LABOR TROUBLE LOOMS

Washington, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Four hundred thousand bituminous coal miners were under strike or on strike today. The order to quit the mines last night was sent out to all the union locals by John L. PRIVATE RELIEF ENLISTED

Washington, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Declaring the task of taking care of the nation's unfortunate people back into the hands of private welfare agencies, President Roosevelt today told the 1935 conference of Human Needs, a conference that funds for support of private charity should be in great measure from those whose donations have created new problems in community life.

Barrymore Quest Ends in Failure; Poor Little Girl!

New York, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Elaine Barrie, impatiently awaited at her telephone today—waited for John Barrymore to pick up a phone on the West Coast and hear his sweet nothings into the ear of his "aerial."

Barrymore Ends Silence

It might as well have been a to-paz regarding its significance. In fact, Miss Barrie is so nice it is a wonder she didn't get it. "I have given away lots of diamonds."

With these words and an expressive shrug of his shoulders, John Barrymore early today dismissed interviewers and terminated his high-and-dry quest for a half hour with 19-year-old Elaine Barrie half way across the continent.

The screen star left his Hollywood-bound train here yesterday, secluded himself in his hotel room, and refused to see interviewers until an early hour today.

U.S. ARMY PILOT RESUMES TRIP

Waukegan, Ill., Sept. 23.—(INS)—Declaring the task of taking care of the nation's unfortunate people back into the hands of private welfare agencies, President Roosevelt today told the 1935 conference of Human Needs, a conference that funds for support of private charity should be in great measure from those whose donations have created new problems in community life.

Waukegan Lands in Interior of Ireland Because of Low-ering Gasoline Supply

Dublin, Sept. 23.—(INS)—With or without his plane—damaged in landing after a 22-hour flight from New York, during which he came at least once perilously close to death, Fritz Waukegan, former U.S. Army pilot, resumed his trip today to continue to Koro (Kauai), Lithuania, as soon as possible.

His Lockheed Vega machine stalled in the air over the Atlantic and fell most of the way, resting on a hillside near Ballinrobe, County Mayo, one wing smashed, the propeller buckled, and the undercarriage torn away. It will be brought to Dublin airport, but may be damaged.

A lowering gasoline supply forced Waukegan to end his projected non-stop flight to Lithuania, he said, revealing that once during the trip a frozen carburetor forced him steadily to lose weight as the water, but that he was able to melt the ice in time.

"During the whole flight, I never had a glass of water," said the tired, 28-year-old flyer. The last he saw was Nova Scotia as the mist cleared, and he saw the Atlantic across the Atlantic was encountered over Newfoundland.

His plane behaved beautifully during the critical part of the journey, and I received magnificent help from the Athlone radio station. My fuel tank ran out in an hour by the radio, I never could have held my course. That radio was the only thing that kept me from the foulest weather.

"Arriving over Ireland," he continued, "I had only 170 gallons of the 700 which I started from Plover Bennett Field at 6:45 a. m. Saturday."

"I intended to make Dublin, but the fog was too thick, so I decided to land in the interior of Ireland, and that's what happened. But as I approached a field, I saw there were a number of animals in it, so I had to come down at a very low speed. The engine stalled when only 30 feet above the ground. The frame was so badly twisted that the door jammed and I had to bail my way out with an axe."

Waukegan was uninjured. Lady Mary, the pilot's wife, accompanied, flew from Dublin for Waukegan, but her own plane was damaged in landing at Ballinrobe. The young Wisconsin aviator said he would continue by boat and rail, if necessary, since his journey to Lithuania was sponsored as a goodwill mission.

Enrollment had reached and passed the expected 4000 mark yesterday afternoon at the close of the sixth day of registration at the registrar's office when a total of 3014 had passed through the lines. This total is 326 more than were registered on the same day last fall and is pushing on toward the record mark of 3298 established in the fall of 1931.

Yesterday was the last day on which a student could make a change in schedule or in registration. Registration will continue until next Monday, September 30. Monday is the last day upon which a student may enter an organized class and the last date on which a subject may be dropped without penalty.

A late registration fee of $1.00 per day was placed on those registering after Thursday of last week, but will continue not charged $3. during the enrollment period.

Louis and Baer Backers Are Calm

Speculator, N. Y., Sept. 23.—(INS)—Max Baer, manager Angelo Hoffman and trainer Izzy Kline will leave here on Tuesday morning by plane—but Izzy isn't worried.

When it was pointed out that the plane to be used was an old make, and none too reliable, Izzy waved away all fears. "On that Bush," Izzy, the trainer remarked, "We won't fly any higher than 400 feet off the ground all the way."

Pompton Lakes, N. J., Sept. 23.—(INS)—Old Sam Langford, long-time boxing sensation, and one of the last of the last-minute visitors to Joe Louis's training quarters here today.

Speaking of Louis as "My Boy"—He has never seen Max Baer—Langford picked the Detroit slinger to put Max in "five or ten rounds."

BAER REPUTELY TO FIGHT FETTER FOR LOS POST

Greatest Mixed Fight Since Johnson Beat Jeffries at Reno in 1910; Baer Confident of Win

105,000 EXPECTED TO ATTEND SCRAP

Sellout Certain as Standing Room Goes for $3.45 Per Square Foot

New York, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Between 100,000 and 105,000 people, the greatest crowd that ever saw a prize fight or anything else in this country, is expected to witness the mixed heavyweight meeting between Max Baer and Joe Louis at night. The receipts will approach and perhaps top the almost incredible sum of $1,200,000. What else is to happen at the arena, the hour of eleven tomorrow night is something that only the gods can know.

Up in the fastness of speculator and across the river at Pompton Lakes is the stadium, scaffolded above are ordained. There was more than a million dollars in the safe as the promoters closed their doors last night.

Nothing preceding the Dempsey-Carpenter fight equalled it. The Dempsey-Tunney fight, raised as they were, could or did show anything of the kind. Literally, there were tens of thousands running themselves breathless after something that long since had become non-existent. In a stadium, scaffolded above are ordained. There was more than a million dollars in the safe as the promoters closed their doors last night.

Joe Louis isn't fighting King Levinsky tomorrow night. He isn't fighting Camera or the same fish peddler, both of whom Max stopped by the way. He isn't fighting D. C., Natie Brown, Patsy Peroni, then Kranz, Adolphe Waiter and Hans Berke.

He didn't let D. Perroni. He failed to flatten Waiter, who couldn't kick my grandmother's chest. Please don't run down the middle of Broadway with the report that Louis can't punch or fight. He can punch, but I maintain that never has he met a puncher like Max Baer. Never has he been on the other side of a fellow who knows no kicking. He has met a boxer who, Joe Louis back away four times and feel of his nose and look for blood.

BAER IS CONFIDENT

Speculator, N. Y., Sept. 23.—(INS)—Five rounds, no more, probably less, will be the limit of the fight any longer than that to finish Joe Louis tomorrow night in the Yankee Club.

Notice, Typists!

A total of 1147 cadets and cadet officials have enrolled in the University R. T. C. unit, it was announced today by the Military Department, which is under the supervision of Col. B. E. Brewer.

Coach Wynne used as a starting line-up a group composed entirely of sophomores, while this group of youngsters had scored the first touchdown late in the first quarter, the regulars were sent into the field for the third play. Davis dashed 61 yards for his first career. Hay placed kicked for the extra point.

Davis and Johnson alternated at lugging the leather to the three-yard stripe. Johnson broke through the line for the third time. Hay's try for the point was wide by inches.

Kentucky's next two touchdowns were easily made. After downing a Maryville punt on the Kentucky 42-yard stripe, Johnson broke through the line for a touchdown. Hay kicked the extra point. After a few plays Johnson stepped into the end zone and a first down on the Maryville 26. Just as the trackers laid their hands on him Johnson lateraled the ball to Lutz who picked up three yards. On the next play Johnson passed to Davis for another marker.

Half ended with the score, Kentucky 33, Maryville 0.

The second half started as the sophomores team carrying the brunt of the attack. To Frank McCool went the honor of making the next score. After a Maryville player had intercepted one of Craig's passes, Hinkbein, sophomore center, came right back to the line. Johnson broke through the line for a touchdown. Craig ran for 24 yards and Craig ran for 24 yards and Craig ran for 24 yards.

Davis, on a 47-yard run through the line, without a Maryville man to hinder him, easily scored the next touchdown. Sunny Boland reeled off 39 yards around end for the final point after which Lutz made the extra point.

The line-up: Kentucky—(60) pos. (6) Maryville: Goforth, L. E. Gray Borse, L. T. Gamble Nicholas, L. G. Hinkbein, C. C. Johnson, S. Johnson, R. G. Atchison Skaggs, R. T. Milliss Hagen, H. H. Tongue Twisting Monickers On Flowers Dismaying To Visitors At U. of K. Botanical Gardens

"Yes sir, these flowers and things certainly are pretty all right," a rather talkative visitor remarked recently, "but, you know, it's a shame the way they name some of them."

"He was one of that rare species—a male garden lover—and we were strolling through the Botanical gardens admiring the remarkable display of flowers and plants found there."

"Now at home," he said, "we call a spade a spade and a jonquil a jonquil. But here the flowers have such high-sounding names that I'd be afraid to plant one in my front yard."

"We came to a bed of low, white flowers on pale green foliage."

"Just take that bunch of flowers, now. They're as pretty as anything you could ask for but look at that name."

"We stopped to read the name on the tag. It was 'Ceratium Tomtoium.'"

"If my best friend asked me the name of that flower and I should accidentally tell him, why he wouldn't speak to me again this year."

A little further down the walk we saw a delicate, fern-like plant. "Say, that thing reminds me of the garnishes on a Thanksgiving turkey. Maybe I'd better get some like it. Let's see, the name is (spells it out) 'Y-a-r-r-o-w A-c-h-i-l-l-a.' Well, on second thought I don't guess I need it. I think there's one something like that in our yard, anyway."

A few steps from the walk we discovered a plant under the label "Bracken Peris Aquilium."

"That looks like our asparagus fern the drought hit it last summer. But with that name I guess anything would shrivel up."

There were many of them—"Benetion Cardinalis," "Pinus Flicilia," "Veronica Teucrium," "Aethionema," "Sempervivum Rojanum," and others.

"I admire them all," he stated. "Anything that can keep on living with a name like some of these flowers and still be as beautiful deserves admiration."

That seemed an unusual way of looking at it, but then they were unusual names.

Baer Said to Be In Fighting Form

Stadium. And the Californian isn't shouting to keep up his courage.

Baer sat on the porch of his lodge here today resting and analyzing the battle. Early tomorrow morning, with Bill Cleveland at the controls, he roars up off Lake Pleasant and flies to New York for the weighing in rituals.

"I'm going to change that Louis right on out of the ring down River-Street Drive," prophesied Baer. "This is a fight I've got to win and do unexperienced youngster is going to beat me. He hasn't encountered anything like an aroused Baer. I'll sweep him off his feet within five rounds."

The aroused fighter finished seven weeks of hard training yesterday. As the finishing touch he boxed two rounds with Ase Friedman and, even cautioned to take things easy, he couldn't resist the temptation to let fly occasionally with vicious lefts and rights.

Zezy Heine, the ex-champion's trainer, says Max will weigh around 208 for the scrap.

"He's 210 now," explained Zezy, "and he'll drop two pounds before he steps on the scales tomorrow. Baer scaled 200 for James L. Braddock. I've never seen a better condition in a fighter's life."

Standing room, as a result of Baer's condition is being sold this morning at $6.45 a head, or perhaps a prize fight in history. One hopes this won't apply too literally to the principals. Anyway, a standing room fight is something of a record. So is that expected $1,300,000 gate, at least for a non-championship fight. Moreover, it will be the greatest of all gates, championship or otherwise, at a $25 top.

Outside of that, everything is quiet around here, and to prove it a morning paper erroneously published that the general admission tickets would be placed on sale two days ago. A detail of police had to be called out to disperse the mob. In consequence, promoters are wondering whether it would be simpler to have the Governor call out the militia or to call out the Governor and join the militia themselves.

In other words, the principals have it relatively easy. "All they have to do is engage in the most desperate and certainly the most important mixed heavyweight fight since Jeffries yielded to Johnson at Reno twenty-five years ago. This, for various reasons, was a fight of great emotional appeal. But, by contrast with the general uproar attendant upon this promotion, it has been made to seem a little pale and insipid."

Times were more composed in those days at Reno. Baer, at that time, had only one place where the trolley cars switched back to the downtown track. Everything has grown, while the legend of Johnson has faded, to be replaced by a man of much greater appeal to his own race. Louis, at 21, has punched his way from obscurity to fame in a little more than a year, topping off a tremendous knockout record by stopping Carnera and Levinsky in his last two fights.

Even the fact that Baer blew his heavyweight title a few months ago, while seemingly engaged in a deep reverie, does not seem to even impede the success of this promotion, any more than you could take a broom and mad Niagara. Many, in fact, still go along with the prestige of his right hand punch, the betting in this respect being something like 7 to 5 against him.

These odds were more or less established last night, anyhow, when a certain Californian "look" $1,000 against $1,400 on Baer. Moreover, another party has the very respectable sum of $8,600 riding on Baer, having evidently become impressed with the mad mummer's "cloistered" and almost ascetic existence of Speculator. According to the accepted records, the only time this eccentric gentleman has stepped out during six weeks of training was from under a shower.

Pete Reilly, manager of Freddie Miller, was offering some anti-Baer testimony of another sort, however. Claiming that he knew an infallible method of determining the condition of a fighter's hands. He ran around last night declaring that he had used the "tough" system upon Baer's right and found it far from sound. This, if true, was hardly reassuring to those who were betting critical money, not only on Mr. Baer's hands but also his chin.

New Equipment Makes U. of K. Station Most Modern of College Centers

Auditions to all University students interested in radio will be given during the next few days, it was announced by Elmer G. Sulzer, publicity director, early this week.

Announcers, musicians, vocalists, dramatists, and anyone interested in radio engineering and broadcasting are asked to report to Miss Imogene Young, studio hostess, any time within the next few days, except from 12:00 to 1:30 p. m. on Saturday.

New radio equipment is being installed in the studios, which will be completed in two weeks, making it the most modern furnished college radio in the country.

Condenser microphones are being changed to dynamic microphones, and they will be operated by a battery instead of an A. C. operated, as formerly. New type signal lights are being installed, and new equipment to facilitate picking up programs at remote points is also being added.

It will be possible to handle three broadcasts at the same time to as many different stations. New series of radio programs are being planned for the coming year, among them some 30 minute drama, adapted by George White Philbin, instructor in English, from a series of twelve famous plays.

E. G. Sulzer, director of the Publicity bureau and the radio studio, will present a series starting next Tuesday, called "Fifty Years in American Light Opera." This will include a narrator, a 17 piece orchestra, Mary L. McKenna, and Chester Shelton.

Another series, which will be begun on Monday, September 23, will be conducted by Jack Griffin, athletics publicity director, who will present "Football on Parade," devoted to football interviews and college songs played by the studio. Led by Robert Griffin.

Norman Garding, editor-in-chief of the Kernel, will present "The Monthly Round Table" on "Current Events" beginning on September 26 at four week intervals, conducted by members of the student body.

Now that Coach Wynne's Wildcat footballers have come through the season's premiere unscathed after mauling Maryville to the tune of 60 to 0, it's time for the usual notes on the operation.

While most of the pain of Saturday's slaughter was experienced by Maryville, yet some Kentuckians believed that a few more courses in the college of football surgery won't hurt the Cats a bit. Wynne's club will get these courses on the next two week-ends.

It seems to hold down to the fact that against the Mountaineers the boys in Blue piled up nine touchdowns and six of nine placements after the scores. All this was accomplished with only seven different plays, which is not bad at all for a team making its first start.

Practically everyone on the squad had the opportunity to perform Saturday, which may have been one reason why the backs were running into or over their own linemen or maybe why the linemen were getting in the way of the touchdown-bound ball carriers. Anyway that's what was happening so often.

The eleven players just couldn't work all together all the time and that's why some of the customers went away just a little uneasy about the prospect for the rest of the season. You'd think a nine-touchdown margin would be satisfactory to any roster and ordinarily it would be, but not last week. One thing everyone did seem to agree on, at least, was that the team was considerably improved generally over last season. They found Coach Wynne had among others a fine all-sophomore eleven which opened the festivities, as well as a number of capable replacements in most positions.

Then, too, a lot of the witnesses were greatly surprised and the others completely satisfied at the manner in which "Bullet Boy" Davis tipped his way through the opposition for four touchdowns and his share of the afternoon's labors. Of course, those who were surprised were only those who had not seen Brother Davis in action previously.

The leaves of Turkish tobacco are strung one by one like beads (see how it is done in the picture). After the leaves are strung they are packed in bales (see picture) — sometimes as many as 80,000 leaves to the bale.

We have on hand at all times for CHESTERFIELD cigarettes upwards of 350,000 bales of Turkish tobacco...

The pleasing aroma and flavor of Turkish tobacco is almost necessary if you want a good cigarette.

Turkish tobacco is more costly when you take into account that you have to pay 35c a pound duty, but we have to have it to blend with our mild ripe home-grown tobaccos.

It helps make Chesterfields milder, it helps give them better taste. Just try them.

Outstanding .. for mildness .. for better taste
