

Should UK Have A Med School?

One of the most talked about problems confronting the people of Kentucky is whether the state should have another medical school.

Many people throughout the state have expressed a need for another medical school. Others have bitterly opposed the idea as the state of Kentucky already has a top-rated school as the University of Louisville.

Since the University of Kentucky is the logical choice for the second medical school, we asked several students how they felt about UK getting a new medical school. Here are their opinions:

Tom Wilborn, graduate student and 1952 managing editor of the Kernel — "I don't know whether our state should have a medical school or not, but if establishing one here would mean the other colleges of this university would get less money, I would be against it. If our state has another med-school, I would definitely favor it being here at UK."

Barbara Roberts, Arts and Science Junior — "A new med-school sounds like a good idea, but Kentucky seems to have trouble getting money for anything. Keeping doctors in the state is our main problem since a lot of the doctors go to cities instead of remaining in rural areas where they are needed."

Jim Hamilton, sophomore in Agriculture — "I would favor a new med-school in Kentucky, especially here at UK, because I believe it would improve our state university."

Della Holbrook, UK last semester and now working in the Campus Book Store — "What little I know about it I would favor a second medical school. Definitely it should be located at UK. The doctors I have talked with favor it because it would help small towns and rural areas where only two doctors exist for every 3 or 4,000 people."

Jim York, a senior in Engineering — "The state of Kentucky could support a second medical school if it is a state supported school since U. of L. is municipally supported. A good medical school never hurt anybody, and I hope UK gets the med-school. It might improve services at the infirmary."

Jim Baughman, Arts and Sciences freshman — "If we are going to have two medical schools in Kentucky, the new one should be here at UK. Why? Because the University of Louisville is hard to get in for UK graduates since it is prejudiced against them. A higher percentage of other school graduates get first preference over UK grads."

Fraternities Set Record For Fall Scholarship

UK fraternities made an overall scholastic average of 2.35 for first semester. This is the best record fraternities have made in the fall semester since the present scholarship system has been in effect, Dean of Men Leslie Martin said.

Dean Martin went on to say "grade point averages usually drop off the fall semester because of the large percentage of new freshmen who are pledges during the fall term."

Only two fraternities failed to earn the all men's average of 2.20 and all fraternities made better than a "C" average.

Triangle led all fraternities in scholarship with their 2.65 average. Other fraternities who made better than the all fraternity average of 2.35 were Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 2.59; Delta Tau Delta 2.56; Farmhouse 2.54; Delta Chi 2.53; Tau Kappa Epsilon 2.47; Alpha Gamma Rho 2.39; Phi Delta Theta 2.38; Lambda Chi Alpha 2.37; and Zeta Beta Tau 2.35.

Fraternities who made better than the all men's average but fell below the all fraternity average were Sigma Phi Epsilon 2.32; Kappa Sigma 2.24; Alpha Sigma Phi 2.28; Phi Sigma Kappa 2.23; Pi Kappa Alpha 2.22; Phi Kappa Tau 2.22; Kappa Alpha 2.21; and Sigma Chi 2.2.

Only two fraternities fell below the all men's average of 2.2 and will be on social probation this semester. They are Sigma Nu 2.08 and Alpha Tau Omega 2.03.

The fall semester all fraternity pledge average was 2.06. Tau Kappa Epsilon pledges made the highest standing with a 2.53. They were followed by Triangle and Alpha Gamma Rho pledges who made 2.46 standings.

Historian To Speak In Blazer Series

"Woodrow Wilson, A Century View" will be the subject of a Blazer Lecture Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Guignol Theatre. Dr. Dwight Lowell Dumond, professor of history at the University of Michigan, will be the speaker.

Dr. Dumond is recognized as an authority in the field of history. He has been a member of the Department of History at Ohio Wesleyan University and was a Commonwealth Lecturer at the University of London, 1938-39. He is a former president of the Mississippi Valley Historical Association and was for five years chairman of the executive committee of that association.

He is the author of "The Secession Movement, 1860-1861," "Roosevelt to Roosevelt," "Anti-Slavery Origins of the Civil War in the United States," and "A History of the United States." He has also edited "Southern Editorials on Secession," "America in Our Time," "The Letters of James G. Birney," and others.

The lecture is brought to UK by funds made available by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Blazer, Ashland.

UK Debaters Compete In Two Tourneys

Kentucky debaters entered two tournaments this week, one at the University of Notre Dame yesterday, and one at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., today.

The West Point Regional Tournament in Atlanta is under the sponsorship of West Point Military Academy. The United States is divided into eight districts and the schools with the best records are invited to attend. Kentucky was one of 10 in the 200-odd schools in

Prints Stolen From Gallery

By PHILIP McINTOSH

Five prints have been stolen from an exhibition in the Art Gallery of the Fine Arts Building. The prints, part of a group of 32 prints from the graphic arts studio of the University of Illinois, were the work of five students at that university.

A UK student noticed the prints were gone the afternoon of Friday, Feb. 24.

New Pharmacy School Site

The cleared area directly behind the Funkhouser Biological Science building is not the site of a new football practice field or an ice skating rink. Neither is it to be a parking lot or the site for an experimental elevator shaft. And contrary to a recent rumor, a monument honoring the founder of Stylus will not be erected here. If all goes well, the new pharmacy school will find itself located here in the near future.

Two Accused In Commode Explosion

Dean of Men Leslie L. Martin has sworn out warrants against two UK freshmen for the January explosion of a commode in Bradley Hall.

Both boys, Charles Neil Huffman, Louisville; and William Robinson, Louisville, were arrested March 1, in a raid on the men's dorms to break up a dope and theft ring.

Huffman was booked by police for the explosion earlier this week and Robinson will be served with the warrant today when he appears for a hearing in police court on the charge of grand larceny.

Robinson was accused in the theft of electrical appliances from a Kentucky Utilities Company display at the Phoenix Hotel. Huffman, after the raid, was charged with the possession of barbiturates.

Martin said evidence connecting Huffman and Robinson with the Bradley Hall explosion had been revealed in investigation following the raid. The dean further stated that as far as he and other University officials know, the investigation of the other two explosions is still going on.

Harper, Bird, Rochelle, Sigler, Widseth Picked

Two Jerrys—Harper and Bird, were unanimous choices for The Kernel's 1956 All-SEC Basketball Team.

Al Rochelle of Vanderbilt, Roger Sigler, LSU, and Tennessee's Carl Widseth round out the top five. Three members are Kentuckians.

An All-Conference selection his entire four years at Alabama, Harper has been called the most improved center in the SEC. Standing 6-8, the Louisville product weighs 215 pounds. He played prep school ball at Flaget.

A tremendous rebounder, Harper averaged over 22 points a game in his final season of collegiate play.

In position number two is Kentucky's Jerry Bird.

Figured to be not only one of the best cage performers in the South, Bird is the leader when it comes to strict team play. There has seldom been a more unselfish athlete on the basketball floor.

Also a demon on the backboards, Bird netted a 16.2 average this season. He moves with uncanny speed for a big man (6-6) and handles the basketball like a play-making guard. The Corbin senior was voted UK's most valuable player in a tie with teammate Bob Burrow.

Vanderbilt supplies the team's smallest member, Al Rochelle, who just tips 6-0.

He averaged 18 points a game and is rated the finest play-maker in Vanderbilt history. Offense though, is his second concentration. The junior guard has defensive knack that few cagers can boast of. Al is majoring in business administration. He is from Guthrie, Ky.

Roger Sigler takes honors in being the highest point-maker of the All-Star team. With a 25 plus scoring punch this year, Sigler was halted only when an injury forced him to miss the last four games on LSU's schedule. He stands 6-4 and in 10 SEC games he threw in 271 points for a 27.1 average.

Tennessee's center and captain, Carl Widseth, completes the Kernel dream team. Exceptional spring in his legs overcomes a height deficiency he faces as pivot man. A 22 point a contest man, he fakes with lightning speed drawing numerous fouls during play. He was an All-SEC player last year. His home is Davenport, Iowa.

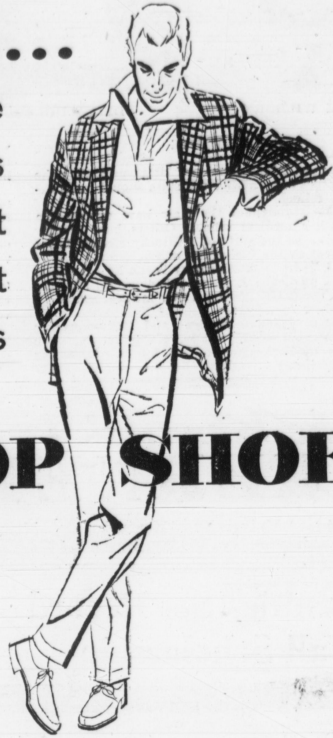

Letter-certificates were sent to the players with this paragraph: "Performers such as you have brought the name Southeastern Conference to the peak in American basketball. You are honored, though, not only for possessing exceptional athletic ability, but also for demonstrating the maximum of leadership found only in a champion."

Stidham serves as an assistant at the local YMCA and will be assistant Boy's Work Secretary and direct the YMCA Day Camp this summer.

Miss Beard, an elementary education major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Beard, 159 Burnett Ave., Lexington.

She was a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, honorary freshman scholarship sorority, and is at present secretary of the Pitkin Club, president of the Dutch Lunch Club, vice-president of Westminster Fellowship. HUSBANDS, ANYONE?

It has been alleged that coeds go to college for the sole purpose of finding husbands. This is, of course, an infamous canard, and I give fair warning that small and spongy as I am, anybody who ever says such a dastardly thing when I am around had better be prepared for a sound hiding!

Girls go to college for precisely the same reasons as men do: to broaden their horizons, to lengthen their vistas, to drink at the fount of wisdom, to trail their fingers in the main currents of American thought. But if, by chance, while a girl is engaged in these lofty pursuits, a likely looking husband should pop into view, why, what's wrong with that? Eh? What's wrong with that?

The question now arises, what should a girl look for in a husband? A great deal has been written on this subject. Some say character is most important, some say background, some say appearance, some say education. All are wrong.

The most important thing — bar none — in a husband is health. Though he be handsome as Apollo and rich as Captain McCutchen, what good is he if he just lays around all day accumulating bedsores?

The very first thing to do upon meeting a man is to make sure that he is sound of wind and limb. Before he has a chance to beguile you with his wit and charm, slap a thermometer in his mouth, roll back his eyelids, yank out his tongue, palpate his thorax, rap his patella, ask him to straighten out a horseshoe with his teeth. If he fails to pass these few basic tests, phone for an ambulance and go on to the next prospect.

If, however, he turns out to be physically fit, proceed to the second most important requirement in a husband. I refer to a sense of humor.

A man who can't take a joke is a man to be shunned. There are several simple tests to find out whether your prospect can take a joke or not. You can, for example, slash his tires. Or burn his "Mad" comics. Or steal his switchblade. Or turn loose his pet raccoon. Or shave his head.

After each of these merry pranks, laugh gaily and shout "April Fool!" If he replies, "But this is November 28," or something equally churlish, cross him off your list and thank your lucky stars you found out in time.

But if he laughs silverly and calls you "Little minx!" then put him to the next test: Find out whether he is gentle.

The easiest, quickest way to ascertain his gentleness is, of course, to look at the cigarette he smokes. Is it mild? Is it clement? Is it humane? Is it balm to the palate? Does it minister tenderly to the taste-buds? Does it coddle the nerve-ends? Is it the perfect accompaniment to today's easier, breezier living? Is it genial? Is it bright and friendly and full of dulcet pleasure from cock-crow till the heart of darkness?

Is it, in short, Philip Morris?

If Philip Morris it be, then clasp the man to your bosom with hoops of steel, for you may be sure that he is gentle as a summer breeze, gentle as a mother's kiss, gentle to his very marrow.

And now, having found a man who is gentle and healthy and blessed with a sense of humor, only one thing remains: namely, to make sure he will always earn a handsome living. That, fortunately, is very simple. Just enroll him in Engineering.

120 ON THE ESPLANADE

Organized Crime

Last week an organized crime ring was uncovered at the University of Kentucky. Five freshmen were arrested and charged with the sale of narcotics, grand larceny, and willful destruction of property.

The coordinated action of the University and city and federal authorities apparently squelched the immediate problem, but the situation has deeper implications.

Occasionally a student will get into serious trouble while at the University, but never before has a group entered UK with the deliberate intention of planning and committing major crimes.

Dean of Men Leslie L. Martin said the five youths considered the University a sanctuary. They logically believed that no one would expect to find criminals and serious crime among college students. They boasted to a federal narcotics undercover agent that they came to college to become "bigtime gangsters". The boys reasoned that the best police officers were college trained, so to compete with them they also had attend college.

Now that the original shock has ebbed away, the Administration must decide if the incident was isolated or whether it will be a recurring problem.

Dean Martin fears the outbreak forecasts future trouble. The Dean said the economic level of the country has risen so much that a new class of people now have the opportunity to attend college. In the long run it is a good trend, but it also means more trouble for colleges.

This lower socio-economic group is the spawning ground for teen-age wolf packs. UK's experience proves that these gangs carry over into college and adult life. They are particularly prevalent in metropolitan slum areas. Four of the boys arrested last week are from Louisville.

Perhaps the gangs are the natural outgrowth of the Second World War and the Korean War. Most of these boys have had little or no home life. Their fathers were in service and their mothers were working. The boys were left to roam the streets. Because they had no early discipline the boys have a deep-seated resentment of authority. The relatively light discipline wielded by the University had no effect on these boys. They considered University officials stupid and weak.

Dean Martin said that juvenile delinquency has not increased in recent years. However, he believes that juveniles are committing more serious crimes today. Sociologists haven't decided what the underlying causes are. Perhaps comics, movies, TV, and newspapers all twist children's thinking.

The boys arrested last week were capable of committing any crime. In a sense they were more dangerous than adult criminals because they lacked self-control.

The University must consider several important facts before they draw up a program to curb future outbreaks of delinquency.

First they must discard the old adage that trouble-makers will flunk out of school within a year. None of the boys were on academic probation. One of them had high grades in physics, chemistry, and math.

Secondly, the Administration must back the high school idea of loyalty to classmates. Several students knew more than they told the authorities.

Finally, the University is a state school and must admit almost any Kentuckian who has a high school diploma. This prohibits the kind of screening that would eliminate most potential troublemakers.

The University is deeply concerned because impressionable, but relatively well-behaved boys were infected by the attitude of the young hoodlums arrested last week. At least one boy had never been in trouble before he came to the University.

The University will undoubtedly announce a change in policy. At present Dean Martin is drawing up a list of recommendations to submit to President Donovan who will in turn give them to the Board of Trustees.

Cheerleaders

The selection of UK cheerleaders poses an annual problem. Like the weather, a lot of people complain about the situation, but nobody does anything about it.

Suky's president this week said that the organization is open to and hoping for suggestions. The present method is not so stringent that it could not be changed. But though the complaints come yearly, no one seems to offer a "better way."

Actually, the method of picking cheerleaders has been different, in one form or another, year after year. Last year, the cheerleaders were all assigned practice for a week.

The practice sessions were deemed only fair as "old" cheerleaders—who have had actual experience at UK—must also try out for re-nomination along with the new-comers. The practice was to give all concerned an equal chance.

Following the practice sessions, a group of judges picked finalists, who were then selected by applause from the student body.

Two years ago the UK cheerleaders were selected by the National Intercollegiate Pep Conference. This drew much criticism from the student body because many rebelled at "outsiders" being invited to pick the pep team.

In previous years, the method of selection has changed and re-changed in efforts to satisfy the entire student body.

One new innovation Suky used this year was doing away with the "regular" and "alternate" cheerleaders. In the past UK had alternates who filled in for or replaced the regularly elected cheerleaders.

Suky found out that having nine "regular" cheerleaders is better from all standpoints. All nine are used at football games, and five alternate during the basketball season.

One big problem seems to be the lack of male tryouts for cheerleaders. While up to 60 girls in one year have sought the five coed positions, seldom do more than four or five men try out for a cheerleading position.

Suky knows it can't please everybody, but it is striving to have the May tryouts for cheerleading as fair as possible. That is why the organization is sincerely asking for suggestions on "what is wrong" and "what to do."

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

OK, OK, HENLEY—OTHER STUDENTS HAVE HAD TO FACE REQUIRED COURSES IN 1956

Less Pledges

When the various frats in the Interfraternity Council voted last semester for an informal rush this semester, they seemed oblivious to the fact that they were knocking an even bigger hole in the effectiveness of their regular formal rush system. Under the present formal system each fraternity has every chance to pull itself up by the bootstraps—if they'll only work to do it.

Not only is IFC keeping the small frats down, but they are also ruining the ideal system they set up last semester by not sticking to their guns. Although the enrollment has increased roughly 10 per cent for each school year since 1953, the ratio of men signing up for rush and pledging has decreased. To top it all off, during the present school year fewer men have pledged than last year, even though the enrollment has increased some 400-500 students.

In the formal fall rush of 1953, pledges to fraternities totaled 251 men. In the same rush in 1954, although 5,449 students were enrolled to 5,100 for the previous year, still only 251 men pledged. Formal rush in the fall of 1955 showed that roughly only 220 men pledged, although enrollment was up to 5,850.

Looking back over the past three years, it can be seen that although IFC advocated a formal rush system, it turned right around in the spring semester and held an informal rush. By these actions, IFC has set a pattern that has completely undermined its formal system. High-school boys and registering freshmen are getting the word from the old hands; which is "Boys, don't be suckers. Don't wear yourself out going to 14 houses in formal rush and putting up with all those silly rules and regulations. Use your head. Wait 'til informal and take advantage of the free meals, parties, and good times."

IFC has played right into their hands, and can't seem to understand why the number of boys signing up for rush and pledging in the fall semester becomes less and less. It couldn't come at a worse time, either, with several fraternities on the verge of being starved off the campus by virtue of lack of membership.

Most of the smaller fraternities use the argument that they can't compete with the larger ones during formal rush—that their best chance is to get the boy to themselves and keep him there until he's pledged, without the required competition from other frats. This argument doesn't hold water. During spring informal in 1954 seventy-five men were pledged; in 1955, a meager total of 90; and in 1956, the total number of men to affiliate with fraternities was 95 in spring informal rush. And most of the small fraternities are worse off now than three years ago.

It was mentioned earlier in this article that the new formal rule instigated by IFC last semester was ideal, and that every fraternity could very well benefit by it if it only worked hard.

That can easily be proved by looking at the rule as it now stands.

Each fraternity can pledge up to 30 men during the first week of rush, which is strictly formal. After that is over, each fraternity failing to get its quota can pledge for an additional week informally those who signed up for formal and did not pledge. Then, almost immediately after that, each fraternity with less than 25 members can rush informally for 60 days, exclusive of the other frats, and sign up anyone it wants, provided he has a standing. If a fraternity cannot better itself under such a rule as this, then they don't deserve to be on campus, for they won't work hard enough to earn that privilege.

Home Management Houses Mix Work, Experience, And Pleasure

Just as the law students have their Moot Courts, the journalism majors the Kentucky Kernel, and the engineers their surveying camps, the home economic girls also have their laboratory—the home management houses.

Each home ec senior girl is required to live for eight weeks in one of these two houses, and there gets a chance to put into practice all the principles of homemaking that she has picked up in her academic studies.

The homes, both roomy residential structures, are located at 630 Maxwellton Court and 337 Harrison Avenue.

Five girls, plus an adviser, always stay at each house. It is in this way that the real emphasis—cooperative living—is realized. This is fulfilled by planning as a group in budgeting, foods, household operations, and entertainment.

Upon first arriving at the houses each new group of girls set up their "list of objectives" that they hope to accomplish in their stay. After deciding upon their task and things they hope to achieve a rotating system of duties is devised to insure that each girl get the proper experience in all phases of home management. This way a girl may take care of all the meal one day (food manager), and clean, wash, and entertain on alternate days.

Everything is done to make the houses as up-to-date and modern as possible. Ranges, disposals, automatic laundry equipment, dishwashers, and numerous small appliances are used to help prepare the future housewife for her homemaking responsibilities.

Despite the vast amount of experience and knowledge the girls pick up through the carrying out of their various homemaking tasks, the old maxim "all work and no play" certainly doesn't exist here. In addition to their duties, the girls find time for many activities such as dessert parties (either for her boy friends or faculty couples), teas, card parties, and out-of-town trips (a group went last summer to the showing of Wilderness Road in Berea).

Newspapers, magazines, games, a piano, and an off-played phonograph are also on hand to occupy much of their time.

Even married girls are required to live in the home. Mrs. Lois Pinguely, whose husband, Gene, is a Commerce major, is full of praise for the work it's doing. "It's a consummation," she claims, "of

The Workshop

Proprietor Lauds Donovan For Campus Issue Stands

By RAY HORNBACK

Dr. Herman L. Donovan has been faced with many problems of a rapidly growing school since taking over the presidency of the University on July 1, 1941—the most recent problem being freshman "hoodlums" charged with illegal use of narcotics and grand larceny.

Soon after Dr. Donovan took office, World War II disrupted the University by taking most male students and many of the male instructors. When the war ended four years later, Dr. Donovan was confronted with a flood of GI students who over-ran classroom and housing facilities.

Then in 1951, the University was rocked by athletic scandals involving six UK basketball players accused of taking bribes to shave points in games.

The president was criticized by many for his stubborn defense of UK athletic officials.

He declared that he thought things at UK were "on the four-square, upright and honorable." He said the school was "ashamed and embarrassed" by the bribe disclosures, but upheld his defense of the school.

Later, Dr. Donovan defended the University before the executive committee of the SEC and called UK's suspension of a year, "too harsh." He later said Kentucky was being used as a "whipping boy" when All-American football candidate Gene Donaldson was suspended for violation of a conference rule.

Also not to be forgotten was Dr. Donovan's 1951 fight to free University personnel from control of the state Division of Personnel and to remove the University from the State Department of Education. He won this fight and the University was freed from the danger of political control.

On most problems, big and small,

Donovan has taken an honest and courageous stand in the face of public and political opposition. Such is a mark of greatness in an ordinarily conservative gentleman.

Last week, when five UK students were arrested on charges of illegal use of narcotics and grand larceny, Dr. Donovan knew through past experience that statewide and possibly nation-wide attention would be focused on UK. He had the prerogative of "easing" the students out of school several months earlier and thus might have avoided "bad publicity," but he said the good of society should be placed above possible bad publicity.

When a rumor of narcotics being used and sold in the men's dormitories got to the president, he and Dean of Men Leslie L. Martin cooperated with federal narcotics officials to break up the gang of "junior gangsters." This meant allowing the suspected students to stay in school until concrete evidence against them could be established.

As a result the five students were caught. And as Dr. Donovan knew would happen, blaring headlines pictured the University as a "hoodlum hangout."

A lesser man might have avoided such a picture. Through his actions, however, Dr. Donovan has shown the same kind of courage that has characterized his presidency for the past 15 years.

Barf!

Glancing at the social calendar, it can be seen that the only Leap Year party scheduled all year long is the one being held tonight at a Kroger-like mansion on Rose Street.

Now it stands to reason that with the ratio of boys to girls being three to one on this campus, practically any gal should be able to coerce some male into taking the initiative. However, girls, we don't blame you. When times get hard, you just got to get out and move.

Army Rifle Team Wins Match Here

The Army ROTC rifle team won first place in a four position rifle match held in the Buell Armory on March 3.

UK won 85 61 points over Xavier University of Ohio in the third of a series of matches. The University of Dayton finished third and the University of Cincinnati forfeited because one of its team members failed to fire.

The Dayton team leads UK in the series by a total of 79 points, according to Col. Henry H. Rogers, professor of military science. The team with the highest total points for the series will be the winner of the match.

Each team is composed of 10 members. Each member is required to fire from the kneeling, sitting, standing, and prone positions. It is possible for each man to score 400 points.

SFC Fred W. Sherwood of the Military Science Department, is coach of the University's team. The team members are Wesley N. Sims, team captain; William J. Lockwood, Marvin C. Goff Jr., Donald Harmon, George B. Adams, Jimmie Judge, James L. Sowell, George H. Calvert Jr., Edward C. Price, and Clyde C. Allen Jr. Kentucky's high-scoring honors went to Sims who fired 376 points.

IFC Meets In Special Session

A motion to limit membership in fraternities to 65 and to open rush for the remainder of the semester to all fraternities failed by a large margin at a special meeting of Interfraternity Council, Tuesday, March 6.

The motion was prepared and placed before IFC by a committee set up at the previous meeting of IFC to study informal rush for this semester.

Jim Maturio, ATO, moved that informal rush be open for two months to fraternities with 30 or less actives including the pledges who are eligible for initiation. This motion was passed unanimously by the Council.

Actives were defined as only those men paying dues and on the fraternity roll book.

Burrow Leads Time Chart

It took All-American center Bob Burrow just 93 seconds to score a joint during his final campaign at UK.

Point proficiency is the average number of seconds needed by a player to score one point during the time he played. It is determined by converting time into seconds and dividing by total points.

Second to Burrow was another center, Phil Johnson. He needed 119 seconds. Jerry Bird was close in third place with 121 seconds while Vernon Hatton required 129.

Of the time played, Bird led with 781.05 minutes out of a possible 960. Burrow was second with 755.37.

Bird also completed the most games, six. Gerry Calvert was credited with four complete tilts while Hatton and Burrow played out three full contests.

In 1950, a total of 22,465 degrees had been awarded by the University.

"HOW TO REPLACE SIX STARTERS."

This is Coach Blanton Collier's themesong as spring football practice steps into full swing. Gone are ends Howie Schnellenberger and Brad Mills, tackle Bill Wheeler, guards Ray Callahan and O. E. Philpot, quarterback Bob Hardy and halfback Dick Moloney. Brother, that hurts! But despite the gloomy picture, Coach Collier seems to draw a faint smile as he mentions some sophomores that could play a kingsized role in either making or breaking the team.

Ends Doug Shively and Don Plunkett have been "impressive." Tackles Paul Roth, who is an excellent prospect, and James Cambron could help fill the weak spots at this position.

Four guards have caught the coach's eye; Bob Ballance, Don Buchanan, Ronnie Cain and Vince Lococo. Playing very well at center is Richard Blocker. Collier says he's rough and tough. "He likes to hit you," the mentor added.

Dave Allen, Bob Cravens, Carl Goins and Edd Sely are all fighting for positions in the halfback slots. These sophomores are showing plenty of determination Collier stated.

There was plenty of praise for a pair of fullbacks, Bob Bonich and Clifton Tribble. "Bonich can run with the football, let me tell you," Collier added. And Tribble can too. Both are quick, he said.

Defense is being stressed this spring. Collier believes that to make his team a boy must be able to play defense. Offense can be taught later he commented.

Also this spring, co-captains will be chosen. Who they will be is anyone's guess. The candidates must slave for the honor which requires leadership, mature judgment, quick thinking plus personality. Here are a few possibilities: Our choice right now would be Dave Kuhn who could be an All-American if he would put his shoulder to the wheel. His other partner might come from Bob Dougherty, Delmar Hughes, Don Netoskie, Billy Mitchell or tackle J. T. Frankenberger provided that J. T. clears up a knee ailment.

OK, I'll answer the letters.

Charlie: No, Florida was runner-up to Auburn in the 1955 SEC track meet. The Gators lost by two points, 49-47.

Bill: If you will send the second page of your letter I will print part of it, but as of now page one seems sort of mixed-up.

I hope you know what you are trying to say because, man, I sure don't.

Miss E.C.: Why should girls be allowed to select cheerleaders and boys not? Isn't this a democracy? Well, in most cases anyway! I don't care for your suggestion but maybe SUKY would give attention to a letter if you would write them.

Don: Utah' Gary Bergen stands 6-8 and weighs 212. He's married and has a baby girl. Does this settle the argument? If not, write again.

Kernel Picks 'Sweet Sixteen'; Stands On Luck, Upsets, Hope

By BO GRIFFIN

Next week, Memorial Coliseum will provide the battleground for the Kentucky high school basketball wars, as 16 regional victors engage in a combat that will determine a new state champion.

So, it is time again for the Kernel sports staff to gaze into their crystal ball and pick the "Sweet Sixteen."

In the first region our choice is Heath.

The consensus of opinion is that Todd County will make the trip to Lexington but probably won't stay long after they get here since region two is not too tough.

Henderson Barrett looks like the representative in the third region. They made a good showing in the tourney last year and have a veteran ball club. If they get a good draw they might be playing in the championship round Saturday night.

It looks like Central City in the fourth region—who else? They could take it all.

Allen County gets the nod in the fifth region over College High. Whoever comes out of this region will probably wish they had stayed at home. Preston and Hornback (a foreigner) still see College High but the staff outvoted them!

Glendale is a unanimous choice for the sixth region crown.

In 1866, the University received an income of $9,900.

The medieval Latin term Universitas was originally employed to denote a community or corporation.

Manual will make their first return trip to Lexington since the days of "Cookie" Grawemeyer.

The seventh region teams have really been a group of mixed up kids this season. Valley might slip through but we'll string along with Manual.

One of the strongest regions this year has been the ninth. But after the smoke has cleared away, Boone County will be perched on top of the totem pole.

The cream of the crop in the tenth region looks like Maysville. Lafayette looks like the winner in the eleventh.

Somerset will represent the twelfth region. Don't they always?

Corbin is our choice to carry away the marbles in the thirteenth. Black Star is the darkhorse.

Carr Creek is another unanimous pick by the staff. They've got their sights set and these mountaineers are pretty good shots.

Who'll stop King Kelley Coleman? That's the unanswered question in the fifteenth region. Looks like Wayland.

An old standby, Ashland, gets the nod in the sixteenth.

The first paper pencil was invented by Frederick C. Blaisdell of Philadelphia, Pa., who obtained a patent on Nov. 19, 1895.

Cats In Odd Role For NCAA Meeting

By SCOOP WHITE

When Kentucky's Wildcats represent the SEC in the NCAA basketball tournament next week, they will be performing in a different atmosphere than last year.

TIPS ON TOGS

AT LAST—The "Hawk" Hat has arrived. I have been telling you about this new design in hats—now I can show it to you. In my opinion, it is one of the sharpest little hats I have ever seen and judging from the attention it is getting from style experts and men's fashion magazines across the country, it will be a big hit for spring and summer.

BUTTON DOWN—The newest wrinkle in ties is of course the "Button Down." I like this type tie very much as it always stays in place, giving one that neat well-groomed look. They are to be found in the popular regimental stripe or various patterns and is a very sensible idea—wonder why it wasn't thought of before!

THINGS HAVE CHANGED—In the Fashion Spotlight and I for one think it is high time, new fabrics, new lines and new colors give your spring wardrobe a more co-ordinated look and a fresh approach to good dressing. The new Summer Suits are a far cry from the old messy type. They are cool, crisp and smartly tailored to stay that way all day—or night—which ever the case may be!

DID YOU LIKE—The suburban or stadium style coat that was such a success this past season? (Most every one did.) If so, then you can sport a lightweight one for spring. It is by Alligator, in Oyster Color with bold plaid linings and if it rains—fear not, for it is water repellent.

DON'T FORGET—To stop in the store and get your free "College Clothing Club" card—yours for the asking and it saves you money. Until next week...

So long for now.

Two years ago, one of Coach Adolph Rupp's greatest teams withdrew from possible post-season play after easily capturing the SEC title because it would lose All-Americans Cliff Hagan, Frank Ramsey, and Lou Tsioropoulos for the NCAA.

But the tide has changed. Besides being at full strength, the Cats will be trying to make amends for what some rabid Kentucky basketball fans say was a poor season.

Before the season started Kentucky was picked as the logical choice to succeed San Francisco as national champs.

What has happened during the recent unpredictable season is in the record books. The Cats are determined to make the fans forget the past.

Let's take a look at what's in store for the Wildcats.

Kentucky's first opponent will be the winner of the DePaul-Wayne University of Detroit game played March 12. The Cats' tourney opener will be March 16 at Iowa City, and then if they survive the opening round, they will probably encounter the Big Ten champion, Iowa.

If DePaul happens to win over Wayne, it would set up a third meeting between Rupp's Wildcats and Coach Ray Meyer's Blue Demons. This meeting would be the "rubber" game between these two rivals since each team has defeated the other once this year.

A third DePaul meeting could be termed as a revenge tilt for the Wildcats.

After the Blue Demons edged the Cats 81-79 at Chicago, Coach Meyer had a few comments for the press concerning Coach Rupp's statement that the game was the "least important" one left on the schedule.

If UK plays Wayne University, they will be playing a team that compiled a 17-1 mark, blemished only by an 80-52 loss to Louisville.

Kentucky will enter this tournament minus the SEC title for the first time since 1943.

The appearance will establish a new NCAA record, that of participating in the national championship for the eighth time. Kentucky tied Wyoming with seven appearances before the SEC gave its vote of confidence to this year's Wildcat aggregation.

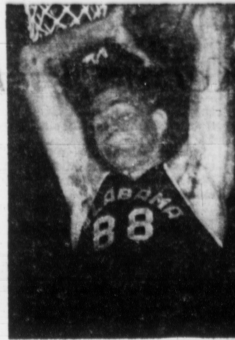

Iowa Fieldhouse will be the site of the regional tourney, and it is the home floor of the Iowa Hawkeyes. This fact alone probably will place the favorite's role on the two-time Big Ten champs. It seats 14,000, but can hold another 1,000 standing room as it did for a conference title clash with Illinois.

One aspect the Kentucky cagers cannot escape will be the solid basketball tradition Coach Rupp has developed here. Wherever Rupp's teams go, they are the team to beat.

But this year may be different. The Cats have had their troubles, but compiled a respectable 19-5 record. Iowa started off slowly losing five games including their conference opener. Then they hit a hot streak which continued through 13 straight wins and the Big Ten title.

The Wildcats have a challenge ahead of them. Many students and fans expect them to come back from Ervston, where the NCAA finals will be held, with the national championship trophy.

Kentucky Closes Door To Regular Season Play

By BILL HENRY

Continuing their torrid pace, set in the previous game against Georgia, Kentucky trounced Tennessee's Volunteers 101-77 and wound up a hectic campaign with a 19-5 season's mark.

This one-sided victory over the Vols was the 69th triumph by the Wildcats since their series began in 1910.

Tennessee has managed to cop 28 of the contests, more than any other UK opponent.

Tennessee was never in the contest after the opening tip-off. Rupp's Raiders jumped out in front 31-19 after ten minutes and went to the dressing room at half-time leading 58-38.

With substitutes playing most of the last half, fans began to chant, "we want a hundred."

Abe Collinsworth pitched in a shot with one minute left to boost the score to 101.

High scorer for the contest went to start center Carl Wiseth of the Vols. The KERNEL All-SEC player wound up the night with 24 points in the losing effort.

Guard Vernon Hatton was high for the Cats with 20 points. Close behind was Captain Cookie Grawmeyer with 16 points, his high for the season.

Mrs. Florence O. Stout was the first dean of women at the University. She served from 1907 to 1910.

EASTERN RAILROADS

Coach Rupp can only take 12 men to the tourney so this means that two of the Wildcat subs will be left home. The Big Three will be making their final appearance as members of the Kentucky squad. Capt. Phil Grawemeyer, Jerry Bird, and All-American center, Bob Burrow will be giving it all they have to uphold the high standards set by past Kentucky Wildcat basketball teams.

As a reward for being a first class team, the Wildcats will travel first class to the NCAA as they have done all year. They will leave Lexington by chartered airliner Thursdays morning, March 15. While in Iowa City, the Cats will make the Jefferson Hotel their home.

And last, but not least, the Kentucky Kernel will be represented at the NCAA as Tom Preston, sports editor, will be on hand to give UK students first hand coverage of this annual event.
