Kentucky Alumni Who Have Earned Their "L" For Loyalty

The November issue of the Kentucky Alumnus carried the announcement that the Alumni Association was initiating an annual giving program, with which to establish scholarships for worthy Kentucky boys and girls.

This campaign, now being conducted by a committee of alumni, headed by John Bullock, '28, of Cincinnati, is just getting under way and is being handled entirely by the committee, with no expense to the association.

Checks should be made payable to the University of Kentucky Loyalty Fund, and are being endorsed over to the Kentucky Research Foundation, a non-profit organization of University faculty and alumni, established for the purpose of accepting gifts to worthwhile University projects. These gifts are deductible from the income tax returns of contributors.

Annual Founders Celebration Held On Feb. 22-23

Nominations Now in Order for Alumni Scholarship Candidates

A four year, all-expense scholarship, totaling $2,800, has been set up by the University of Kentucky Alumni Association through its Loyalty Fund committee, and nominations will be accepted from individual alumni of the University, from organized University of Kentucky alumni clubs throughout the country, and from principals of Kentucky high schools.

The scholarship, to be awarded before the beginning of the fall semester, will be granted on the basis of scholastic ability, character, personality, extra curricular activities and need, and will be open to any Kentucky high school graduate nominated by an alumni club, an individual alumnus or a high school principal, or to any high school graduate in the country who may be nominated and sponsored by an out-of-state alumni club or a University alumnus living in some other state.

According to requirements as set up by the joint committee of alumni and University officials, the recipient of the scholarship will be required to maintain a standing of 80, and if he or she falls below that average, the scholarship may be withdrawn at the discretion of the university's scholarship committee. Any individual alumnus or club wishing to make a nomination for the first alumni scholarship, should send in the name of the student to the office of the Executive Secretary, Room 124 Student Union, University of Kentucky, Lexington, 29, Kentucky, before April 1. Application papers will then be forwarded direct to the student, and a personal interview will be arranged.

Ky. High school principals are asked not to make nominations for this scholarship until a formal request for such is made to them by University officials.

T. R. Bryant Gives Assn. Old Records

Several weeks ago Dr. T. R. Bryant, assistant director of agricultural extension at the University's Experiment Station, and a graduate of the University in the class of 1908, sent a number of valuable alumni records to the offices of the association.

The gift consists of the annual reports of the association in the early days of its organization, and early issues of the Kentucky Alumnus.

The Alumni Association is deeply grateful to Professor Bryant for the gift, and urges any other alumnus having similar material to send it in to the office for safe-keeping.

Dr. A. M. Peter, '80, first president of the Alumni Association has also sent us some interesting information connected with his part in the organization of the association and his own record as a student. We wish to acknowledge the interest and assistance of both of these loyal alumni.

GIVE GENEROUSLY!

In view of the fact that February 22, the date of the University's founding, fell on Sunday this year, a two-day program of events was planned for the fourth annual Founders Day celebration, beginning with a radio broadcast to alumni over Station WHAS, Louisville, at 10:30 a. m., Sunday, and closing with a convocation Monday morning, February 23 at ten a. m., in Memorial Hall. (All times quoted are Central Standard.)

Chancellor Raymond R. Paty, Atlanta, Ga., head of the University System of Georgia, was the convocation speaker on Monday. His subject dealt with the services and future of a state university.

The radio program Sunday morning, which opened the two-day celebration, included a dramatized broadcast of the writing of "On, On, U. of K." by Prof. C. A. Lampert, emeritus head of the University's department of music; and Troy Perkins, '25, now U. S. Consul in Nanking, China. Music, and talks by Alumni President LeRoy Miles, '28, of Lexington, and other prominent alumni.

Sunday afternoon the University Women's Glee Club presented a musicale, in Memorial Hall, under the direction of Miss Mildred Lewis, which program was broadcast over Lexington radio station WKLX. This program was followed by a reception and tea at five p. m., in the Music Room of the Student Union, to which alumni, students and friends of the University were invited.

The convocation, Monday morning at ten o'clock, completed the Founders' celebration.

OFFICE SECRETARY

Jesse Jones, Kentuckian

Jesse H. Jones, one of the nation's greatest financiers who served as chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation with high distinction during wartime and who was in the cabinet as Secretary of Commerce under President Roosevelt, has made a gift of $50,000 for a scholarship fund for University of Kentucky students who make agriculture and home economics their career.

Mr. Jones is known in Washington as a Texan. Henry Watterson said "once a Kentuckian, always a Kentuckian." Kentuckians, who will be pleased and benefitted by this gift will recall that Mr. Jones is a former Kentuckian and certainly henceforth will look upon him as one of their fellow citizens who has given concrete evidence of his attachment for this state.

Jesse Jones was born in Tennessee, lived in Logan county, Kentucky, during his boyhood and then went to Texas. Many of the greatest figures of Texas in earlier days began pioneering in Kentucky and then went to Texas. Jesse Jones followed in a later day and in finance, the oil business and the development of Houston, achieved fortune and influence.

He could find no better way to contribute much to other boys who have great futures but must face obstacles than to have given a scholarship fund to the University of Kentucky in order that boys of the type he was while in this state may have a better chance.

All Kentuckians will deeply appreciate what Mr. and Mrs. Jones have done in a generous and beneficial gift.

They Made It Possible

At the present time at the University of Kentucky there is the largest student body on record and from appearances a happy, enthusiastic spirit prevails among all present.

As the other students return very fitting that The Kentucky Alumnus, a quarterly published by the Alumni Association, has printed a memorial edition dedicated to those who gave their lives in World War I in order that others may have the right and privilege to obtain education in a free country.

The University of Kentucky has a record of the services in the ranks of her sons and daughters who now has printed the record of the men and women who were in service.

There are 332 gold stars. Their names shall never be forgot, more fame her record keeps." Yet it is highly fitting that this record, the biographies, pictures and stacks of how these men served their country and made the supreme sacrifice should be printed and preserved.

The Field House now under construction at the University of Kentucky is to be a memorial to these students who left to take part in war in the armed forces. There are eighteen pages of these names.

The compilation of the data in this memorial book has been accomplished by Professor Ezra L. Gillis, who registrar of the University of Kentucky at the end of World War I then compiled a similar list. Dr. Donovan thought, in view of service, it was appropriate to ask Gillis as director of the Bureau of Source Materials in Higher Education to compile the facts about the service of the men and women students of the University in World War I.

Eulogy would add nothing to stories, plainly told, of the service of these men. It is a splendid record of patriotism and heroism whose outline causes a profound sentiment of how deeply another generation contributed to the defense of civilization and liberty.

Twelve Classes Scheduled for June Reunions

Dix Plan Indicates Groups to Reunite

Twelve classes are scheduled for special reunions at the University of Kentucky this year, according to the Dix Plan, adopted some years ago by the Alumni Association. They are: 1892, '93, '94, and '95; 1911, '12, '13, and '14; 1930, '31, '32, and '33.

However, this plan does not preclude the planning of special reunions for classes celebrating milestones or anniversaries, and does not prohibit individual members of classes from returning for the June celebration. The main reason, in fact, for scheduling special class meetings, is to create more general interest in reunions, and to bring more former students and graduates back to the campus during the most beautiful month of the year in Kentucky.

The Dix Plan, made up for university alumni groups all over the country, has as the background for its schedule the fact that when a class reunion is planned on the basis of five, ten, or fifteen-year anniversary schedules, it automatically brings back to the campus groups which have been separated by five, ten or fifteen year intervals as students. The Dix Plan brings back together, such as the above indicates.

The Alumni office staff wishes to impress on you, however, that if you wish to have a special reunion of your class this year, we will be glad to handle arrangements for you, whether or not the meeting is regularly scheduled.

We have compiled a list of class reunion secretaries from our files, and hope that these secretaries will make this as official notice that the time has come for them to start "brodding" their classmates about the reunions. The secretaries and their classes, are as follows:

- Mrs. C. T. Downing, R. R. 1, Nicholasville, 1892
- Col. J. R. Johnson, 727 Central Ave., Lexington, 1893
- Mrs. P. E. Kesheimer, 261 Lyndhurst Place, Lexington, 1894

Jesse Jones, Wife, Give UK $50,000 For Scholarship Fund

A $50,000 scholarship fund for University of Kentucky students in agriculture and home economics, established by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse H. Jones of Houston, Tex., has been accepted by the executive committee of the Board of Trustees.

The largest gift the University has ever received for scholarships, the awards were established by the Texas financier and his wife for boys and girls who expect to make agriculture and home economics their careers and who would not be able to secure a college education without assistance from these funds. Former U. S. Secretary of Commerce and chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Mr. Jones lived in Logan county, Kentucky in his early boyhood.

The agriculture scholarships will be known as the "Jesse H. Jones Scholarships," and those for home economics as the "Mary Gibbs Jones Scholarships," according to Houston Endowment, Inc., through which the gift was obtained. Recipients of the scholarships will be chosen under the direction of the University and only Kentucky boys and girls will be eligible. Funds will be available at the rate of $5,000 a year for ten years, with not more than $500 going to any one student for a regular college year.

Commenting on receipt of the gift, President H. L. Donovan said, "We are deeply grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Jones for this magnificent gift of $50,000 for scholarships for agriculture and home economics. These scholarships will be a blessing to many Kentucky boys and girls who without this assistance would be unable to attend college. It is a fine thing for Mr. Jones, who spent his early boyhood in Kentucky, to remember the people of this state. The University is grateful to him and Mrs. Jones."

Brightly decorated lawn displays at fraternity, sorority and residence units added to the color of the occasion, with Delta Tau Delta winning the Su-Ky trophy for the best fraternity decoration, and Zeta Tau Alpha carrying off winning honors among the sororities.

A live Wildcat, the first seen on Stoll Field for many years, added to the excitement of the occasion, and was brought to the campus by Glenn W. Denham, '46, of Williamsburg, University alumnus.

Finale to the day-long program of events was a homecoming reception and dance given by the Alumni Association from 8:30 to 12:00 that evening in the ballroom of the Lafayette hotel, at which a record crowd enjoyed the fellowship of the occasion.

Gaston McKeel, '37, president of the Cleveland club presided at the dinner, which was attended by more than 100 Cleveland alumni and visiting alumni and friends of the University. Feature of the program was the presentation of the handsome bowl trophy to President Donovan by Steve Suhajcik, of Cleveland, president of the bowl game and Grand Knight of the Cleveland Knights of Columbus, sponsors of the event.

Seated at the speakers table were: Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler, '24; Miss King, '25; Mrs. Donovan; President McKeel; President Donovan; Mrs. McKeel; Joseph Matoney, managing director of the game; Mr. Suhajcik; Mr. Shively and Coach Bryant.

In receiving the trophy for the University, President Donovan said: "I am happy the Knights of Columbus invited Kentucky, and we are glad we accepted. It was a clean, wholesome game, the best Kentucky has played this year, with the possible exception of the Georgia game. We have a group of boys on our team who are as fine as you can see in America, and while we may not have been the best team in America this year, we have a coach who can deliver the goods. He has a fine staff assisting him, and if we had our choice of any coach in America tonight we would choose Paul Bryant.

"In behalf of the team, the coaching staff, the students and alumni of the University of Kentucky and the people of Kentucky, it gives me great pleasure to accept Kentucky's first bowl trophy."

Officers of the Cleveland club are: Mr. McKeel, president; R. Layman Mays, '25, secretary-treasurer. R. E. Sherman, '27, served as chairman of the football ticket sales committee,

33, Guy A. Huguelet, '14, Named Chief To UK Board of Trustees

Guy A. Huguelet, of Lexington, president of Southeastern Greyhound Lines and graduate of the University of Kentucky in the class of 1914, has been appointed an alumnus member of the University's Board of Trustees by Gov. Earle C. Clements, succeeding H. D. Palmore, of Frankfort, whose six-year term expired Dec. 31.

Mr. Huguelet, LeRoy Miles, '28, of Lexington, and James S. Shorpsire, in 1929, also of Lexington, were the three alumni receiving the highest number of votes in the recent mail ballot sent out to all graduates for the purpose of choosing a successor to Mr. Palmore. The three names were submitted to Governor Clements, who, according to law is authorized to select one man from the three receiving the most ballots, to serve a six-year term.

The largest ballot ever cast by University of Kentucky alumni was tabulated on Dec. 15, when Frank D. Peterson, secretary of the University's Board of Trustees and Helen G. King, executive secretary of the Alumni Association, supervised the counting of the votes.

Mr. Huguelet received his LL. B. degree from the University and was admitted to the Lexington Bar in 1914. He was a member of the law firm of Keenon, Huguelet and O'Dear and in 1926 became organizer, general attorney and secretary of Southeastern Greyhound Lines. He was elected president of the company in 1928 and has held that position ever since. He is a member of the board of the University of Kentucky Athletic Association and a member of the executive committee of the Alumni Association; vice president and director of the National Association of Motor Bus Operators and director of the Lafayette Hotel and the First National Bank of Lexington.

At the January meeting of the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association, the group passed the following resolutions in tribute to Mr. Palmore:

Whereas, the Executive Committee of the University of Kentucky

Whereas, this man, at the cost of personal sacrifice to himself and his own business interests has devoted a major portion of his time to the promotion of the University and the Alumni Association, and

Whereas, this loyal member of the committee, having made an outstanding and unique contribution to the work of the Alumni Executive Committee and the General Association, is now, at the completion of his six-year term, retiring from active service as alumnus member of the Board of Trustees, we, the committee, wishing to express to him our deep gratitude and affectionate personal regards, do hereby offer to our heartfelt thanks for a perfect job, perfectly executed in the most unselfish and best interests of his Alma Mater, and to him we say that no finer association has ever been enjoyed by any of us, and that serving with him on the committee has given to all of us a broader view of our Alma Mater and a more earnest desire to contribute the same

Judge Stoll Fifty Years a Trustee on January 2

Judge Richard C. Stoll, '95 of Lexington, senior member of the law firm of Stoll, Townsend, Park, Mohney and Davis, celebrated his fiftieth year as a trustee of the University of Kentucky on January 2.

He also has served as vice chairman of the school's board of trustees for a number of years and is chairman of its executive committee.

Judge Stoll's first appointment to the board was effective Jan. 2, 1898, and was made by Governor William O. Bradley. Since then he has been reappointed by both Republican and Democratic governors, including Augustus E. Wilson, James B. McCreary, A. O. Stanley, W. J. Fields, Ruby Laffoon, A. B. Chandler and Keen Johnson.

His current appointment, made Jan. 26, 1942, ends this year. Thus he also served under the governorship of Simeon S. Willis and Earle C. Clements.

Entered in 1891

Judge Stoll entered the University of Kentucky (then Kentucky State College) as a student in 1891, was graduated in 1895, was at Yale University two years obtaining his law degree, and shortly after his return to Lexington was appointed a trustee. Thus he has been connected with the institution, either as a student or as a trustee, for all except a few years of its existence.

Judge Stoll holds a bachelor of arts degree received from the University in 1895 an honorary Doctor of Laws degree awarded in 1913 and a Bachelor of Laws degree received from Yale University in 1897.

He has served as a member of the University board of trustees from 1898 to 1905 and from 1908 to the present time. Judge Stoll became a member of the board's executive committee in 1910, vice chairman in 1917 and chairman in 1918, serving in that capacity to date.

Stoll Field Named for Him

Stoll Field, the University athletic field, was named for Judge Stoll, and a bronze plaque on the stadium describes him as "an alumnus, trustee and benefactor" of the University.

In 1894, Judge Stoll played full-back on the football team.

At the 1945 Founders' Day, tribute was paid to Judge Stoll when his oil portrait was presented the University by friends. The portrait is in the office of President Donovan.

"Throughout his long association with the University, Judge Stoll has been its loyal supporter and steadfast friend," reads the brochure issued on Founders' Day.

On January 9, Governor Earle C. Clements reappointed Judge Stoll to membership on the Board of Trustees for a six-year term, as representative from the state at large.

Grant C. Knight, professor English at the University is author of an essay included in College Book of Prose, recently leased by Ginn and Company. The essay, first printed two years ago in The Saturday Review of Literature, is included in a section devoted to fine arts.

Ky. Ends Season With 24-14 Win Over Villanova

By Roy Steinfert, '46

Kentucky parlayed power and deception into a one-two punch that tipped Villanova for an upset 24-14 victory in the inaugural Great Lakes Bowl Game in Cleveland Municipal Stadium December 6.

The meager crowd of 14, 908, lost in the confines of the vast 85,000 capacity stadium, saw a bang-up game by two teams that played as if it was the beginning of the football season and not the end.

Kentucky scored first on George Blanda's 27-yard first quarter field goal which literally split the up-rights. Then, the Bluegrass eleven made it 10-0 early in the third period when Bill Boller passed to Jim Howe, who scooted 29-yards to tally with an able assist by Bill Moseley's key block.

The final period was the climax of a brilliantly played game as both teams uncorked a pair of touchdowns.

Ralph Pasquariello climaxed a long Villanova drive in the opening minutes of the final period by dashing 10-yards for a touchdown quicker than you can say Ralph Pasquariello. That made the score 10-7.

But then Villanova was Boller'd in the bowl. Following an exchange of kicks, Kentucky found itself on the Villanova 16. Bill Boller, the 177-pound Beaver Falls, Pa., sophomore halfback, galloped 16 yards through the entire Pennsylvania eleven for a touchdown.

Boller then came back to put the game on ice less than a minute later when he intercepted a pass and raced 49-yards for Kentucky's final tally. Blanda added all of the conversions for Kentucky.

The Mainliners came back in the waning minute of the game to score their final mark, which proved to be a useless tally, on a nine-yard chunk from Andy Gordon to John Sheahan. But time was running short. Kentucky's 14 point margin was more than enough.

Ky. Gridders Win Eight, Lose Three

By Roy Steinfert, '46,
Athletic Publicity Director

Last August Coach Paul Bryant said: "Kentucky will be an improved eleven in the Southeastern Conference this fall. . . but we do not believe we'll equal last season's seven-three won-loss record."

On a bleak December 6 afternoon in Cleveland's gigantic Municipal Stadium with less than 15,000 persons present, Kentucky mauled Villanova 24-14 for victory No. 8 of the 1947 season against three setbacks.

Victory No. 8 came as victory No. 1 in a bowl classic—the inaugural Great Lakes Bowl game.

"I didn't think in August we could win eight games," Bryant said at the season's conclusion. "Our team just had the determination and the desire to win. That's a hard combination to beat."

The year got off to what was thought to be a poor start when Ole Miss, a seven-point underdog, scored a 14-7 victory. That was the day the Charlie Conerly-Barney Poole battery was unveiled. Conerly and Poole rewrote passing history and Ole Miss went on to capture the Southeastern Conference flag. That 14-7 score didn't look so bad when it was all over.

Kentucky bounced back to defeat Cincinnati 20-0; Xavier 20-7; and Georgia, the Sugar Bowl champs fell like chumps 26-0 to an explosive Wildcat eleven.

Bryant in defeating Georgia had achieved one big mission in two short seasons: He had succeeded in knocking off one of the S. E. C. Big Three.

The six-foot, one-inch 215-pound lineman, one of the best-liked players in Wildcat history, thus will launch his professional career next fall with one of the leading teams in football.

Ky. Fullback Named Honorary Captain

Bill Moseley, senior fullback from Montgomery, Ala., was named honorary captain of the 1947 football squad by his teammates, and captained the squad in its initial bowl appearance at Cleveland on December 6.

Captain Moseley, 178-pounds of blocking and tackling dynamite, probably played his best game against Tennessee this year, although his consistently good performances throughout his career at Kentucky have won for him the admiration and respect of all Wildcat fans.

Named as alternate captain was Jay Rhodemyre, All-Southeastern and third All-American center.

Sports editors of some 30 southern college newspapers, under auspices of Surf, Southern intercollegiate magazine, chose Jay Rhodemyre, Kentucky, as center on an All-Southern football team for 1947.

showed amazing power in downing the undefeated, untied Commodores 14-0. Michigan State fell next 7-6 in a game which wasn't quite as close as the score would indicate.

Alabama, off to a slow start, reached its peak against Kentucky in the seventh game, winning 13-0. But that wasn't too bad, either. L. S. U., recognized as an organization with a great deal more ability than Kentucky, fell to the Tidesmen 42-12 several weeks later.

West Virginia became Kentucky's next victim 15-6 at Morgantown in a game which was played in a sea of mud. Evansville was next. The 'Cats warmed up for Tennessee the following Saturday 36-0.

The bitter must go with the sweet, even in football. It did when Tennessee came back in the fourth quarter to defeat Kentucky 13-6 to spoil homecoming for the Wildcats.

In two years under Bryant's guidance, Kentucky has won 15 games while losing but six, the best two-year record at Kentucky since the 1909-10 era when the 'Cats won 16 and lost three.

Wildcat Gridders, Coaches, Feted At Alumni Dinner

More than 300 Wildcat football men, coaches, alumni and friends of the team attended the annual alumni banquet, honoring the 1947 grid squad, Monday night, November 24 in the Bluegrass room of the Student Union.

Chief speaker for the gala occasion was George B. "Brownie" Leach, executive vice president of Keeneland, publicity director for Churchill Downs and former Lexington Leader sports editor. Features of the program were talks by Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, vice president of the University; Coach Paul Bryant and Athletic Director B. A. Shively.

LeRoy M. Miles, '28, president of the Alumni Association presided at the banquet, and Bernie Shively presented beautiful 21-jewel Lord Elgin wrist watches to the 11 graduating seniors, gifts from alumni and friends of the University.

Grand finale to the program was a floor show, in which members of the squad participated. Ted Grizzard of Lexington Radio Station WKLX served as master of ceremonies, and prizes were awarded to the team members who appeared on the floor show.

Tuesday afternoon, November 25, Su-Ky Circle, student pep organization, sponsored a football convocation honoring the coaching staff and squad, at which Ed Danforth, '14, sports editor of the Atlanta Journal, spoke.

Rhodemyre On A. P. Third All-American

Makes First String All-Southeastern

Jay Rhodemyre, Ashland, Ky., senior and stellar center on Kentucky's 1947 football team, who was chosen "Lineman of the Week" in the first Associated Press poll of season in October, was named to A.P.'s third All-American team as first string center on the All-Southeastern Conference team at the close of the season.

Other Kentucky players receiving All-American mention were Wallace Jones, end; Wash Serini, tackle; and Don Phelps, halfback.

The Kentucky center is a former air force pilot who won his "Kentucky" All-American honors in 1942 and again in 1946 after returning from service. He was a key blocker this year in Coach Paul Bryant's T offensive, and was rated by his coach as "the best offensive center I have seen in college football."

Kentucky's Basketeers will play in the N.C.A.A. Tournament
New York, March 18-23.

Coach Paul Bryant, Kentucky's capable young coach, told the assembly that "we were down after that Tennessee game, but we're not down now, and we'll come back to this room another year, for one of these parties, after we have beaten Tennessee." Guests at the speakers table were, left to right: Mrs. Leo M. Chamberlain, wife of the University's vice president; Athletic Director B. A. Shively; Mrs. H. L. Donovan; G. B. "Brownie" Leach; Coach Bryant; LeRoy Miles, president of the Alumni Association; Frank Moseley and Carnie Laslie, assistant coaches, and Dr. Chamberlain.

...Serini Named Most Valuable Player

By Babe Kimbrough, '29, Sports Editor, Herald

By the vote of his teammates, Washington Serini, senior tackle from Tuckahoe, N. Y., was named the most valuable player on the 1947 football team and was awarded the Jerome Lederer trophy at the annual dinner party given by the Lexington Rotary Club in honor of the Wildcats, December 11.

The presentation was made by Coach Paul Bryant, who pointed out in a brief talk that a football player would rather have recognition from his teammates, such as that accorded Serini, than any other honor which might be bestowed upon him.

In accepting the huge trophy, the big lineman, visibly touched by the honor, stammered: "I'll cherish this as long as I live."

Serini, who began his gridiron career at the University in 1944, has played four years of varsity ball with the Wildcats under three different coaches and has been one of the key men of the team each of these years. He received All-Southeastern Conference honors in his freshman year, was named on the second team this year and played in his third Blue-Gray battle December 27 at Montgomery, Ala.

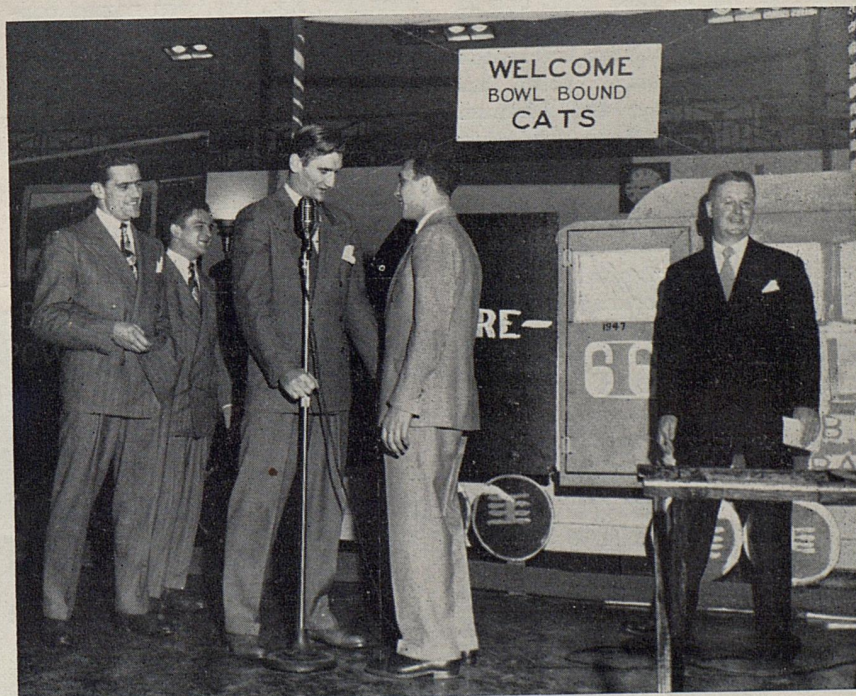

Popular with students and fans, as well as with his teammates, Serini has never been taken out of a game because of injury during his entire collegiate athletic career and during the past season put in more actual playing time than any other member of the Kentucky squad.

The Committee of 240, composed of two students from every Kentucky county represented in the enrollment at the University, has been reorganized by the Department of Public Relations, following a lapse during the war years.

Organized 20 years ago for the purpose of interpreting the University to the state, the present committee is composed of a group of campus leaders, many of whom are children of former University students.

The harmonizing of this group was as good as the clowning of the squad's chief "funny man," Paul "Ears" Young, second from left. In the group, in the usual order, are: Dave Beam, end; Young, center; Roy Ford, center, and Danny Beam, halfback.

One Point Mars Ky. Netters Half-Way Record

By Roy Steinfort, '46

One blemish marred Kentucky's basketball record as the 1948 season neared the half-way mark.

Underdog, often-defeated Temple took the Wildcats 60-59 in Philadelphia's Convention Hall to spoil a seven-game winning streak.

Three days later, however, in Madison Square Garden Adolph Rupp's fabulous Wildcats regained winning form by obliterating St. Johns, 52-40.

Returning from the Christmas holidays, Kentucky appeared off form in its 1948 debut in defeating Creighton 65-23 in Louisville.

In winning 11 games in 12 starts, Kentucky tallied 864 points as compared to 457 for the opposition. Of 1,084 shots taken by the 'Cats, 346 fell for field goals for a 31.9 average.

Kentucky's ever-pressing defense held the opposition to a mere 21.4 per cent of their tosses at the basket.

Towering six-feet seven-inch Alex Groza has been the offensive pace-maker, scoring 63 field goals and 22 free throws for 148 points. Ralph Beard, who trailed Groza last season in scoring by a single point, has amassed 144 points, and Fireman Jim Line, who has been used only in substitute roles, was third with 102 points.

Oddly enough, Kentucky's first two scores of the new season were identical. Indiana Central and Fort Knox were both defeated by 80-41 marks.

Tulsa blew into town for a two-game engagement then. Their entrance into town was about all the disturbance they caused the 'Cats. The first night the Tulsa five fell 72-18, and the second time it was 71-22.

Against DePaul in their next start, the Wildcats literally blasted the Demons back to the Windy City with a 74-50 victory. Cincinnati was the 'Cats' next victim 67-31.

Xavier was next 79-37, and then the Temple debacle happened. Against Western Ontario in the 11th game of the season, Kentucky equalled its old offensive scoring mark by running up a 98-41 score. Miami, Kentucky's 12th foe, was defeated 67-53 on the Oxford, Ohio floor.

Serini, Rhodemyre, Moseley Play Important Part in "Gray" Victory

Serini Captain in Southern Triumph

Wash Serini, senior tackle, Jay Rhodemyre, senior center, and Bill Moseley, senior fullback, who played their last game in Wildcat uniform in the win against Villanova Dec. 6 in Cleveland, were stellar performers in the 33-6 victory of the "Grays" over the "Blues" in the North-South game played in Montgomery, Alabama on December 27.

Chosen from among southern stars, these three Wildcats played outstanding ball against the opposition. Serini had been chosen to captain the "Gray" team by the men assembled for the contest, and came through in grand style as both a field general and player, blocking two punts which set up "Gray"

Don Whitehead, AP Chief, Is Honored

Don Whitehead, Ex. '27, chief of the Associated Press Bureau in Honolulu, T. H., who covered the European campaign with the First Army, was presented the medal of freedom on December 10, for "meritorious achievement" as a war correspondent in Europe.

Homer L. Baker's vocation is selling cement.

His avocation is selling concrete citizenship to youngsters by cementing their leisure hours to a solid foundation of sports.

Baker, a busy, good natured 150-pounder whose light weight belies his heavyweight punch in behalf of sports, accomplishes his goal in a number of ways.

A University of Kentucky 1922 graduate, he is one of the men behind the football rejuvenation of the Wildcats. But in helping to build a better Wildcat grid machine, the little bundle of tremendous energy and enthusiasm hasn't forgotten the youngsters—his pet interest. As chairman of the Downtown Quarterbacks Club here, for instance, Baker has insisted that Kentucky and Louisville football films be unreeled at Male High Auditorium at night instead of at a grid luncheon club in the afternoon.

Why?

Because, Baker asks, what kid would be able to afford a two or three dollar plate, which is the customary charge for such luncheon meetings? And, even if a kid could, how could he get away from school to see the show?

Approval

Saying it's impossible, Baker has chosen instead—and with the hearty approval of Sports Editor Earl Ruby of the sponsoring C.-J.—to show the films at an early evening hour. And without cost. To defray expenses, he asks only for a voluntary contribution of 10 cents from adults.

That anecdote best illustrates Baker's philosophy of sports. Sports is a fine recreational outlet for adults, he agrees, but athletics can best serve youngsters.

Believing that the competition of athletics, with its code of good sportsmanship, helps youngsters in later life, Baker always has had great interest in sports programs designed for kids. He first became interested as far back as 1919, when he was a 145-pound U. K. frosh guard. Ever since he has worked away at the idea.

Baker's own son—Jimmie—is a coming star in baseball, football and basketball. Like his dad, he has more than one interest. He's also student body president at Highlands Junior High.

To make it a complete athletic family, Baker's other son, Bill Dudley, is a U. K. golfer and one of Louisville's better niblickers.

Despite his preoccupation with the youngsters, Baker hasn't forgotten his ol' alma mammy. Aside from his Downtown Quarterbacks Club meetings, he is head of a "transportation committee" to get interested U. K. alumni and writers up to see the Wildcats practice. In that activity, he's ably helped by Tony Dishman, Jerry Beam, Raleigh Guthrie, Art Nutting, George Aiken and Scoggan Jones.

To cap all his activities, Baker also is on the executive committee of U. K.'s Louisville Alumni Association, a body, he says, that "tries to further the fine program of Dr. Donovan" (president).

"That doesn't mean only athletics. As far as athletics are concerned, we like to see our teams representative of the conference they belong to. We feel they should be either representative or out of the loop. We are in the Southeastern Conference and have elected to remain in it. Thus, we feel we should have teams equal to others in the league."

Capt. Edward Ellershaw, '89, Grad, Visits Nova Scotia

(Editor's note: The Halifax, Nova Scotia Daily Mail of Sept. 27, carried an interesting feature on Captain Edward Ellershaw, '89, native of England and adopted Kentuckian. The Captain, who keeps close touch with his Alma Mater through the Alumni Office, was kind enough to send the paper to the editor of the Alumnus.)

"Admitted to the Bar of Nova Scotia in 1893, Captain Edward Ellershaw, of Jacksonville, Fla., in Halifax for the first visit since a one-night stay in 1924, has met with only one who was active in the legal profession at the time of his admission. Sir Joseph Chisholm, now Chief Justice of Nova Scotia, who already in 1893 had his name as a partner with Bordon and Richie, one of the three major law firms practicing in the city. Sir Joseph was later a member of the Canadian Bar Association that went to London in 1924, and Capt. Ellershaw was there on the committee of welcome from the English Bar.

"Although Captain Ellershaw will be 80 years of age on Dec. 3, he is still a thoroughly active man; proof of this being his ability to operate his own automobile, which transported his wife and himself from their Florida home. "I have only been on a train once since the start of the war," he said in stressing his preference for motoring. But for wartime gas restrictions the 50,000 mileage he has put on his present car would have been still higher.

"Admitted to the Middle Temple Bar in London, he thought Canada, his mother's native land, offered greater opportunities. A newly admitted barrister in those days at home had little chance for advancement unless boasting connections with leading solicitors. His family had been always linked with army circles, and so he lacked the helpful legal connections.

"Arriving in Halifax bearing letters of introduction to some leading Halifax lawyers, he encountered a friendly reception from all especially from Hector McInnes and thereupon became associated with the firm of Drysdale and McInnes, being desirous of a chance to study Nova Scotia law and procedure before venturing out on his own. After some 15 months a vacancy occurred in Digby and he practiced there four years.

"While he was home vacationing in England the Boer War broke out and, in virtue of his previous military training in student days in the famous "Inns of Court Rifles" Mr. Ellershaw was granted a commission, rising to a captaincy in the regular army. With peace restored he was appointed Public Prosecutor in the Transvaal, continuing in that post until England gave the country back to the Boers.

"After return to England he engaged in travel in Canada and the United States, and with health somewhat impaired by war service, went to Florida to winter in 1910. Finding it to his liking he returned there more frequently and interested himself in real estate. Since then he has made it his home state. In 1914 he summered at Digby and this season returned to the town where he practiced as a young lawyer.

"Captain and Mrs. Ellershaw are registered as guests at the Sword and Anchor during his stay here."

If it hadn't been for that I know I wouldn't have done so well in landing this job . . . And thanks to Miss Margie who taught me creative writing, and Mr. John Cutler, who sharpened me up on Business English. What would I have done without UK?"

U. S. To Grade And Market UK-Perfected Leaf

Tests Show 31-V Is Nearly Free Of Poison Drug

By Joe Reister, '34, The Courier Journal Lexington Bureau

Production of a new type of low-nicotine-content tobacco — to be known as type 31-V—won't revolutionize the burley industry overnight, but bids fair to brighten Kentucky's agricultural horizon in the not-too-far-distant future.

The Department of Agriculture has announced at Washington that it plans to establish, for grading and marketing purposes, the new-type leaf.

Handles Like Burley

The department said its sales regulations would provide cured tobacco included in the new type may not contain more than eight-tenths of one per cent nicotine, oven-dry weight, and shall have the general visual characteristics of quality, color, and length of burley tobacco.

The announcement culminated 13 years of research on the part of Dr. W. D. Valleau, plant pathologist at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, and his associates.

Dr. Valleau, who has worked since 1934 on development and perfection of type 31-V, said the new leaf was "ready for the manufacturing stage."

The new tobacco received its symbol because it can be handled in the same way as type 31 burley, sometimes referred to as white burley—commonly used in blends for popular-brand cigarettes, the scientist said. It is a variation of type 31 burley.

Years of effort to reduce the nicotine content of the new leaf, yet retain its ease-of-handling features, resulted in a high degree of success.

A picture of Mary Jo Ridley, 18, of Beaver Dam, a freshman in the University's College of Agriculture and Home Economics, will appear on the cover of the Spring issue of "Modern Miss," a New York pattern company publication, as the "National 4-H Club Cover Girl."

Miss Ridley was awarded the cover-girl title at the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago last fall, through the vote of 1,500 4-H Club members.

here, showed the leaf had a nicotine content of only eight hundredths of one per cent.

Tobacco used in most popular-brand cigarettes has nicotine content ranging from 1.5 per cent to a high of approximately 4 per cent.

Cigarettes manufactured from the new tobacco on an experimental basis, but which haven't been placed on the open market, have an unusually mild, aromatic flavor, tests show. No throat "burn" was detected.

When asked whether plans had been made to raise type 31-V on a large scale in Kentucky in the future, Dr. Valleau declined to comment.

"The Government has placed restrictions on announcements regarding that phase of the project, so anything along that line will have to come from the Department of Agriculture," he said.

American Suppliers, a subsidiary of the American Tobacco Company, entered into a contract with the university more than a year ago to take all of the new leaf produced on the station farm for processing and testing purposes.

Use May be Gradual

Production of type 31-V doubtless will be gradual, Dr. Valleau predicted, citing as the reason the reluctance of manufacturers to change their cigarette blends.

"As the demand for the new leaf in cigarettes grows, however, I believe production of this type tobacco will increase in like manner," Dr. Valleau said.

All experimental work with type 31-V was done on the station farm here, he said.

Ky. Mining Institute Gives UK Painting

On behalf of the Kentucky Mining Institute, in two-day conference December 12-13 in Lexington, Grover H. Creech, '20, of Louisville, coal executive and member of the University's Board of Trustees, presented to the College of Engineering of the University a painting by Rockwell Kent, symbolizing coal's significance to civilization and entitled "Baker of the Bread of Abundance."

The painting was one of a series done by Rockwell Kent for distribution to prominent universities.

Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, University vice president, accepted the painting and said in a brief talk he would like to see greater "cooperation between American industry and American institutions of higher learning."

A need for greater funds for mining education and experimentation at the University was stressed by Mr. Creech. Speaking at the convention banquet of the Institute, he called upon the Legislature to finance the schooling of mining engineers and to provide for further coal research. He said the University was going forward with the development of synthetics from coal, and expressed the hope that the coal industry would recognize the Department of Mines and Minerals for its progress.

Alma Magna Mater, a student organization whose membership is made up of the children of former University students, has been reactivated on the campus under the direction of the Alumni secretary.

Sponsored a number of years ago by the late Mrs. Frank L. McVey, beloved wife of the University's president emeritus, the group serves as a contact between former University students and the present-day student body. Several hundred members are enrolled in the reorganized club.

4,530 Veterans Are Attending UK

The University of Kentucky's record winter-term enrollment of 7,300 is composed of 4,530 veterans and includes students representing every Kentucky county, 40 other states, the District of Columbia, and 17 foreign countries.

A tabulation of veterans registered showed a total of 4,365 enrolled in six colleges and the graduate school on the Lexington campus. Not included in the report were 165 student veterans enrolled in the UK College of Pharmacy at Louisville. The pharmacy school is on a semester basis and will not have another registration period until Feb. 9. The current student veteran population makes up more than 62 per cent of the total University enrollment.

More than 85 per cent of the veterans on the Lexington campus list Kentucky addresses as their home.

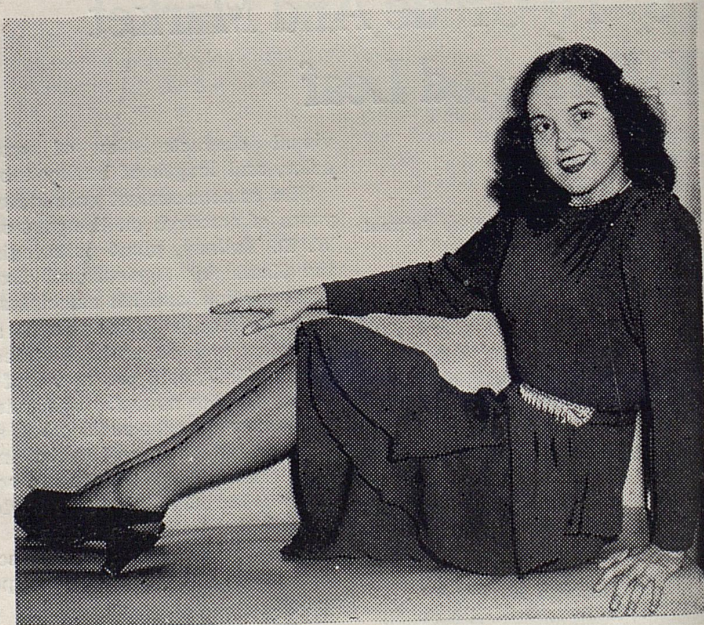

Approximately 34 per cent are married and children of student veterans total 680.

A geographical breakdown of the total enrollment, including pharmacy, listed Fayette county as leading all other state units with a total of 1,611 students, followed by 611 students from Jefferson, 183 from Kenton and 155 from Frankfort county. Leading the out-of-state registration was Ohio with 147, West Virginia with 110, and New York with 107.

Foreign countries account for 1,000 students, including five from China. Other foreign students come from Africa, Australia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Egypt, England, Finland, Germany, Guam, Holland, India, Mexico, Palestine, Peru, Puerto Rico and Turkey.

Dr. Ely to Leave UK for Ohio State

Dr. Fordyce Ely, head of the dairy section at the University and a member of the faculty since 1927, has submitted his resignation to the Board of Trustees, effective Jan. 15, to become chairman of the department of dairy husbandry at Ohio State University.

He came to the University from Iowa State College, where he had served as associate professor of dairy husbandry. He is a graduate of the

Dr. Vandembosch To Return to UK

Dr. Amry Vandembosch, head of the University's department of political science, who has been on leave of absence to teach at Northwestern University, announced in December that he would return to his University duties at an early date.

Dr. Vandembosch, who served with the United States Department of State and the Office of Strategic Services during World War II, joined the University faculty in 1926 as an assistant professor in the political science department. He became a full professor in 1928 and was named head of the department in 1934.

In 1941, Dr. Vandembosch was called to Washington as a specialist on the "Low Countries" of Europe and held the position of deputy chief, Western European section, in the Office of the Co-Ordinator of Information (later known as the Office of Strategic Services) until late in 1942. From 1942-44, he was assigned to the U. S. State Department as a divisional chief assistant. In August of 1944 he was recalled to the OSS and sent on a special mission to India and Ceylon.

After a short period back at his University desk, Dr. Vandembosch, in the spring of 1945, was named to represent the United States on the International Secretariat of the United Nations conference in San Francisco.

At the University, he has had an outstanding career. His colleagues on the College of Arts and Sciences faculty chose him as "Distinguished Professor of the Year" in 1945. He has been a visiting professor and special lecturer at numerous colleges and universities throughout the country on international law and relations, and allied subjects.

Dr. Vandembosch has been offered a position at Northwestern at a much higher salary but has chosen to return to U. K., at a smaller salary, Dean M. M. White said in making the announcement of Dr. Vandembosch' return. Dr. J. S. Reeves, associate professor of political science has served as head of the depart-

Miss Minnie Pherigo, an employee of the University's business department for 30 years and L. H. Cain, an employee of the same department for 29 years, were given of honor at a testimonial dinner the Student Union December given by campus associates.

Miss Pherigo and Mr. McCain were granted a change of work status by the Board of Trustees December, in accordance with the policy which becomes effective employees who have reached age of 70.

More than 100 attended the dinner, at which President H. L. Donovan expressed the good wishes of the administration to the retiring staff members.

UK Experiments With Earth Pump

Mechanical engineers at the University of Kentucky have planned a series of experiments to determine the practical application of heating and cooling the equivalent of a six-room house by a pump which uses the earth as a source of heat.

The Kentucky Utilities Company has offered to furnish the pump for use in the mechanical engineering laboratories and experiments are expected to be started in from three to six months.

Although there are about 200 domestic and commercial heatpump installations in operation, the University expects the tests over a three to five-year period to bring significant results. The research program will be concerned especially with determining how much heat can be taken from the ground; what adaptations are necessary to cool adequately the same amount of space at summer temperatures, and to determine any statistical effects of rain.

Engineers at the University explained the pump is essentially a refrigeration plant capable of working in reverse to accomplish heating.

The unit utilizes a series of tanks buried in the ground and filled with water. Heating is accomplished by a process which sends a refrigerant through an evaporator coil in the water tanks where it picks up heat from the earth-warmed water, becomes vaporized, and passes on to a refrigeration compressor where it gets more heat. Finally it goes to a condenser to heat air passing by it.

Cooling is done in much the same way as the radiator system cools the cylinder block of an automobile.

With the evaporator and condenser reversed, the unit's refrigerant absorbs heat from the air of the room, circulates it back to a compressor, and finally into the water tanks where the heat is lost into the ground.

UK Sets Up Department Of Rural Sociology

A separate department of rural sociology, in the College of Agriculture, began functioning as such Jan. 1 at the University of Kentucky, following a ruling to that effect passed by the December meeting of the Board of Trustees.

Formerly a section of the farm economics department, the new department will be staffed by four faculty members and headed by Dr. Howard W. Beers, a welfare specialist and professor of rural sociology at the University since 1939. Dr. Beers is past president of the Lexington-Fayette County Council for Social Planning and the Kentucky Conference of Social Welfare.

Rural sociology first became a distinct curriculum at the University in 1939, although it was offered as a course first in 1931. At present rural sociologists carry on an integrated unit program of teaching, research and extension activity.
