

CLEARING HOUSE

Strange things are always happening on the Kerkel. The latest is the strange case of the missing sports writers, a tale without equal in the annals of newspaper writing. It seems that Joe Creason, our sports editor, sent two freshmen over to the field to get a story about the freshman team. When they were finally located it was found that they had joined the team and no longer had time to scribble for our sheet. This cannot go on. Think what would happen if we sent one to write a story about the dog pound.

Justified
As a member of the Student Union and a student in the University, I feel justified in expressing the feeling of the students in asking that the Union building be kept for the students and for our purpose, and we hold that it is, why should we go out and bring in the business of the town? There is adequate space for the Through-Bus at the downtown hotel where it has been, the custom to hold such banquets hereafter. Are we to compete with the business or are we to keep the Student Union for the students?—W. S.

On the Debt Side
When we get letters such as this, we understand why this is so. We are eating a world. There are so many different kinds of people with so many kinds of opinions. I don't remember, quite a few letters have been received this semester criticizing the Union because an entrance fee was required. It was explained in time that the Union is not just a gift from Heaven. The government furnished about half the cost and we are to pay the rest. It will take a long time at $2.00 per head to do that. Consequently, the reason for small additional charges for added pleasures. Now, when outside organizations come to pay as a good sum for the privilege of using the beautiful ballroom and when it interferes with the student group plans—well, it looks like we're letting the hand that feeds us we object to. The money is well solicited but it should certainly be turned to the students who must pay for the structure.

Bequest And Suggestion
Dear Mr. Editor: I have been reading a lot in Clearing House complimenting Joe Creason. For his writing and skill to add my mite to it. I know you are a sports and consequently did not bother with the sports column but now I find that your writing is so amusing and well written that I not only enjoy it but understand it also. The money that is being so congratulated on the fine paper. "What do you think of a series of articles on the sports side at the dances and say one special dance?"
It's according to the wishes of the majority. If that is student desire, it is our duty to be glad to arrange it.

Serry
Dear Editor: At the beginning of the semester you made an announcement in Clearing House that Allenby E. Winer would write a series of articles on the sports side. I read his first two and was very impressed by his work. However, last week you published his idea on features suddenly became contagious and the entire staff started writing the staff. I am sure that's what he had in mind. That's bad, indeed. Hereafter, if the staff is to be originality of their own? Or must they always copy. I was hoping to see Mr. Winer's writing in the Tuesday edition. I hope the series is resumed in the very near future. E. S. Serry

Sky's Gratitude
Two letters appeared today complimenting the success of Sky with the card displays. E. W. says, in part, that the organization should certainly be praised, but that something should have been done about painting the white numbers on the seats so that they would be dry in time for the game. Well, they should certainly be dry by now. The other writer, anonymous, comments on the fact that the stunts have added a great deal to the football game and only the excellent student cooperation has made this possible. Kentucky has got a winning team out there on the field and it would seem that a similar spirit has invaded the stands, much to the amusement of old grads and the townspeople. No doubt, if the stunts prove successful, they should be moved to the other side next year and be increased in size. If all these stunts, "Present" and "Majesty" will come out and lead a band with the cards Saturday and they will find that they will have plenty to do and have some fun more than they can get from the proud of "Majesty" school.

Nation's Spotlight Turned On UK Wildcats As Ted Husing Arranges Game Broadcast And Litkenhous Rates Cats Over Vanderbilt

CBS Announcer Will 'Cast Game
Ace Sports Commentator To Ethesize Clash On Stoll Field

With Ted Husing on the transmitting end of the microphone, millions wide radio audience will be treated to a play by play account of the Kentucky-Vanderbilt grid classic tomorrow on Stoll field over the Columbia Broadcasting System and affiliated stations.

The broadcast will mark the first time a Wildcat football game has been aired from Stoll field over the CBS hook-up and will give Kentucky the largest audience ever had for a game. Two other stations, WHAS Louisville and WSM Nashville, will also relay accounts of the fracas.

Husing has for many years been regarded as the nation's ace sports commentator and annually is assigned to handle all the top-flight football broadcasts for CBS. His talents have not alone been confined to talking for he has also appeared in many motion picture short subjects. Last week his assignment called him to be present for a word picture of the Minnesota-Nebraska struggle. Due to a conflict with the World War Veterans' Convention, Husing's assignment to the Kentucky-Vandy clash will be related.

A long distance phone call Monday night from New York to Ab Kirwan, Wildcat Head Coach, where he hopes to see Sunday for broadcast the game. The radio booth in the press box at Stoll field will be installed with a special wire to carry the game report from the press box to the radio booth over the country. As the Stoll press shelter sports but two radio booths are available for the game, the Nashville audience will be done from atop the structure.

Both Teams Are Yet Untried; Odds Drop On Tilt As Game Draws Near; Cats Are Confident

By JOE CREASON, Kernel Sports Editor
The football spotlight of the entire nation will center on Stoll field tomorrow afternoon where Kentucky's touchdown conscious Wildcats will face the first real barrier on their come-back trail and receive their first taste of conference meat in the form of the formidable Vanderbilt Commodores.

At the outset of the current season the odds on Kentucky were tremendous, but in face of the Cats' determined performances against Maryville and Oglethorpe, the odds have suffered a severe reversal. Frank Litkenhous, University of Illinois mathematics expert and originator of the famous Difference-By-Point-Score rating, this week gave Kentucky a report card of 89.6 and Vanderbilt 87.7.

of their intricate maneuvers that they so ably display during the half periods at the football games.

Many more hours are spent in practicing the music for contests and various other performances that they are called upon to give at numerous times and places throughout the state.

The organization, because of its exhibitions in this, as well as other states, has been one of the greatest single factors in spreading the name and honor of the University. For this, if nothing else, it deserves every tribute that we can pay it.

These fellows, about 100 strong, who play the music, cheer the athletes, shout, march and generally entertain the crowd, do all that is in their power to fire and sustain our enthusiasm. So when the time comes for them to file out on to Stoll Field next Saturday, let's all rise to our feet and give a rousing ovation to the greatest college band in the country.—R. E. G.

Behind The Eckdahl

By ANDREW C. ECKDAHL

IN CASE you didn't find us on the front page, it was because we were shifted here. We have been bounced around so much of late we are beginning to wonder where we are, and the readers are still wondering why we are.

But Mr. Harry Williams having decided he was unwhomous and Mr. Eddie Gilsley have succumbed under intimidation of Miss Dottie Clements because of an item he printed, we are definitely back.

In case "Behind The Eckdahl" is not on the editorial page Tuesday, look among the classified ads; we may be shifted there by then.

Six rules on "How to Change a 3 Standing to a 3 Standing" have been listed for us by English Professor Grant C. Knight. If followed religiously, or even half-heartedly, they will bring results. They follow:

- 1. Come to class late. That shows you have an interest in the subject.
2. When you have been up late the night before and have a slight headache, cut the class. You won't miss anything.
3. Don't read the assignments. Wait and cram for the final. (This rule is guaranteed.)
4. Don't take notes in class. Rely on your memory; it's better.
5. Read no more than the text. You know enough anyway.
6. Don't answer questions in class. Your professor knows you're bright; he's a mind reader.

The following have asked to have their names mentioned in this column:

WHOOPS!

We were woefully going watching Walter's wife who was washing windows with Walter's white washwoman. Walter was walking serenely west with Wanda while Walter's wife wistfully watched. We waited. Why, we wondered, was Walter with Wanda? Walter's wife would never whenever Walter would weakly waive. We waited. Walter's wealth was what Wanda wanted. Wanda, we warranted, was wooing Walter while Walter's wife was watching without worrying Walter with wholehearted warnings. We wandered westward without waiting while Wanda won Walter.

The Pride of SAE

OPEN LETTER TO WLAP

Sirs: By all means keep Tom Fike and his "Complicated Lives of Jake and Jonah" on the air. It is one of the most interesting programs we have heard from your station. It has pep, life and humor, and will undoubtedly interest your audience as a whole.

Sincerely yours,

"Behind The Eckdahl"

Fike, who impersonates all the characters in his kit, may be heard from WLAP at 8:15 o'clock tonight.

Recently we saw a lot of fellows wandering around carrying cans. This struck us as unusual as no one around UK carries a cane unless, of course, he is Frank Fowler Davis, and that field is limited.

We mulled over the matter and finally decided we must be stock traders. But that didn't satisfy us as we could not imagine what stock traders would be doing on the campus.

A bit of investigation revealed that they were by no means stock traders, but rather, were law college seniors. Or can it be that they are seniors who have passed the bar exam and have found cattle trading more profitable than Blackstone?

CAMPUSCENE

By JIM CALDWELL

SINCE Donald Irvine has packed up his tents and is breaking his camp in the columnist field, we are moving in and pitching ours in an attempt to fill the yawning cavity left by his withdrawal. We feel like a dime trying to fit into a quarter slot, so great was the example he set for us to follow. But, happily, we are not alone. For we are alternate with our column of long standing and journalistic side-kick, John Ed Pearce. John Ed and I may sometimes do even so rash a thing as collaborate, when it so happens that our respective ideas-cows have been milked dry.

The type of column that we have—being commissioned to write is, as one would judge from the column's title, the events of this campus, and the view in general from a student's point of view. For often do things happen in our little South-Lime world that, immediately or eventually, affect us. There we feel are worthy of notice.

Since the ideas expressed here are merely personal opinions, we would appreciate any suggestions, comment, or criticism you see fit to make. As true as it may be that you can't fool all of the people all of the time, the fact that you can't please all of the people all of the time, so taking a deep breath and crossing our fingers, here we go...

Prelude To Peace

On this campus and around town there are many who seem to feel that the recent Munich agreement is a betrayal of the Czechs and a cringing surrender to Hitler. Paradoxically, it is this very agreement that has caused the most serious impression—the wrong kind of an impression—on the small fry. Just a few days ago we happened to pass a group of small boys playing at war. One boy was teaching another how to do the goose-step, while in another sector, two other kids were arguing over who was going to be a machine gunner "like the one on my shirt."

And when these kids grow up, they, thinking all the while what fun and what adventure war is, will march eagerly off to fight (and die) by the thousands, pushed into wanting war by an illusion that started in their childhood. And all because some smart advertising agent conceived the brilliant idea of employing "appealing" war scenes to induce kiddies to buy his firm's product.

Who's Who-ey

by Didi Castle

Bob Hess has been in town recently and we regret to say that someone has swiped his guest column which we wanted to add to Who's Who-ey. However, it is just as well that someone swiped it as there were some juicy items contained in Bob's masterpiece that would have made a good many faces red. Letelle Stephenson would have been slightly annoyed.

The Kappa pledges were blown up in Edna Hill... too bad we can't find it... written in the inimitable Hess style. It was good.

It seems that the anonymous note of last Tuesday was someone's perverted idea of humor. Phi Delta Theta's Walter Filippini did not pin Emmy Haggin... there is no love lost between the two. Doug Parrish is Emmet in her affections right now. We hope this clears the matter up.

Rumors circulating to the effect that Sonny Murray took a swing at brother Jim Caldwell for saying that his panties were growing on his big toe are, according to Sonny, it was just a playful mood that prompted Sonny to grab Jim by the lapels and give a fluff in his face. No personal contact occurred... so there goes another pleasing tale.

We wish to mention the name of Jimmy Greenhouse so he can cut it out and put it in his scrap-book. Marjorie Griffin (wearing a gold basketball on a little gold chain) walked sedately into geology lecture, smiled gayly at "Robbie," and proceeded to sit on a tack. Nice that it wasn't chewing gum. And Mimi Wiseman carries intimate parts of the anatomy around in her pockets these days... they bulge with craniums and ribs and things. Bill Worth's kindly voice booms "Get a high chair, Meredith!" when Wanless wandered into the Grill. Stigmach's Bubby Boone and Benny Owen have a unique way of deciding which shall date Deedie Allen. Apparently Benny's pickup is Marjorie. T. D. Judy McVean is at the bedside of the recently injured Bob Davis and looks regularly. Ralph Jackson is rumored to have hung his belt to Chi pin... and remember, it's only a rumor! Peg Talman gets our vote for one of the year's best looking blondes. And Chi O pledges Caroline Comant for one of the best freshmen. We hope to omit Mary Louise Weissenberg and Mary Ann Gott. The law school is sponsoring a new jolt in campus life. Seniors are carrying yellow cases (you've seen them) and the whole school is going to wear scarves at the Vandy game Saturday. Watch for something. This will probably increase the much lauded lack of school spirit. Kappa Alpha Omega is back from St. Louis for her senior year. She's one of the few girls' able to outlast John ("Slap face, Charles"). Breckinridge... a very swell girl. Lauren Oeldt, Len Lear, and Al Polk running in and out of the Paddock... it looked like a relay race. "Do you always close your eyes when you meet people?" queried Phi Tau Garth House upon being introduced to a tediously sophisticated Barbara Hansen. Nine is probably a conservative estimate for the number of KA's seen tumbling out of our car after the Wednesday evening meeting. An apparently endless chain headed by John Gough took five minutes (usual exaggeration) to pile out of a car whose fenders missed the ground by no more than three inches. Benton's, as usual, was jammed Wednesday night. D. June Lassing and Donald Brown, recently re-pinned, looked extremely contented. So did Jack Sullivan. Tridlet pledged Betty Be Miller and Dan Dergel have been seen around quite a bit. Ask Dan to tell you the one about the Beta. Or don't. Elizabeth Hardwick was overheard grieving because she couldn't know anybody anymore. That's all right, Elizabeth, everyone knows you... What happened next? Best Band In Dixie' Has Grown From 14 Members To Top Notch Organization In Fifty Years Time

By ELIZABETH BROWN
For fifty years the University band has furnished music for military parades, football games, basketball events and concerts at the University. The earliest picture of the band, taken in 1889 shows a 14-piece band made up of the Kentucky State College men.

This year the band consists of 88 men, 88 of whom are freshmen. Betty Barkhaus is the sponsor. Bruce Sullivan is drum major and John Orndorff replaces George Duncan as quartermaster. The successor of Berkley Bennesson, last year's drum major, has not yet been selected.

Leonard Hughes was the first conductor of the band and held that position in 1889-90. At that time, a professor who is no longer on the campus, said that if he wanted to give his son a ticket to hell, he would put him in the band. The band boys were the black sheep of the University in '89.

Growth and development of the band has been more constant than rapid. Gradually but steadily, new men, new uniforms, new methods and more instruments have been added until it is comparable to any band in the south.

In 1926 Elmer G. Sulzer, present head of the University publicity bureau, became director of the band and continued in that position until the fall of 1933 when he was replaced by John Lewis, Jr.

In the fall of 1936, band uniforms were obtained for the first time. Previous to this time the band had been attired in regulation R. O. T. C. dress.

The new uniforms consisted of regular American Federation of Musicians dress, plus a brilliant blue and white cape. These uniforms were kept as standard until 1934 when the present outfits were secured through the aid of W. C. Col.

Band Sponsor

BETTY BARKHAUS

B. E. Brewer, head of the military department.

The "Best Band In Dixie" received nationwide recognition in 1931 when it journeyed to Washington, D. C. where the Paramount newsreel took over 600 feet of sound film of the band for national circulation. At that time this was the greatest amount of footage ever given to a college band by a newsreel company.

The University possesses a print of the film and it is shown on special occasions. On its trip to Washington the band gave a 20 minute concert from the Washington studio of the National Broadcasting Company, and it was carried by a college band by a newsreel company.

That year the band presented a series of 54 broadcasts from station WHAS, Louisville. Other stations from which the band has broadcast include WRDL, Knoxville; KNOX, Knoxville; WLAP, Lexington; and WBEW, Chicago.

During the spring vacation of 1933, the band gave its first state concert tour, giving a series of eight programs in Southern Kentucky. At the "Best Band In Dixie" was awarded a trophy for having the best marching and playing. Purdue University had previously held this honor.

The band gives instructions in contest music to various high schools and last year gave 15 broadcasts over station WHAS teaching the use of musical instruments.

Last spring the band gave a series of concerts on the campus and also a program for the state high school music festival. In May Governor Chandler invited the entire body to attend the Kentucky Derby where the band occupied a prominent position in the infield at Churchill Downs and gave a performance in the afternoon.

Motion pictures have been taken of all still formations of the band since 1933, but the 1937 season was the first time that complete works were filmed, and these formations have become a successful and popular entertainment between the halves of football games.

During the past ten years the band has made trips to Atlanta, Georgia; Charleston, West Virginia; Lexington, Virginia; Nashville, Tennessee; Birmingham, Alabama; Evansville, Indiana; Cincinnati, Ohio; Washington, D. C., and numerous towns in Kentucky.

Greeks Plan Post-Game Social Affairs As Anticipated Win Boosts Enthusiasm

Open houses and buffet suppers given by the various fraternities on the campus following the Wildcat-Vanderbilt game will lend variety to the week-end social activities at UK.

Pre-game fervor among the inhabitants of the Greek establishments on the campus has reached a maximum with all groups making plans to celebrate the hoped-for victory over the Commodores.

Climaxing the affairs will be the Purching Rifles hop to be given from 10 to 12 o'clock Saturday night in the Union ballroom. Music will be furnished by Jamie Thompson and his orchestra.

Law Seniors Hold Practice Trials

Seniors of the Law college apply their knowledge under trial room conditions, every Friday in the practice trials held in the first room in the basement of the law building.

Professor Randall announced that the Law college would be glad to have students watch these trials and act on the jury trying the case.

The trial starts at 1:15, so any one wishing to participate should be at the Law building before that time.

A series of singing programs under the direction of Miss Lewis will be participated in by members of the Home Economics club at their meetings held the second and fourth Mondays of each month.

KITTENS READY FOR VANDY TILT

Fresh Waiting To Avenger 14-0 Defeat Suffered Last Year

While the sport's spotlight is focused on the local Euclid avenue gridiron, Saturday, when the Wildcat eleven encounters the Commodores of Vanderbilt, the Kentucky Kittens will be out to settle a score with the vestalings of Vanderbilt at Nashville.

When the Kittens, take the field, they will be out to average the 14-0 setback which they suffered last year from the Vandy froth.

At the pivot post Louis Parker, 180 pounder from Huntington, is expected to see plenty of action.

Richard Hulet, 190 former all-state center from Ashland, has been converted to the guard slot and will team up with Arthur Knox of Paducah, Ohio, to guard the center of the line.

Harold Eiler, all-northern from Covington who tips the scales at 180, and Bob Beeler, 200 pounder of Bardwell will bear the brunt of the Vandy line attack from the tackle positions.

Bob Shultz, 170 pound all-state end from Manual High, will combine with his former team-mate, Alan Parr who weighs 180, to fill in the flank positions.

Orrie Crepeau, 170 pound quarterback will be at the signal-calling slot while Bill Goadley, 175 pounder from Springfield, and Charles Jones, all-state halfback from Manual, will occupy the snailback positions.

The plugging fullback post will be ably taken care of by Noah Mul-center; Hulet, Knox, Graban, Walters and Robinson, guards; Eiler and Beeler, tackles; Parr, Shultz and Young, ends; Crepeau, Zinn, Mullins, Black, Goadley, Jones, and Tucker, backs.

The condition of Lammia Graham, Arts and Sciences sophomore, suffering from an attack of bronchial pneumonia, is improved.

Dameron 'Hun' Davis Ranks No. Two Spot In Kentucky Scoring
With two weeks of the 1958 football season past history, Varnety, Morehead State Teachers College halfback, holds a strangle hold over Kentucky's leading collegiate point scorer with a total of 54 compared to 25 made by Dameron Davis, Kentucky whir-wind, who holds second place. Varnety's total consists of nine touchdowns scored against two opponents while Davis' number includes four touchdowns and one extra point scored while playing less than half the time against the weak opposition that has marked Kentucky's games thus far. The leading scorers: Varnety—Morehead, 54. Davis—Kentucky, 25. Combs—Kentucky, 24. Stanley—Morehead, 24. Fair—Morehead, 24. Zwieler—Kentucky, 18. Satura—Union, 18. McRaven—Murray, 18.

Ted Husing Sad Because State's Bluegrass Is Green

By ALLEN E. WINER
Amiable Ted Husing was in the midst of a streamlined shave when "the Press" dropped in on him down at the Lafayette hotel last night. The electric razor was on the bum, so his task was arduous. Here to air the Kentucky-Vanderbilt football scrap from Stoll Field on Saturday, Husing and his pal Jim were all set to go to work this morning gathering dope from both Vandy and Wildcat entrenchments. He's never been, to these parts before, he said, so his first impressions were amusing. First of all he almost crashed into the state capitol at Frankfort. Nope, he never knew it would be such a small, settled town. Then he was disappointed because there was no bluegrass. And he was willing to bet we never saw the stuff ourselves. Joe Creason, Bill Costel, Elliott Beard and this reporter followed Husing when he was meeting CBS had honored Kentucky with a football broadcast. Husing replied that football fans were getting tired of listening to the old power-play every week and wanted new attractions. Consequently Kentucky and Vanderbilt become the latest showmen. It would have been impossible to broadcast a game in the East this week, Husing said, because of the World-Series. As a result of the series only three quarters of Saturday's game will reach listeners in most parts of the CBS chain. Husing is a swell guy. A good joker, he suddenly became aware of a sweet odor in the room and immediately charged his pal, Jim, with use of perfume. Jim, by the way, is Husing's right-hand man, and is known in football circles as an official grid expert. As far as picking a winner goes, Ted Husing is willing to let that part go. He did remark that they certainly fling a football around a great deal in this section of the country. Can that be a warning about what's coming? Vandy is a razzle-dazzle team, you know.

UK Charm School Will Open Doors Thursday Night

The Charm School, inaugurated last year by AWS will open this season with a style show at 8 o'clock Thursday, October 13, in the music room of the Union building. Verma Latzke, instructor in Home Economics, will be in charge of the style parade. Clothes for the occasion will be loaned by local department stores and will be modeled by selected campus girls. Personality, second in the Charm series, will be in charge of Professor Edward W. Parquarin, of the English department. This meeting, October 20, and those of the remaining series will be held at 8 o'clock in Patterson Hall. Pearl Adams, beautician, will have charge of the third assembly, October 27, and will discuss the various phases of beauty. Mrs. Frank L. McVey will discuss "Campus Etiquette" for the final series, November 3. The Charm School is under the direction of Charlotte Percival.
