Putting Emphasis On Better Things

Fraternities will welcome the news that the University has at last decided to resume publication of scholastic standings of the various Greek organizations. It will undoubtedly have the effect of raising averages which reportedly have had a tendency to drop slightly in the past several years.

Many fraternity members often lose sight of the fact that their respective associations were originally organized for the purpose of furthering scholarship—as well as fellowship and the social activities. Now that the practice is being resumed, each lodge's scholastic rating will be placed before the public's gaze. Naturally, each fraternity will be forced to devote some attention to its position on that list, if it expects to do well during rush week.

Practically every college and university in the land compiles an annual rating of grades. This is largely done in cooperation with national offices of the social fraternities, which must keep up with the progress their chapters are making in studies, sports, finances and activities. Up until about five years ago, the University included the practice in its fraternity policy. When it discontinued the plan, many lodges "forgot" their quiet hour ratings.

Now that the practice has been revived, the University may well expect to see a rise in Greek grades. Needless to say, such improvement will have the effect of pulling up the scholastic average of the student body as a whole.—J. C.

The Charge Is No Longer True

One of the charges made against college students of today is their lack of interest in the vital questions of society.

The Kernel, itself, has been guilty of making this charge, but we believe the accusation is gradually becoming something of a misnomer. Perhaps there has been a lack of leadership or unit labels no means of determining this private interest, but the increasing popularity of student polls taken by college newspapers, year-books, and class organizations proves that there is a definite interest in society's problems. And most students interviewed express decided opinions concerning these problems.

Some observers have stated that the danger of the polls lies in the fact that students may begin to accept the group expression as their own rather than form opinions for themselves. Whether this is true or not, it is interesting to note some typical results of recent inquiries.

At Drexel University, 87 per cent of those interviewed indicated that they did not approve of dropping immigration bars to refugees from the totalitarian states. Rutgers University seniors voted five-to-one against a third term for Roosevelt. University of Maine students voted with only a slight majority in favor of the provision to declare war only after a national referendum.

Do answers of this sort denote a lack of interest on the part of students? These are national problems, not merely questions of whether to have a dance, or how many class cuts should be allowed.

Certainly, college students are aware of the problems! Furthermore, the polls indicate that quite a few have decided what will "be done about it" when they become tomorrow's leaders.—N. O.

Responsibility Is Sometimes Helpful

An important result of a better system of student government would be an organization competent of bringing to the attention of the faculty, student opinion concerning means of improving certain classes on the campus.

Of course, there is the answer that students may feel free at any time to suggest changes to professors or departments, but the individual is rather hesitant about taking this step either through fear of censure or because he feels that the attempt would be futile.

The classroom, especially, feel that they have the "right" as well as the ability to criticize their individual courses constructively—that they,

much better than the instructors, know when a subject has been drained dry or when it is still cloudy in their minds.

The University of Chicago has tried this method with more than a fair amount of success, and Dr. Lotus D. Coffman, late president of the University of Minnesota, seemed to have this thought in mind when he wrote the following: "In education, as elsewhere, freedom is not a right, but a privilege to be earned. Education will make its largest contribution to a free society only when there is a proper recognition of responsibility."

Probably someone will make the remark that University students "intend" to assume all responsibility, take the task of planning the curriculum out of the hands of men who have studied for twenty years to perform that very job, and assume these duties themselves. That is absolutely false. They don't want that, and wouldn't have it.

But they do feel that they could handle more responsibility, and that the young man being talked "at" sometimes knows how he is being affected better than the man doing the talking.—B. W.

Scrap Irony

By HARRY WILLIAMS

At exactly 7:33 a. m., yesterday a man wearing rimless spectacles walked up to us and said, "A simple interest, a dollar invested at 1% at the time of the Birth of Christ would have amounted, in 1933, to $78.32." Of course, our day was ruined. Throughout breakfast we figured on the table cloth, and the waitress, instead of smiling and saying, "Thank you" when we paid the check, said, "I'll be five cents extra for the time of the Birth of Christ would have how much money we would have if we had invested a dollar at compound interest at the time of the Birth of Christ. We couldn't really have invested anything then because we weren't a human being at that particular period. Our form at that time, as well as we can remember, was that of an eel. We used to swim back and forth across the oceans with ease in those days, commensurate ease. We didn't quite understand the doctrine of reincarnation then however, we had only a vague recollection of our previous existence in the amoeboid state. It was during the Crusades that we piled up enough good karma to assure us of a human form in our next life and even that seemed doubtful when it looked as if the Turks would win in spite of our spawning in their water at every opportunity." At compound interest, we finally figured, (and we had adding machines lined up as far as you could see) there wouldn't be enough money on the planet to pay us off, that is, figuring the Martian dollar at $2.7 cents. (They don't have a Federal Reserve system on Mars.)

The Pre-Med boys are out after cats again. About this time of year they all become sadists (for reasons scientific of course) and start a sort of feline purge. Cut them up, they do, and study their intrals. We saw one of them once, working on a cat. Had one stretched out on a board with little pins. This fellow was eating his lunch when we saw him, but that didn't seem to bother him much. "Look at that lung," he kept saying. "Will you look at that lung!"

Something we have never been able to understand is the term, "Southern aristocracy." Everywhere we go people talk about "good families" and "not very good families" and "bad families." Only the other day we heard a girl say, "He comes from a good family." "What is a good family?" we felt like asking. Certainly no family is "good" all the time. When the old man drinks too many juleps and goes out shooting up the town, a "good" family must necessarily become a "bad" family. These people evidently don't believe this however, they say if a family is "good stock" and has been living in one place for a long time then it's a "good" family no matter what happens. If the old man decides to shoot up the town he's just "quite a card," or a "red blooded Southerner." It's all pretty absurd when you stop and think about it. Ancestors don't make "good families" stay "good." Families who are always talking about their ancestors and about what an "old" family they are, seem to us somewhat like a potato plant; all they have that is worth anything is under the ground.

There's a book in the window of a downtown department store titled "The Best Loved Poems Of The American People," the compiler of the work is Miss Hazel Felleman. The jacket points out that Miss Felleman was editor of the New York Times' "Queries And Answers" department for many months and that by being in that position she was able to "keep her finger on the poetry pulse of the American people." This is indeed a pretty thought. Miss Felleman sitting in her New York office with all the traffic noises and disturbances of the city shut out. Sitting there—with "Her finger on the poetry pulse of the American people." We like to think of her as aloof from the sordid world of business, completely apathetic about the foreign situation; nothing to do but watch the country go to pot, with her finger, of course, on its "Poetry pulse."

CAMPUSCENE

- Student Government Plan
- A New Movie Trend
- ASU Inconsistent

By JIM CALDWELL

The group of collegians who are seeking to inject new blood into the present anemic student government system have drawn up a tentative skeleton plan, representing some of the most constructive thinking on such matters that has come to light in these parts in many semesters. The outline formulated by the group's committee on reorganization of student government, which, in good New Deal fashion, was cut down to a simple CRSG, provides for a president, two vice-presidents and a student legislature, to be chosen on a basis of merit rather than the usual political affiliations.

If further planning follows the example set by the skeleton sketch, the CRSG should wind up with something decidedly worthy of the consideration of the student body and University authorities.

However, care should be exercised in getting student reaction before the final draft of the plan is undertaken. The opinions of the conservative element on the campus must be considered as well as those of the more progressive individuals. For the representation of the former group on the committee is not justly proportionate to the number found in the student body as a whole.

But, all in all, it should be gratifying to the campus in general to find that there are some persons here with the initiative actually to DO something about the situation. Most everyone agrees that the situation is unsatisfactory and that "something ought to be done about it." Up until the advent of the CRSG, that's about as far as they got.

Symphonies To The Rescue
Playing on the same program with the excellent "Pygmalion" is a color cartoon that is an entirely new wrinkle in the magic lantern industry. It is a satire on the war-mongering millions of the world. It deals with two "nations" of chickens, who, egged on by two long-winded roosters, start a war, just about annihilate each other. Up to the point where the doves of peace settle the issue by filling the shells with flowers, the grenades with candy, the plot is exceedingly effective irony. After that, the thing seems down into triviality.

If the cartoon is the keynote of a trend, then on to Hollywood. If not, at least it shows what the movie moguls can do when they think. As it stands, however, it is a reflection on their courage that they try to make one little color cartoon whisper what their feature

Fifty-Six Per Cent Of Students Favor Communism To Fascism

Results Are Opposite To Those Of Gallup Poll

By Student Opinion Surveys

Austin, Texas, March 30—Communism would be the choice of a majority of American college students if they had to decide between that system and Fascism. This trend has been revealed by the latest nation-wide poll of the Student Opinion Surveys of America.

Within the last two decades Fascism and Communism have come into the front in the news as a result of the set-ups in operation in Russia, Germany, and Italy. During that period of time today's college youth has been growing up.

Because of the directly opposite policies of the two forms of government, in theory at least, speculation as to which is better has developed, especially in halls of learning. Frequently asked is the question, "If you had to make a choice, which would you prefer, Fascism or Communism?" When this hypothetical question was put before the nation's college students, representing in the Survey's cross-section every creed, race, and political affiliation, the results were:

Communism	56.4%
Fascism	43.6%

When the same question was asked to the entire nation, a little more than a year ago by the American Institute of Public Opinion, exactly opposite results were shown. Then 37 per cent of the voters favored fascism. Therefore, either college students differ with their elders, or recent events in Europe have changed their opinions. Accurate comparisons are not possible since no national collegiate poll had been taken regularly until the organization of the Surveys last December.

Everywhere at least a bare majority favored Communism, though there were variations, as seen below:

East Central	50.7%
New England	50.9%
Far West	53.6%
Middle Atlantic	57.3%
West Central	59.5%
South	61.8%

Earlier this year the Surveys found that only one out of every ten students believed that there had been any attempt to influence him through foreign "isms" in his school. Along the same line the current poll discovered that many students did not know the differences between Communism and Fascism.

More "no opinions" than usual (which are not included in final tabulations) were registered on the fascism-or-communism question. A student at the Central YMCA College in Chicago said, "As long as there is a choice between life and death, I won't have to make a choice between Fascism or Communism."

In Wooster College in Ohio a student who claimed Socialism as his political affiliation favored its own goal—dictatorship. Communism is a pathway to Socialism and better living."

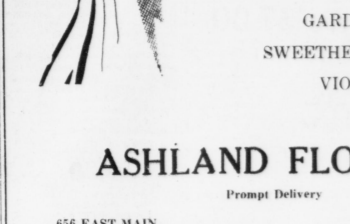

Choosing Fascism was a University of Texas student who declared that he "would rather work for the state than share the results of my labor with some one else."

Casts Are Chosen For Johnson Plays
Four One-Act Dramas Will Be Presented On April 5-6

The all-student cast for the plays to be presented during the "Evening of Johnson" Wednesday and Thursday, April 5-6 at the Guignol Theatre have been announced by Fred Frank Fowler, director.

The four one-act plays were written by Greer Johnson, sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences. This is the first time in the history of Guignol that one evening has been devoted to plays by one person.

Associate directors of the plays are Sarah McLean and Dorothy Love Elliott. "Edge of Eternity," "Mortals Will Not Believe," "Tenebris," and "No Questions Asked" are the four plays to be given.

"Edge of Eternity": First Figure (Betty Roberts), Second Figure (Cordelia Forrest), Scientist (Norman Moore), Mother (Jane Cherry), Father (Sidney Fuller), and Girl (Jean Cummins).
"Moortals Will Not Believe": Gay (Jean Megerie), John (Kenneth White), Bronze Boy (Victor Giaser), Bronze Girl (Genevieve Howard), Woman (Sarah McLean), and Man (Joe Raine).

"Tenebris": Leah (Jane Cherry), Tays (Jean Cummins), Joseph (Irving Danziger), Mrs. Halliwell (Cordelia Forrest), and Carl (Sidney Fuller).
"No Questions Asked": Arthur (Edna), Eleanor (Ema Jane Rice), Anne (Sarah McLean), and Carolyn (Genevieve Howard).

Farquhar Talks To Women Journalists
Six New Members Honored At Dinner Following Initiation

Edward P. Farquhar, professor of literature in the department of English spoke on "Literature in Journalism" at a banquet honoring six initiates of Chi Chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, Wednesday night at the Canary Cottage.

The banquet followed formal initiation services at 8 p. m., at the home of Miss Marguerite McLaughlin, faculty advisor of the organization. W. C. Tucker, acting head of the Department of Journalism, was a guest of the fraternity at the dinner.

Leslie Lee Jones, president of the chapter, presided at the banquet and introduced the speaker. A welcome to new members was given by Lola Campbell and the reply on behalf of the six initiates was made by Ruth Bennett. A brief history of the national organization and the local chapter was given by Vera Gillespie, alumna member.

Evans of the College of Law, Major Gardner, Lexington, on behalf of the initiates, and Alan Vogler, Lexington, on behalf of active members.

Robert Tyler of Columbia province, president of the fraternity, was a guest. Judge King Swope of the Fayette Circuit Court, to have been initiated as an honorary member, was unable to be present due to illness.

Those initiated were Major Gardner and Robert Stitz, Lexington; James Clay, Paintsville; James Stephenson, Pikeville; Perkins Hamilton, Somerset; Howard Trent, Maysville; Eugene Webb, Pembroke; Paul Durbin, Pulaski, and Preston Young, Owingsville.

Irishman Talks On Irish Drama Rise
Farquhar Lectures Before Pan Politikon's Last Meeting

The rise and development of the Irish theatre was sketched by Professor Edward P. Farquhar of the English department before a Pan Politikon group yesterday afternoon in the Union.

Pedraim Cuddy was cited as the greatest living Irish playwright. Pairs of authors, Yates and Lady Gregory, Martin and Moore, and the Fay brothers, have been significant in the development of the Irish drama, Professor Farquhar said.

The meeting closed the Pan Politikon study of Ireland which has occupied the attention of the group this year. Annually Pan Politikon conducts an intensive study of some foreign country during the month of March.

Cornell university is conducting research into the methods of training vocational education teachers.

Attendant

Martha Jane Rich, Kappa Kappa Gamma, will be one of the two attendants at the Junior prom queen, Sara Biggs, Delta Delta Delta, who will be crowned at the prom Saturday night in the Union ballroom.

Sigma Phi Sigma Takes 9 Members

Nine students were initiated into Lambda chapter of Sigma Phi Sigma, national honorary physics society, at special services held Tuesday in the chapter room of Pence hall.

FROM WILD IDEA TO STATE TITLE
By JOE CREASMAN
From a wild idea that grew out of a dormitory ball session four years ago, a pool-less swimming team has developed into one of the brightest stars in Kentucky's athletic heavens.
Since Kentucky does not afford a pool, the first call for a team brought ground that was thicker than a club sandwich. With the aid of a diving rod, the team was led to the luxurious Eastern Teachers College pool, 28 miles away in Richmond.
Eastern authorities agreed to loan their tank as practice space and after a few rehearsals the Wildcats hung out a challenge to other state colleges. In true Frank Merriwell style Kentucky dived all comers and then captured the first state swimming tournament. The next year and the next Kentucky repeated its triumph in the state, aqua-fee.
This season found the team hitting its high and the schedule was nailed shut with the record book unmarked in nine meets. Then, last Saturday night, the fourth consecutive state title was annexed. During the season the team smashed records like so many panes of glass. In all, Kentucky bettered nine state records while the 300-yard medley relay team, unbeaten since the team was first organized, established a new Southeastern Conference record for its event.
Kentucky's victims for the year were, in order: Eastern 52-13; Maryville 54-21; Tennessee 52-23; Georgia Tech 43-32; DePaw 51-33; Butler 52-13; Loyola 45-21; Eastern 60-13 and Berea 57-16.
The annual team banquet will be held Wednesday night at which time the Bob Freberg plaque, awarded each year to the high point man, will be presented. Freberg, who died last night, is one of the original founders of the team and in his memory a plaque is given.

Margaretta Battie, who has Jimmy Wine sniffling violets in the spring air, is also doing out some time to Billy Young. SAE's example of "what every mother wants her son to grow up to be." In doing this she is stealing some of the noise of her sister sororitarian, Maggie Purdon, who has also been drawing fire from the Young-ster.

Jean Megeer has lost her man. Hun Davis having been lured away from his Kentucky girl by North Carolina diamonds. If left this week for the Red's farm there, in hopes of becoming a major league luminary.

When Bernie Barr recently parted with her KA pin, it was rumored that she did so with one eye on the Sigma Nu star of Bill Corum. Time will spill all.

Miss Elizabeth Ligon, busy being true to Joe Raper according to generally accepted sources, spent last week-end in the mountains of Southwest Virginia, where she was concerned mainly with being true to George Bots, not Joe.

Mary Ellen Wombwell and Squire Williams have the clutch and sigh fever again, or something of the sort. This is in direct retaliation of Squire's former tactics around Do Ann Young. Some there are who recall the days when the Squire courted only to Mary Ellen, but then he saw Do Ann, and his mind turned to thoughts of Young Love. But an old flame dies only after a lot of kicking.

Just-A-Gigolo Department
The ODK boys, pride of the campus, took a jaunt down to W. & L. for the alleged purpose of a convention of some sort, which convention was curtailed by a large party... all the boys drew their ones for the affair, and a good time was had by all, well, at least by most of them.

Sid Buckley drew a small package of Southern accent that dripped with honey, the "Hello there, what you all fixin' to do now?" type. Sid came back with eyes only for Jeanne Barker. Ed Mueshler reached down into the grab-bag and came out with one it turned out that she was a girl he could really look up to; six feet tall and a good two hundred pounds.

James Quisenberry thought he had a honey until the rest of the boys showed him the correct way to get cut out. Ed Tudor had a little magnolia blossom whose memory still has Bill's breath coming in short pants.

You know, it's remarkable how instructive these conventions are. I had an uncle who used to go to these conventions, and he'd always come home looking pretty well whipped, and I never knew why till now.

Jimmy Greensook, our own interpretation of what a college boy looks like, is now entertaining deep purple signs for a girl in Danville, since he dropped the Taft torch.

Jimmy Brown, SN heart-throb, had to make three dates for the Bowsy Ball at his lodge the other night... the fortunate female turned out to be a twelfth-hour engagement.

Sich And Twich Department
A certain lad from the University of Cincinnati has been fairly pulling petals off daisies over Florance Justice. In fact, in his haste to mail a little love message to her recently, he tripped, fell and broke two bones in his leg, which should have cooled his ardor somewhat, but didn't.

If John Hunsaker keeps on, he should be able to pin Mary Bryson, Alpha Omicron Kappa, or so I see by looking into my private crystal ball.

Mary Gore Roden, Kappa Kappa, is so fixated over Norman Lewis that she gave him her raincoat on a rainy night last week... and she never got it back.

Ray Brown is the owner of a picture of Del Collier, which has a wolfish gleam in the orb.

No. 1 One of the most prevalent moods on the grassroots is the one over the sad selection of orchestras that haunt our dances.

For some reason, we seem to attract poor bands like soap boxes attract Communists. While other Southern colleges gallop off with Shaw and Clinton, we pace to the cory music of some group of dead soldiers. Why not employ some good ones for a change. The students would pay for them.

No. 2 You pimple on the face of collegiaty who dote on swiping records out of the Greek stiles, I have only contempt and a big grin. You are no better than common sneak thieves and should be treated as such. To these wax-mastchers let me thussy: 1. Your place is hardly in an institution of learning if your only ambition is to become a skilled purloiner of plates, you woff in guest clothing. 2. In your pilfering of the platters you degrade your own trade, for a good crook would not content himself with the snatch of cheap thirty-five cent discs.

Students To Supervise

All vocational home economics teachers will be employed for one month after the regular school term to supervise student projects in schools in and around Lexington, it was decided at a conference of home economics teachers in the Education building March 25.

THIS IS THE COLLEGE MAN

Dean R. E. Manchester of Kent State university has his own view of college men: "The college man is a living paradox. Most people cannot understand him and those who do come to their conclusions by indirect proof. He talks of the future but worships the past. He is liberal in his conversations but conservative in his actions. He is radical in his opinions of politics, but elects stand-patters to class officers. He preaches democracy, yet supports the most rigid campus caste system.... He laughs at convention but imitates it."

JITTERBUGS RULED OUT

Following the precedent of the Union ballroom at the University of West Virginia, an operator of a dance pavilion near the campus has banned "swing cats and rug cutters" from his floor. Reasons for his act: "Jitterbugs cause too much wear and tear on the building, cause business, and the dance floor will accommodate only half as many jitterbugs as waltzers."

COW COCKTAILS

"Cow Cocktails" are the most popular thirst quenchers on the University of Oregon campus according to a recent campus survey. At campus night spots milk is served under the names of "white wash wagner" and "calcium cocktail."

PROFESSORS MEET

Kentucky members of the American Association of University Professors met at a luncheon in the Phoenix hotel Saturday and discussed plans to form a state organization favorable to all state chapters.

YALE PRESIDENT SPEAKS

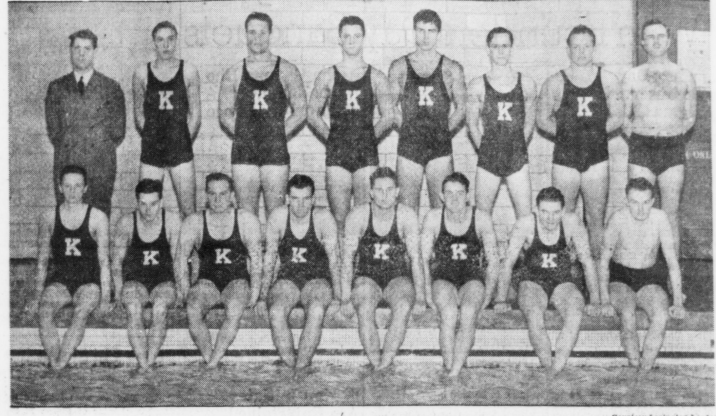

Yale university's president, Charles Seymour, charted a new course for education to follow in these troubled times when he said: "The student should acquire and graft into his very being the social and mental habits that underlie citizenship in a democracy. The country needs citizens with a sense of social responsibility and mental capacity for understanding public issues far more than it needs technical experts."

SENDS EXPEDITION

Cornell university has sent an expedition to the mountains of eastern Mexico to learn about the strange bird, ouis pinosus.

Students and faculty members at the University of Cincinnati have an opportunity of meeting informally at a winter Mixer, Board, and Omicron Delta Kappa, sponsors of the affair, call faculty-student mixers. The groups drink tea and play charades.

The University's Greatest Champions

1936—state champions, 1937—state champions, 1938—state champions, 1939—state champions. That's the record of the pool-less swimming team, the 23 edition of which is pictured above. During the past season this team has held nine state records, while the 300-yard medley relay team, unbeaten since the team was first organized, established a new southeastern conference record. Kentucky's victims this year were Eastern, Maryville, Tennessee, Georgia Tech, DePaul, Butler, Loyola, Eastern and Berea.

CLEARING HOUSE

Dear Clearing House: As we are again reminded, it is our Student Union building, and the activities carried on should, as we understand it, be of general concern and interest to us. Although I am not an art student I have a general interest in art, as I know many other students on the campus have. However, we feel no connection with the Union art committee. They seem to be a small private group working only for the interest of a small and select (?) group. Why can't the art in the Union be a more general thing? Why can't we have something to say about what pictures we would like to see? We can hear the music we want—why is it a universal thing appreciated only by their group, or are they trying to be snobbish?

Committee Missing?
The exhibitions shown so far have been very interesting, but many of us could find no information about the pictures. We would have appreciated having someone answer our questions. We at least would have liked to have known more about the artists, to say nothing of their subject matter, technique, etc. This alone seems a serious oversight on the part of the art committee.

And, by the way, where is this art committee? How does an ordinary student express his ideas about the things? Everything seems to be done in the dark, leaving out a great number of students who would appreciate a cultural activity. —J. S.

Recently, the buildings and grounds department made a cabinet for the radio studios with a door in one side and a window ash in the other. Just before it was taken out of the shop, a student was discovered clinging the window part to prevent the noise it made, which was the very thing that was needed.

Off-Share Suits For College Men

Tweeds, Coverts and Gabardines are the leading cloths for suits for the University men the country over. All of these cloths lend themselves well to the colorful sports combinations that are being worn so much this spring. The colors that are best liked in these cloths are off shades, among the leading colors are greenish browns and tans, bluish browns and tans. Solid weaves lead the field in these cloths, patterns not being considered in good taste.

At THORPES, in the tailoring department, they have samples of all these new fabrics, in exactly the price range that will appeal to you. And, they are well qualified to tailor a suit to your exacting taste, and to suggest to you all of the new style changes in spring suits.

At THORPES, they take particular pains to see that your suit is tailored exactly as you wish, and that every little detail is carried out to the will degree. Your selection of cloth is almost unlimited and always confined to you—the fit of your suit is guaranteed. It costs so little to have a suit made exactly for you, that you are doing yourself an injustice by not trying one.

Teams Include Stars Of All-Conference, All-America

Faced by a team that numbers two former All-Americans, Bernie Oppers' Kentucky All-Star basketball team has this week been conditioning for its game against the Indiana All-Stars tomorrow night in the Jeffersonville field house.

The two squads lined up for the game look like a page from basketball's blue book. The Kentucky team will be opposed by former University of Indiana and Purdue stars. Leading the Hoosier attack will be one of the most talked of net players ever developed in the Middle West—Jewell Young, Purdue All-American last season. Indiana's All-American contribution of this year, Ernie Anders, will also be on the Indiana squad.

Other lights in the Hoosier attack will be Gene Anderson, Purdue captain during the past season, and Verner Huffman, former Indiana ace football and cage performer. Both Anderson and Huffman were voted All-Big Ten honor team positions.

To stymie the high scoring Indiana team, Kentucky will depend on a team composed entirely of former Wildcat stars. Oppers, second team All-American pick and All-Conference guard for two seasons, will handle one guard position. The other back court post will be handled by Warfield Donoune, captain and All-Conference choice from the championship team of 1937. Tub Thompson, who came within sneezing distance of an All-Conference post, will handle the center position. Cub Curtis, who led the Wildcats scores this season with 178 points, Elmo Head and Joe "Red" Eagan, 1938 ace forward, will round out the Kentucky squad.

The game will be preceded by a scrap between Lindsey-Wilson Junior College and the New Albany all-stars. An admission tax of 50 cents for adults will be levied with all proceeds going to the Boy Scouts.

WEATHER HALTS NINE PRACTICE

Unable to hold practices outside due to the inclement weather, Coach Frank Moseley was this week forced to postpone his first call for candidates for the Wildcat baseball team.

Members of the squad will tonight see "Baseball, the National Game," a sound motion picture being presented in Central Kentucky by the Lexington Leader. The picture is produced by the National League in observance of the 40th anniversary of the diamond sport.

The initial practice session of the season was originally held for Monday but rain forced the drill to be called off. Pitching candidates were able to hold short limbering-up drills in Alumni Gym but the remainder of the squad was inactive through the week. The candidates are brighter than a pocket full of new dimes and Coach Moseley is expecting a successful campaign. The diamond is located on the Still Field practice lot, has been soaked into shape by Moseley and Coach Gene Myers and is ready for the opening of practice.

Last year, after a vacation of several days, baseball was recalled, the athletic round-up. No regular games were scheduled but Kentucky Wesleyan and Eastern were in practice rehearsals. Practically all the candidates for last year's team are back with the exception of Ernie Jefferson, left handed pitcher. Heading the pitching staff will be George Tagrechi, fire ball hurler who has a curve ball that snaps like a bull whip. Other pitchers who are expected to report for the team are Gene Staker and Lincoln Ellington.

Randall Phillips, who covers first base like a tarpaulin, will be ready for an infield post. Other survivors from last year's squad are Wince Carnes, Joe Raine, Joe Shepherd and Charley Steele. Eddie Fritz will be on hand for catching duty. Dameron Davis, who holds a contract with the Cincinnati Reds, and Larry Gandy, who is expected to report for the team are outlanders from last year's squad.

A schedule calling for 12 games, the baseball season, has been booked for the Cats. The program opens April 14 with a two-game series against Vanderbilt in Nashville. The first home game calls for Eastern to invade Still Field April 19.

Calling 'Em Wild

By JOE CREASON

Baseball news of the week: The public will be relieved to find that after months of study I have pulled from under the bushes the biggest thing to hit baseball since the flu epidemic of 1918—it looks like the New York Yankees in the American League for the fourth successive year.

Nothing, it seems, short of fire, flood or plague can stop the Yanks. The team that Manager Joe McCarthy will send to bat in the first inning is a typical Yankee club—a tight defense with power at bat and plenty of classy young players to step in for any faltering veteran. Yes sir, the choice looks like the correct thing since base-ball war.

But while we are crocheting the pennant for New York, let us look at the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Brooklyn Dodgers. Two of baseball's most remarkable teams are preparing, say the experts, to ascend into the celestial positions of their respective leagues. The Yanks often pitch, but never seriously in the American League—on the surface have everything the Yankees have except ball players. Last season St. Louis won 18 straight games to top easily the Grapefruit League (the spring exhibition games) but when they began to play their marbles for keeps, they faded like a drop of water on a hot griddle and finished the year a comfortable seventh.

Never Won A Pennant Again this season the Browns, a team I've been boosting since I first learned how to compute batting averages, have been blowing over all comers in rehearsals. Although the opposition has been nothing more serious than the Philadelphia Phillies, still the Browns have won. There's something about this team so entangled in a "always a bridesmaid, never a bride" complex (the Browns have never won the championship of their league) that is appealing. Maybe the reason is that, outside the pitching staff, the team has some darn good players. The Browns added a new found batter but a weak sister at bat, rounds out the list.

Only one Brown pitcher, Buck Newsom, is really of big league calibre. Newsom, who talks one of the best games in baseball, last year racked up 20 wins. The remainder of the staff are either so fat they can't find the plate with

To prove my point about talent, the outfield is composed of Beau Bell, Mel Alumba and Myrl Hoag or Joe Grace. In 1937 Bell hit .350 and was the most talked of player in the league but last year he was struck low by illness and slumped to around .280. Alumba, who goes for fly balls with the nonchalance of a dog scenting a rabbit, hit in 27 straight games last season and finished with a fine average of .315. Hoag, a Yankee cast-off, hit but .277 last year but, grace, up from Memphis is regarded near top of the league's rookie crop.

Hard Luck Red Kress But to really appreciate the Browns one must see and know their infield. At first base there is stationed a ravened fellow known as George McQuinn, who tore the hide off the ball last season with a .255 average. In doing McQuinn was topped only by Zeke Bonura of Washington and New York. Across the diamond at third base is one of the best men in the business,

Group To Observe Hospital Advances

A trip through Eastern State hospital will be conducted for members and guests of the Pryor Pre-Medical society at 2 p. m. today. Under the guidance of Dr. S. D. Westmark, psychiatrist of the United States Public Health Service, the group will observe innovations and advances made as a result of recent reorganization of the hospital and will also observe various cases and methods of treatment at the institution, members said.

Since more trips through various nearby institutions are planned for the near future, those interested in attending are asked to communicate with Edward Kass, chairman of the society, so that the size of the groups may be determined and adequate preparations made.

Trains may come and teams may go but the Dodgers go on forever.

Do Parlor Tricks, Also

For years the Dodgers have carried the title of baseball's dumb bunnies, and appropriately so I remember, a few years ago, seeing Babe Herman steal second with the sacks full and later in the same game crash head-first into the bleachers while chasing a hit.

According to Drew Middleton, Associated Press expert, the Dodgers are once again up to their old

Six Lettermen Left To Fill Vacancies

Spring Basketball Practice Challenges Coaches Seeking Berths

With six lettermen returning from this season's championship team, spring basketball practice is being held daily in Alumni gym with 20 candidates taking part in the drills.

The chief worry facing Coaches Adolph Rupp and Paul McBrayer is the developing of a guard to fill the slot left vacant by the graduation of Bernie Oppers. Another cavity to be plugged is the forward that will be left vacant by Cub Curtis' graduation. Other squad positions to be filled will be left vacant by Tub Thompson and Elmo Head.

Lettermen contesting for positions are Les Huber, Harry Denham, Mickey Rouse, Keith Farnley, and Marion Cluggish. Captain Jimmy Goodman has been unable to take part in the drills due to an attack of flu that has confined him to bed. Another headache confronting the coaches will be the selection of a varsity squad, so close is the competition for positions.

From the famed "hot battalion" of this year, Walter White, Don Orme, Hoot Combs, Bill Nelson, Stan Cluggish and Gene Staker are in the midst of the scrap for team berths. The powerful freshman team is represented by Jim King, Marvin Akers, Jim Mathewson, Edmal Allen, Tom Kiger and Nilly Hodges.
