Featuring Today —
Let's Have A Student Trip
To Great Lakes Bowl Dec. 6

After piddling around in football since 1921, Kentucky has finally cashed in on a post season contest. Kentucky followers have been talking bowl talk for years and hoping even when the outlook was all gloom.

Now the Wildcats are going to play in a bowl game, and all those loyal readers have a chance to see the Big Blue playing after the regular season closes.

In addition to numerous townspeople who would like to see the game and will get there some way, there are a lot of UK students who would like to be on hand to cheer for their team. So let's organize a student trip.

Before the war, there used to be a UK student football trip nearly every year. And with the proper supervision—even if it took the campus cop—should be able to swing a deal to go to Cleveland. SoKy is the pep organization, and it takes students to pep it up, so SoKy how about it?

And for this first post season appearance of the Wildcats, we certainly think the "Best Band in Dixie" should be on hand. We still have time to get things organized; let's all start pushing.

The Kentucky-Tennessee B-team game scheduled for today on Stall Field was cancelled by the University of Tennessee. The Vols listed at their reason, "not enough man power available." Maybe their B-team has taken over the varsity role.

Kentucky-West Virginia Feud There; Both Trying To Regain Win Column

By Dudley Saunders

Kentucky's Wildcats, anxious to regain their winning ways after faltering badly on two consecutive week-ends, tangle with West Virginia's Mountaineers tomorrow afternoon at Morgantown before what officials hope will be the first capacity crowd in the history of the 32,000 seat stadium.

In the Associated Press weekly poll the Cats dropped completely out of the list of the nation's twenty best teams. During three previous weeks they had jumped from twentieth to thirteenth place in the nation-wide poll.

During the past week's drills, however, it was obvious that the Wildcats of Kentucky were through stumbling and back on the victory trail where they belonged. The Cats left yesterday for Morgantown with team spirit reaching its highest peak in recent weeks.

Won Four, Lost Two
In six games this year the two-beaten Mountaineers have compiled 194 points against 55 for their opponents—more than twice as many as the Wildcats have scored in seven games. The hill boys rolled up lopsided scores against New York University, 40-0; Otterbein, 59-0; Washington and Lee, 21-0; and Waynesburg, 49-7, before losing to undefeated Penn State and Maryland on consecutive Saturdays.

Powerful Penn State had to come from behind to nip the Mountaineers 21-14, yet the Lions picked up 363 yards rushing compared to only 47 for West Virginia.

Last week the boys from the Coal State were favored against Maryland's highly-regarded Terrapins but apparently the underdogs did not live up to their name, for they ran circles around the Mountaineers winning 27-0. However, observers reported that the West Virginians turned in their worst performance of the season, so it would seem wise not to hold that defeat against them.

Maryland, by the way, was Paul Bryant's pre-Kentucky stomping ground.

From the few scattered reports received concerning Mountaineer strategy, it would seem that their chief forte is in taking advantage of the breaks and holding tenaciously whenever their goal is threatened.

Penn State scored first downs almost at will but the West Virginia team always stiffened when the chips were down and hurled the Lions right back on their heels.

Five Five-Year Men
West Virginia was the target for the statement recently that they were playing five men for their fifth season, four of whom regularly appear in the starting lineup. Morgantown officials did not deny the accusation and even replied that the five players were eligible by their standards. It has since been reported that four other West Virginia gridders may also be playing in their fifth season as Mountaineers. They are Ed Kulakowski, 210-pound left tackle and one of the mainstays of the Mountaineer forward wall, Gene Corum, 185-pound left guard, Leo Benjamin, 190-pound center, and Chet Spelock, 190-pound right end. The fifth man is reserve fullback Charley Schrader.

Maryland last week registered an informal complaint but played the game anyway, winning 27-0, so apparently Paul Bryant plans to follow that same line of attack. Earlier this week UK officials registered an informal complaint to the SNA, but stated they would play the game regardless.

West Virginia's backfield averages 190 pounds, about the same as Kentucky's, but their line is slightly smaller than the Wildcat forwards, averaging about 190 pounds. If Bryant starts his usual lineup against the Mountaineers tomorrow, the Wildcats may enjoy an all-around weight advantage for the first time this year.

All Opponent Team
At the close of the 1946 season the West Virginia squad named four Wildcats on their all-opponent team, three of whom—Don Phelps, Wash Bertini, and Leo Yarusis—will probably be in the starting lineup again tomorrow afternoon. The fourth man honored, all-SEC end Wallace Jones, is still on the sidelines following an appendectomy two weeks ago.

In eight previous Kentucky-West Virginia encounters, the Wildcats have won five and lost three, and tallied 119 points against 88 for the Mounties. The series was inaugurated "way back in 1905, but was quickly dropped after the Wildcats absorbed a 46-0 shellacking and it wasn't renewed until 1939, when the Cats were victorious 13-6. West Virginia took the 1940 scrap 9-7, but the Cats came back in 1941, winning 18-6. The Mountaineers won 7-0 in 1942 and the two teams did not meet again until 1944 when Kentucky won 40-9. Kentucky won again in 1945, 19-6, and made it three in a row last year by winning 13-0, in Bryant's debut with the Wildcats.

STICK O' TYPE

By Martha Evans

Hear ye, hear ye, all freshmen in general and unhappy pledges in particular. There are lots of things to learn when you come to college, but one that nobody ever takes the trouble to teach you, and one that your education won't be complete without is the Greek alphabet.

You say that's silly. Well, maybe so. Maybe, like me, you'll never be subservient enough to be a good pledge, then again, maybe you will. At any rate, it's nice to be able to tell at a glance what the cryptic emblem on people's windshields and notebooks mean. Not to know can get you in Dutch. Like the times I congratulated a loyal Beta Omicron on something the Grabba Grabs girls had done. He swelled up and got mad, and there I'd gone and insulted the BOs. Boy, did that raise a stink.

Well, anyway, here's a painless way to master the Greek letters which I learned from my favorite Greek scholar. Read on if ye would be educated!

- A — alpha
- B — beta
- Γ — gamma
- Δ — delta
- E — epsilon
- Z — zeta
- H — eta
- Θ — theta
- I — iota
- K — kappa
- Λ — lambda
- M — mu
- N — nu
- Ξ — xi
- Ο — omicron
- Π — pi
- Ρ — rho
- Σ — sigma
- Τ — tau
- Υ — upsilon
- Φ — phi
- Χ — chi
- Ψ — psi
- Ω — omega

First, you've got five letters just like the English alphabet. Don't let the appearance of the gamma and delta bother you; some lazy scribe just didn't know that curves are easier to look at than angles. The scholars pronounce them to rhyme with "mamma," but we don't.

Then we have three that rhyme. Go on say 'em. See if they don't.

Now here are five more just like the English alphabet. Don't let the absence of the "f" bother you—it's just a modified "t" that came along later.

This crazy thing came up through the floor at this point. You just gotta remember it separately.

Here are six in a row just like the English—only remember there isn't any "Q." Also, the "R" looks like a "P" and the "P" doesn't look like anything in particular.

Three more that rhyme. None of them look like anything you ever saw before, do they?

Last but not least, Omega was thrown in to make an even two dozen. Engineers and math majors will remember it as the symbol for the measure of resistance, so let's quit on it.

Now go ahead. Read 'em back to me without the script in five minutes. I did, and you're a lot smarter than I am.

30 Noe Readings Being Recorded In Radio Studios

Recordings of about 30 of Dr. J. T. C. (Cotton) Noe's readings of his own poems are being made in the University radio studios. Dr. Noe is poet laureate of Kentucky and professor emeritus in the College of Education.

The records will be put in the library office of the Bureau of Source Material in Higher Education.

Dr. Noe first gained national recognition as a poet while here with his characterization of a tobacco farmer. He said that teaching was his profession and that poetry was just a hobby. He has published seven volumes of verse.

D. and Mrs. Noe are living in Beverly Hills, Calif.

came at the hands of the powerful Army squad, 13-9, and Boston College eked out a mere 6-0 win.

On the other side of the ledger, the Wildcats from Pennsylvania have three credit marks and then one draw. They took their opener from King's Point 60-6, and then battled Holy Cross for a 13-6 win, and came out ahead 14-12 in an engagement with Detroit. The tie was a 7-7 affair with Miami, Fla.

Kentucky has five wins to offset its 13-9 setback last week at the hands of the Crimson Tide, and its early season, 14-7, jolt dished out by the Rebels. They are impressive victories over Georgia, 28-6, Vanderbilt, 14-0, Cincinnati, 20-0, Xavier, 20-7, and a close 7-6 win over Michigan State.

Alert And Stubborn

This year Coach Jordan Oliver has turned out a typical Villanova team. While they are a small school of only 1,000 enrollment, they always produce a good team that is stubborn and tight on defense, and alert and tricky on offense.

Kentucky has been guaranteed $30,000 for their part in the show plus an undisclosed percentage. The event is being sponsored by the Knights of Columbus to raise funds for an athletic program for Greater Cleveland youngsters.

The contract was signed for Kentucky in Cleveland last Monday by Bernie Shively, Athletic Director, and Rex Steinberg, Sports Publicity Director.

Though opportunity knocks but once the crowds may knock at several doors until Saturday night. At the stroke of twelve the males will once again don the role of the pursuer and the female must resort to her former devices of chasing discreetly (who's his).

PERSONALITIES

The New York City chapter of the American Artists Professional League, Inc. issued invitations last week to the public to witness demonstrations by some of America's great artists, the demonstrations to be held from Nov. 3 through Nov. 10 at the John Wanamaker Store in New York City.

Featured on Tuesday, Nov. 4, at two p.m. was the modeling of a bust of Dr. Neal Trimble McKee '03, by Frederic Allen Williams, well-known sculptor of people and western life. Dr. McKee is vice president of the Superheater Company of New York City and holds three degrees from the University of Kentucky. He is a native of Mt. Sterling, Ky.

The Louisville Alumni of the University of Kentucky are planning a general meeting for the night of Nov. 28, the hour and place to be announced later. Plans include a speaker from the campus and the showing of one of Kentucky's football game films, according to Mrs. J. M. Jackson, secretary of the club.

William Sturteel, '46, of Prestonsburg, James E. Hunt, '38, of Henderson, and Ray Rice, Ex. '24, of Harlan, were visitors in the Alumni Office last Saturday, preceding the Kentucky-Alabama football game.

Ewell W. Hatfield, '29, of Charleston, W. Va., called at the Alumni Office this week and took out a life membership in the Alumni Association. He plans to attend the Kentucky-West Virginia game at Morgantown this week-end.

Milford Noe, '30, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. Noe, were in Lexington this month and visited friends on the campus.

George P. Hillen, '32, of Louisville, who took an active part in the work of reorganizing the Louisville alumni last spring, visited the Alumni Office this week.

Alumni glimpsed at the Alabama game: L. G. Forquer, Ex. '21 and Mrs. Forquer, (Hallie Howard, '21) of Frankfort; T. Jere Beata, Ex. '22.

Bowl-Bound

Beat Bryant's Wildcats are bowl-bound! Announcement of the sign-up with the Cleveland Great Lakes bowl in which they will tangle with the Villanova Cats brought a sigh of relief and pleasure from all the campus considering possible bowl bids open to Kentucky's team this year.
 At least a week will separate the kickoff and examinations, so some of the eager will still have time to bounce up for exams after the jaunt to Cleveland. Most certainly there should be

Pen Friend Wanted
 Editor, the Kernel:
 I am a young Australian lad 17 years of age. I attend Sydney Technical College, where I am doing a Diploma course in Chemistry. I am keenly interested in America, and I was wondering if there was a student at your University who would like to write to me.
 You would do me a great favour if you would help me arrange such a pen-friendship.

Going To The Dogs
 Editor, the Kernel:
 In our opinion, all the dogs on the campus constitute a serious problem. Who feeds these dogs? Who cares for them? Where do these dogs come from? The editors of the Kernel should do something at once to remedy the situation. Is it their moral and spiritual duty as guardians of a free press?

Ad Sheet?
 Editor, the Kernel:
 An adequate coverage of meetings can be checked up in favor of the official weekly newspaper of the University of Kentucky, the Kentucky Kernel.
 Close observation of the latest issue, Oct. 4, 1947, makes this fact quite evident. There are nine stories on the front page based on news of meetings on the campus, or of meetings which are in some way connected with the University. However, I do know of a very important meeting which occurred on the campus this fall, and no news of it appeared in the Kernel. This does not mean that the meeting was not covered. It was and a story was written on it, but the story never appeared in the Kernel for the simple reason that advertising now commands more space in this paper than news.
 There are 22 announcements at meetings on the inside pages of the paper, but most of these pages are composed of advertising. Some of these meetings may not be ima fine representation of UK faculty members and students after the battle uphill which we have fought for a good team.

 On behalf of the student body, the Kernel extends its sincere congratulations to the team and its guides for a job well done and a team of which the institution can be justly proud. We'll fight for the blue and white and bring home the victory!

They tell us that the Halloween masquerades produced a novel winner. One bright masculine soul appeared in an outfit appropriately named "The New Look." It won for the most ridiculous, naturally.

To those who have generously contributed to the University Community Chest drive we say, "Thanks."

The November Student Government Association election campaign will be in full swing next week. It's your governing body, so familiarize yourself with the issues and have a reason for every vote you cast.

Some of the old guard are still shaking their heads in silent amazement. They never thought they'd see the day when students would be begging for tickets to go to convocation!

Gals, your chances are slipping away again! Sadie Hawkins week is here with its social reversals, and will end tomorrow night. It's an old Kaintuck tradition.

portant enough to rate follow-up stories. There will also be some meetings rating follow-up stories which will not appear in our paper, because there will not be room for them.
 The meetings and doings of college students are much more important to them than a half-page advertisement telling them to smoke Chesterfields because Bing Crosby says so. The only conclusion to be drawn is that the Kernel has adequate coverage of meetings under the existing circumstances. These circumstances seem to be that the paper should pay for itself at the expense of letting out news of important college activities.

A little girl got lost at the station, and her mother found her surrounded by a group of nuns. They promptly assured the mother that the child was all right. "In fact, she's having a wonderful time," one of the nuns confided. "She thinks we're penitents!"—Chaff.

Building new telephone lines for you takes well planned teamwork by these two »

Behind this giant plow train, burying a new transcontinental telephone cable, there's a story of typical teamwork by Western Electric in helping the Bell Telephone Companies to give you faster, even better service.
 As the supply member of the Bell Telephone team, Western Electric is producing the coaxial cable which can carry 1800 telephone messages at once—can transmit television network programs, too. Complex machinery—designed by Western Electric engineers—are turning out this cable mile after mile to keep the plow trains pushing forward on schedule.
 Ever since 1882, Western Electric has been an integral part of Bell Telephone service—helping to make it the world's best at the lowest possible cost.

The Spice Of Life

By Any Price and Helen Dorr
 Since this is Sadie Hawkins week, we have heard only one complaint from the girls. It seems that some of the men are taking the easy way out by going home for the weekend. Now is that fair?
 Becky Perry didn't waste any time when the week started. Cecil DeSpain accepted her ADPI pin Monday afternoon. And at least one Zeia, Bugs Barbee, is reported to be taking full advantage of this chance for girls' choice.

The newest and most exclusive club on campus is the Monday Afternoon Club. The first meeting was held in a ditch on Rose Street last Monday afternoon. The main requirement for membership is the drinking of a Bromo-Seltzer every morning. Sadie Hawkins is one of the charter members—that's how exclusive it is.

Constant Twosomes: Ellen Wood and Jack Chewning; Emery Flanders and Dick Mays; Roger Watts and Sara Beas.
 We predict: (and we hope this doesn't go the way of most of our predictions) that George Press and Audrey Kaman, who have been going steady for two months, will soon be married.

Fern Jacobs was expecting a big weekend last week. Her man from Louisville was supposed to come up but he didn't appear on the scene. There was a slight misunderstanding over the whole affair but it's all straightened out now.

Lost and Found: One hoopster; at the FJ Kap formal last weekend.
 Loner: Mary Annenwall.
 Ray Porter and Libby Collins have been a twosome but they are having a hard time right now.
 There were a lot of sad people late but I lost the car keys.

 One of the Jewell Hall girls had an embarrassing moment last Friday. She was all dressed to go to the ATO dinner dance (formal, of course) when her buzzer rang. Thinking it was her date she rushed down only to find that it was the boy she had a date with for Saturday's game. Maybe he believed in going on time for dates.
 What was Bill Gintermouth thinking of when he dropped that tray out of the inside window at Genry's Saturday night.

"I'll teach you to make love to my daughter!"
 "I wish you would, sir: I'm not doing so well by myself."
 Pinnings: Mary Helen Carter to Doc Savage.
 More Twosomes: Jean Kesler and Bob Preston; Trudy Clarey and David Beas.
 One of the main problems of the student body now is this—what to do to fill up the one to two hour wait after arriving at Stoll field and before the game starts. Some of us have solved the problem by playing bridge although it gets a little complicated at times. The other main amusement is watching the people come in.
 Line of the week: (from a science major) Why don't you come up and see my slides some day?
 Excuse of the week: I'm sorry I'm
