NET SQUADS ARE ALUMNI GUESTS

Lexington Club Gives Annual Dinner Honoring Varsity and Freshman Players and Coaches.

The Lexington Alumni Club of the University of Kentucky was host to the members of varsity and freshman basketball squads at a banquet at the Lafayette hotel in Lexington, Thursday evening, March 1. The affair was open to the public and was attended by more than 75 supporters of the Wildcat net squad. The meeting was presided over by Miss Marguerite McLaughlin, president of the Lexington Alumni Club and John Y. Brown, who was graduated from the College of Law of the University of Kentucky with the class of 1926, acted as toastmaster. All the members of the coaching staff of the University with their wives were guests of the Lexington club and Coaches Mauer, Canning and Potter were speakers on the program. S. A. "Daddy" Boles presented the varsity letters and freshman numerals to those who had won this honor during the season. During the course of the evening the varsity players retired and elected Paul McBrayer, varsity guard from Lawrenceburg, captain of the team for next season. The banquet in honor of the members of the two basketball squads is an annual event sponsored by the Lexington Alumni Club and one of the many activities of that organization. In the past the entertainment for the basketball men has been in the form of a luncheon but this year was changed to a dinner. This change was made in order to enable a great many supporters of the team to be present who were unable to attend an affair in the middle of the day. The dinner this year was by far the most successful affair to date and plans already are under way to repeat the event next year.

ASHLAND ALUMNI WILL FORM CLUB

Preliminary Plans Are Made at Meeting Attended by 30 Graduates and Former U. K. Students.

Graduates and former students of the University of Kentucky living in Ashland and Boyd county, Ky., have begun the organization of an alumni club. At an organization meeting held last Friday more than 30 interested alumni were present and complete plans were made to perfect the organization. At the organization meeting in Ashland, Raymond L. Kirk, secretary of the Alumni Association, was present and outlined plans and purposes for such an organization. Thomas Burchett, who was graduated from the College of Law of the University of Kentucky with the class of 1921, acted as temporary chairman of the alumni club and he appointed a committee of six members to hold in the near future. At this meeting the organization will be completed and officers elected and committee named to take care of the various activities of the club. Those who were named on the committee to arrange for the meeting are: J. Sneed Yager, 1924; Mrs. Arthur Bryson (Julietta Gaines), 1913; Mrs. Virgil Watson (Edna Lewis Wells, 1926); Alphonine Stewart, 1925; Paul K. Stewart, 1924, and Harry E. Tilton, 1924. Dr. G. Davis Buckner, president of the Alumni Association, has been invited to speak at the next meeting of the Ashland Alumni Club which will be in the forms of a banquet. The Ashland Alumni Club was formed several years ago but has been inactive for the past several years. There are approximately 100 graduates and former students of the University of Kentucky living in Ashland and vicinity and the newly reorganized club promises to be one of the most active in Kentucky. All alumni living in that section of the state will be invited to become members of the Ashland organization.

Dear Sirs:
Having just returned from my fishing camp in northern Ontario, and in the reflections upon a fortnight of most excellent weather, wonderful fishing and complete camp comfort, I feel that an appreciation of Edgeworth's is due, as one of the principal factors of our enjoyment.
In past years, I have taken along a supply of various well-known brands of smoking tobacco, never having become fully acquainted with the difference in the smoking qualities of the so-called high-grade tobaccos now upon the market, and acting upon a tip from an old smoker friend, and as a matter of convenience in packing this year I took along a dozen tins of Edgeworth Plug Slice.
There are no places nor conditions in existence where the contentment drawn from a briar pipe meets with keener enjoyment or more critical analysis than beside the camp-fire after a strenuous day in the great outdoors.
It is the unanimous opinion of the smokers among my party that Edgeworth is without a peer, and that its smoothness, fragrance and fine smoking qualities are unsurpassed and unmatched; and I thank you for making it possible to obtain it.
Yours truly,
(Signed) H. N. Curtiss

THE HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

The annual state high school basketball tournament is being held in the Men's gymnasium this week under the auspices of the University. The meet brings thirty-two of Kentucky's best teams to Lexington where the state championship will be decided Saturday night. On behalf of the University, The Kernel extends a cordial welcome to each team and to every individual player as well as the "rooters" who come to support their favorite team.

However vehemently some may deny it, athletic tournaments are valuable contributions to educational requisites. Contests of this type add to health and interest in school work. Furthermore, through people's willingness to support athletic contests, large sums of money pour into the coffers of education where it is used to promote learning. The fact that the Kernel has shown so much progress within a few years may be laid in part to the value of competitive sports.

Many of the boys and girls playing here this week will be influenced by their contact with the University and will enroll as students next fall. The Kernel, then, not only welcomes high school students, but future students of the University.

PRAISE FOR THE COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

"The visit of eleven representatives of large companies to the University of Kentucky to consider with students of the College of Engineering their future employment is highly significant.

"The men who were here, two from the Standard Oil Company of New York, three from the Standard Oil Company of New York, three from the Southern Bell Telephone Company, one from the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, one from the Westinghouse Electric Company, one from the Bell Laboratories and one from the York Heating and Ventilating Company, are men of high responsibility with their companies.

"The fact that they came to Kentucky to offer positions to these young engineers rather than have it necessary for the boys in June to go out, diplomas in hand, ringing unannounced at the door bells of the large companies, shows the recognition of great companies of the value of Kentucky boys. It reveals, further, that those who have gone from the College of Engineering of the University have made good.

"The College of Engineering is doing a wonderful work, as this incident very clearly shows. Furthermore, it is working with the best material in the world."—Lexington Herald.

SPRING IS HERE, BEWARE!

Spring is here. Anyhow, it has been during the past several days. And even this early, the student body is beginning to show the signs of lethargy which are characteristic of student bodies in springtime.

It is the most treacherous time of the year. The long winter grind, the zero weather, the monotonous months when the chief entertainment is "waiting for warmer weather" is ended and it is only natural for long-suffering mortals to "let down" after the winter hardships.

Spring ever has been a pleasant time for college students. The dark brown campus evolves into a flashing green land of beauty. The brilliant gold sunlight glints through the new leaves of the ancient trees, and the cool shadows dance in the warm wind to the music of the robin's wailing throat.

It is the time that college youth, more able to enjoy the pleasures of life than any other class, is prone to forget everything else but the flashing eyes it sees and the warm hands it clasps.

It is the time that everything grows inconsequential compared to the importance of attending the dance, to a motor ride in the moonlight, or to a date on the sorority front porch. Despite the pleasures spring affords, it brings unrest. It is a dangerous period.

After months of dashing from building to building in almost haste, to prevent extremely frigid sensations in our ears, we welcome the opportunity afforded by warm weather to stroll leisurely about the campus between classes. We are prone to be too leisurely, and consequently are tardy.

But the incidious evil of spring does not end there, for lethargy creeps into our blood and brain. We experience continual mental and physical fatigue. We prefer to stroll up to procure a soft drink, rather than listen to a lecture on some "ology." The preference is so great that we follow it. We cut classes. Our grades drop. And if we don't realize the seriousness of our spring fever and take steps to remedy it, we fink. So beware!

COLLEGE COMMENT

Co-eds at the University of Missouri must be in their houses by 12:15 on Friday and Saturday nights

A certain professor at Georgia Tech asserted that he always gave better grades to students who wear white shirts and good looking ties. This same professor sent one student out of the room recently commanding him to wear a coat instead of a sweater. The student returned dressed in a Tuxedo.

A gift of $8,500,000 has been placed at the disposal of the Northwestern University trustees to be used for an extensive building program, and the development of an outstanding faculty.

The University of Michigan spent $15,000 recently for a modern whirlwind ice planer to keep the skating rink for Michigan students in perfect condition.

The ink bill soared too high last year to suit the librarian at the University of Minnesota and now the students are warned to fill their fountain pens elsewhere than at the library. "Buy your own ink" is another motto hung up beside the proverbial library sign, "Silence Please."

A University of South Dakota freshman has a three passenger biplane which enabled him to do 70 miles to his home every week end and still be on time for his 8 o'clock Monday morning class.

There are no hours stated for evenings specified for dates for the co-eds at the University of Utah, and the girls are allowed to come and go at will. The plan was adopted to train self-reliance among the girl students and the official report that the female students get along comparatively well in scholarship.

Charles (Chuck) Bennett who played on the Indiana University football team when it visited Lexington in 1927, has been accepted for entrance to the United States Military Academy at West Point. ### HOMESICK

I have been too long in this strange place
Apart from the pounding breakers
And ships coming home from the sunset,
Apart from kindly eyes—
And the wild, sweet cry of seagulls.
Take me back to the brown, old wharves,
Warm in the morning sunlight,
Lonely, and clean, and happy.
Known by big, gentle fisherfolk.
Take me back to the toll and friendship
And the peace of an evening fireside.
Sad and weary am I
For the simple life of my fathers.

—MARJORIE GOULD.

SEA HUNGER

Gather me, at last, to thy merciful oblivion
Ocean of gulls and sunsets.
Let me forget the incredible years
I spent from thy side.
Years that do not really exist, I know,
Since thou alone art real.
Let me forget it all in the rushing oblivion
Of thine omnipotence.
Once I was a mermaid,
I, whom the gods have exiled.

—MARJORIE GOULD.

Music, Stage and Screen

(By Thomas L. Riley)

Thrills are in store for those seeing and hearing the two talking pictures that will open in Lexington's two leading cinema theaters Sunday. One is all-talking and the other has talking sequences. Needless to say, both have a large amount of that important ingredient and we can't say that the respective makeups. The outstanding theatrical event of next week will be the opening of "Glooms" Monday night at the Gaiety.

"The Bellamy Trial" at Strand Sunday

"The Bellamy Trial," one of the first talking pictures made by Metro Goldwyn-Mayer, will begin at the Strand theater Sunday for a four-day run. This is a picture that should draw as well the box office as "The Canary Murder Case" for both pictures' popularity is due to the widely read novels from which they were taken. "The Bellamy Trial" is said to be good entertainment and we can say that the cast, including such actresses as Beatrice Joy and Betty Bronson, and one of M-G-M's star directors could hardly do anything but turn out a good picture. Almost all of the action takes place in a courtroom with the story told by the various witnesses as they appear on the stand. As to the quality of M-G-M's talking pictures, we only have to refer to the sterling quality found in "Alias Jimmy Valentine" which was the first "talkie" of this producing organization.

"Stark Mad" at Kentucky Sunday
Warner Brothers have been turning out all-talking pictures with marked regularity in the past few months and "Stark Mad," which opens at the Kentucky theater Sunday, is their latest contribution. This picture has a cast that has proved itself, in its entirety in former "talkies." H. B. Warner and Louise Fazenda are co-featured and Claude Gillingwater, John Miljan, Jacqueline Logan and Henry B. Walthall are the supporting lights. We particularly like Mr. Miljan's work in "The Terror" and other talking pictures. The scene of this picture is laid in the jungles of Central America where an expedition sets out to capture a gorilla. There are a lot of thrills, some supposedly "heavy" drama, a great deal of comedy and general entertaining features offered in this presentation, according to advance reports.

The Ben All Sunday will also mark a change in the bill offered at the Ben All theater. The Seaman Players will continue on the stage in a new presentation and we can say that their offering will boast of "The Gate Crasher," a Universal picture, starring one of M-G-M's star comedians, Glenn Tryon. Remember him in "Lonesome"? You may depend on this picture giving you amusement with the story told by the various young fellows who are almost bound to laugh. It seems to us that the C-M-S bill at the Ben All will continue with the play set by precedence—entertainment.

UNIQUE CABINET BEING MADE AT WASHINGTON

Advanced students in manual arts department of Washington State College are constructing a Chinese Chippendale china cabinet, said by it maker to be the only one of its kind in the world.

Several students have spent an average of 12 hours a week for a year and a half on this masterpiece, and it still is far from completion, said S. C. Roberts, head of the department and supervisor of construction.

The original of the cabinet constructed by Thomas Chippendale for one of his royal patrons in 1750, was destroyed by fire in 1911. The only record remaining was a drawing of it published in his "Director" or catalog, in 1774.

Economic Changes in United States Is Forcing Wider Educational Training

NEW YORK—Economic forces which have appeared in the last quarter of a century have made a revision of the American educational system imperative. Dr. Alvin S. Johnson, director of the New York School of Social Research, of New York City, declared in a lecture just delivered at Teachers College, Columbia University, on "The Economic Background of American Education."

Lengthening the period of education and broadening the scope of curriculums were among the reforms suggested by Dr. Johnson, who summarized progress in education from colonial days to the present. "American industries are growing up to their markets," he said, "and further expansion involves intensified competition between methods and between industrial sections."

Tournament May Be Played Here in 1930

The probability that Lexington will sponsor the 1930 renewal of the annual southern conference basketball tournament is daily approaching the point of becoming a reality. The Board of Commerce, which will underwrite the meeting in case the conference officials decide on this city, has appointed a special committee to further investigation about bringing this great athletic event to the Blue Grass.

The greatest obstacle to prevent the journey from being brought to Lexington is the absence of a suitable gym. The conference rules provide that the games must be played on a neutral floor and this eliminates Kentucky's gym. However, a plan has been suggested whereby a shift can be made in the local floor just before the tournament begins and the Wildcats would have no advantage over the other teams. This plan is still under consideration.

Another solution to the problem would be the completion of Transylvania's new gym. Whether this difficulty will be done away with before the tournament time next year is very problematical. At a meeting on Monday, the following committee was appointed to meet with the directors of the Board of Commerce to continue work on this possibility: Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, University of Kentucky; Dr. Elmer G. Campbell, and Coach C. A. Webb, Transylvania.

This is the tale of the voracious Trainer Mann Who ate and ate till he had all he could stand Then pushing back his plate, he ordered up a steak And started eating all over again.

The tournament is history now, but innocent restaurant owners are still recalling the great battles which occurred there, not those between Kentucky and Georgia, or Washington-Lee and Ole Miss, but those of Trainer Mann is consummating all the boiled eggs his proteges, the Wildcats, under the stress of excitement left passively in their plates. Not since the days of the meat-loving Samuel Pops has there been such activity in the culinary department. Still, one might say the famous trainer, formerly employed by the Chicago White Sox, was justified in his now historic onslaught. For many years he has rubbed down Kentucky's athletes and sent them off to war. For years he's endured Johnny Coles and Sandy Nowacks and refrained from injuring them. For years he has handled inquisitive freshmen judiciously and informed each of them they should have a private trainer and told them he was busy right now. In short, Trainer Mann is one of the greatest assets on the Wildcat team. Always cheerful and jovial, always ready to "shoot the hot stuff" in the wrong place, no Kentucky athlete in training would ever feel like "carrying on" without him.

OF A BASKETBALL BANQUET AND ITS QUEER PROCEEDINGS

In the days of yore knights back from the wars gathered around the banquet table and interposed gulps of ale with rib tickling puns. A noble chieftain presided with a battle ax and did some head tapping if any of the boys usurped his regal privilege. Now Kentucky's warriors home from the Atlantan maneuvers have gathered about the meat prop to celebrate their success with due festivity, the alumni association being the benevolent and official hostess on the brilliant occasion. Young John Y. Brown, resting from the duties of a newly-wed, presided with an arduous, but with a refreshingly proper joke every time Coach Gamage or Potter tried to get funny. And the jovial balladeer and raconteur, the Scottish McBrayer, down from the highlands in all of his native kilts, responded to his election of the court captaincy with one of the most poetic and eloquent rejoinders in the history of talent.

DEVELOPMENTS ON THE DIAMOND

The confines of Stoll field on fine spring days include the sweating candidates for three major sports teams. A three ring circus lacking only a ringmaster. Entrance to the lot is denied everyone but the candidates. Peering from the gib iron gate at the end toward the gymnasium Coach Gamage is seen over in the right hand field haranguing his halfbacks, dashing hurriedly from group to group, shouting instructions, yelling at a ball carrier to run, to linemen to "remove the lead." Immediately to the front Coach Pat Devereaux, the jovial Irishman, is barking at his infield. Pitchers are warming up under the hot comments of garrulous catchers. A hot grounder climbs a short stop's leg. An irate fielder glares at a swelling thumb and a dropped ball as the grass is singed with his ejaculations. Way over between the stark white stadium walls Coach Bernie Shively silently contemplates while his runners warm up on the cinders. In a few moments they have finished and he starts them on their daily workout. Then come the jumpers, the vaulters, and the weight men. Here a demonstration, there a word of comment and the athletic life of the University struggles on. Next week the show is expanded. Ohio State joins the Wildcats for a week of mutual work on the diamond with intermittent games during the period of practice.

Alumni Criticize Football Teams

Abandon football or produce better eleven is the battle cry of 12 prominent Columbia alumni as expressed in an open letter to the Alumni News and the Columbia Spectator. Several panaceas were suggested to alleviate the physical and pecuniary difficulties attendant on athletics at Morningside Heights university. Chief among these were the selection of an athletic director and a campaign to impress students with the need for rigid athletic training.

In the same issue the Alumni News prints a condensed summary of suggestions made in reply to a questionnaire dealing in particular with the football situation at Columbia. The publication also revealed that an alumni trustee recently advocated the suspension of crew to reduce expenses. In commenting on this the News declares:

"If the alumni think that this possibility is an idle threat they are in for a rude awakening unless something happens to brighten the Columbia sports horizon before the end of the current academic year." Columbia's "Parity" in athletics is further asserted by the alumni, who claim that "we are so puritanical in athletics that we don't enjoy ourselves and we are so introspective that we have built up an inferiority complex which, some say, is one of the reasons why we win so infrequently in some sports."

'CATS WILL PLAY PRACTICE GAMES

By Laurence Shropshire

With the first rays of spring sunshine and the accompanying warm weather, Coach Pat Devereaux led his flock of ball hawks from the gymnasium on Tuesday afternoon for their initial out-of-doors workout of the 1929 season. The Wildcat outfit is being hurriedly whipped into condition in preparation for a series of two or three practice tilts with the Ohio State nine to be played in the local barnyard some time next week.

It has become an annual custom in recent years for the Buckeye club to spend some ten days or two weeks in the balmy southland where the players go through preliminary limbering up exercises of the early season. General weather conditions were so favorable for the two-game series between Kentucky and Ohio State early last year that officials of the northern school chose Lexington as their spring training camp.

The "foreigners," approximately 20 strong, will breeze into the Blue Grass sometime Monday. Two practice sessions a day at Stoll field will be on their menu, with the Wildcats served as a side-dish for the afternoon repast. Under the direction of a new coach, the Buckeyes have prospects of a powerful outfit this year. The team is built around several veterans, among them being Hindman, basketball star and able first-sacker, and Hess, flashy short-fielder.

The Wildcats greeted with a lusty shout their first opportunity to dig their spades in "terra firma." Prior to Tuesday, the soggy diamond had confined all ball and bat work to the gymnasium, but with the arrival of a few consecutive days of sunshine this was changed. Maury Crutcher and his "grounds committee" immediately got busy with their torsorial tools to manicure the park and massage the infield with a pleasing result.

The Kentucky battery men tomorrow complete their second week of preparation for a strenuous schedule. With no veteran receivers on his catching staff and a group of moundsmen, all of whom have had little or no experience Coach Devereaux has a difficult problem in developing batteries that can hold their own in fast company. Barnes, Ray, Augustus, and Gearheart, the former pair from the freshmen squad last year, comprise the present catching department.

Ray Rhoads, who spent most of his time in the outfield last season, gives some promise of becoming an effective hurler as does McBrayer, erstwhile basketball star. McFurray, freshman product, Covington, Dunigan, Cavood, Grider, and Gabbard are also working out on the mound. Conspicuous by their absence from the squad are left-hand hurlers.

All of the other baseball candidates held their first drill on Monday in the gym.

The next afternoon, under the critical eye of Coach Devereaux, the enthusiastic but yet embryonic Cobbs and Ruffs, stepped through their batting and fielding paces on Stoll field like thoroughbred two-year-olds on their first trip to the barrier. On Wednesday, the coach picked two teams at random from the roster and sent them into the ring for a practice game, but the engagement was curtailed by rain.

Early indications are that Kentucky should have an air-tight infield built around Captain "Baldy" Gibb at shortstop. Other inner defense men who broke into the primary lineup were Cole, Covington, Mauser, lettermen from last year; Kruger, Toth, Beard, and Sanders, from the fresh team, and Trieber, "Dutch" Layman is the only veteran gardener to return this year but he will get able assistance from Miller and Dunn as well as from a likely-looking group of freshmen last season, namely Kellogg, Trotter, Murphy, and Kelly. The squad numbers about 45 at present.

Tennis Candidates To Report Monday

Four Lettermen Will Form Nucleus for Squad; Plan Southern Trip

Candidates for the varsity tennis team will report Monday at the Men's gymnasium for preliminary workouts, according to Prof. H. H. Downing who is in charge of that sport.

There are several letter men from last season who can be counted on to make a good showing and they will be given plenty of competition for places on the squad by the members of last year's freshman team. Captain Hammersly, Regland, Caulkins, and Rogers are the eligible letter men and with Senf, Kee, Lussy and Brock will form one of the largest squads in recent years.

No definite schedule has been announced but it is professor Downing's intention to take his team on a trip during the Easter holidays. This itinerary will probably include matches with Alabama and Maryland.

The intra-mural basketball team rounded the half-way post last week and turned toward home with some hard-fought battles as a result. A full card was arranged for the first three nights of this week and the various organizations will rest until Monday when the schedule will be continued. An interesting program of four or five games is on the menu for every night next week with the exception of Saturday.

In an overtime contest played on Monday, the Alpha Sigs gave the championship aspirations of Sigma Alpha Epsilon a jolt with a meager one-point victory. The ultimate victors were trailing, 11 to 8, just before the end of the game, but Wieman tied it up with a long loop, and the defending champions were nosed out in the extra period.

This was probably the championship battle in Division I since the Alpha Sigs have an unblemished slate with five victories while the S. A. E.'s have dropped only one game in seven starts. The Alpha Sigs will attempt to continue their victorious march next Monday at the expense of Sigma Chi. In the second division, the Kappa Sig five is showing the way at present although competition is continually growing tougher. Triangle also presents a good team and has a chance of finishing in front at the end of the season.

Following close upon the heels of the high school journey is another series of athletic events that are of equal importance to University students. This round robin to be staged for the benefit of local sports fans is the annual intra-mural spring track which will take place one week, commencing tomorrow, Saturday, March 23.

All entries for this meet must be in the hands of Mr. Potter in the intra-mural office not later than noon next Friday. A few scattered individual entries have already been made and it is predicted that this year's renewal of the cinder events will draw the largest starting list in the history of inter-fraternity competition at Kentucky.

The early date for the meet and the new eligibility rules which permit all students in school with the exception of the four track lettermen to participate, have tended to work up more interest than ever before. This carnival will be gratis to the public. It will be held in the stadium.

Spring Football Is Still in Progress

With the coming of warm weather and sunshine the three-ring circus on Stoll field is going in full blast. Ringmaster Gamage is sharing his playground with the baseball and track squads but his cast of forty odd continue to occupy the center of the stage.

The close of the varsity basketball season has brought additions to the squad in Spicer, Bronston and Johnston, but Captain Covington and Trierer have exchanged cleats for spikes to try out for the varsity baseball team. The rest of the squad is intact with the exception of Williams and McElroy who are on the injured list.

Thorough drill in all the fundamentals with special attention to throwing and receiving passes and plenty of drill in an effort to perfect the execution of all plays is the lot of the entire squad, veterans and rookies alike.

Gamage has not announced any set time for spring practice to end but it is very likely that the next few weeks will find the moleskins packed away until next fall.

FORMER WILDCAT LAUDED AS COACH

John Heber's Blue Devils Are Victors in Regional Tournament Held at Georgetown.

A product of "Old Kentucky" and one of the brightest stars in her athletic history, John George Heber continues to draw praise from every section for the success he has achieved as a coach. The following lines were penned by Frank Hoover, sports editor of The Lexington Herald, last week after the Blue Devils had won the regional tournament eliminating such favorites as Covington and Georgetown on successive days.

The success of these fighting Blue Devils can be attributed to coaching — the coaching which John George Heber alone knows how to impart. This system — the bounce pass — is not unlike that used by the University of Kentucky Wildcats. In fact it is the only set-offensive system which this reporter has seen any high school basketball team use this season. The rank and file of Kentucky teams of 1929 have been dribbling and pivoting and taking haphazard whams at the basket. Some of these teams have been very successful with this type of basketball, as they possess sharp-shooting players who are in the habit of making enough shots good to pull the game out of the red.

The Devils have a "ducking" system which they use against the big boys. Naturally the little boys like Pike and Jackson and Feeback can't cope with the big giants in front of them. The only thing they can do is to duck and dribble, and in this game they have been unusually successful. Heber has taught the boys how to be smart, how to hold their balance when other teams are losing or have lost theirs. These are vital factors in the success of any system of basketball. You might say that Lexington out-smarted Georgetown to win the regional tournament.

Don't kid yourself into believing that the Blue Devils haven't a chance to carry on their winning efforts on the hardwood at the University of Kentucky this week. The law of averages may get St. Xavier and Ashland, just like it got Georgetown. We should have said the law of averages and a truly great Lexington High school Blue Devil team which possesses a truly great coach. Coach Heber attended the University for three years, engaging in football and baseball. He was captain of the grid team during his junior year.

"What's your room-mate like?"

DON'T MIND NOISE; IT'S AN INITIATION

Then, each house had one night of particular hell. Some of the neophytes even yet are scraping themselves twice daily, in fading hopes of someday removing all of the glue and molasses from their bodies. Clothes may hide a multitude of sins, but nothing else, but clothes could hide the multitude of black and blue spots that make the new fraternity men look like leopards.

Yes, verily, the hot sands of the desert, the red burning of the pit and the cold wastes of the Frozen North are as the gentle zephyrs of spring. They are a balm upon the body and salve upon the soul. They are as naught but pleasure. For there is a monster! Yes, verily, there is a great scourge! There is a Hell Week!

It is a phrase to make women scream and strong men to tremble.

Twenty-seven thousand students were enrolled at the University of Paris in 1928 against 17,000 in 1914, a net gain of 10,000.

RADIO STATION PLAN DISMISSED

Kentucky Progress Commission Will Not Establish Plant at University Due to Heavy Expense Involved.

The Kentucky Progress Commission has said today, for the present, proposed plans for the establishment of a radio broadcasting station at the University because of the expense that would be involved. Announcement to this effect was made Monday afternoon by C. Frank Dunn, executive secretary, after an all-day meeting of the commission.

The Progress Commission had considered the broadcasting station as a means of advertising Kentucky's resources and advantages, in addition to its monthly magazine, "The Kentucky Progress Commission Magazine," and the moving picture of Kentucky.

Agitation for such a station has been going on for three years, Dr. Wellington Patrick, director of the department of University extension, pointed out. The University was willing to furnish equipment valued at more than $5,000, but has not been able to finance the project alone. Dr. Patrick said that the matter would probably rest for a while.

"A number of educational institutions throughout the country are using radio for purposes of instruction, and for the dissemination of news to farmers and others throughout the state. It is primarily because of these things that the University has been interested," was Dr. Patrick's statement.

K. I. P. A. Adopts Conduct Rules for College Papers

The Kentucky Intercollegiate Press Association, of which The Kernel is a member, has adopted the following rules of conduct in the publication of the various Kentucky collegiate newspapers. The rules follow:

1. Each paper should be free from noticeable bias of any kind; there should be no emphasis upon any news because of school rivalry or other selfish and unworthy motives.
2. There should be no premature publication.
3. Each paper should strive to print only truthful news, and if untruthful, there should be a perfect readiness to retract and correct so far as possible.
4. Each paper should strive to maintain the particular characteristics of honesty, simplicity, conciseness and originality in its columns.
5. The business and editorial departments of each paper should be divorced to the extent that no line of paid reading matter will ever appear in the column of the paper, unless properly marked as advertising matter.
6. The advertising solicitors should make no misrepresentation of facts in order to secure contracts; and to safeguard the rights of the public, the guaranteed circulation should be placed on the editorial page of each issue.
7. Each paper should have a schedule of rates open to public inspection, and should a change of rates be contemplated all advertisers should be given notice at least 30 days before the change is effected.
8. All advertisements before publication must be checked by a responsible member of the advertising staff. And every effort should be made to prevent the publication of misleading and fraudulent advertising.
9. Each new administration of the separate papers should accept it as its duty to fulfill all contracts and reasonable agreements made by its predecessor.
10. Any paper which is a member of the K. I. P. A. can be expelled from membership in this organization for willful violations of its rules of conduct by one less than a unanimous vote of the members of the Ethics Committee.

FLOODLIGHTS INSTALLED IN FRONT OF MEN'S GYM

Four floodlights have been installed in front of the Men's gymnasium to provide ample light for the new exits which have just been built into the north side of the gym. They are an innovation which will greatly facilitate the basketball tournament officials in efficiently handling the large crowds which are expected at the tourney.

Research Chemist Is Heard Tuesday

Dr. Albert S. Richardson, research chemist of the Procter and Gamble Company, addressed the Lexington section of the American Chemical Society at a meeting held Tuesday in the lecture room at Kastle hall. He spoke upon the "Hydrogenation of Vegetable Oils."

His lecture treated in detail the development of the manufacturing of food fats, from the inception of the basic idea of the process, in the laboratory of the famous French scientist, Sabatier.

According to Dr. Richardson, "Sabatier was born in 1854, but it was during that period between 1879 and 1897 that most of his monumental work was done. A discovery by the scientist led to the granting of patents in Germany in 1902, for the process of transforming liquid unsaturated fats into solid saturated fats by means of hydrogen."

"Thus began the manufacture of food fats through the hydrogenation process discovered by the humble Frenchman in his laboratory."

DR. GALLOWAY HEARD

Pamphlet Compiled By President McVey

"Going to College" Covers Many Important Factors Worth Knowing.

A pamphlet on "Going to College" which contains valuable information concerning the University and its enterprises, has been sent out of the office of President Frank L. McVey to citizens in Lexington and central Kentucky.

The pamphlet was written, typed and illustrated in the president's office, after which it was sent to the printers where it was attractively bound.

The subject matter of this edition covers important factors which every student should know before entering college. Its contents include finance, selection of the institution, and the interest of the prospective student in a college life.

"Do you know," said the successful merchant, pompously, "that I began life as a barefoot boy?"

"Well," said the clerk, "I wasn't born with shoes on, either."

New Observatory Will Be Erected

Plans are being considered for the erection of a new observatory for the astronomy department of the University. No definite arrangements have been announced as to the exact location of the new building.

The observatory was constructed in 1902 on the grounds of the old experiment farm. According to the astronomy department it was never entirely satisfactory, but they hope to have the new one modern in all respects.

The observatory has not been used since last summer when the telescope was sent away to be repaired. The astronomy department was notified a few days ago by the people who are to repair it that they were ready to begin work on it. It is not expected that the work will be completed until sometime next summer.
