The World Whirls On

By JIM WOODBRIDGE

From last week's war on the sea, European spotlight has now shifted to war in the air.

The Allies received one cheerful note however, when word was received that Turkey had broken off her treaty negotiations with Russia.

Another cheerful note came from Moscow to the United States. In answer to an earlier plea from President Roosevelt asking that Russia respect the territorial integrity and independence of sovereignty of Finland in the current negotiations between the two countries, the Soviet foreign office gave its assurance that the conference was proceeding on strictly friendly terms.

Also concerned with the Russo-Finnish parleys was a conference of the Scandinavian powers meeting in Stockholm to consider the current conditions in the Baltic. Engaged in the transactions were the heads of four countries, King Haakon of Norway, a Christian of Denmark, King Gustaf of Sweden, and President Kallio of Finland.

At the banker, diplomatic relations between Germany and Russia were strengthened by the receipt of million dollars in German credit from their new ally.

What They Think

By BOB AMMONS

QUESTION - If you had $50,000 to give to the University for any purpose, what would you do with it?

WHAT THEY THINK - Gene Ray Crawford, A & S freshman - "I'd have them buy a big woman's gym with complete equipment, and if there was any money left, a swimming pool."

Jobs Open - Any older man student who can work from 8 a. m. until 11 a. m. on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, is asked to see Dean T. T. Jones in his office immediately.

PR Dance Planned - Pershing Rifles will hold the first formal dance of the year November 18 in the Bluegrass room of the Union building.

COMING UP - Every week the "inquiring reporter" will ask questions of interest to representatives U, K, and S next week: "Will Kentucky have a better chance against Alabama or Tennessee, and why?"

First Wilcat-Bulldog Tilt Is Stated Saturday In Louisville

Special Trains Arranged, Tags Printed By Sukey

Pep Rally, Songfest To Be Held Tonight In Louisville

Sukey, working overtime to help bring victory to the Cats in Louisville tomorrow, has not only arranged two special trains for Kentucky students, but has also had "Beat Georgia" tags printed. These tags will be sold at a cost of five cents, and the proceeds will be used to help defray the expenses of the University party.

The first train for Louisville will leave at 8:30 a. m. Saturday and will start the return trip from Louisville at 10:30 the next night. The second train leaves Lexington at 10:30 a. m. and will return at 10:30 the next night.

In Louisville a program has been arranged which will begin with a parade at 7:30 tonight, followed by a pep rally in Lincoln park at 8:30. The parade will feature Kentucky's "Best Band in Dixie" and several Louisville high school bands. During an intermission of the Casa Madrid dance at midnight tonight, a rally featuring the Wildcat songs and yells will be held.

The "Beat Georgia" tags will be sold by Sukey members and try-outs in Lexington until 10:30 a. m. tomorrow and will be sold in Louisville both before and during the game. Try-outs are to meet Bill Elder today at 12:30 at the information desk in the Union to get their tags.

Hammock Elected Y Club President

YWCA and YMCA Freshman club officers for the coming year are Henry Hammock, president; Virginia Williamson and Bob Ammons, vice-presidents; and Edna Mason Burton, secretary. They were elected at a meeting held Tuesday, in the Y lounge of the Union.

A panel discussion preceded the election led by Dorothy Hillier, president of the Union board, speaking on Union activities; Mary Lou McFarland, president of AWS, talking on the "Traditions and Growth of the University"; John Morgan, president of ODK, presenting a chart, editor of The Kernel, discussing the form of student government, emphasizing freshman participation.

Bicknell Joins Cast Of Guignol Drama

Arthur Bicknell, varsity basketball manager and Phi Kappa Tau member, has stepped into the Guignol. "You Can't Take It With You" cast to play the role of Paul Sycamore, the quiet, unassuming man of the house who offsets his quiet manner by making fire-works in the basement of his home—fire-works which go off at odd moments throughout the play.

Bicknell is a Commerce college senior from Fritchburg, Mass. He has appeared in two other Guignol productions: "Tovarich" and "April Interm." "You Can't Take It With You" will open October 30 for a week's run, reservations for seats are now being taken at the box office.

Jobs Open - Any older man student who can work from 8 a. m. until 11 a. m. on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, is asked to see Dean T. T. Jones in his office immediately.

PR Dance Planned - Pershing Rifles will hold the first formal dance of the year November 18 in the Bluegrass room of the Union building.

COMING UP - Every week the "inquiring reporter" will ask questions of interest to representatives U, K, and S next week: "Will Kentucky have a better chance against Alabama or Tennessee, and why?"

Monday's Vote Will Decide Between . . .

Individualist Hunter - He would have his qualifications evaluated.

No longer the crewfoot tabbies of last year, Kentucky's snarling Wildcats, for the first time in history, will face the Georgia Bulldogs in a Southeastern Conference battle tomorrow afternoon on DuPont Manual field in Louisville.

Since the bout is considered a "home" game for the Cats, student ticket books will be honored at gate 5 and seats will be reserved in the north stands in sections 23, 24 and 25. The zero hour is set for 2:00 p. m.

Expecting a battle as epic as the 1938 game, an estimated 17,000 far-sighted ticket holders are predicted to pass the turn-stiles. For the Cats, winners of three successive starts, the game will afford a chance to take a long stride along the trail that leads to "come-back" land. On the other hand, the Bulldogs will be fighting to pull from a two game losing run.

There Comes a Time When All Is Said

There comes a time in every man's life, just as in every organization's life, when it is felt that almost everything has been said about a given subject that can be said. The KERNEL feels something like that about Monday's election. Most of the candidates have definite platforms and those platforms although we frankly expected several broad, glowing, unambiguous generalizations, are remarkably good. The candidates themselves are capable and responsible. Elsewhere in today's paper is a complete account of issues and personalities. The only additional necessary remark for a successful election is this: Every student should vote, and for the candidate of his own choice, in order to insure truly representative officers. We've made the remark. Now it's your turn.

Dear Professor, It's Like This:

After Dorothy Hillenmeyer and her crew of Union board members worked their collective fingers to the bone in addressing invitations, planning posters, and sweetening the punch for the big student-faculty reception in the Union, it was rather disappointing, even disheartening, to notice the meager sprinkling of faculty members about the floor of the ballroom.

A brave handful of the old stand-by were there to greet and mix with the equally courageous students. There wasn't an overflow of students, either, but even at that they made a better showing than their (think? very busy? disinterested?) instructors. It must have been embarrassing to the board members when they were asked by students if the University faculty was holding a convention in Milwaukee that night.

Now, professor, this is to you. We've probably taking our grade-life into our own hands by saying so, but you and your other missing colleagues made a pretty bad showing. And how can you expect us students to sit on the same log with you if you're not on the log—if you show by your absence that you have very little more than an academic interest in us? Next time take that invitation home to your wife (husband). She (he) might have been interested in the reception; you know how women (men) like social life. And if you don't have a wife (husband), you should have come anyway. You were the one who was expected to break the ice.

A Toast To SuKy And The Freshmen

The Colonel lifts his mint-crested julep-glass in a toast to SuKy and the University's freshman class. For two seasons now, we have been struggling with the unpredictable machinery known as a "card section" and last Saturday this year's crop of neophytes really got the hang of it. The thing looked good. Of course there was an occasional flash of red in a strictly blue and white pattern, but then you can't have everything.

Yep, the Colonel is looking forward to seeing those fellows perform tomorrow at Louisville. It seems they have, like the Wildcats, finally got in the groove.—J. C.

The Place To Air Your Complaints

From a University enrollment which reaches nearly four thousand, a representative group has demanded self-expression in student government. Yet students neglect to offer timely criticisms to proper University authorities.

Rumors of dissatisfaction with methods of operating the Union repeatedly have reached the ears of Union board members and directors. Now the governing board is inviting students, with criticisms or suggestions to offer, to drop in from two to three o'clock any afternoon except Saturday or Sunday at Room 127 in the Union.

The Board really wants these criticisms and promises to consider them carefully. It is the student's privilege as well as his duty to voice his complaints or plans to this group. If such an invitation is ignored, further rumors and criticisms must likewise be ignored.—L. C.

Don't Be On The End Of The String

CAMPUSCENE

By JIM CALDWELL

... on the Pyrrhic victory which this generation won over the depression.

Whether it is because of, or in spite of, the fact that we are a part of it, we have acquired a thus far unshakable faith in the present generation of collegians. And we are not alone in this trust; even many oldsters are of the same mind.

For example, a well-known professor on this campus recently expressed the opinion that the youth now enrolled in "our nation's universities are the most conscientious he has ever encountered. He didn't say exactly what they were conscientious in, but we suppose he meant it as a compliment.

Obviously, this generation seems to be a great improvement over the "Fanning Youth of the Mad Twenties," who had only to worry about clipping coupons and finding the nearest bootlegger. But the depression changed all that, and we are not sure but that it was for the best.

Now collegians are not so cocky; they may even approach the pessimistic outlook, but it is a pessimism that, when analyzed, is found to be only a fear of super-optimism. For long ago they discovered that super-optimism leads to crashes and panics and recessions.

Today's undergraduates possess a pseudo-hidden social conscience, coupled with a bitter hatred of futile strife. With so many labor disputes and so much unemployment so many thousands of civilians going on in this world, such feelings are inevitable. But the realization that evil exists is the fundamental step toward remedying those evils.

But here one finds a line of demarcation between the desirable and the undesirable.

The cornerstone of the undergraduate's entire mental structure, happily, is a deep-down loathing hypocrisy. But so leery is he of seeming to be that which he is not, that he often leans too far in the opposite direction. The result of which is that "frankness" often becomes downright crudeness, "equality" becomes a lack of consideration for the feelings of others, and "individuality" actually is a compromise with the conscience.

Gradual changes of thought relating to matters such as the above undoubtedly are well and good. They are, in a way, progressive moves. But when these changes assume reactionary proportions, then they have become false values, and their advisability is questionable.

It was Booth Tarlington, we believe, who said: "Something fine went out of American life about the same time the automobile came in." Let us hope that future observers will not have to say: "Although it had improved in many ways, something fine went out of American youth about the time the depression came in."

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

At the Cagle-Thorp-Kentucky game there were more attractions than just the game. The cheerleaders on the students side did themselves a supplying entertainment for the spectators. I would like to raise this question: "Just what are the duties of the cheer-leaders? Is it their duty to act in the capacity of court fools or jesters. Is it their duty to entertain the fans with demonstrations of dance steps and the creations of new ones?"

I do not mean to condemn the energy of our cheer-leaders, but I do feel that the energy would be better used and appreciated if applied to leading cheers. In the above mentioned game approximately three cheers were given and those were very feeble. It has not always been so. In the past the crowd has responded to its leaders by cheering loud and would do so again if the leaders would just show the crowd that they are willing to do their share.

The fault lies not in the team because the team this year shows real promise of going places. The fault does not lie in the fans because a crowd is easily swayed and will respond to leadership. This is what we need, leaders who have the desire to sway the crowd and use their energies in so doing.

Signed, JOE LEWIS

SHERAGO DISCUSSES

Dr. M. Sherrago, head of the department of bacteriology, left Sunday to attend the meeting of the American Public Health Association held October 16-20 in Pittsburgh. Dr. Sherrago was on the program of the state laboratory directors conference to start the discussion on "How Can the Individual Technician's Work be Checked?"

We firmly believe that Mary Lou McFarland is the only logical candidate for the office of women's vice-president in the newly established student government. We believe this because Mary Lou has served faithfully in a similar capacity as president of AWS because she has studied the responsibilities and services demanded by such an office, because she has by her careful fulfillment of duties, gained the faith and confidence of women students on the campus. Furthermore, she has had practical experience in women's student government as town representative during her junior year, and later as president when she represented the University of Kentucky at the National Conference of Women's Student Government, held in Lawrence, Kansas, last April.

Her attractive personality, her friendliness, and her fidelity in office are known to all. She stands for the highest ideals to be attained in the newly established student government.

Therefore, we firmly believe that Mary Lou McFarland is the only logical candidate for the office of the women's vice-president. BARBARA MACVEY ANN ODOM HARRIET HENDERSHOT BETTY G. SOUTH JEAN MARIE MCCONNELL ANNA JANE MCCHESSNEY

Pedro, the Voder, speaks ...and HOW!

THE VODER, nicknamed Pedro, is an amazing electrical device which actually talks—the first machine in the world to do that!

By pressing keys, singly or in combination, a skilled operator can make Pedro talk in almost human fashion—with varying inflections and in either a man's or a woman's voice.

The Voder is an outgrowth of fundamental research in speech sounds, articulation and voice reproduction being carried on at Bell Telephone Laboratories. Such studies have led—and will lead—to constantly improving telephone service for you.

A telephone call home would be appreciated. Rates for most nights are lowest any time after 7 P. M. and all day Sunday.

Style Notes For A Co-Ed's Week-End

By JANE S. DAY FRIDAY Classes 8 a. m.—12 noon. Ho-hum, classes. Well you can make the most of it by looking cute and cheerful in a pleated, plaid, wool skirt set off by a yellow "doggie-toe" cardigan and a strand of pearls. No need to be backward, put on those knee-length, yellow wool socks with your saddle oxfords . . . they're being worn on the other campuses.

Sorority Open House

4 p. m.—7 p. m. Uphold your sorority by wearing a green velvet very circular skirt, that whirls when you walk fast, with a tight short jacket to match. Semi-dress and black suede shoes that have a heel comfortable for dancing will be just right. Your hair should still be combed down, but this time set it off by a green bow. Lastly try a cuff of lipstick of a crimson "Daredevil" shade.

Date for Dinner and a Show

6 p. m.—11 p. m. Add to your velvet ensemble by topping it with a long black wool coat with a flaring hem of perhaps ocelot. Slip on a leopard hat, black bag and gloves, and a touch of "Red Velvet" lipstick and you are ready for the evening.

SATURDAY

8 a. m.—12 noon. So it's raining? Well, just slip on that perfectly chic yellow wool school-girl dress brought up the morning—and the professors . . . put over it a raincoat of waterproofed fabric which has deep slit pockets and set-in sleeves, also a hood which is attached to keep those long locks from getting wet. The feet? Saddle oxfords still go—rain or shine—and now is a good time to get that new look off of them.

Football Game; Frat Buffet Supper

2 p. m.—7 p. m. Oh, joy, the sun has come out, but it is cooler isn't it? Put on that blue jersey dress with the flaring skirt, they are the rage this fall, and the cute collar and cuffs on the long sleeves are so nicely tailored. That light tan camel's hair coat looks delightful with it, and so warm too. Now for the brown felt hat which looks so sportish, and the brown spectator pumps, pugskin bag and gloves. You're off for a touch-down—we hope.

Formal Dance

9 p. m.—1 a. m. A black transparent velvet prom dress, romantically poised over a crinoline petticoat, and trimmed with a long strand of gardenias, starting at the bodice and trailing down to the full skirt. What could be sweeter? What could be more enchanting? What could be just the thing to wear? No jewelry is needed, for your face and dress must be outstanding. Use a "Red Orchid" hip house which holds its accent in the dimmed lights. Your evening is bound to be a success.

SUNDAY Church; Frat House for Dinner

11 a. m.—2 p. m. Let's really enjoy this morning in a hearty (Continued on Page Five)

Chatter Bits

As Told By GEORGE MARTIN

One evening last week, two lovely Kappas, Helen Babbitt and Margaret Ratliff, went on a serenading tour. Their escapade ended at Mrs. Gray's boarding house. The gentlemen living there were so taken aback that they immediately concocted a scheme to return the nicety. They called up the social chairman of several societies and invited them to a birthday party for Mrs. Gray's. The gala affair was to come off Wednesday eve. Deau Jones and Dean Blandling were to act as chaperons. The pay off is that Mrs. Gray didn't have a birthday and no one was there to greet the guests. But they had a swell time.

Lots of busts up have come about here lately. K. D. Nancy Brown and Phi Delta, John DeKremer are no longer panned. With this we hear also that the Sara Estill-Coe Coger match has burned its hot glow. . . .

Student Government Bill Has Greeks, Independent

Hunter, McFarland, Massie To Seek Office

than "those interested in good student government." Its candidates are: for president, Preston Hunter; men's vice-president, Joe Logan Massie; and women's vice-president, Mary Lou McFarland.

Runner, an Independent, issues this statement: "To set myself up as qualified for the position of president of the student body is too large a statement to make. Why not let me list my qualifications and let you evaluate them."

Massie, a Kappa Alpha, is a member of Keys, Sigma Phi and the Student Union house committee. He further his candidacy thus: "I am running in the interest of better student government through honest democracy. I am backed neither by the organized fraternities nor by the organized Independents; yet I am backed by individuals in each."

Platform
It is our feeling that the students of the University have long desired to have a right to elect candidates to enter an election standing solely on their fitness for the position of president. We also feel that you students do not wish dictation as to whom you are to vote for any better than you like to have the candidates subject to dictation by one or another clique. To that challenge we, the three candidates of the Student Government Ticket, rise to accept. As evidence of our good faith we proudly present our slogan of "Invest in Unaffiliated Democracy."

The Independent association announces these candidates as representing its ticket for the three top-ranking offices of the student government association: president, Uhel Barrickman; men's vice-president, Harry Weeks; and women's vice-president, Lois Campbell.

Platform
The Independent association is concerned in this election with improving undergraduate life and extending all the privileges of undergraduate democracy for the benefit of the student body through all possible support and cooperation from the University senate, the President, the Board of Trustees, and the Commonwealth. Therefore, this organization adopts the following proposals:

Young Democrats To Hear Politicians

Calling 'Em Wild

By Joe Creason

Thoughts while thinking: If Kentucky still isn't undefeated after tomorrow's football collision in Louisville with Georgia you can expect the moon to turn to green cheese, Charley McCarthy to lose his voice and me to turn down a chance to play post office with Myrna Loy.

That prediction is as certain as that your shadow will follow you. But don't think that the game will be easy. Why bless you, it's likely to be as close as Noah and his passengers in his ark. Truth of the matter is that I'm filled with heavenly, double-dipped, hand embroidered, Chamber of Commerce enthusiasm when I think of this year's crop of Cats.

Kentucky has one thing to fear tomorrow that is worse than the entire Georgia squad—its own over-confidence. The boat—Southwestern Conference game, will mark the first time this season that the Cats have favored in an important encounter. More than one good team, like a little boy with a new hammer, has cracked itself with over-confidence. So far Kentucky has steered clear of this internal interference.

Line Work unnoticed
There are two reasons why my enthusiasm has recently shot up like the curves on a fever chart: 1-The Kentucky backfield. 2-The Kentucky line.

So far this year most of the attention attending the Cats' success has been centered on the backfield, where the touchdown anemia of the 1938 season is definitely gone. Comparatively little space has been devoted to the work of the linemen, those guys who are in for a pounding on every play. Despite this fact, the line is as heavy as wet wash with low-charging, powerful men.

Unexpected Resistance
To criticize is like kissing. It costs nothing and it's a lot of fun. And believe you me, before the season started the critics were certainly having a lot of fun with Kentucky's line, or as one fellow so aptly phrased it, Kentucky's lack of line. But critics, like weather reports, are often wrong and right about those whose wise guys are discovering it's pretty hard to find a rebuttal for success.

Best In Years
Vanderbilt found trying to dent the line as futile as firing on Gibraltar with grape-shot and tested but 40 yards through rushing, while VMI found but 37 yards through the front door. Last week Oglethorpe set the season high mark with 62 yards gained from scrimmage. Past Cat grid history reveals that there have been few Kentucky lines that could patrol the beat between the two ends better than this year's corps, a direct compliment to the patient efforts of Line Coach Bernie Shiveley.

As a unit the streamlined Cat forwards are almost as mobile as average halfbacks and undoubtedly comprise one of the fastest lines in the South. While the front trench guardians average over 300 pounds they are able to throw their weight around with amazing speed and savvy. To date the longest gain through the line has been an 11 yard dash on a double reverse around right end by Presley of Oglethorpe. But that play the left tackle breezed all the way across the field and made the kill.

Running Offense Fails
In every game to date the opposing teams have opened with a hard running attack but after a few pokes at the iron-ribbed Kentucky middle, have resorted to some other offensive tactic. The Oglethorpe backs last Saturday, for instance, danced around like end men in a minstrel on their first few plays and literally buried themselves at holes that didn't open. But after the first quarter, when they began to appreciate how hard the Cats were tackling, they started running with the speed of a youngster carrying home a bad report card.

Now to get down to the case of tomorrow. If advance information is true, Georgia, as a team is as battered as an unshined parrot post package. Three regulars have been hounding the miseries for a month and have missed the last two games. It's certainly not for the interests of their better health that these men will be sent against the rough and ready Cats.

Good Backs Galore
Heading the Georgia attack is Captain Vassa Care, Conference sprint champ and one of the fastest men in American football. Jim Fordham, called the best fullback in Bulldog history, and Billy Mims, who they claim passes with the aim of The Deerslayer. Still, with a doubtful line in front of them, these ball carriers are precisely useless, as their scoring for the season testifies.

Not since the first start of the season, have the Bulldogs crossed the last stripe. That deplorable situation may be summed up by borrowing that quaint Yiddish axiom, "long time, no score."

Kentucky's Cheerleaders . . .

WILDCATS LEAP TO SIXTH PLACE

Kentucky's football Wildcats, currently the gossip of Dixie after three smashing wins, moved from 14th to 6th place among the nation's grid teams this week, according to the Williamson national rating system.

The University of Michigan, after a fine winning performance against Iowa, moved into first place by ousting last week's leader, Duke who dropped to third. Of the top 15 teams, nine represent Southern schools, with Kentucky second only to Mississippi in the list.

In inheriting sixth place the Cats passed Alabama and Tennessee. Despite the apparent power of Tennessee, the Vols have played too many easy, simple-Simon teams to rate a higher niche than their berth in number 12. Alabama too, except for a 7-6 win over Fordham, has not faced a team that has forced the Crimson Tide to open up.

Meanwhile, Kentucky has defeated V. M. I., one of the Southern conferences most feared teams, and rolled all over Vanderbilt, who trimmed Rice, top team in the fast Southwestern league. Georgia, Kentucky's opponent tomorrow, was ranked 8th.

The ratings:
Perfect team . . . . . 100.0
Michigan . . . . . 97.1
Pittsburgh . . . . . 96.7
Duke . . . . . 96.6
Mississippi . . . . . 96.1
Oklahoma . . . . . 94.7
Kentucky . . . . . 94.6
Tulane . . . . . 94.1
Ohio State . . . . . 94.1

FROSH CAGERS WILL SHOW STRENGTH

With the fine record established by last year's team to defend, Coach Paul McBrayer will issue the first enlistment call for freshman basketball team 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in Alumni gym.

Success of last year's Kittens cage team rivaled that of the varsity. Starting slowly, the Kittens, rated as one of the poorest crops in a year, finished fast and turned in a report card with nine wins and but a single defeat. That defeat, from Lindsey-Wilson Junior college, was avenged in a return game.

An abundance of material has been noted in school this far. Included in the list expected to answer the first call are Mel Brewer, 6 foot, 5 inches, center, Clint Henry, who led the state high school scores last season, and Dave Dillard, all-state forward from . . . . .

Other stars expected to report include Milton Tocco, Frank Esters, Max Davis, Carl Garrett, Clifford Barker, Lewis Robertson, Jess Thornton, Gene Harris, Bill Myers, Larry Leman and Gerald Cundiff. Many other hopefuls are expected at the Tuesday night meeting.

KITTENS ARE SET FOR VANDY FRAY

Hard workouts in blocking and tackling were rationed to the Kentucky freshman football team this week as they prepared for the opening bout on their three game season, against Vanderbilt on October 27, at Stoll field.

Under the ruling by the Southwestern Conference allow the freshman teams of member schools to play but three freshman games. After the Vanderbilt game, the Kittens will meet the University of Cincinnati, here on November 11, and Tennessee in Knoxville on November 25.

While coaches Joe Rupert and Lloyd Hamesey sent the ends and backs through blocking practice, Coaching Gene Myers pitted the guards tackles and centers against the tackling dummies. Later, with Jack Farris and Phil Cutchin punting, the linemen were rehearsed in getting down the field under kicks.

Great improvement has been shown by the Kittens team since they were rolled by the varsity, 50-0 in a regulation practice game a month ago. With a fast, elusive backfield operating behind a big, husky line, the Kittens are expected to produce one of the strongest fresh teams in several years. However, in their first game against Vanderbilt, the Kittens will be meeting a strong team that already has the experiences of two earlier games furlowed in its brow.

Pamphlet Helps Students Get Jobs

"Bargains in Brains," a booklet published annually by the University commerce employment association, has been instrumental in securing jobs for approximately 490 students during the seven years of its existence.

The pamphlet contains pictures, qualifications and summaries of the records of members of the association. Membership in the student maintained group is voluntary and is composed of seniors in the commerce college, or those seniors majoring in economics and secretarial practice.

According to W. A. Tolman, secretary of the employment group, only sixteen of the seventy students pictured in last year's issue have not reported employment. The fields which the graduates have entered are varied, with retail merchandising the most popular one. Next in order come secretarial jobs, the rubber industry, accounting, state or federal government positions, and teaching. Two are doing graduate work; two are working in banks, and two are in the armed forces of the United States. Alice Wood Bailey, who designed the cover and layout of the 1939 issue, an art project, was employed as a result of her work.

WHO...
— at 64, is England's Man of the Hour?
— scented the Nazi danger from the start and became the implacable enemy of Britain's policy of "appeasement"?
— was so feared for his brilliance that said, "There will hardly be room for him in Parliament at 30 or in England at 40"?
— fought in Cuba, India, Egypt and South Africa; became a world hero at 25 for his daring escape from a prison camp?
— bottled up Germany in 1914 by mobilizing Britain's Navy, on his own initiative, before the official declaration of war?
— personally took the blame for Britain's disastrous expedition against the Dardanelles?
— was once rabbed "too clever to be trusted," and yet now is the one man in whom the whole Empire puts its faith?
For years he has been the greatest single force in English political life. But how well do you know him as a person? An American friend and noted commentator brings you a memorable and intimate portrait of him in this week's Post.
