SMITH IS WINNER OF CHAMPIONSHIP

U. K. Representative Comes First In Second Contest

WILL SPEAK AGAIN

Kentucky exhibited her prowess once more in that one of many arts through which she has been made famous—oratory, when the University of Kentucky won the championship of the South in the first annual contest of the Southern League in the University chapel, Friday night. Clifford E. Smith represented the University of Kentucky, speaking on "The Shanting Question."

William H. Bobbitt, University of North Carolina, came second in the contest, and George Goetz, Johns Hopkins University, finished third. Their subjects were respectfully, "The Present Crisis in American Democracy," and "Radicalism and Free Speech." Others who competed were: Dewey Whitnell, Vanderbilt University, "Our Unloyal People"; Meyer Lovenstein, University of Virginia, "The Alternative to Bolshevism"; "Radicalism and Free Speech"; William McCall, University of Alabama, "The College Man's Opportunities."

Smith first covered himself with glory when he won the State championship last Monday night over representatives from five other Kentucky colleges. He will next represent the State in a contest with the winners of the contests in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin to be held April 7. At a later date he will be the Kentucky representative in a contest with North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Missouri.

The contest was delayed because of the late arrival of one of the contestants and was not over until after midnight. The judges who rendered the decision were Professor B. C. Van Wye, University of Cincinnati; Professor H. S. Woodward, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, and Professor C. H. Thurber, Purdue University.

Much of the good work accomplished in these oratorical contests has been due to the diligence and interest exhibited by Professor Mable, who is in charge of the work in oratory in the University.

DESIGNS SUBMITTED TO STROLLERS FOR CONTEST

Drawings Must Be In Next Week

In response to the request contained in last week's issue of the Kernel several of the artists of the University are preparing drawings to be submitted in the contest for the best design for the Stroller program. This contest, which is conducted each year by the Strollers, has always created interest and many students have shown their interest by submitting designs.

Besides the natural desire of the students to aid all University organizations there is the added inducement in this contest of two of the best seats in the Opera House to the artist who submits the best design. It is to be remembered that these drawings must be in the hands of the committee before the end of next week and those who are contemplating entering a design should lose no time in putting it into shape.

Information regarding the contest can be obtained from Emery Frazier or any member of the cast of "The Climbers." The committee, composed of Professor Enoch Grehan, Emery Frazier and Horndon Evans, will examine the drawings and announce the winner at the close of the contest. The management reserves the right to keep all drawings submitted.

Plans for the sale of seats are being made and it is probable that all details for the opening will be made within the next few days. The four boxes at the Opera House were engaged by different organizations of the University last semester, but there will be plenty of available seats. The management is expecting every seat to be sold a short time after the tickets are issued, as Stroller productions are growing in popularity with each year.

The members of the cast are working night and day, rounding the play into shape and it can be safely said from the display of talent that this will be one of the best amateur performances seen here in years.

NEW COUNCIL TO HAVE CONTROL OF ATHLETICS

Students, Alumni, Faculty Members and University Officials to Form Body

PLANS FOR "K" HOUSE

Radical changes in the governing body of athletics have been made by the action of the senate of the University of Kentucky upon the recommendation of the senate committee appointed some time ago to investigate the athletic situation. The committee was composed of S. A. Boles, Prof. Enoch Grehan, and Major Presley T. Atkins, of Louisville, an alumnus.

In accordance with the recommendations of the committee the Athletic Association who formerly had control of athletics passes out of existence and in its place an athletic council is formed to be appointed by the President of the University and to consist of the president, the director of athletics, three faculty members, two students, and three citizens of Lexington and Fayette county either alumni of the University or other men interested in athletics at the University. The terms of all the members of the council will be for a period of three years except those of the students which shall be of athletics, the president however for a period of one year.

The council shall have full control retaining the right to vote. The duties of the council shall be: to be responsible for the welfare and good character of athletics at the University; to formulate and direct the general athletic policy; to promulgate regulations for the awards of "letters" to the players on the various teams, football, basketball, baseball, men's basketball, girls' basketball, tennis, and track; to pass upon the eligibility of players, in which case the student members of the council shall have no vote; to support high school tournaments; to take steps to attract to the University on as many occasions as possible the alumni; and to establish and provide for the maintenance of a trophy room in which pictures, records of athletic teams and other trophies of athletic achievement may be kept. The athletic council shall have full charge of providing proper coaches for the teams and it is suggested that a football coach of national reputation be procured.

The investigating committee also recommends to the attention of the new council the building in the near future of a concrete stadium; the better equipment of the gymnasium; and the building of a "K" house in which the teams may be quartered during their respective training seasons, and where they may have their meals at a training table with strict discipline maintained.

UNIVERSITY FACULTY CLUB ORGANIZED HERE

Initial Meeting Held Monday Night

Thirty-nine members of the teaching staff of the University and the Experimental Station met Monday night in the "Little Theatre" at 8 p. m. incident to a call by Dr. Glanville Terrell, chairman of a committee appointed by the University Senate at a recent meeting, looking toward the formation of a University Faculty Club.

Dr. Glanville Terrell was elected chairman and Professor Enoch Grehan, head of the Department of Journalism, was elected secretary and treasurer.

Following the election of officers a general discussion of a plan of organization and purposes of the club was held with short speeches by Dr. Terrell, Wellington Patrick, Judge Chalkley, Professor Welst, Judge Lafferty, Dean P. P. Boyd, Professor Summers, Professor A. N. Miller, President McVey and Professor W. D. Vallee and others, presenting their views concerning the purposes and the best plans for organizing the club.

The Senate Committee was authorized to prepare definite plans and a tentative constitution to be presented at a future meeting. Refreshments were served.

The following, with others who will join at the next meeting will be classed as charter members:

DR. D. L. THOMAS DIES

Head of English Department of Centre College Succumbs.

Danville, Ky., March 8 (Associated Press).—Dr. Daniel Lindsay Thomas, 40 years old, head of the English Department of Centre College, is dead here following an operation. He was president of the Kentucky Folklore Society and has written considerably on the subject. Dr. Thomas was a native of Lebanon, Ky. After his graduation in 1900 from Centre College, he was assistant principal in the Danville city schools for two years. Receiving his M. A. degree at Centre, he took a post-graduate course at Princeton, where he won the Charles Scribner Fellowship in English two years. With the degree of Ph. D. from Princeton, he studied at Munich and Oxford in 1906 and 1907. He was assistant professor of English at the University of Kansas in 1908 and 1909 and in the latter year came to Centre. He was with the Y. M. C. A. educational forces in France during the war and was head of the English department at the A. E. F. University at Dijon. His relatives live in Lebanon, where he will be buried.

WOMAN'S LEAGUE WILL HAVE SECOND MEETING

Constitution To Be Adopted; Officers Nominated

MRS. McVEY TO SPEAK

The second meeting of the Woman's League will be held Monday morning, March 15, during the fifth period, in the Little Theatre. Mrs. F. L. McVey will speak on the purpose and value of having such an organization in the University. Among the important business matters to be brought up will be the adoption of a constitution and the appointment of a nominating committee to select the candidates for offices in the League.

The initial meeting of this organization was held several weeks ago, in a mass meeting of all the women students of the University, following the acceptance of a petition which was submitted to the faculty, stating the fact that the women of the University felt the need of an organization of this kind, which would unify the body of women students by bringing together the town girls and those living in the dormitories. One of the purposes of the League, as suggested at that meeting, was to bring to the University certain notable experts on vocations for women.

The work of organization was begun at that time, by the appointment of a committee, consisting of Mary Van Meter and Louise Will, who with one other member to be selected by them, were to write a constitution to be submitted to the body of women students at the next meeting. It is hoped that officers may be elected at an early date, in order that the work of the League may be well under way before the end of this school year.

Mrs. McVey, who is to be the speaker at this meeting, has obtained by experience a thorough knowledge of the work and aims of Woman's Leagues. Every woman student of the University is urged to be present Monday morning, at this probably most important meeting of the League.

"Doctor Frank L. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky, is one of the South's greatest orators," says the "Gamecock," student publication of the University of South Carolina, in a sketch of President McVey prior to his address made at the Founders' Day Exercises in Columbus, January 15th.

"No speaker comes to us in recent years," continue the "Gamecock," "more highly recommended than the one we are to hear tonight. His entire life has been spent in a thorough study of his chosen profession; all his efforts have been directed to the upbuilding of one of the most important studies of modern times."

RAVIN'S OF A JOURNALIST.

Listen to me and you shall hear
 What makes the life of a journalist drear

What causes the shedding of many a tear.

'Tis those ———, ——— typewriters.

You think that you're pecking gaily along,

When all of a sudden the ribbon goes wrong,

And then for a spell is hushed the song,

Of the ———, ———, typewriter.

And after you've properly treated the case,

And start out again at a rapid pace,
 You are liable to find that it won't space,

Oh, that ———, ———, typewriter!

And after you've tried each one in the room,

And unwritten stories before you loom
 And you hear Miss Margie a-spelling your doom

Say, don't you bless that ———, ———, ———, typewriter?

Agricultural Society.

The Agricultural Society held its regular weekly meeting Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Agricultural Building. Jack Dorr made a talk on "An Adventure," relating some of his experiences in Kansas. "Farming in Belgium" was the subject of an interesting paper written by Smith Gill. The program was completed by a talk by Professor Kelly on "Pep" and an informal talk by Dean Cooper on things of general interest to the society.

A social hour followed the program, during which refreshments of hot chocolate and wafers were served.

singing in War Camp Community Service work during the war, took up the rest of the hour with some spirited demonstrations of playing and singing.

"I'd a thousand times rather that my grandchild should be proud of his grandfather than that I should be proud of mine," said Dr. Ganfield in his address. "Christ could have failed but He did not. What would have become of the human race if Noah had failed? What would it have meant to the world if Abraham had been content with his home surroundings; if Joseph had been afraid to interpret Nebuchadnezzar's dream aright? What would have been the result if Moses had lacked faith; if David had had a yellow streak? Today we thank God for the splendid courage and spirituality of Martin Luther. England and Scotland will never forget John Knox nor will they cease to be proud of his wonderful ministry.

"I wouldn't exchange for a strong, simple faith in Christ, all the joys and pleasures, all the dissipations and wealth of this world," concluded the speaker.

During the social hour refreshments of ice cream, cakes and nuts were served.

L. C. ARMSTRONG IS HEARD BY ENGINEERS

Noted Explorer Relates Thrilling Experiences.

L. O. Armstrong, of the Bureau of Commercial Economics, addressed the students of the University Thursday afternoon on his experiences as an explorer in the Northland.

Mr. Armstrong is 70 years of age and has spent the greater part of his life as an explorer, hunter and guide, and is now more youthful and vigorous than most men in the prime of life. He has explored every nook and corner of the United States and Canada, having blazed his own trail on many of his trips. Many notable men of America are among his intimate friends.

The Engineering Faculty Club, through whose efforts Mr. Armstrong was brought here, greatly appreciated the rare privilege of hearing of his remarkable experiences. The grand old man told a few of the stirring recollections of his Klondyke days, of a miraculous escape for death on a Canadian lake, and an absorbing latter-day story of German intrigue on this continent.

In conclusion, Mr. Armstrong stated that the University of Kentucky has a spirit that excels that of any other school of the many he has visited on his lecture tour. He also said that "My Old Kentucky Home" was a song that appealed to men of all classes and is as popular in the wilds of Canada as it is in the far Southland.

FORMER CO-ED GUEST OF HONOR AT PARTIES

Alpha Gamma Deltas Give Showers For Alumna.

Mrs. Joseph Howard, formerly Miss Ruth Cassidy, a student in the University, and a recent bride, was the guest of honor at several parties given last week.

Lillian Haydon entertained in her honor with a miscellaneous shower Monday afternoon at her home on the Maysville Pike. The house was attractively decorated with hearts, cupids and cut flowers. The presents which were tied up in tissue paper were arranged in a basket placed on the library table. Tied to each present was a long strip of red ribbon which had a card fastened to the other end. Each guest was required to write on the card suggestions for managing a husband and then to draw the present. A salad course and mints were served.

Myrtle Rose Smith entertained Tuesday afternoon with an "Advice" shower and many clever and original bits of advice in the form of prose, poetry and sketches were showered upon the guest of honor. An ice course and coffee were served.

Thursday afternoon, Mrs. O. F. Floyd entertained with a tea towel party at her home on East Main Street. Each guest brought a tea towel which she was required to make during the afternoon. A prize awarded for the most attractive towel was won by Mrs. Frederick Wachs. Refreshments consisting of a salad course and mints were served.

The guests at these affairs included the alumnae, active members and pledges of Alpha Gamma Delta and the following other guests: Mrs. Frederick Wachs, Mrs. David Howard, Misses Phoebe Button, Kate Reddish, Dorothy Jackson, Pearl Haydon.

FACULTY CLUB COMMENDABLE STEP.

Faculty members are human beings. Startling as this statement may seem at first glance, to some students, it is nevertheless true. As such they have certain inalienable and defensible rights that must be respected. One of these rights is that of associating in fellowship with others of like status. Another is that of thinking his own thoughts and expressing them on appropriate occasions in his own way.

It is with a view of asserting these fundamental rights of faculty members that certain professors and agents of the University have assembled and organized a club, to be called The University Club. The Kernel takes pleasure in welcoming this new organization to the campus. We wish it all success.

If we are not mistaken, it is the purpose of this club to promote friendly relations among the members and to exist as a discussion center for educational problems of the school and the State. The Kernel cannot heartily enough commend both these aims. Too long has the university professor been regarded as either an intellectual tyrant or an absent-minded encyclopedia. The remark with which we opened this animadversion was meant in all seriousness, and the tone of flippancy which perhaps could be found in its expression was merely on the surface. If the students of the University would take the trouble to make a closer acquaintance with their instructors than is possible in the classroom, the fine friendship and broad friendliness which they would surely find, would most amply repay them.

Professors have homes, on the average of higher quality, both in intellectual tone and in human sympathetic qualities higher than is known by the average student. Our professors are gentlemen in the finest sense of that word, ready to meet the student more than half way and give more than he gets.

But the teacher in a university needs the companionship of minds commensurate with his own in power and training, and to a deplorable extent the opportunity to satisfy this need is lacking. In many cases the circle of acquaintance is restricted to departments or at most, colleges. This is a serious defect and one which the present effort is intended to correct. It will, if successful, not only increase the joys, few as we conceive them to be, of a professor's life, but they will at the same time increase the efficiency of the faculty.

There is also the matter of discussion of educational problems. This will be the largest field of outside usefulness which this club will be able to touch. If the men who must meet these problems cannot solve them, nobody can. Experience and ability and willingness they will bring to the task, and their opinions should be the weightiest in determining the action of functional bodies.

With these considerations moving us and a human sympathy warming our hearts to this enterprise, the Kernel again welcomes The University Club to our midst, and wish it full success in all its plans for the future.

CLEAN SPORTS—BETTER SPORTS.

It is with extreme gratification that the Kernel calls the attention of its readers to the announcement which appears on another page of this issue of the paper, concerning the complete reorganization of the Athletic Council of the University. There can be no doubt that students, faculty members, and everyone interested in the welfare of the University will regard this as a step in advance toward a wider field of recognition in athletics than that which the University has hitherto enjoyed, and which the Kernel believes it will henceforth enjoy under this scheme.

The plan of reorganization adopted had its origin in the disastrous result of the games which the Wildcats played this year on the football field, and was also accentuated by adverse criticism of various alumni and citizens of Lexington, who, loyal to the University and recognizing in the football team a valued medium of advertising, felt that the University was not getting her full due when her strong football eleven came off of the field defeated instead of victorious. University officials, endeavoring to ascertain the cause of these defeats, and realizing that the probability of repetition might be eliminated if a greater degree of co-operation were brought about on the part of all concerned, appointed a committee composed of the Director of Athletics, one member of the faculty, and a former student who was at one time a star Wildcat, and instructed it to consider the situation from all angles, and work out a plan for improvement. The report of this committee was brought before the senate at its last meeting and the plan suggested was adopted. The Council which will be formed is to be thoroughly representative, and is to be composed of eleven members, including alumni, citizens of Lexington, students, and faculty members. Council appointments are entirely in the hands of the President of the University.

One of the purposes of the work hoped to be accomplished by the council is the attainment of cleaner sports in University athletics, by enforcing rigidly the rules of the S. I. A. A., which provide that men must be matriculated and in good standing in their classes before they are eligible to become members of athletic teams.

The Kernel recalls with regret, that at times pernicious activities on the part of over-zealous champions of the University have led to abuse of the rules intended to restrict the teams exclusively to bona fide students, and it is confident that the activities of this Council will make it impossible for the University to be open to criticism on this score hereafter.

Included in the plans is also a canvass of the high schools of the State for the purpose of interesting in the University young men of athletic prowess, not merely to become athletes, but most of all, to become students of the University. Altogether, the Council is authorized to do all in its power to promote the general welfare and good standing of the athletic activities of the University, and thus to bring this phase of the work to the place of distinctness which it deserves to hold.

"It's a fact that heat produces anger," said the Knight of the Lexington Drug. "Did you ever put the lighted end of your cigarette in your mouth by mistake?"

Patt Hall Pastimes.

One eve a Patt Hall maiden fair
Into her mirror darkly gazed.
Her lashes short were her despair,
E'en tho they curled and were much praised.

They were too light, they were too thin—

"Try vaseline," her room-mate said.
"Eureka! Surely 'tis no sin!"
She rubbed it on and crept to bed.

And then she cried and screamed yet more,

And shrieking startled the still night.
The tears streamed down, she walked the floor—
Her eyes were swollen out of sight.

Her room-mate found the bottle, said,
"When wondrous lashes you would have,

Please read the label o'er again
Instead of using my Vick's salve!"

Ed.: "It's a mistake for a man to go through life alone."

Co-ed.: "Why don't you get your mother to chaperone you?"

Julia: "I don't think it is right to say a woman can't keep a secret."

Burton: "What makes you say that?"

Julia: "No woman ever tried."

A beetle said to a wasp,
"Come, we will feast for an age
On apples, peaches, and pears.
Man will not harm us,
For 'tis moonlight on the garbage!"
—CAM.

Mitch: "How did they treat you in the A. E. F.?"

Cot.: "Oh, not so bad."

Mitch: "Did you miss your meals?"

Cot.: "No. Some of them were a day or two late, but I can't say I missed any."

Fresher: "I really wonder if I'm made of dust?"

Soph-ist: "I think not. If you were you would dry up once in a while."

Also Capillary.

"Jack is perfectly devoted to that blonde. His family thinks it is a case of hypnotism."

"Huh! Seems to me more like chemical attraction."—Boston Transcript.

Manslaughter Averted.

"The ending of my story has been completely spoiled by careless proofreading," complained the angry author. "Here at the conclusion where the judge looks down at the detective and asks, 'Are you Pendleton King?'
what does the printer make him say?
Listen! 'The great detective, snatching off his false beard, replied,
'I a. m.'"

"That certainly leaves the readers in the dark," mused the waggish editor.—Boston Transcript.

Seems So.

"Just saw an editor counting the feet in some poetry, so he said."

"Well?"

"Gosh, do they buy that stuff by the foot like they do lumber?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Notice to Car Owners.

Hark, drivers all of motor cars,
Ah, list and pray be wise.
Would you save the explanations
And the strain on people's eyes?
Be a sport and for your isinglass
Window a curtain buy.
Bazoo Faulkner has one
And he says it's good to try.

How worried that fair lass is!
She's afraid that she will be 'Expended' from all classes.

Wish it would happen now to me.

Powder Puffs Banned at University of Denver.

Powder puffs were barred at the University of Denver today as a result of a ruling by Mrs. Schuler, dean of women. Three reasons were set forth as being sufficient warranty for the ruling. Frequent and almost constant standing in front of the big mirror in the newly-furnished women's study room in University Hall will wear out the new blue and old rose rug. The men students roaming through the corridors can see the girls welding their puffs and it is not proper. Lastly, according to the dean, it is not dignified.

"LAW AND ORDER" IS SUBJECT IN CHAPEL

Dr. McVey Discusses World Unrest
in Relation to Students.

President McVey spoke in chapel Tuesday upon the subject, "Law and Order." He discussed the unrest in the world demonstrated specifically in Bolshevism in Russia, with its sinister meaning to America and its relation to the student problem.

He said that there are two things that come from a situation such as is prevailing today in Russia; either established speech, free press and free political parties will be the result or the maintenance of directorship based on militarism will follow.

"In the end," said Doctor McVey,
"a regime of this kind will fail. Russia is bound to have real democracy as we have in America. It is necessary to maintain the principles and institutions that have been built up in America and the student cannot do his part unless he knows the situation in Russia and elsewhere and has a profound knowledge of American government.

"In closing," said President McVey,
"I would like to remind you of Secretary Lane's statement of the flag: 'I am whatever you make me—nothing more. But always I am all that you hope to be and have courage to try for. I am song and fear, struggle and panic, and ennobling hope. I am the day's work of the weakest man, and the largest dream of the most daring.
I am the constitution and the courts, statutes and statute makers, soldiers and dreadnaught, drayman and street sweeper, cook, counselor and clerk. I am no more than what you believe me to be. My stars and my stripes are your dreams and your labors. For you are the makers of the flag and it is well that you glory in the making.'"

ABOUT THE CAMPUS

Professor Noe has returned from a week's stay in Chicago, where he went for the purpose of observing the work in the Department of Education and the University High School of the University of Chicago.

Professor George M. Baker went to Richmond Wednesday, where he addressed the school teachers of the neighboring city. "The Teacher As An Artist" was the subject of his address which was given at the Richmond High School.

The battalion has been reorganized into three freshman companies and one sophomore. The two sophomore companies were combined because so many of the members have left college.

It is probable that Major General Charles P. Summerall, camp commander of Camp Taylor and commander of the First Division, will be the speaker in chapel Tuesday, March 16. Captain Tucker has written to him, but a reply has not been received.

Professor Crous, mining and metallurgy, addressed the junior and senior engineers at the third hour in Mechanical Hall, Monday morning, on "Modern Steel Making."

Professor Crous was actively engaged in the munitions industry during the war and had much of interest and value to tell his audience concerning the heat treatment process that was developed in the shell-making plants.

Plans are being made for "Inspection Day," which is an annual affair with the battalion. The day has not been definitely set, but probably will be during the latter part of April. The tentative plans call for a point system by which the scoring will be made.

Samuel Bullock, a graduate of the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering in 1897, addressed the junior and senior engineers Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock on "The Attributes of an Engineer." Mr. Bullock is at present consulting engineer for the American Locomotive Company and is considered among the foremost engineers of the company in this line of work.

Doctor Sampsy, dean of Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, well remembered by a large number of students as he has previously appeared in chapel, will be one of the lecturers for the Military History Course which will be started probably some time during the latter part of March, by Captain Tucker. Doctor Tigert is also among the ones who will speak before the students of this course.

Under the auspices of the Norwood Mining Society, H. A. Schwartz, of the National Malleable Casting Company, addressed the students on "Malleable Cast Iron" in the Lecture Room of the "despised and rejected of man"—New Chem. Building, Wednesday afternoon. Junior and senior engineering students were dismissed from classes to hear the lecture.

IN HARD-FOUGHT GAME

Wildcats Defeated in Closing Fight of the Season

The timekeeper's whistle sounded for the last time this season last Saturday night at the gymnasium, when Centre College defeated the Wildcats by the small margin of two points in the final game of the season. The Wildcats outfought and displayed better teamwork throughout the first part of the game than the Colonel quintette, and it was only in the last few minutes of the game that Centre rallied and took the lead.

At the end of the first half the score was 20 to 18 and Kentucky had a lead of 12 to 5 with less than five minutes to play in the last half.

Just before the whistle blew the Colonels made a whirlwind finish, running the score up to 14 to 12, and Lavin tied the score by placing two foul shots in the basket, bringing the score to a tie. Five more minutes were allowed and almost as soon as the ball was put into play McMillan had slipped down the floor and made two goals while Bell added one, giving the Colonels a lead of six points.

Hayden started another rally for Kentucky by shooting two goals, but the timekeeper's whistle sounded and the score stood 20 to 18 in favor of Centre.

It was one of the most exciting and hard-fought games witnessed in this city in many years and Kentucky showed better team work, superior guarding and better playing throughout the conflict. Bobby Lavin and Dutch Burnham held down Red Roberts and Bo McMillan to two points and six respectively, and Bell, of Danville, was held down to six points by Wilhelm.

Hayden led in points and Ridgway was always in the thick of the fight. The Wildcats were somewhat handicapped by the absence of Everett and Blakey, but the work of the Kentucky five could not have been improved upon in the bitter game.

He wishes to compliment the new writer not only for entering the journalistic field with such a creditable column but for being assigned his old space. He also desires to bow in humble simplicity to higher powers and gladly yield his space to the girls. THIRTY-ONE OUT FOR
BASEBALL PRACTICE

Good Material Shows Up in Indoor Try-outs.

The indoor baseball practice has acted as an appetizer to the baseball aspirants and they are greedily waiting for a chance to get the old hickory bludgeon in their hands and try their luck at knocking the cover off the ball. There are fourteen of the old men back and much good baseball material has shown up in the thirty-one new men.

The fourteen old men are: Grubbs, Slomer, and Copper, pitchers; Brown and Gregg, first base; Propps and Burnham, second base; Zertfoss, shortstop; Horn, infield, and Muth, Sauer, Misrack, Frazier and Jones, outfield.

Four of the new men who have loomed up among the thirty-one are: Pribble and Ridgway, catchers; Megular, pitcher and Kelly, first base. The remaining men are as follows: Baugh, Grant, Heber, Atcherson, Winters and Ross, catchers; Coleman and Byrd, pitchers; Morris & Wilkarson, first base; Benjamin, Pergin, Hukle and Arnold, infield; T. Gregg, second base, and Wheat, Jones, Thompson, Robertson, Liles, Grimes, Bailey, Homer, Hogg, Baren and Keown, outfield.

The Economics Club met Tuesday night in the Sociology rooms in White Hall. "Social Unrest" was the subject of the discussions on the program. SENIOR CLASS HOLDS
AN IMPORTANT MEETING

Football Pennant Presented By Mr. Owens

COMMITTEES REPORT

The feature of the senior class meeting held Tuesday afternoon in chapel was the presentation of the pennant awarded by the University Y. M. C. A. to the class of 1920 as a mark of distinction to the team which won the championship in the series of intra-mural football games of 1919. The pennant was presented by Mr. Owens and received by Keevill Wallingford, captain of the victorious eleven. The banner will be placed on display in the office of the Athletic Director.

Other important business matters were discussed. A letter from Mr. Gillis was read, announcing that all seniors who had a standing of 1.5 in classes would be exempt from examinations this semester. A committee was appointed to meet with Professor Melcher to discuss special chapel programs for juniors and seniors.

Mary Van Meter, chairman of the invitations committee, reported that all orders for commencement invitations must be in by the end of this week. Seniors are advised to place their orders with the committee Thursday or Friday in the Kentuckian office. It was also announced that Miss Bean was ready to take measurements for commencement gowns in the Campus Book Store, and the members of the class were urged to attend to the matter of reserving their caps and gowns at once.

Reports of committees on the senior ball showed that arrangements for that social function are well under way. Invitations were selected by the class at the meeting.

L. O. Armstrong, who lectured to an audience which crowded the Lecture Room, New Chem. Building, last week, was one of the speakers at the Engineering Faculty Club last Thursday night. He related his experiences in Canada.

Plans have been completed for the Juniors' Engineering trip which will take them away from Lexington at 7 o'clock, March 30. They will return Saturday, April 3.

ROTARY CLUB HOSTS

The Lexington Rotary Club entertained about fifty freshmen from Transylvania and the University of Kentucky at the Phoenix Hotel Thursday, March 4. A nice dinner was served in the ball room at 12:40, each member of the club being special host to one student whom he had previously invited from a list furnished by Dean Melcher. All the students present were working their way through school either wholly or partially.

Rotarian Frank B. Jones acted as toastmaster for the occasion and several of the members responded with short talks, each assuring the students that the business men of the town are their friends and willing to help each student anyway they can. Dean Melcher made a short talk on the needs of the present-day student and Clifford E. Smith responded in behalf of the State boys present.

In Selecting a University

For a college education, there are five things to be taken into consideration:

1. The men at the head of the Institution.
2. The scholastic standing and ability of the Teaching Staff.
3. The location and advantages of environment.
4. Equipment, buildings, laboratories and libraries.
5. Cost.

In all these respects the University of Kentucky commends itself to those seeking a higher institution in which to carry on their education.

All Departments, including Liberal Arts, Sciences, Agriculture, Law, Education, Mining, Civil, Electrical and Mechanical Engineering.

The Government needs trained men and women; college training will bring the result.

THE VOICE OF A MERE MAN.

(Showing how Leap Year affecteth the condition of Mere Man.)

Verily, when an organization of coy maidens hath been completely effected, Mere Man hath about as much chance to survive as a Lady-bug in the middle of the Pacific Ocean. When woman is the wooer, no man can put forth repelling hands, and with the voice of a trumpet, say: "Get thee hence!" Behold, Leap Year spelleth discomfiture and confusion for the wild man who hath boasted in his heart that no woman hath sufficient power to lead him to the sacrificial altar. Such a man cometh quickly to his destruction at the hands of a lass of Amazonian instincts.

Woman waxeth merciless when she chaseth her prey through the wilderness, and beareth him in his own lair. In divers sundry ways she manageth her campaign. First, she sighteth a man and thinketh him good to look upon, after which, she closely investigateth the condition of his purse. If she findeth it lean, she straightway striketh his name from her list and turneth her gaze elsewhere. If she findeth it fat, she quickly giveth chase to the owner thereof. Even as the lion stalketh his prey, and even as the cat chaseth the small mouse, so followeth she him. She taketh him to the best shows, feedeth him with the choicest delicacies, sendeth him flowers, showereth him lavishly with personal attentions, and if need be, followeth him unto the end of the world. When the end of the chase cometh, Mere Man raiseth hands of supplication, and crieth aloud in complete subjugation: "Take thou my all, O Woman, and have mercy!"

—BECAUSE—

The selection of suitable drug store goods is better here than usual for the very simple reason that not only do we stock practically anything and everything that any drug store anywhere could offer you, but we arrange and display them in such a way as to make selection easy, rapid and satisfactory. The quality of everything we sell is high-grade. True, there are medium priced and low-priced goods, but value for value, price for price, there are better offerings here than elsewhere. When the question of drugs is considered there is but one quality and that is the highest that science can produce.

BEFORE THE BELL RINGS.

(With Apologies to the Press Club.)
 "Sweeter than sugar is my sweetie," warbles the assistant press association secretary, hammering out a time-less accompaniment on his battered legless L. C. Smith. A hot-house warmth prevades the room; an unnoticed disorder of papers strewn wildly over every table, and desk, and about the two waste-baskets, and typewriters.

"Who am I to write up this week? I looked everywhere for that man and after I found him, he wasn't anything but a member of the Horace Mann; give me a good person this time, please," wails one of Miss Margie's freshmen to her "boss," who is constantly affixed to the press association desk.

"Take Herndon Evans, sitting over there, he won't be modest," is the answer. "Has anyone any more stuff ready for the Kernel?" inquires a soft gently-modulated voice from the threshold of Mr. Grehan's room. (The phone rings and everybody waits for everybody else to answer it, for Don Dinning is not present.)

"Nobody knows and nobody cares for me," continues Cottrell plaintively, ending suddenly with a violent remark to his typewriter, that has been a hop, skip and jump step. "Pahdon me, ladies, awfully sorry, Louise but I've been so busy that I have just not had the time."

"Now, Myrtle, you know your eyes are blue," some one in the corner is saying in that fine, deep voice reserved for such occasions and sentiments. Conversation lulls perceptibly while all members strain attentive ears.

"Check me," sounds in the hall and Marg breezes in. "Hello, everybody! Where's that Herndon Evans? He ought to know I can't come to Strollers every night. Louise, I will get that story in next week sure," she says.

"Well, here's Nazimova," someone cries, and Kitty appears. "Where's Ruth?" The typewriters hammer faster. The hour is almost over. The managing editor has only ten minutes to copy-read three stories for the Kernel; several freshmen have ten minutes to finish infinite back stories; the Press Association has, only ten minutes to send out more letters of propaganda about "prominent young Kentuckians" from Hogwallow now at U. K.—when Bill Soward strolls in casually. Everything stops. Bill reads handwriting, will talk for an indefinite length of time, just about the most interesting thing in the world, yourself, but the bell rings in time to save Bill's life and the club adjourns.

B. W. Bennett, who is treasurer of the firm of Charles Hartman Company, sheet metal contractors, Brooklyn, addressed the juniors and seniors last Monday during the fourth hour. His talk was on obstacles to be met by an engineer when first entering the field.
