities. The cast will be guests of the club at luncheon after the performance.

Beginning next week rehearsals will also be held in the afternoons in order that the cast may be whipped into shape as soon as possible. Work is progressing very satisfactorily and there seems to be no question but that "The Lion and the Mouse" will be up to the high standard set by former Stroller successes.

Several old Strollers have visited rehearsals recently and have had a few kind words of advice and encouragement for the ambitious actors. Guy Huguleit, a young Lexington lawyer, who is just as interesting looking as his name sounds, made a short call recently. Guy had one of the leading roles in "The College Widow," given by the Strollers in 1914.

"Monk," sometimes known as Henry Morrison has visited rehearsals several times. He is also a lawyer, but those who know him don't hold it against him. He made a secure place in history, when he, Leo Sandmann, and Waller wrote a burlesque comedy skit and presented it as part of a Glee Club program. It was called "When Julius Caesar" and made such a hit that it was presented as part of a Keith's program (yes, Lexington was once on the Keith circuit). Monk appeared in "The Lost Paradise," given in 1913, and he kissed the woman who played opposite him more gracefully than any Stroller before or since.

Owen Lee was present the other night, but couldn't stay long as he wanted to see Hazel Dawn at the Ben All. Owen says that he has stopped chewing tobacco. Having known Owen some years, all that we can say is, "Verily, O Woman, thy strength be as nothing, thou makest miracles to come to pass, the hills to be leveled to the plains and the sun to rise in the west!"

KAPPA DELTA BANQUET.

The annual banquet of Kappa Delta sorority will be held at the Phoenix Hotel at 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening.

ALPHA DELTA SIGMA TO HOLD LUNCHEONS

Alpha Delta Sigma, the honorary journalism fraternity, held a meeting in the journalism rooms Tuesday morning. Members of the fraternity unanimately decided to hold a monthly luncheon in the private dining room of the Leonard Hotel on the first Thursday of each month.

The suggested plan is to have as the organization's guest, some local newspaper man who will address the members.

HIGHWAY ENGINEERING COURSE IS SUCCESS

New Organization Effected With Dean W. E. Rowe President

TRANSIT IS ADOPTED.

The most successful road school, in every respect, ever held at the University of Kentucky, was concluded last Friday night. The course, offered under the auspices of the Engineering Department, began Wednesday, and was attended by nearly 150 engineers, county judges and members of the fiscal court from all parts of the State.

An organization, to be known as The Kentucky Civil and Sanitary Engineering Society was effected Friday. Dean Walter E. Rowe was elected president, Howard K. Bell, chief engineer of the Bell Construction Company, vice president and chairman of the municipal section; William S. Cramer, chief engineer of the Lexington Water Works, vice president, and chairman of the water works section; Dr. E. P. Curry, vice president and chairman of the State sanitary engineering section, and Perry A. Rowe, assistant city engineer of Lexington, secretary and treasurer.

The society will be comprised of three sections, municipal, sanitary and hydraulic. The Transit was named as the official organ of the society, and will publish in its April number a detailed account of the meeting. The organization will be affiliated with the State Board of Health, and the State Department of Public Roads.

During the session, exhibits by various road construction companies in the United States were displayed. Friday afternoon the visitors went on an inspection trip to the Lexington Sewage Disposal plant, now under construction. Recently granted federal aid has increased the interest in road building, and the importance of good roads has been emphasized. The plan for this course in the future is to extend it to a six or eight-weeks' course, with a final week of lectures, when the road experts of the State and Nation will address the meetings. Demonstrators will be invited to these meetings.

'OPPORTUNITY' SUBJECT OF ADDRESS IN CHAPEL

College Men Needed in Foreign Service, Speaker Tells Students

TALK IS INSPIRING

"While Europe is calling forty million men to fight the battles of their earthly lords, there is a call to the young men and women of America to spread the blessings of Christian civilization," said C. G. Hounshell, of Nashville, Tennessee, in chapel Tuesday.

Mr. Hounshell's subject was "World Opportunities for University Men," and he began his discussion by the mention of men who have "done things" in this world. "None of them could have been the success that he is unless he had been trained in the school of the world. There is hardly a university or college of any size and importance in the world that has not contributed to the education and training of John R. Mo'." the great student leader," said the speaker. "To be in the world's actions and problems, one must train himself with a world task in view."

The challenge of the world today to college men is already being met by a few men from the colleges. Mr. Hounshell spoke of an honor roll in the Y. M. C. A. rooms at the University of Michigan, which contains the names of the former students of that institution who are now abroad giving the influence of their training and lives to those who have been less fortunate. "What a place there is for the graduate of the College of Agriculture in India or China! In India now there is a Princeton graduate who recently returned to his native land to study agriculture, and he is putting the ideas of the Occident against the prejudices and customs of the Orient," he continued.

In a city of Korea about two years ago a young engineer stood by a filthy sewer, and there formed the plans for cleaning the disease-bearing system of sewage with which the city was at that time cursed. At the present time the city is daily furnished with millions of gallons of water and all the cities of the country are asking for just such service. Cities of the backward Orient are being lighted, their water supply is being improved, their death rates are being lowered, by the engineers from the colleges, but there remain two thousand of just such problems, and the solution of all of it is in the hands of the youth of America.

Perhaps the most interesting example that the speaker used to show the type of man that volunteered for this work was the conversation he held with "Chief" Bleyens at Blue Ridge last summer. He said that he was fortunate enough to be the man to hear first of Blevins' decision to plant his life in China, where, according to

JUNIOR PROM DATE IS CHANGED TO APRIL 20

Friday, the 13th, Conflicts With Other Social Events

CLASS DUES ARE SET

The Junior prom date, which was announced for Friday, April 13th, has been moved up one week to April 20th. This action was taken yesterday after it was found that the date decided upon at a class meeting last Thursday conflicted with several other social affairs. The more superstitious members of the class, who had grave apprehension about Friday, the thirteenth as a date for the prom, are now breathing more easily.

Class dues were fixed at $5.00 for those who are going to attend the prom and $2.50 for those who will not attend the affair, with fifty cents rebate for the students who contributed that amount towards the golden jubilee parade. March 5 was fixed as the last date for one to pay his dues and still receive a prom program.

The question of the disposal of the $100 prize won by the class in the jubilee parade was taken up, but no definite action was taken. This money will probably be used to erect a permanent monument on the campus to the memory of the class of '18.

Prom committees were appointed as follows:

Invitations: H. M. Henry, chairman; J. M. Hedges and Harry Cottrell.

Programs: R. M. Davis, chairman; Miss Mildred Taylor and M. L. Watson.

Music: H. I. Kinne, chairman; Miss Lena Clem and C. P. Mabry.

Refreshments: J. P. G. Reynolds, chairman; D. R. Ellis and William Lindsay.

Place: Wayne Cottingham, chairman; Tate Bird and H. C. Forman.

Decorations: Miss Vivian DeLaine, chairman; Miss Celia Cregor, William McDougale, Tilford Wilson and Everett Likens.

Entertainment: C. L. Morgan, chairman; T. E. Peak, Virgil Chapman, Sherley Hudson and J. B. Flege.

TENNESSEE QUINTET DEFEATS CATS TWICE

Entire Team Plays Stellar Game But Hard Luck Interferes

LOSE BY 3 POINTS

(By J. Thornton Connell.)
Victory came to Tennessee in both games. Our boys fought a good fight, in fact a better fight, but the superior speed and skill in scoring of the colorful Tennesseans caused them to lose the Friday night game by the score of 23 to 20, and the second contest 22 to 19. As the scores indicate the latter game was almost an exact replica of the first.

With the crowds on their feet exhorting them to fight, Kentucky's bristling basketeers gave exhibitions of the smashiest basketball ever seen on the local floor. A quintet made of anything less resisting than pigiron could not have come out victorious over a team whose forwards carried the ball down the field in such a savage manner.

Kentucky presented easily her best line-up of the season. "How's the boy?" Thompson, the husky, handsome Bourbonite, who acted like he was going to make "Doc" look to his laurels as champion of "roughing it," started the game at center, but on account of having practiced only a few days soon got winded. His exodus caused Campbell to take the place of Longworth, who was shifted to the circle.

Captain Ireland played well. His eye for the basket was in better trim the second game than it was the first. In the middle of the last half of the latter game, he raised the hopes of the despairing spectators by tossing four field goals in a row. He covered the floor with exceptional judgment.

"Pat" Campbell was the captain's running mate. Altho he made good shots in each game, he was a little unsteady. A bit more experience on the squad will undoubtedly remove this undue excitement under which he labors.

Longworth, at center, was severely handicapped by the elongation of Davidson, the elastic footed. This fellow Davidson used his jumping ability to good advantage by slapping the sphere in when it was not pitched up too far away from the Tennessee goal.

Doc was in the thickest of the fray during every minute of the two encounters. Everyone knows that he is in a class by himself when it comes to running the broken field. That rare ability, supplemented by uncanny dribbling and a remarkable equilibrium served him in good stead when advancing the ball to his forwards. When they were covered up he himself took a shot at the elusive basket. He connected twice.

Schrader, too, was there when it came to the rough and tumble. Reminiscent of the football career from

GOV. A. O. STANLEY ADDRESSES ENGINEERS

Discusses Steel Industry From All Conceivable Angles

TALK IS MASTERPIECE

Governor A. O. Stanley addressed the Senior class of the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering in Mechanical Hall last Friday morning on some phases of the steel industry. The occasion was so unique and the address itself so striking that it is regretted that the entire student body did not have opportunity to hear it.

The Governor was on his way to the dedication of Lincoln Memorial University and stopped over, so to speak, to talk to the students.

Professor F. Paul Anderson, dean of the college, introduced His Excellency briefly and warned him as he passed a box of fragrant Havanas that he would be expected to throw away all superfluous dignity and talk to these "fine strong, red-blooded young men as a virile red-blooded man should talk, without formality."

Seated in a comfortable chair the Governor leaned back, lit his cigar and talked for an hour and a half on the steel industry in America. His forceful and characteristic leadership of the committee which conducted the now famous steel probe in Congress had put the Governor in possession of information about steel that was exhaustive in every phase of the subject. He was at home at once in the discussion of various processes of manufacture and of the dark and devious manipulations of the stock market, effecting the products of the most powerful combine in America.

Governor Stanley's story of the development of the steel industry in this country; of the processes that obtain thru all gradations of procedure from the ore to the finished product; of its influence upon the commercial life of the American community; of the activities of the outstanding figures in the steel industry for a quarter of a century; of the stupendous violations of both statutory and economic law in desperate and successful efforts to destroy competition on an enormous basis and establish arbitrary prices; of the ruthless disregard certain steel magnates disclosed for the rights of the people, was so masterful in delineation, so thrilling in dramatic interest and so ornate in method of presentation that it held his hearers, consisting of the Senior Mechanical students and instructors from several other departments of the University, as if enthralled.

Altho the Governor sat while he talked, the address was embellished by well-nigh all the graces of finished oratory except those of gesture, and some of the simple truths he drove home were couched in language as elegant as that of De Quincey, and as forceful as that of Macaulay.

Governor Stanley's characterization of Carnegie, whom he denominated the most accurate judge of men this century knows; of Gates, who was the embodiment of business diplomacy and debonair personal graciousness; of Schwab, who in his opinion, was one of the most incisive and potent executives of our time; of Morgan, the financier and of Rockefeller, the wizard of values, was a masterpiece not only in English, but in finished delineation.

Closing, the Governor invited young men of his audience to study further these men, not necessarily in all senses for purposes of emulation, and advised them as they entered upon life's stern work, as engineers and leaders of men, where executive capacity must count, to be courageous, to be just, to be firm, to be "square."

It would be mechanically impossible for the Kernel to publish the speech in full or even any considerable part of it. Indeed cold type would not reflect the galvanic effect that under his peculiar delivery the Governor's talk had upon his hearers who never broke their profound silence from the time he began to speak until they arose to bid him good-bye at the close of his address. It was declared by those who heard it the most illuminating talk ever given on the campus on a similar occasion.

The student body desires the Kernel to thank the Governor for his talk and is unanimous in expressing gratification at evidences of His Excellency's increasing interest in the University and the student body.

PATTERSON SOCIETY TO ELECT SATURDAY.

The Patterson Literary Society will hold an election of officers Saturday evening, at a meeting which is scheduled to begin promptly at 7 o'clock and adjournment at about 8 o'clock in order that all may attend the basketball game in the Armory. The program will of necessity be short after which the election of officers will be taken up. A full attendance is earnestly requested.

AT THE ADA MEADE.

Boys, there is a fellow member, Geo. D. McKay, the famous piano player, who is very well known to the members of the Mystic Circle Society of your University. He is with that famous comedy act, "Three Reis and McKay." Another treat for you, so come on down and try to ride the mule who says "Nobody can ride me." How about it?

Three other Keith pictures will complete this great bill, starting today, Thursday, February 15. Monday, February 19, will be "Patriotic Week" and will be featured by Col. Pattee and his "Old Soldier Fiddlers," all of whom served in the Civil War, two in the Southern army and two in the Northern army. These wonderful men are worth going miles to see and you should see them.

Four more big Keith acts will also be featured.—Advertisement.

which he graduated a year ago, he used the diving tackle effectively on the Tennessee aggregation. His goal shooting was fairly accurate, both field and free throws.

Garrett, the midget from our neighboring State, copped the individual laurels in the first game. In the first half when it looked like the Wildcats had caught Tennessee napping, he hopped in and immediately snatched the goose from the fire by shooting five field goals. He easily outplayed Reeder, whose coming was heralded with much ado.

Reeder, however, redeemed himself in the second game by showing a brand of the stuff that gained him a big name in the South. The deeds of the daring Davidson have been told. In neither game did the much-touted pair of guards play up to the standard set by Doc and Dutch.

EARLY EXAMS FOR SENIORS ABOLISHED

The time-honored custom of allowing the Seniors to take the final examinations two weeks before the end of the second semester was abolished by the faculty at its regular monthly session Monday afternoon. The reason assigned for this action was that it had proved a failure.

Privilege of taking examinations two weeks in advance of the other students has heretofore been granted candidates for graduation in order that they might know in advance of their standing and to eliminate the confusion occasioned by mixing examinations with commencement exercises.

Y. M. AND Y. W. ASSNS. HOLD JOINT MEETING

The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. met Sunday evening in the Y. M. C. A. room, with Miss Marie Collins conducting the meeting. The addresses made by Dr. Houshell, of Nashville, Tenn., will be remembered by all who heard him in choosing their life work. Miss Effie Land charmed her audience with a vocal solo, "O Dry Those Tears." The meeting was well attended by members of both associations.

BURSTING OF FROZEN WATER PIPE CAUSES MUCH DAMAGE.

Valuable maps and records belonging to the State Mining Department were damaged to the extent of several thousand dollars by the bursting of a frozen water pipe in the Mining Building Tuesday night.

The break occurred in the lecture room on the second floor and every room in that end of the building was flooded.

LOUVAIN PROFESSOR TO LECTURE FEB. 20

Professor Albert Van Hecke, of Louvain University, will lecture at the Lexington Opera House Tuesday afternoon and evening, February 20, on the life of the refugee Belgians in their camps in Holland. Professor Van Hecke, who was one of the organizers in the camps, will show complete moving pictures of the life of these unfortunate people, whose existence depends largely on the bounty of America.

Among the patrons of the lecture are President Barker, Mayor Rogers, Judge Kerr and the Lexington Chamber of Commerce. Tickets are 25 and 50 cents and can be secured from "Uncle Jimmy" Lyons. Proceeds go to the Belgian Relief Fund.

UNIV. TO HONOR WASHINGTON'S MEMORY

The birthday of the father of his country will be observed with special exercises next Thursday by the students and faculty of the University.

At 10 o'clock Thursday morning, James M. Cox, governor of Ohio, will deliver the principal address of the day, appropriate to the occasion. Governor A. O. Stanley will introduce him. President Barker will preside over the exercises. At the conclusion of the morning exercises, the faculty of the University will hold its annual Washington's Birthday luncheon at the Phoenix Hotel. Governors Cox and Stanley will be the guests of honor with the presidents of the Kentucky colleges, the faculty acting as host.

This celebration will be one of the most elaborate affairs that the University has ever undertaken. All class work will be suspended for the day, leaving the students free to attend the meeting.

TALKS BY MEMBERS AT AGR. SOCIETY MEETING

Russell Hunt Named Assistant Editor of Rural Kentuckian

MISS GRANT SPEAKER

Talks on various phases of farming by members of the society were features of the regular meeting of the Agricultural Society Monday night. Attendance was large.

J. C. Melvin gave a talk on "Rural Recreation," which was followed by a discussion of "The Beauty of Farming," by Miss Grant, a girl who is taking the regular agriculture course. Miss Grant spoke of the beauty of the broad Ohio as it flows majestically by the farm where she was raised. The association with beautiful animals, such as thoroughbred horses, and the rollicking little lambs are among the many beauties of the farm, she said.

J. L. Gale next discussed the factors which tended to make Pendleton County one of the richest and best agricultural counties of Kentucky. He mentioned sweet clover, alfalfa, dairying and beekeeping as being factors which have placed Pendleton County on the Kentucky agricultural map.

V. R. Pfingstag talked on the "Value of Co-operation in Farming." He discussed the marketing problem of the farmers and illustrated what a small per cent of the product the farmer actually receives for his efforts. The first step he stated is the organization and the co-operation of producers and then ultimately the co-operation of both the producers and consumers.

After the program, business of importance was taken up and Russell Hunt, a Junior, was elected assistant editor of the Rural Kentuckian, the official organ of the society, for the rest of the year to succeed E. C. Kirtley, who did not return for the second semester.

"LITTLE PAUL" IS 50

Dean F. Paul Anderson was offered many good wishes Saturday by friends, associates and students, on his fiftieth birthday. Flowers from his co-workers were piled high on his desk at Mechanical Hall when he arrived there Saturday morning to take up his work.

HUTCHCRAFT SPEAKS TO WOMAN'S CLUB

The Woman's Club of the University held its regular monthly meeting last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clarence W. Mathews, on South Limestone, with Mrs. Mathews and Mrs. Franklin E. Tuttle hostesses. Mrs. M. L. Ponce, the president, had charge of the business session.

The program included an address by Representative Reuben Hutchcraft on "Taxation," and two solos by Mrs. L. L. Dantzer. The meeting closed with a social hour, when ices, mints and cakes suggestive of St. Valentine, were served.

TERRELL IN WASHINGTON.

Professor Dan V. Terrell, of the College of Civil Engineering, is in Washington, D. C., as one of five members of a committee on testing out material by which a uniform system may be obtained for testing roads. He will remain in Washington until the latter part of the week.

MORGAN TO ADDRESS AGS ON COUNTY WORK

Geoffrey Morgan, State Agent, addressed about twenty students who are interested in taking up farm demonstration work when they leave college in the Botany Lecture Room of the Agriculture Building last Saturday afternoon. He will speak again to those interested in such work Saturday afternoon, February 17, in the same room.

It is especially urged that all students in the College of Agriculture whether they be interested in county agent work or not, be present, as Mr. Morgan, who is in the Extension Department of the station under Dr. Mutchler, discusses the errors which new county agents are likely to make and some of the problems which are sure to confront them when they take up such work. Such discussion is sure to be of value to all agriculture students.

PEACE CONTEST TO BE HELD APRIL 6

The local oratorical contest on the peace question will be held April 6 in the University chapel, and all Kentucky University students are eligible to compete. The only restriction on the speeches is that they must deal with some phase of the peace movement.

No prize is offered in the first contest, but the winner of the State contest, which will also be held here, will receive $75 in cash and a trip to the sectional contest. Last year J. J. McBrayer, Kentucky's representative, won both the State and sectional competitions. The winners in the six sections of the country will meet in June at Lake Chautauqua, N. Y., to decide the national oratorical championship. Further information may be secured from Professor J. T. C. Noe.

Baseball at Grinnell College, Iowa, has been discontinued for one year by the faculty. The results at the end of this time will determine whether it will be re-established or permanently abolished.

Members of the language faculty of the University of Mississippi have organized a Philological Club, the object of which is to promote original investigation and research.

Our Debt of Patriotism.

In American history two characters stand out prominently, one a Virginian and the other a Kentuckian. The former, with the aid of France, founded the Republic; the latter, alone and unaided, preserved it during the darkest days the United States has ever experienced.

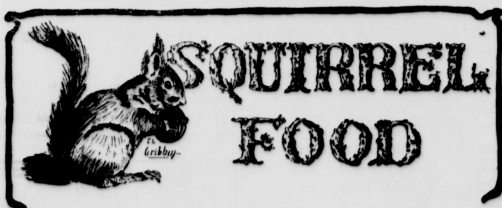

Monday was the 108th anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birth, altho few students in the University were aware of it. Classes were held as usual and there were no exercises or entertainments of any kind to honor the memory of this great Kentuckian. In fact, Kentuckians have apparently almost ignored the greatest man the State has ever produced.

Ten days later the University will honor the memory of George Washington. Classes will be dismissed for the day and appropriate entertainments will be held. There is no one in the University who ever forgets when Washington's birthday comes.

Both men were great. Historians have never been able to decide to which of them the greater honor belongs, attributing equal eminence to both. But why this discrimination at the University between these two men?

In other States the colleges and universities observe Lincoln's birthday as impressively as they observe Washington's. Monuments have been erected to his memory and Lincoln Day exercises are held. Yet at the University of Kentucky, an institution in the State where this immortal patriot and genius was born, we apparently do not consider him of enough importance even to grant a holiday on his birthday. True it is that "a prophet is not without honor save in his own country."

Political differences have now been forgotten and Abraham Lincoln is honored and loved by both North and South. In Kentucky the anniversary of his nativity was declared a legal holiday this year and was observed by the banks and government institutions. Is it not now the duty of the University of Kentucky, as the chief institution of learning in the Commonwealth, to set a precedent for other colleges in the State by paying annual tribute to the great Kentuckian, Abraham Lincoln?

And spoke in liquid tones.

Sounds Fishy.
First Stude: "Did you know that Annette Kellermann has been arrested for a serious offense?"
Second Stude: "Nope. What's the charge?"
First Stude: "Using false scales."

The Aftermath.
It was all over. Sarah and Samuel had painfully marched down the aisle, and after the usual gawky preliminaries they had been tied with the knot that was to hold them till a decree of court should them part. They marched down the aisle and out into the bright sunshine to the throbbing auto, while a pair of brogans and 13 cents worth of rice rattled promiscuously about them. The honeymoon had begun; everything was over.

As the snorting car pulled majestically up the rustic roadway known as Main Street, the following remarks were made, sotto voce:

The Bride: Mama was right; they all fall for the right line of talk.
The B. G.: Gosh, my collar hurts.
The Rev.: Well, $10 is $10.
The Mother of the Bride: Thank God, got her off.
The B. G.'s Brother: I wish I had the $100 I lent him.
The Best Man: Poor Sam! He'll have to quit chewin' tobacco now. It's an awful price to pay.

Governor Stanley called a special session of the Legislature for Wednesday, February 14. We hate to seem invidious, but ain't that a heck of a comic Valentine for the gov't to wish on the people of his beloved State?

A Joyful Thot.
Nobody has to invest in an investigation.

The War Again.
She: Have you Hellburn's Selected Poems?
Clerk: No, madam, but we have Burns' Selected Poems. You see, this war has knocked the hell out of everything.

Them Aged Complications.

The Kernel feels highly flattered when its contemporaries copy from this column, but if they don't quit crediting our stuff to "Ex," "Exchange," or, which is worse, giving the Kernel no credit at all, we'll be darned if we don't have the blame stuff copyrighted whether it is worth it or not.

HELPFUL HINTS.
How to Make an Evening Gown.
All the material necessary to make a very acceptable evening gown, especially adapted to dancing purposes, is a discarded silk neck-tie, a yard of mosquito netting, a spool of thread and a ten-cent pattern. Most of these may be procured at any ten-cent store.

First, rip the tie down the center seam. Clean thoroughly with benzine. (Gasoline with a benzine label will serve in an emergency.) Then press the silk well, taking care to use a hot iron. Cut according to pattern and make the gown with the reverse side of the silk turned out. Left-over pieces can be used to give a fancy touch to the costume.

The mosquito netting should be very thoroughly crinkled and draped around the neck of the wearer. This gives a very chic touch. In warm weather, or in case one feels too much over-dressed to be in style, the netting can be discarded.

If trimming is desired the gown can be trimmed very cheaply with a pair of scissors.—Courtesy Home Ec Department.

MAKERS OF HISTORY

HERBERT GEORGE SCHABER.

A kite would present a peculiar appearance without a tail; The Kentucky Kernel would be strangely lacking without its Squirrel Food column; the football team could hardly be called such without the presence of Doc Rodes, and Homer Combust certainly would look like the last rose of summer if he appeared on the campus alone. So would a list of the Makers of History fall short of its mark without an account of the life of Herbert George Schaber.

"Big" Schaber dropped in to pay the University of Kentucky an extended visit in 1913 and found things here so much to his liking that the authorities found the only way to get rid of him was to give him a diploma. Hence he will be graduated in June.

The little town of Alexandria, Ky., in future years will be immortalized as the home of Schaber. Alexandria is near Newport; Newport is near Cincinnati; therefore the etymologist need go no further in dissecting the word Schaber. Students in the Cold Spring High School who meet with success in the future can point to the fact that Schaber taught them one year in 1914.

But Herbert's life is not without its little tragedy. Early in his college life he was pointed out on the campus as an "engaged man" and the young women avoided him. It would have been terrible to fall victim to the piercing glances of the blue-eyed and fair-complexioned Alexandrian and know that there was no hope. That's why Schaber lived a rather solitary life here. For a short period no record of the life of Schaber is available. Then we find him as one of the most prominent members of the Jilted Brethren. He took all the degrees in the organization and this year is Keeper of the Seal. He says that he never made a date with a University girl. One wonders why he is not always melancholy after being deprived of so much in life.

Our hero will take his degree in the College of Arts and Science and then leave for Atlanta, Ga., to enter the organization of the Bell Telephone Company. He wishes it stated here, where everyone can see it, that he desires to take a fair Kentucky girl to the South with him, as he says they far outshine the Georgia peaches. Sealed proposals will be received until June 1, 1917.

While other students have followed athletics in the University, Schaber has turned his attention to literature. He is president of the Union Literary Society at present and in the first semester he served as president of the Horace Mann Society. He was a member of the Union debating team last year.

Equal in importance to any event of his college life is Schaber's activity in politics. He was one of the staunchest members of the "Old Guard" until this year, when thru the influence of Vize Chamberlain and other Fusionists he was roped into that camp.

If he is as progressive in his future love affairs and the telephone business as he has been in politics, they will have to build an extension to Georgia in order to hold him in.

HUTCHCRAFT GOES BACK TO LEGISLATURE

The Hon. Reuben B. Hutchcraft, a member of the faculty of the College of Law, left Wednesday for Frankfort to take up his duties as Representative from Bourbon County at the special session of the Legislature, which convened yesterday.

Mr. Hutchcraft expects to be absent about four weeks and during his absence Clinton M. Harbison, G. W. Vaughn and Spencer Carrick, of the Lexington bar, and Johnst Northcutt, Paul Gossage and Jesse Gregory, Seniors in the Law College, will have charge of his classes.

Dean Lafferty of the College of Law said the department is making a great showing this year. Eighteen new students have entered the college since the first of February. If the enrollment increases in the future as it has in the past few years, larger quarters will have to be secured and more members added to the faculty.

UNION SOCIETY TO MEET.

The Union Literary Society is planning to have an unusually good program Saturday night. Virgil Chapman will take his usual part by leading the members in the devotional exercise, after which he will make some inspirational remarks. Mr. McKensa will discuss "The Status of the United States Among the Nations of the World Today." Franklin Corn will favor the society with the reading of a war poem, Mr. Hutson will speak on "The Foremost Citizen of the United States, His Characteristics." Edward Dabney will close the meeting with an oration. An important business meeting will follow the program.

STUDENTS ARE SPEAKERS.

Bill Shinnick and Miss Mary Rogers will be speakers at a patriotic celebration to be held at St. Paul's School next Thursday night under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus. Mr. Shinnick will speak on "Our State" and Miss Rogers will take as her subject, "Our City."

DAY—PREWITT.

Miss Rosa Day, of Winchester, who entered college here the second semester, was married to Mr. Winston Prewitt, also of Winchester, in Cincinnati Saturday. The wedding came as a surprise to Miss Day's friends here.

More Money from Purebred Cottonseed

There is always a big demand for the best grades of Cotton Lint. Use the best purebred seed for planting, since it is just as easy and twice as profitable to feed a purebred Cotton Plant as it is to feed a low-grade Lint Producer. Don't forget that Nitrate doubles the yield of both Cottonseed and Lint.

Grow more Corn and other crops, but select your seed for all with the greatest care.

If you grow a longer staple you will get a longer price for your Cotton.
