THE FIDDLER MUST BE PAID!

The current manner in which sororities are conducting their dances is open, we believe, to suggestion and criticism which may not only turn them into far more enjoyable affairs on the part of those attending, but which may give back to the sororities bigger returns than they are now receiving for the financial layout which the antiquated system, now being used, is bringing them. Certainly, the prestige gained from a poor dance is not worth the cost involved for each member.

The old theory that inviting one or two women from each other sororities insures the success of the dance, has been exploded by practical usage. To have at the most fifty girls, including the outside sorority women at a dance to which a blanket bid over the entire campus has been extended, is to say the least, a sign that sorority women are not using their heads.

At the average sorority dance the ratio of men to women is something like eight or ten to one. From the viewpoint of those people who like dancing for dancing's sake, it must be extremely distasteful to jump from one partner to another every fifteen seconds or so over a period of three hours. Likewise, if it makes nervous wrecks out of the women, who must change their step and "line" with every new partner, it is their fault. They alone can remedy the situation.

The University's already weak social system would be vastly improved if sorority women could get together and draft plans for the improvement of their dances, by inviting more women, by restricting male bids, or by any other way they may see fit. It seems to The Kernel that to give a "sticky," thoroughly unenjoyable dance is worse than to give no dance at all.

TO PLAY OR NOT TO PLAY

Recently there has been an epidemic of gambling which has spread over the campus to all the fraternity and sorority houses and the various student hangouts. It has increased to such an extent that it has become a problem with which the social organizations must cope.

There are several cases in which the situation became so serious that there was a game in progress continually throughout the afternoon and evening and far into the night. This of course resulted in the loss of sleep, money, and time which should have been spent studying.

Several methods of procedure have been adopted by the fraternities in their struggle against this new menace which threatens the very existence of the organization. Some have abolished all forms of card playing entirely; some have prohibited all forms of gambling; while others have allowed gambling only during the week-end.

This action which has been taken by the fraternities is indeed a credit to the University and to the organizations themselves. It is mute evidence that there has been a decided change in the fraternity man during the past decade; a drastic change from the wild, dashing, hazing collegian to the quiet, clear-thinking, sober-minded student of today.

CURFEW LAWS

Another "apron strings" idea in regard to the conduct of women students at the University are the rules governing the "getting in" of girls residing in the residence halls and sorority houses. The system of requiring sophomore girls, especially those who have demonstrated their ability to budget their time, to be in by 9:30 at night, even when they have been at the library, is rather medieval. The wisdom of such procedure for freshman women may be granted but even then one would suggest that those who had demonstrated their capabilities the first semester be allowed more free time the second semester. The curfew laws, which have long since been discarded as unenforceable and improper to the time, only require children under 16 to be at home by 9 o'clock unless accompanied by adults. Should girls of college age therefore be required to "be in bed" by 9:30?

Another antiquated idea is the allowance of only thirty minutes between the time a dance is over and return to the halls. This causes a tremendous rush on the part of girls and boys alike for fear the lady guest will be the recipient of a much dreaded "campus."

In the case of the weekly hour for "getting in," The Kernel would recommend 10 o'clock or 10:15 for all but first semester freshmen. In the case of the upperclassmen (juniors and seniors) the time could easily be extended to 10:30 or 11:00.

All classes should be allowed at least an hour after dances for return to the hall. Such would permit at most only time to get a "midnight snack." Obviously no "harm" could come to the morals of the women who have been so graciously entrusted to the care of the University during such an interval, and the extra time would relieve the tense, mad rush which at present occurs after every dance.

The adoption of a more liberal attitude in these and other respects, a withdrawal from the "horse and buggy era," as our respected President would say, will be appreciated and approved by students and parents alike, with few exceptions, even by the faculty. The time of rigorous discipline has passed; college now stands as a training ground for American youth in preparation for a greater college—the school of life. The modern girl deserves and needs opportunities to prove her ability to properly care for herself.

Isolation in Japan for some time was strictly enforced. Boats of a certain size were prohibited, no one could return if he once departed from the country and only one ship a year was allowed to touch at a certain port.

Spain is believed to have been the only nation in the history of the world who was able to maintain an all inclusive monopoly on the goods used by her colonies. England eventually broke it.

George Washington's birthday tomorrow, "he Father of Our Country." What a lot of black sheep in his family.

Oh, what a life! It's all so unconstitutional.

Hoi Pollui

O. K. youse guys and gals, here's your female columnist. Take her for better or for worse. Personally we think that she's a "queen" and just common every day go for anything she has to say.

Please Believe Me: Lon McLooney played "Please Believe Me" on the victrola in the Tavern about twenty times the other day for Lois King's benefit, but Lois was unimpressed. What's wrong, Lon, have you been trying to convince too many people?

"Is There a Doctor in the etc": Betty Monette, to ditch a date the other night, developed a sprained back or something. The news traveled through several people called to inquire about her. Now Betty has to limp to make good her story.

Joke of the Week: At one time during a season of heavy fog a London daily paper offered a prize for the best fog story. Here is the story that won the prize.

"A merchant received a telephone message one morning from one of his clerks, 'Hello, Mr. Smith, I send the clerk over the wire, I cannot come down to the store this morning on account of the fog. I have not arrived home yesterday.'"

Return of the Prodigal: Say, Dodd Best in the Tavern Wednesday accompanied by his old love, Kappa Nell Duerson. Looks like our alumni just can't stay away from the old Alma Mater.

Jackson Again: "Lucky Baby" Bob Jackson says he likes these Leap Year Lops better than the regular lances. Along with Walt Hennemeyer, Dick Bush, and Frank McCool, he was the "Belle of the Ball" at the one last Friday. Too bad leap year doesn't come more often. Some of the girls would like it too.

Throwing Rice: J. Rice Walker was in a candy store Friday buying a Valentine. He said it was for his mother. "Mother" Luella Thornton tells us it was darn good candy.

Another Marriage: We see by the papers that Frank Phipps, former football star for U. K., has swanned away with some gal from Paintsville. Good luck to you Frank, and much happiness to you both.

"Boutonnieres": Since a female is your scandalous this week she is throwing out boutonnieres instead of roses. So here's to Andy Anderson, who deserves not one, but many for his leadership on the campus. Not only does he lead his basketball team but an orchestra as well. Any one who has accomplished what he has and made as many friends en route has a right to act "superior" but Andy doesn't know the meaning of the word. Give 'em H... Andy. (Incidentally Richie says they went to Frankfort at 7 P. M. instead of 8.)

"Ho-hum, The Boy Back Home": Wonder what happened between Dot Babbit and a certain faculty member when Dot's true love from Louisville arrived on the campus? (P. S. Faculty members names cannot be mentioned in this column. It's a shame for Kelly the Kop says he knows plenty about this one.)

little boy, "Jesse" Whittinghill up on a date the other night. We just want you to know that you can't do that to our innocent infant cause he hurts awfully easy.

Hal Kemp: The local boys just don't have a chance with Pat Hall girls when Hal Kemp comes on the air. Joyce Wright, Betty Lou Holstein, Betty Menzies, Max Mitchell and Lois King have written in their requests to "Skinny" Ennis. Wonder if he'll answer in his cute southern brogue?

"Another Sweet Sixteen": Dot McCamish wants us to let all the boys know that she really has been kissed twice since she's been to college.

"The Three Little Witches": We would like to thank the three girls that sit upstairs in the Chi lodge and write out gossip as an addition to this column. If we had heard it straight they are Frances Masterson, Hunter Jeffries and Martha Melton. Why don't you come out for some clean air once in a while, girls?

I make a move that Louis "Sturp" Brock and Barbara Wiley find another place for their sickly love making besides Dunn's at the lunch hour. After all, us folks like to be in the company of our diners halfway if possible.

That's All: The column goes back to the gentleman of the press next week, with sympathy. (Didn't know what I was getting into.)

The Height of Inconsistency: Kate Smith singing, "I Feel Like a Feather in the Breeze." Al Johnson singing, "It's the Irish in Me." Cab Calloway playing, "Little White Lies." Lily Pons singing "Ding-Dong Daddy from Dummys." The Casa Loma band playing "Lieberstrohm." "The Unfinished Symphony" as the number one hit on the "Hit Parade."

communist manifesto: workers of the world unite! down with capital under recent by-laws of the seventh internationale we advance one step further in our program to sweep capital off the face of the earth! beginning with this manifesto all official communications will omit the use of the capital letter! workers of the world unite! comrade valadimir vladimirovitch

On Military

ROBERT G. SPROUL, President UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA

I wish to endorse the summary of Pamphlet No. 28 on "A Study of the Educational Value of Military Instruction in Universities and Colleges," published in 1932.

It is highly important that our young men, some place in their educational career, be exposed to the necessity of the rigid performance of tasks on time and with due respect to their relations to their fellow students and to their superiors. In no place in the university curriculum is this aspect observed so completely as in the courses in Military Science.

I also quite agree with the points emphasized in paragraph 4—that greater stress be placed on the principles rather than military technique.

Our experience here over the years has more and more convinced me that military training under the R. O. T. C. is a valuable asset to the university.

COLLEGE LIFE is a strain on the physique, with its endless demands on mind and body. Often, as a result, digestion suffers. Smoking Camels eases the strain of the busy whirl—promotes good digestion.

For Digestion's Sake—smoke Camels

Natural digestive action notably increased by smoking Camels

People in every walk of life get "keyed up"...live too hurriedly. The effects on digestion are known to all! In this connection, it is an interesting fact that smoking a Camel during or between meals tends to stimulate and promote digestion. Enjoy Camel's mildness... the feeling of well-being fostered by Camel's matchless blend of costlier tobaccos. Smoke Camels for digestion's sake!

IN BRITISH GUIANA—the LaVarres ford a river. "Camels make any meal digest easier," says William LaVarre. Mrs. LaVarre adds: "Camels help my digestion, in the jungle or dining at home."

GEORGE LOIT, tennis champion, knows how over-exertion strikes at digestion. He says: "I smoke a lot. Camels have a beneficial effect on digestion. They help me to enjoy what I eat and get more good out of it."

There has been much talk recently about the showing the Kentucky Wildcats have made against the stiff opposition they have encountered this season.

Many reasons can be given for some of the defeats they have suffered. Some fans would call them alibis, others would call them excuses, but call them what you may my opinion is that all defeats that are termed upsets can be traced directly to publicity.

A very interesting debate could be argued on the subject of "Athletes versus Publicity." When Coach Rupp and his associates planned the present Kentucky basketball schedule they made it with the idea that Kentucky would have one of their strongest teams in the history of the school. Therefore they made the toughest schedule that a Wildcat basketball team has ever faced.

At the start of the season, Rupp foresaw many defeats for his team. Why? Because he had one of the weakest teams since he has been coach here at this institution.

Probably the main reason for such a weak team was that Edwards, All-American center of last season failed to enter school this year. Edwards received much publicity for his work at the center post for the Wildcats. He was the leading scorer of the nation. He was just a sophomore, and he had made All-American honors. As a result he thought he could demand and receive anything he wanted, in the way of money, books, clothes, or even degrees from the University. He is now playing professional basketball.

Edwards' publicity came after he was in college. Many athletes receive almost as much publicity while they are in high school. After graduation they go to some college or university with the idea that they are important. They amount to something. Just look at them, they are so and so from such and such high school. Surely you've heard of them. In a few months, after they have had an opportunity to show their wares, the coaches and other players that are trying to amount to something begin to get disgusted with these "publicity hounds." Sometimes the coach will string along with them for a season or two until the player wakes up to the fact that he is just an ordinary athlete, and sometimes isn't that good.

Every college or university has this sort of athlete, even Kentucky. It might be against all ethics and principles to tear down a man's reputation when you can't do better yourself but it seems that something should be done about athletes that are receiving aid for work that they are not capable of doing.

CARLISLE, LEWIS, HAGAN HIGH SCORERS IN WIN OVER XAVIER

The Kentucky Wildcats extended their home floor winning streak to 37 games Tuesday night when they scored the superiority over the Xavier University Musketeers and scored a 49 to 40 triumph. The Wildcats entered the game Tuesday despite the fact that they had scored a 35 to 32 decision over the Muskies earlier in the season. The first half was a nip and tuck battle. Three minutes before the first half ended Xavier went into an 18 to 17 lead. During the remaining time Kentucky let loose a barrage of baskets and registered seven points to lead by 24 to 18 at the rest period.

Carlisle, clever coper from Lawrenceburg, signaled for full steam ahead Tuesday night and swished the nets for a total of 20 points, eight of which were scored on eight free throws made out of eight tried. Hagan and Lewis were hitting with consistency, also, and scored 11 points each.

Little Leo Sack, diminutive forward, and Russ Sweeney, clever guard, were the outstanding men for the Xavierians, scoring 10 and 11 points, respectively, besides playing an excellent floor game.

An incident, new to Kentucky fans, happened at the game, and the crowd voiced their disapproval in no uncertain terms. Coach Rupp thinking his team had a safe lead, removed his regulars late in the last half. Immediately after the reserves entered the fracas the Musketeers began a rally that brought them within a few points of the Kentucky score. Rupp sent his first five back into the game. They soon had amassed what again seemed to be a safe lead and were removed in favor of the second team. Again the Xavierians rallied and again the Kentucky regulars were injected into the melee. The third time they were removed they had piled up a lead that was too large for the Musketeers to overcome in the time that remained. When the Kentucky coach sent his veterans into the game the third time the disapproving fans howled their objections. The game was a rough and tumble affair from start to finish. Three Xavier players, Krouse, Sweeney, and Kucia, and one Kentucky player, Anderson, were ejected from the game for four personal fouls.

Russell "Duke" Ellington, star of Kentucky's football team and guard on the basketball squad, comes from the Falls City, Louisville... He is five feet, eleven inches tall, weighs 175 pounds and is 22 years old... a junior in the College of Education with a Physical Education major... He is a Great Deal Independent... Russ was chosen on two all-state teams in high school... football and basketball. "Duke" as he is known to everybody, stepped into the football shoes of Captain Joe Rupert, literally, of course, after Gene Bryant was lost because of injuries last fall... Ellington's performance in the Ohio State game earned him a regular spot in the Big Blue forward wall... giving Merle Wendt, Buckeye All-America wingman a great battle for the flanking honors... After "Duke" hung up his football togs a basketball uniform was tossed him and he is now completing his second year with the Kentucky court squad "Duke" thinks Fred chicken is the greatest discovery of all time... he is in seventh heaven with a leg of fried chicken in his left hand, a glass of beer in his right and the radio tuned in to Earl "F. Her" Hines and his orchestra... he also goes for blondes and crossword puzzles... one being as dizzy as the other.

A LIGHT SMOKE OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Luckies are less acid. One of the chief contributions of the Research Department in the development of A LIGHT SMOKE is the private Lucky Strike process, "IT'S TOASTED." This preheating process at higher temperatures consists of four main stages, which involve carefully controlled temperature gradations. Quantities of undesirable constituents are removed. In effect, then, this method of preheating at higher temperatures constitutes a completion or fulfillment of the curing and aging processes.
