Shropshire, Papa Lead Cast In Guignol's 'Angel Street', Second 1944-45 Production

Ginocchio, Palmer, Rough To Play Associate Roles

"Angel Street," smash hit on Broadway and basis for the movie "Gashlight," will be the second Guignol production of the 1944-45 season. The cast will be headed by Susan Wallace Shropshire and Ed Papa, veterans of such Guignol successes as "Dark Eyes," "Candlelight," and "Accent on Youth." Betty Ann Ginocchio, Opal Palmer, and Edmund Rough will be featured in prominent roles with a supporting cast of proven theatrical talent.

Mystery Play
The play, a mystery, relates the story of the Manningsham of Angel Street. Under the guise of kindness, Mr. Manningsham is torturing his wife into insanity. He accuses her of petty thievery which Mr. Manningsham himself had arranged, and since her mother died of insanity, Mrs. Manningsham is convinced that she is losing her own mind.

However, a kindly police inspector visits Mrs. Manningsham and proves to her that her husband is attempting to drive her insane for financial reasons.

The game of trying to uncover the necessary evidence against Mr. Manningsham then begins.

Cast Selected
Characters are: Mrs. Manningsham—Ann Wallace Shropshire; Mr. Manningsham—Ed Papa; Nancy—Betty Ann Ginocchio; Elizabeth—the Play—Opal Palmer; and Detective Rough—Edmund Rough.

The play, which celebrated its fourth anniversary on Broadway last month, will open Monday, February 26, at the Little Theatre on Euclid avenue and will run for a week.

Monday night he had dinner in Patterson hall with the freshman women, and then he spoke to both resident and town women in Patterson hall.

Not Our Error!

By Mildred Long, Kernel News Editor

If you thought there was a convocation last Tuesday, and reported to the Grill at 10 a. m., don't think the Kernel staff for that lovely error—thank the downtown papers. The convocation had been previously announced by Dean Chamberlain, and knew that Norma Cousins was not to speak until February 6. However, we had a few bad moments for the convocation, and we are announcing in your classes, after the announcement in the Lexington paper that the convocation was postponed.

Had we made a mistake in omitting Cousins, it had been one of the important stories of the week? We called Dean Chamberlain. His secretary reported that she had been coming in all morning asking confirmation or denial of the convocation announcement. To our joy, we were right.

Board Amends Dance Ban Ordinance

SGA Represents UK Students With Petition

The ordinance banning dancing in Lexington at places selling food or beverages of any description was amended by the board of city commissioners, after a committee of six students from the Student Government Association appeared before the board Thursday night (January 24), and presented a petition from the student body of the University requesting that the ordinance be modified. As it is now, the ordinance prohibits dancing only in establishments selling alcoholic beverages.

50 Attendees
In the meeting attended by 50 persons including clergymen and members of various church organizations, President Bill Embury of SGA presented the student petition and said that the petition was from the students and that they were being asked to sign it as a matter of the University. Stating that the students were aware of the conditions of the ordinance, he stated that the petition pointed out the fact that if dancing were banned many young people might be prevented from attending an undesirable substitute amusement.

To Open Tuesday
The farmers' general session will open Tuesday morning with a discussion by Dr. W. D. Valleeau, of the University, on improved tobacco strains. He will be followed by President Dr. Embury, speaking on Kentucky in the reconstruction period. The other first-morning speaker will be H. E. Babcock, New York farmer and an authority on farm co-operative organizations.

Argument presented after clergymen and townspersons had been asked to sign the petition for the passing of the ordinance. Arguments were presented for both sides and William B. Martin, Lexington attorney, pointed out the fact that the ordinance had practically stopped all dancing in Lexington. City Clerk James Widmer read the ordinance and the delegation and the meeting then was recessed while the four commissioners who were present reached their decision for amendment.

Panel Discussion
Following an address by Dean Thomas P. Cooper of the University, the afternoon of January 31 will be devoted to a panel discussion of farm and rural problems.

96 Reservists, 44 AST's Ordered To Report To UK

Ninety-six new Reservists and forty-four AST's have been ordered to report to the University and are expected to arrive in the next few weeks, according to Capt. R. L. Sellers of the Military Department.

What Do 'They' Think of Kentucky

By Mary Louise Patton
Every state both suffers and benefits from the many misconceptions people may have of it. Kentucky has been and is one of the states about which a great many mistaken notions have been formed. Some of our current cartoons, books, and motion pictures have made the American public think we're either all hillbillies, refugees from "Dostepatch," and mountain feudists, or Kentucky colonels who raise race horses.

The extent of these ridiculous ideas can be clearly seen when out-of-state visitors to Kentucky are amazed to find that their carefully formed ideas of the state do not hold true.

Here, on the campus with so many soldiers and students from other states, we found many who had such ideas of Kentucky. On asking the question, "What were your impressions of Kentucky before you came here, and how did they compare with your present impression?" we received several interesting answers.

Question: What does the acceptance of a fraternity pin mean to you?

Bob Guffy, A.S., freshman: It means the girl is slicker than the pig.

Gene Orljen, A.S., senior: That you're in with THE BEY.

Charlie Jones, A.S., sophomore: I think it means that the couple should go steady.

June Rath, Com. freshman: It should mean the couple is engaged or going steady.

Mary Marrs Swineborn, A.S., sophomore: I think it means the couple has come to a mutual agreement.

Weldon Demunbran, A.S., freshman: I think it means the fellow doesn't give a darn about his fraternity.

Lib Crapsier, A.S., junior: That sometimes maybe they get married, if something drastic doesn't happen.

Margaret Cash, A.S., freshman: I think it should mean they're engaged.

Rock Rodas, A.S., junior: It means something if he is here, but if he isn't, it doesn't mean a darn thing.

Gene Marlowe, A.S., freshman: I think it should mean going steady, and eventually leading to engagement.

Franky Ardy, A.S., junior: Fraternity pins should not be collected for trinkets to wear on bracelets, by any means.

Mac McCreary, Ed, junior: Going steady, at all.

Pat Henshield, A.S., sophomore: I think it should mean the coed is damnable.

THE SALT SHAKER

This week's find is an entertaining booklet published by the Home Recreation Library, and entitled, "Test Your Personality." We tested our personality only to find that we haven't got one. But you may have one. Somebody has to have one!

What Goes On There...

By Doris Lee Robertson Dear Cote Girls in the dormitory at Radcliffe College keep their housemates well informed of how they fare on dates by using different colored inks in registering the time they come.

Now that the track races are closing season, it's a real problem for horses. There's always the cavalry, however.—Alabama

Along with an extensive staff and a score of people who offered themselves as human guinea pigs, Alabama has evolved the Lanthorn Method. The Lanthorn Method deals with the stopping of necking parties and is the only sure-fire way of ending them.

Yes, we razed the team last year. But Coach Rupp has been able to mold a good team two years in a row, which we must admit despite possible preference of another college.

Hope the "Cats" make it again this year and you can bet I'll be watching the Stars and Stripes. Maybe I'll get a chance to play basketball with them in a few years hence.

The "Other-dam" Dutch Alice was extremely angry because her little sister had eaten all her candy boxes.

Kentuckian Looks Forward To College Days Bkrs. 9 RAG 29-NATTC Memphis Editor of Kernel

Dear Editor: Last week I was very surprised and happy to receive your copy of the Kentucky Kernel, and I wanted you all to know how much it really meant to me.

I was sorry to hear about Marvin Akers being injured in France. The fellows who played together on our 42-43 basketball team are surely hitting it hard.

About a year ago I ran into a couple of fellow Sigma N's in Texas. Later on I ran into one in New York and I've seen others elsewhere. Also saw Charlie Kuhn, bombardier of E-29, several months ago.

Keep up the good work and one of these days we'll be back to take some of the burden from your shoulders. Sincerely, B. R. KIMBLE, SI '46 AOM

Why Get Even?

Naturally we were a little bit peeved about the reception the University of Tennessee gave the Wildcats when they played at Knoxville last week, and we can't agree with those who saw the game that it wasn't exactly a good sportsmanship attitude on the part of the hosts.

But there's a lot involved when the two teams begin to fight a bitter jealousy. The Tennessee Volunteers have been arch rivals in sports as far back as Kentucky's football and basketball history goes.

And there's a difference between fighting hard with the purpose of winning a fair competitive game and battling relentlessly with the sole idea of getting ahead even if it calls for foul play. Kentucky has never made a practice of anything but a fair, clean game and even now with a bitterness newly stirred up against an old rival her reputation as a "squaresooter" can stand out all the more.

The feeling now is to keep the fur flying and "get even" when Kentucky plays host to the Vols in February. If this is a result of the years and years of friendly rivalry between the two outstanding teams competition will eventually have to be cut off entirely.

But there is one way to get even and will maintain the good-sportsmanship feeling and that is to support the "Big Blue" in the same traditional manner, keeping the rival team in the position in which they rightly belong—just another team to beat. To "get even" by force is merely a means to an end; to "get even" by fair competition puts the "Cats back up on top" and shows good feeling besides.

write, and if he had ever attended school. The letter was addressed in care of the University of Kentucky. Apparently our government has little respect for higher education.

The most dangerous group of individuals in the University is a small, little misanthropic group, known as the feature writing friends. They are usually sent to one down, find out if your grandfathers was a horse thief or not, what you eat for breakfast, or how many times you have been married.

If you are thoughtless enough to sneeze in their presence, they ask you how many sneezes per second all over the world, all for the sake of writing a feature. One girl sat in a pocket of a pool table for two days just so she could write a feature on herself. They will stop at nothing.

As usual, we are all going wild over the prospect of 150 new ASTP men coming to the campus. Eighty of these men are "RP's" but 60 of them are those delightful "TP's" which will suit some senior girls just fine.

A new arrival on the campus is Mrs. Ballard Luxon, former S.A.E. house mother. For the last three months she has been house mother at a Chi Omega sorority house at Texas University at Austin, Mrs. Luxon is now in charge of the information desk at the student union.

I am strongly in favor of these girls' fraternity house dinners. The girls who occupied fraternity houses last year don't get together often enough. Let's have more dinners and it might not be a bad idea for the fraternity boys to meet with them. After all the two groups do have something in common.

Our biggest disappointment this week was when we discovered that the Athletic department had not reserved a UK student section at the Notre Dame game in Louisville. No more seats are available because Notre Dame reserved a section for its students and the rest were bought by outsiders. It is our "home" game but I suppose a lot of UK students will have to be content with a radio version of the game.

Don't forget to get your valentines in the mail for the boys overseas. We read an article about the shortage of the lace paper "sugar notes" but after glancing over the supply we find plenty with that old sentimental flavor.

A professor was taking a trip on a train but couldn't find his ticket when the conductor came around. The conductor told him to look for it and he'd come back. The professor looked for the ticket in vain and was still searching for it among his luggage when the conductor came through again. "I hate to make you buy another ticket, but you understand the railroad's rules," he explained. The professor looked up and said "I don't mind paying for the ticket, but how will I know where I'm going?"

Measuring Up!

At last there has been a successful attempt to organize some intercollegiate games for the girls on the campus. Competitions are always good for girls as most of the date competitors are rather rationed in war time. In W.A.A. there are some skirt clads that would make Crona blush.

If any of you men want to see some games that are as amusing as a "Bugs Bunny," or as confused as your latest chemistry quiz, drop around for some of the regularly scheduled games at the women's gym. The object of the game is to kill off as many of the members of the opposing team as possible.

An interesting letter was received by Tommy Gish the other day, which was usually sent to one of your grandfathers was a horse thief or not, what you eat for breakfast, or how many times you have been married.

I'm just marking time till he gets home." Mrs. Moore (you know her as "Becky Brewer"), recipient of an Iron cigarette and a tin of "Jewell" gold-rodade satin and white satin, and a leather bag, is envied most for the star sapphire and six small stones—all a part of a Christmas package from overseas... Wildcats Bow To Volunteers In Topsy-Turvy 35-34 Game For The Season's Only Deficit

Tingle, Campbell, Stough, Pace 'Cats Against Rivals

The Wildcats' string of 11 straight victories was broken and their hopes of an undefeated season were smashed Saturday by the Tennessee Volunteers in a 35-34 defeat in Knoxville.

Kentucky grabbed an early lead and remained ahead during the entire first quarter although the Vols managed to tie the score 3-3 at one time. After five minutes of play the Wildcats had doubled the score, 10-5; then Tennessee put together a group of free throws to cut Kentucky's margin to three points, 15-13 at the intermission.

Midway in the second half, Paul Walker sank a crisp to put the Vols ahead 21-20 and after that UK could not manage to gain any edge for victory during the rest of the contest. Two field goals by Jack Tingle and another by Jack Parkinson cut the Vols lead to one point, two minutes before the end of the game after Tennessee had held a 35-28 advantage.

Three minutes elapsed before Tingle's goal opened the scoring and then Parkinson and "Dutch" Campbell settled down to turn on the heat as the Cats quickly picked up a 10-5 margin.

Shooting Wildly The game closed with Kentucky shooting wildly from every angle, and with every shot went a prayer to overcome the one-point deficit. Missing the basket from far out seemed to spell out the forthcoming disaster as the Wildcats almost would rim the basket and then skim off the "Cats' defense was almost airtight in the first period as they kept the opposition from scoring beyond the foul circle. But in the second frame they had better luck as they consistently hit the mark and whittled away the Wildcats' early lead.

A flare up of tempers under the basket after a pile up caused many of the 3,000 spectators to empty out onto the floor. The police quickly restored order. This contest was the bitterest for both teams.

Five minutes from the end of the game the Vols held a 35-28 lead, but Tingle turned loose two long ones while Parkinson sandwiched in a one-handed beauty to draw within one point of a tie. Tennessee tried to freeze the ball but UK got one more try, only to fall as the game-ending whistle blew.

Committed For Play Johnny Stough and Campbell were commended for their excellent play with Tingle racking up 13 points as high point man of the game. Ivy Barnett paced along second with 11 tallies. Walter and Kemper turned in the best aggressive performance for the Vols' quintet. The win was Tennessee's third against Southwestern Conference competition and the ninth-victory in ten games, losing only to Temple, a team Kentucky defeated.

Vet Club Holds Dinner Meeting At Lafayette

Maurice Harris, veteran of the North African campaign, addressed the members of the newly formed Veterans' club of the University at a dinner meeting Monday night at the Lafayette hotel.

With a membership of 40 honorably discharged veterans now attending the University, the club was formed in November by 22 charter members.

In discussing the many problems of returning servicemen, on college and university campuses in the country, Mr. Harris, who is himself a student in the University College of Law, stated that one of the foremost difficulties of the veteran is in deciding the academic course which he should follow.

Another problem, Mr. Harris continued, is the large differentiation between the younger groups on the campus and the veterans. The speaker asserted that the veteran students must bridge this gap themselves by joining in many extracurricular activities.

The speaker warned the club members that they should refrain from mentioning their advantage of financial assistance from the United States government, and to assume the proper attitude toward other students on the campus, who are not veterans.

'The Lowe-Down'

'Backward, turn backward, time in thy flight' and let's take a look at this ancient rivalry between Kentucky and Tennessee. It all began over 49 years ago when the Wildcats defeated the Vols on the gridiron and since then has grown into constant clash any time the two teams meet in a sports brawl.

'Rudy's Report' in the Courier-Journal told of the insults our players were forced to swallow because of the mere fact that they were far outnumbered. 'We'll get the game back and with points to spare when we meet them again on February 17 at Lexington' the entire team promised.

There was so much noise from the stands that the timer's buzzer was unheard when a Tennessee goal was counted by the referee. Midway in the second period a Tennessee player grabbed Parkinson by the neck and was 'twisting it off' when a Kentucky player intervened.

Big George Vulich later challenged those who thought they were better than his part of the Kentucky team.

There is feeling running through the campus for stiff retaliation when the Vols play a return engagement in Lexington, but if you look back through the University records we have never been discourteous to an opponent.

I think the best dose of medicine for Tennessee would be to give them the well-known cold shoulder, defeat them on the basketball floor and watch them go back to Knoxville dragging their tails between their legs in a manner that should become them.

When we defeat Tennessee by the fair method we can be sure that WE will act like ladies and gentlemen.

'Cats Trim Georgia Tech 64-58 In See-Saw Battle

Score Tied Seven Times A last minute scoring spree turned see-saw battle into a six-point victory for the Kentucky Wildcats as they defeated a stronger than expected Georgia Tech quintet 64-58 in Atlanta Monday night.

In the 15 seasons that Coach Rupp has been coaching Kentucky teams, last night's game was the 13th time out of 14 tries that the Wildcats have come home victorious from Georgia. Seven times the score was tied as both teams fought doggedly to overcome the other, but Kentucky held a 40-32 lead at the half.

Summary table with columns: Kentucky (64), FG, FT, TP. Lists players like Tingle, Schin, Campbell, etc.

Goal for goal seemed to be the slogan for both teams as the score was tied at 12-11 and 16-16. Then Tech gained a slight margin only to have the 'Cats tie it up again at 24-24 and 28-28. At this point Tingle snatched the ball from DuRand Holladay at the mid-floor stripe and raced unopposed to the basket to untie the score.
