They Have Earned Their "L" For Loyalty

Here we are again with a new Loyalty Fund drive in operation, a new scholarship for 1952 authorized, and a post-Christmas lull in the number of contributions arriving in the office.

Let's make 1952 the greatest year in the Loyalty Fund's annual giving program, and let's shave a few dollars here and there from our entertainment account and place it where it will do the most good—in the Alumni Loyalty Scholarship Fund!

William H. Townsend, chairman of the Loyalty Fund's annual giving program is sending out letters at present reminding alumni of this worthy cause. Don't wait until you receive a letter from him! Send in your contribution now, be it large or small, so that still another young man or woman may have the opportunity of attending your University for four happy years.

JOHN A. WHITAKER

From the first day we walked into Miss Margie's journalism class, a small, scared freshman just out of a convent boarding school, until late on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 15, 1951, when his tired, generous heart stopped beating, John Whitaker was our friend.

Native Kentuckian, loyal University of Kentucky alumnus, and, more recently, distinguished member of the United States Congress from the Second Kentucky District, "Whit", as he was known to his contemporaries at the University, went through the short span of life allotted to him making friends on every hand, and those who knew him best, who knew of his contributions of time and self to the many institutions and charities which he held dear, would still consider that his greatest contribution to life was the gift of friendship.

Gay, hearty, cheerful, happy "Whit" had touched the lives of many with his inimitable gift of friendship, and those of us who knew and loved him most were not too surprised when his great, kindly heart, expanded to the bursting point with love of his fellowmen, stopped beating.

He had given so much of himself to his state, his nation and his friends that he was predestined to exhaust himself in the public interest before reaching old age. But we find comfort in the thought that while he walked through life with eyes focused on the stars, he walked with hands extended to his fellow men.

Those whose lives touched his will recall the many small kindnesses he extended; the thoughtful notes of congratulation in times of rejoicing, the tender words of sympathy in times of sorrow.

To him who gave so much to others and for whom we had such deep devotion we would like to pay a halting tribute, knowing full well that his overwhelming love for others was a gift from God and that God, in His infinite wisdom, permitted us to enjoy John Whitaker's friendship for a brief span of years in order that we, who are not so worthy, might be better able to finish out the allotted course because of the grace of that friendship.

TEAMWORK EVOLVED
FROM DR. COOPER

One could look a long time without finding another man to whom Kentucky owes as much as to Dr. Thomas P. Cooper. For 33 years he contributed steadily at the University of Kentucky to the commonwealth's rich resource of agriculture. Under his direction the Kentucky Experiment Station did much to improve farm efficiency and productivity on a permanent basis.

The Kentucky Press Association, therefore, has chosen well in naming Dr. Cooper as Kentucky's outstanding citizen of 1951—the year he became dean emeritus of the University's College of Agriculture and Home Economics. It is typical of Dr. Cooper that he says it was not he, but teamwork that accomplished so much during his years in Kentucky agriculture. We must remark, however, that there wouldn't have been such teamwork had it not been for Dr. Cooper. Out of courage, integrity and pleasant assurance he has been able to endow others with the desire for teamwork. That is part of his genius.

—Louisville Courier-Journal,
Jan. 17, 1952.

REUNIONS — MAY 29.

T. P. Cooper Honored By U. S. Farm Group

Dr. Thomas Poe Cooper, dean emeritus of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics, was honored last fall for his contribution to American agriculture.

The American Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers, meeting at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago, presented to Dr. Cooper the D. Howard Doane award given each year for outstanding work in the field of agriculture.

The society has about 700 members including a chapter in Kentucky.

HUGUELET, WILLIAMS,
BROADBENT NAMED

Guy A. Huguelet, '14, of Lexington, chairman of the executive committee of the University's Board of Trustees, was renominated, along with two other alumni, for the vacancy on the board created last December 31 when his four-year term expired.

The two other alumni nominated from a list of six nominees submitted to UK graduates in a mail ballot were Mrs. Cecil T. (Mae Berry) Williams, '29, of Somerset, Ky., and S. D. Broadbent, Jr., '34, of Cobb, Ky.

The Governor of Kentucky will make the appointment from the three alumni nominated.

PAUL MANSFIELD, '34,
COMMONWEALTH ATT'Y.

Paul Mansfield, '34, young Lexington lawyer, has been elected commonwealth's attorney of Fayette County, succeeding James Park, '15, who held the office since 1928. Mr. Mansfield did not run for reelection.

Mr. Mansfield has appointed Richard Smith, 26-year-old Lexington attorney and a graduate of the University in the class of 1949 as commonwealth's detective of Fayette County for a four-year term. He succeeded Frank Trimble, '38, who became commissioner in January.

UK Founders Day To Feature TV Program From WHAS

Dr. W. S. Webb, '01, Distinguished Professor of Physics, will be the Founder's Day speaker, Friday morning, February 22, at 10 o'clock. He will give highlights of the University's history.

"Something old, something new, something borrowed, and something blue," is a time-honored phrase that aptly describes a part of the University's upcoming 1952 Founders Day program.

The something old is, of course, the University, which on February 22 will observe its 87th birthday.

The something new is television, through which a portion of the observance will be taken into the living rooms of several thousand UK alumni and friends.

Because the University is not yet in the television business, the something borrowed will be the facilities of Station WHAS-TV, Channel 9, in Louisville.

And the something blue may well be the nostalgic mood created in the minds of grads and former students as they see on their television screens familiar faces from college days and hear recounted a variety of campus events in which they, the listeners, may have participated.

The idea for utilizing television in this year's Founders Day program originated with E. G. Sulzer, head of the Department of Radio Arts, and quickly won the approval of the program planning committee.

The WHAS-TV telecast is scheduled for 6:15 p.m., C.S.T., on Thursday, February 21. Featured on the special show will be four campus figures, one or more of whom will be instantly recognized by almost any living graduate of the University.

They are Miss Margie McLaughlin, assistant professor of journalism; Prof.

John Whitaker, Loyal Alumnus U.S. Congressman, Dies Dec. 15

John Albert Whitaker, of Russellville, Ky., a member of the United States Congress from the Second Congressional District, prominent attorney and loyal Kentucky alumnus, died at his law office in Russellville on Dec. 15 after suffering a heart attack.

The Congressman's secretary said that he started to walk across the office from his desk to answer a telephone call about 3:45 p.m. when he slumped to the floor and died almost immediately. His wife, Mrs. Helen Dent Whitaker, was on the way to the office when he collapsed. He was dead when she arrived.

From 1928 until 1948 Whitaker served as Logan County attorney. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for Kentucky lieutenant governor in 1943.

Whitaker made the 1948 Congressional race at the request of Earle Clements. Clements picked Whitaker to succeed him when he left Congress to seek the Governorship.

Whitaker was unopposed in the special election. He also ran without opposition when he won a full two-year term on his own in 1950.

Informed in Frankfort of Whitaker's death, Governor Wetherby said:

"We are all shocked, even if it was not so much of a surprise in view of his health."

The Governor said he and Whitaker long had been friends. Whitaker was a guest at the executive mansion for Wetherby's inauguration.

Whitaker was a native of Russellville. He attended grade school and high school there and did his early college work at now defunct Bethel College.

He was graduated from the University of Kentucky Law School in 1925.

Among his fraternity brothers in Sigma Alpha Epsilon, he was known by the nickname, "Susie," and later, "Senator."

John Albert Whitaker

A protege of the late Thomas S. Rhea, influential Logan county Democratic leader, Whitaker got his initiation in state-wide politics in 1930. That year he was district campaign manager for the late M. M. Logan in his successful race for the United States Senate against the late John M. Robson.

In 1932, 1936, 1940, and 1944, Whitaker attended the Democratic national conventions with Rhea. Rhea was one of Franklin D. Roosevelt's floor managers in 1932.

Whitaker again served as district campaign manager for Logan when he ran for renomination in 1936.

When A. B. Chandler tried in 1938 to wrest the senatorial nomination from Alben W. Barkley, Whitaker worked in Barkley's state headquarters during the primary campaign.

He performed similar service for John Young Brown in 1939 during Brown's unsuccessful gubernatorial-primary contest with Keen Johnson.

In the 1944 general election, Whit-

New Scholarship Established

The executive committee of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association has authorized the Kentucky Research Foundation to set up another four-year, all-expense scholarship for a deserving freshman to go into effect with the opening of the 1952 fall term.

This additional scholarship, made possible by the annual giving program of alumni to the University of Kentucky Alumni Association's Loyalty Fund, commits the Fund to a continued expenditure of $11,200.

While it is the fifth scholarship established by the alumni, it will entail the cost of only four as the first recipient will be graduated from the University this June with a high scholastic standing.

Nominations for the 1952 scholarship are being accepted now, and blanks for nominating have been mailed to all active members of the association and to the presidents of organized clubs. Nominations must be in the Alumni Office before March 1, 1952, and any paid-up alumnus in the United States or active alumni club is eligible to nominate a student for the scholarship.

To be eligible for this scholarship a student must have high scholastic ability, must be outstanding in character, personality and extra-curricular activities and must demonstrate a clear need for the scholarship.

William H. Townsend, of Lexington, chairman of the executive committee's Loyalty Fund program is currently mailing out letters to alumni urging them to contribute to this worthy enterprise. Contributions are tax-deductible, and checks should be made payable to the University of Kentucky Loyalty Fund or to the Kentucky Research Foundation and mailed to the Alumni Office.

Only through the continued contributions of loyal alumni may these scholarships be maintained.

Fister Promoted By Southern Bell

Fred M. Fister has been appointed building and equipment engineer for the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, E. C. Houston, has announced.

Mr. Fister succeeds H. G. Bartee, who has been named assistant vice president.

Mr. Fister began his service with Southern Bell in Atlanta in 1929 in a general training course. After training assignments and duties in Kentucky, he was transferred in March, 1937, to the general engineering department in Atlanta. He served as a Colonel on the staff of General Douglas MacArthur during World War II, rejoining the company to become South Carolina chief engineer, the position he held at the time of his new appointment.

Mr. Fister was graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1929 with a degree in mechanical engineering.

Collectively, the quartet of campus veterans can look back over 153 years of service with the University, and each is gifted with the memory and story-telling ability which can keep an audience charmed for hours.

The chief regret among viewers will be that the program necessarily must be limited to 15 minutes.

Scheduled for 10 a.m., this special convocation will be the principal program in the University's birthday celebration. Details will be announced via newspapers and radio as soon as arrangements are complete. Alumni are cordially invited to attend.

E. J. Kilpatrick, assistant state agent in agricultural extension work at the University's College of Agriculture and Home Economics, is in Greece teaching agriculture this year.

Mr. Kilpatrick is serving under Fulbright appointment and is a visiting lecturer on agricultural extension in the Superior School of Agriculture at Athens. He is also acting as advisor to the Near East Foundation on agricultural research.

Whitaker was chairman of the speaker bureau at Roosevelt-Barkley state headquarters. In the 1946 senatorial primary and fall election, he worked for Brown.

He was an early supporter of Clements in Clements' campaign in 1947 to become Governor. That was a major factor in Whitaker's getting the district-convention nomination to succeed Clements in Congress.

With the death of Rhea, party leadership in Logan, Todd, and Simpson counties passed to a trio consisting of Whitaker, Circuit Judge E. J. Ferguson and Emerson Beauchamp, present Kentucky lieutenant governor.

Whitaker's wife was born in South Carolina and reared in Nashville, Tenn. They met at Russellville in 1927, when she came here to teach home economics at Logan College. Also surviving are his parents, and Mrs. Arthur Whitaker, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Moore, Bowling Green.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist Temple in Russellville Dec. 17, where Mr. Whitaker's body lay in state for one hour preceding the ceremony, and burial followed at Maple Grove cemetery in Russellville.

A congressional delegation, headed by Kentucky's Senators Earle C. Clements and Thomas R. Underwood, attended the funeral services, as did Kentucky's Governor Lawrence W. Erby and Lieut. Gov. Emerson Beauchamp, a life-long friend of Mr. Whitaker's.

"Comeback Kids" Beat TCU In Cotton Bowl

By Chuck Tilley
Sports Editor, Kentucky Kernel

It wasn't luck or a series of breaks that gave the Kentucky football team the name of the "Comeback Kids of 1951." It was a solid determination perhaps unparalleled in the history of sports at the university.

Down and counted out by a lot of people, the team that had lost 19 men from the previous year came storming back from three straight defeats and climaxed the season with a clean cut victory over Texas Christian University in the Cotton Bowl.

Back on October 6 at Stoll Field, few of the 30,000 fans who had watched Georgia Tech beat the Wildcats 13-7 would have guessed they were watching a team which would become a bowl champion. Three consecutive losses, although by a combined total of only 11 points, seemed to suggest 1951 was not the year for the Cats.

They had lost their first major engagement to the Texas Longhorns by a 7-6 score. The young and inexperienced Wildcats played their hearts out.

They outgained the Texans both on the ground and in the air. They piled up 21 first downs and held the powerful Texas running game to eight. But they lost the ball game.

The players who trounced Tennessee Tech 72-13 in the 1951 season opener, had been reading and hearing they were a team far inferior to the 1950 team which beat Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl. The Texas game however gave them confidence. They were capable of playing good ball. They went to Oxford, Miss. September 29, confident of beating a fair Mississippi team. At the end of the third quarter the Cats were coasting with a 17-7 lead.

Then came the deluge. Kentucky backs fumbled twice and both times a Rebel recovered. Mississippi converted both to touchdowns and led 21-17 with six minutes to play. All-American Babe Parilli's passes were never more accurate as he attempted to bring the Cats back into the game. His passes covered the length of the field and with six seconds left in the contest, he threw a perfect pass into the end zone. The over-anxious receiver had the ball in his hands, then dropped it. That made it two losses in a row.

Then came the Georgia Tech game and another loss. Again Coach Bear Bryant's boys outplayed their opponent but a fourth period gamble failed. The Yellow Jackets took over and scored the winning touchdown. The Wildcats led 7-6 with five minutes to play. It was fourth and one in their own territory but they chose to try for the yard and retain possession. Someone broke a signal and the play failed. That was the third loss.

Then the Wildcats began rolling. Parilli began getting the pass protection he deserved. The Kentucky offense began shoving across six-pointers instead of stopping near the goal line. The defensive unit dug in and began performances which were comparable, and sometimes superior, to the great line of 1950.

Co-captains Parilli and Doug Moseley, both All-American choices, led the offensive and defensive teams respectively and instilled a fighting spirit which was to carry through six consecutive victories. Mississippi State fell victim to the rejuvenated Cats 27-0. Villanova tasted defeat for the first time that year the following week when the Cats walloped them soundly, 35-13.

The next week found the Cats roasting in 80-degree heat at Gainesville, Fla. It was a hot day, but Parilli was hotter, and Florida gave in by a 14-6 score.

A good Miami team served as visitors in the annual Homecoming Game at Lexington the next week. There was snow and it was cold and the Cats gave the deep-freeze treatment to their sunshine guests and "Parillized" them 32-0.

A trip to New Orleans resulted in a 37-0 shellacing of Tulane and the Cats had it easy the next week when George Washington U. proved to be no match in a Lexington tussle. The score was 47-13.

Gen. Bob Neyland brought his methodical runners and tacklers to Stoll Field November 24 and his charges were never better as they plowed out a 28-0 win over the Bryantmen. The Cats almost scored in the second quarter, with the score 0-7, but a Parilli quarterback sneak failed on the six-inch line. Tennessee went on to win handily.

Bryant and his team had accepted the Cotton Bowl bid prior to the Tennessee game. They broke training for a few days and, when a siege of cold weather hit Lexington, they moved to Houston, Texas, for pre-game drills.

The New Year's Day classic at Dallas saw the Cats at their best. Parilli, Emery Clark, and Tom Fillion were picked 1-2-3 as the best backs on the field. Sophomore Ray Correll and Moseley ran second and third behind TCU linebacker Keith Flowers as the best lineman of the day. Parilli, Clark, and Correll won Honorable Mention positions on the All-Time Cotton Bowl team.

Parilli passed to Clark for two scores and Ed Hamilton plunged over for a third as the Cats won 20-7.

James Park Honored By Fayette Lawyers

James Park, A.B. '15, LL.B. '20, Lexington, who retired as commonwealth's attorney last January 7 after serving in that capacity since 1925, was honored at a testimonial dinner given by the Fayette County Bar Association in December at Campbell House.

Qualities of friendship, fair play and legal proficiency were stressed by 120 fellow attorneys and friends paying him tribute, and he was presented with a silver pitcher from the "lawyers of Fayette county" during the testimonial dinner.

Principal speaker was William Townsend, LL.B. '12, LL.D. '30, who has been a law partner of Mr. Park during 22½ years of the 24 years of the latter has been commonwealth's attorney.

Other speakers were Commonwealth's Attorney-elect Paul Mansfield '34; and Weldon Shouse, A.B. '11, LL.B. '40.

Charles Wylie, '35, president of the bar association, presided.

The season's end saw two important moves. Coach Bryant announced that he will culminate all out-of-state recruiting.

The second move was the retirement of Number 10—the number made famous by Parilli, the man who practically re-wrote the nation's recruiting book for passers.

Twelve seniors were on the 1950 squad and 11 of them can show watches for playing in three consecutive major bowls, the Orange, Sugar, and the Cotton in that order. Bill Leskovar, fullback, played in the Great Lakes Bowl as a freshman, one of the few men who can lay claim to playing in four bowls while in college.

It was a great year. A year which was beyond the expectations of most except the most important—a squad of boys who refused to quit when chips were down.

Miami - U.K. Homecoming Was A Gala Day

Hundreds Return For Celebration

Kentucky alumni gave a whole week-end to Homecoming last November 2 and 3, when hundreds of graduates and former students returned to Alma Mater to participate in the dedication of the new Journalism School on Friday evening, and stayed over for the annual alumni brunch; a victorious football game with Miami (Fla.); an open house at the home of President and Mrs. Donovan and an alumni dance that evening at the Lafayette hotel.

Beginning with the dedication dinner on Friday evening, in which such prominent alumni as U. S. Senator Thomas R. Underwood, former Governor Keen Johnson, AP War Correspondent and Pulitzer Prize Winner Don Whitehead, and Journalism School Director Niel Plummer participated; and closing with the alumni dance on Saturday evening, the week-end was pronounced the most successful in a long line of happy homecomings.

Some of the highlights of the week-end, other than those mentioned, included registration of hundreds of alumni at the down-town hotels, the Coliseum and the Student Union; the presentation of the "Alumnus of the Year" award to President H. L. Donovan at the opening of the homecoming football game; and the Fayette County Alumni Club's buffet supper on Thursday night, Nov. 1 at the Lexington Country Club, to which early arrivals among the alumni came.

A group of tobacco companies and associations in Kentucky and one in North Carolina have contributed a total of $3,800 to the University's Agricultural Experiment Station recently for the control and eradication of black shank in tobacco.

UK Surveys Life In Shelbyville

The University of Kentucky's Bureau of Community Service entered upon a six-weeks survey of Shelbyville last December, designed to give a detailed picture of the city's community life.

Five members of the UK agency interviewed local residents and compiled information from other sources.

The survey was requested by the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs, Civic Church Women, Parent-Teacher Association, Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the Shelbyville Board of Education and the Chamber of Commerce.

Dallas U.K. Alumni Club Organized December 31

John Goldschmeding Heads Texas Group

Alumni of Dallas met with the Alumni Association's executive secretary at noon on New Year's Eve at the Stoneleigh Hotel in Dallas, for the purpose of forming a Dallas UK Alumni Club.

Fourteen of the approximately 30 potential members were on hand to form the organization, and John Goldschmeding, Jr., '37, 303 Southland Insurance Bldg., head of Philco's Sales Division in Dallas, was elected first president of the group. Other officers chosen were Chester C. Young, '22, vice president of the Lone Star Gas Co., vice president; and The Rev. Robert Raible, '21, pastor of the First Unitarian Church there, secretary-treasurer.

Alumni living within driving distance of Dallas are urged to contact one of the above named officers, as Dallas hopes to include in its club membership any graduate or former student of the University of Kentucky living in the Dallas area.

President Goldschmeding plans an early meeting of the Dallas Club at which time the Alumni Office hopes to provide the group with a film of the Kentucky-TCU Cotton Bowl game.

President Goldschmeding assisted the executive secretary in setting up registration for Kentucky alumni in the lobby of the Baker Hotel on New Year's Eve, and otherwise implemented the Alumni Association's program during the Cotton Bowl festivities.

Dr. Ernest J. Nesius, farm economist at the University of Kentucky Experiment Station, is in Austria where he is serving as deputy director of the food and agriculture organization section of the Economic Co-Operative Administration. He is helping to develop and initiate programs for food production.

Anyone in Kentucky who tries to keep up with the Jones'—or the Clarks—has his work cut out for him because they are about the "travelingist" two couples in the commonwealth.

Young, attractive, enthusiastic, they are the respective parents of Kentucky's football Jones twins—A-Bub and B-Bub—and of Emery Clark, Jr., small package of Carlisle, Ky., backfield dynamite.

John F. Day Named Courier-Journal's Managing Editor

John F. Day, '35, until recently a member of the Louisville Courier-Journal's Washington Bureau staff, has been named managing editor of the Louisville newspaper.

A native of Flemingsburg, Ky., the 38-year-old Day was graduated from Flemingsburg High School and the University and was editor of the Kentucky Kernel while an undergraduate.

Graduated with honors from the University, Day was singled out by a national corporation for business training, but soon forsook that course for a reporter's job on the Lexington Leader. One assignment took him to Breathitt county, and the story he wrote on that region attracted the attention of New York publishers who asked him to do a book. The result was the human and informative study "Bloody Ground" which was published in 1941 while he was night editor of the Huntington, W. Va., bureau of the Associated Press.

During World War II, Day worked with the Office of War Information in Washington and then joined the Cleveland Press where he stayed until 1945. At that time he became managing editor of the Dayton Daily News from which paper he went to the Courier-Journal.

He has won two very much coveted newspaper fellowships. In 1942 he went to Harvard as a Nieman Fellow, and during all of 1951 he traveled in Europe, writing articles for the Courier-Journal as a fellow of the Ogden Reid Foundation.

His wife is the former Bettie Bosworth, '37, of Lexington.

Cyril E. Shadowen, former UK law school student, has been appointed county judge of Muhlenberg county. He is a native of Muhlenberg county and a veteran of World War II.

STUD MANAGERS IN COURSE AT U. of K.

A special course for stud managers and owners in the care and breeding of thoroughbreds, sponsored by the Grayson Foundation and the University's College of Agriculture, was initiated at the University last November.

A capacity enrollment of 130 men from 22 states plus five Canadians and a veterinarian from Brazil signed for the five-day course, the first of its kind here.

Consisting of three one-hour lectures each morning, with farm visits and demonstrations in the afternoon, the course was planned for key men on thoroughbred stud farms.

Surplus Commodities Corporation, director of Commodity Credit Corporation and director of Federal Crop Insurance Corp.

He holds the B.S. degree in agriculture from the University of Kentucky, and has done graduate work in economics at Harvard and the University of Wisconsin.

In March, 1943, he was granted leave of absence from the Bank of America at the request of Chester C. Davis, then War Food Administrator, and served as associate food administrator until Mr. Davis' resignation in July of that year at which time Mr. Tapp resigned also and accepted the presidency of the Axton-Fischer Tobacco Co. of Louisville. Upon liquidation of that firm he returned to his vice presidential duties with the Bank of America in April 1945.

In July of 1945 Clinton P. Anderson, newly appointed Secretary of Agriculture, requested that Mr. Tapp serve as consultant in connection with the consolidation and reorganization of the Department of Agriculture and the War Food Administration. On completion of this assignment he returned to the Bank of America.

Cooper Honored By Ky. Press

Emeritus Dean Thomas Poe Cooper has been named "Kentucky's Outstanding Citizen of 1951" by the Kentucky Press Association.

The award was presented at the mid-winter meeting of the Association held January 24-26 at the Brown Hotel in Louisville.

Dr. Cooper, dean emeritus of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics, was selected from a list of 14 men and one woman, nominated by owners, publishers and editors of newspapers throughout the state.

The 1951 award winner retired last July 1 as dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, director of Kentucky's agricultural extension service and director of the Kentucky Experiment Station after 33 years of service.

Despite his long service to the people of rural Kentucky, the 70-year-old dean is a Kentuckian by adoption. He was born March 2, 1881, in Pekin, Ill. He received his Bachelor of Science in Agriculture degree from the University of Minnesota in 1908, and remained there as a staff member until 1911, when he moved to North Dakota to direct that state's Better Farm Association.

In 1913 he became director of the North Dakota Agricultural Experiment Station and Extension Division—a position he held until coming to Kentucky Jan. 1, 1918.

In 1925, on leave from the University, Dean Cooper served as chief of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Agricultural Economics. In 1940-41, he was acting president of the University of Kentucky.

At commencement exercises at the University last June, Dean Cooper was awarded the Sullivan Memorial Medallion for his service to the residents of the Commonwealth.

When Dean Cooper arrived at Kentucky, 125 students were enrolled in the College of Agriculture and 90 in the Department of Home Economics. In 1951, 225 students were graduated by the college and more than 1,000 are now enrolled.

Numerous improvements have marked Dean Cooper's administration. The Experiment Station farm has been doubled in size, two sub-experiment stations totaling 15,600 acres have been added, and modern laboratories built and equipped for vital research in agriculture and home economics.

Under Dr. Cooper's leadership, new faculty members were added, courses were strengthened, scholarships provided for worthy students, better teaching facilities made available, and the Department of Home Economics made an integral part of the college.

Dean Cooper is the fourth Kentuckian honored by the KPA. In previous years "Outstanding Citizen" awards were made to Vice President Alben W. Barkley (1948), John Sherman Cooper (1949), and Kentucky Football Coach Paul Bryant (1950).

UK Alumnus Named Head Of NPA Body

Otis Howard, '21, of Oklahoma City, Okla., formerly of Hartford, Ky., has been named director of the Engine and Turbine Division of the National Production Authority.

He is on leave from the Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company where he is manager of operations.

Mr. Howard replaces Charles F. Kells, who has returned to New York, where he is assistant to the president of the West Penn Electric Company.

The new NPA Engine and Turbine Division director holds a mechanical engineering degree from the University also, which he obtained in 1924. His wife is the former Clarice Bellew, a graduate of the University in the class of 1922.

UK Girl Reports Trip To Finland

Sue Dossett, '51, of Smith Mills, Ky., a graduate of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics last June, was sent to Europe last summer as a "grass roots diplomat" in the International Youth Exchange Program.

Along with 54 other American boys and girls who went to 19 countries in Europe and the Near East, Brazil, and New Zealand, Sue had a wonderful experience and sent the Alumnus a brief but graphic account of her trip.

Assigned to Finland, Sue was under the care of the Finnish maatalouskirkolito (4-H). To make sure these American boys and girls saw all phases of life in Finland they were permitted to travel through the country from Helsinki in the south to Pallas-tunturi, 200 miles north of the arctic circle, and all over the middle and south of Finland.

Sue reports that last August, when the people at home were sweltering in the heat, she was wearing her winter coat and eating strawberries off the vines. She says she envies all the lucky people who will visit Helsinki next summer for the Olympic games.

Since her return to this country she has accepted a position as an assistant home demonstration agent in Warren-ton, N. C.

UK SOUTHDOWN RAM CHAMPION OF CLASS

A Southdown ram owned by the University of Kentucky and shown by Harold Barber, University shepherd, was named champion of its class at the International Livestock Show held in Chicago last November.

A University Hampshire wether was grand champion of the International sheep division, the third time in three years that this top award has come to U.K.

Jim Miner, Assistant Post Sports Editor

Jim Miner, '34, formerly of Lexington, a graduate of the University of Kentucky's Department of Journalism, has been named assistant sports editor of the Cincinnati Post.

Jim has been a member of the Post sports staff prior to and since World War II.

In commenting on the appointment, Pat Harmon, Post Sports Editor, said that "Miner brings to this promotion a very serviceable background, for he has worked on all sports and with many men. While attending the University of Kentucky in Lexington, his home town, he worked for the Lexington Leader and the Thoroughbred Record. He joined the Post sports department in 1934 and has been one of its pillars ever since. He was in the Army five years, 1941-46- rising to the role of major in the infantry. He was overseas 14 months."

Jim lives in Florence, Ky., with his wife and nine-months-old daughter, Mary Monica.

While a student at the University he won a freshman track numeral running the 100-yard dash in telegraphic meets at Kentucky in 1931.

J. W. CARY, OFFICER IN BRIDGE LEAGUE

J. W. "Jack" Cary, '12, formerly of Versailles, Ky., now of Exeter, Calif., is one of the new vice presidents of the American Contract Bridge League with headquarters in New York City.

Mr. Cary has served the past year as president of the western division which is comprised of the eleven western states, Alaska and the Hawaiian Islands. He introduced duplicate bridge in Tulare county, Calif., several years ago with a club there.

Dr. Charles E. Snow Selected UK's Distinguished Professor

Dr. Charles E. Snow, 41-year-old anthropologist and a member of the UK teaching staff since 1942, has been named Distinguished Professor of 1951 by his colleagues in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Dr. Snow becomes the eighth member of the Arts and Sciences faculty to receive the distinguished professor designation since its inauguration in 1944.

Currently on leave of absence from his University duties, Dr. Snow has been in Hawaii directing an archaeological survey for the Bernice P. Bishop Museum of Honolulu. The research being conducted by Dr. Snow in Hawaii is financed by the Viking Foundation, an organization known for its support of archaeological studies.

A native of Boulder, Colo., the UK anthropologist holds both masters and doctors degrees from Harvard University. His undergraduate studies were taken at the University of Colorado.

During World War II and again in 1948, the Army borrowed Dr. Snow's services from the University. His wartime assignment, with the Quartermaster Department's Climatic Research Laboratory, involved study aimed at determining scientifically the effect on foot soldiers of various climatic conditions. Field experiments conducted by the UK scientist during a New England winter resulted in the re-design of several items of Army gear.

After the war Dr. Snow went to Hawaii as technical chief of the central identification laboratory of the Army Graves Registration Service. There his assignment was directing the identification of unknown war dead.

Prior to joining the UK faculty in April, 1942, Dr. Snow had served as an anthropometrist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture and as a physical anthropologist for a federal archaeological project near Birmingham, Ala. From 1940 to 1942 he was instructor of anthropology at Birmingham-Southern College.

Joining the University staff as an assistant professor, he was promoted to associate in 1944, and to the rank of full professor in 1946.

U.K. LAW TEAM WINS DISTRICT DEBATE

A two-man team from the University of Kentucky law school won the second annual Midwestern moot court competition in St. Louis, Mo., last November and qualified to appear in the national competition in New York in December, where they lost out to the University of Arizona team.

The Kentucky team argued that witnesses have the right to refuse to testify before Congressional committees when the hearings are televised and broadcast.

Jack M. Lowrey, Jr., and Robert H. Smith, both of Georgetown, represented the University.

Seven Rowady's Have Attended UK

Seven members of one generation of one family, the Rowady's of Winchester, Ky., have attended the University of Kentucky over a period which began back in the fall of 1934 and ended in June of 1950.

Six of the seven brothers and sisters are graduates, and all of them have done well in their chosen professions since leaving the University. That is quite a record in anybody's book and the Alumni Association is so proud of the "Rowady File" that the Alumnus editor wrote to Julia, the first one to graduate, and asked her to supply us with information on herself and all the others.

Julia, who was graduated in 1938 with a B.S. degree in Commerce, has done graduate work in public administration at the American University, Washington, D. C., and presently is employed in the National Institute of Mental Health, U. S. Public Health Service, Bethesda, Md.

Michael, the second one, was graduated in 1939 from the College of Arts and Sciences and in 1941 from the College of Law. He is in private law practice in Winchester, following a four-year hitch in the Army.

Helen Rowady Courie, '41, with a B.S. degree in Commerce, is presently employed as special cases records investigator, Department of the Air Forces, Washington, D. C.

Lewis, who was a student in the College of Commerce, is now a broker with Charles Bailey and Company in Detroit.

UK Man Holds Important Job With Carrier Corp.

Donald W. Pennock, B.S. M.E. '40, M.E. '48, formerly of Lexington, is a young alumnus who has forged to the front in his field and now holds a responsible position with the Carrier Corp. in Syracuse, N. Y., where he is employed in the Factory Engineering Department, specializing in materials handling engineering.

Following his graduation from the University he spent several years in maintenance and construction work before he was employed as an engineer in the experimental development of full scale radial aircraft engines. During the early phase of World War II, his knowledge of aircraft engines combined with his experience in industrial plant operations secured his employment in industry in an engineering capacity on matters of sabotage, espionage, and Un-American activities.

Later he practiced industrial engineering in connection with the production of fighter aircraft and since 1945 has worked with Carrier in its Factory Engineering Department.

Mr. Pennock works constantly to interest northern industry in the founding of new business in Kentucky and returns to the commonwealth several times a year to offer gratuitous services to individuals and officials whenever the common welfare of Kentuckians can be advanced.

He is widely read in technical journals where he has authored numerous articles, and speaks almost every week in some part of the nation or in Canada where he is a familiar figure to plant managers on both sides of the border and is well known for his work in industrial equipment cost control.

Mr. Pennock is a member of the Munitions Board SHIAC Committee and Planning Sub-Committee; the ASME-AHMS M. H. Handbook Committee; the Atlantic States Shippers Advisory Board; the Material Handling

Donald W. Pennock

Conference Executive Committee; the editorial advisory board of Modern Materials Handling and the American Management Association Packaging Council. He is a professional engineer and a member of the National Society of Professional Engineers and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and for the past two years had served as national president of the American Material Handling Society, Inc.

With all of these professional affiliations, he still has time to take an active interest in the affairs of his Alma Mater, and is a life member of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association.

Lawrence Thompson, director of libraries at the University, is serving a four-month period as library science specialist at the U. S. Embassy in Ankara, Turkey. He accepted the assignment at the invitation of the U. S. State Department.

In a program preceding the kick-off, Louis Cox, president of the Alumni Association presented ten silver cups to President Donovan, one for each year of his service as president of the University. The veteran educator, who was graduated from the University in 1914, completed his 10th year of administration last July.

JOHN ED PEARCE IN COLUMBIA U. SEMINAR

Pearce, 33, has been with the Courier-Journal since 1947. Prior to that he edited the Somerset, Ky., Journal. He is a member of the Louisville Free Public Library board and makes his home at 120 Crescent Avenue.

John Wayne Boring, 22-year-old University of Kentucky junior engineering student, is the winner of the national scholarship contest of the American Society of Tool Engineers.

The scholarship is awarded to outstanding students preparing to enter industry in some phase of tool or production engineering.

Young Boring has earned approximately 75 per cent of his school expenses while maintaining a scholastic average of between 2.5 and 3.0.

REUNIONS — MAY 29-30.

Cornerstone Laid For New Mineral Industries Bldg.

Cornerstone-laying ceremonies were held on the University campus last November for the new Mineral Industries building.

State Senator Louis Cox, president of the UK Alumni Alumni Association laid the cornerstone of the three-story structure located beside the Highway Research Laboratory on Graham Avenue.

The first unit will house the State Department of Mines and Minerals and the Kentucky Geological Survey. Both of these have occupied temporary quarters since fire destroyed Norwood Hall three years ago.

When completed, two additional units now planned will be used by the University's department of mining engineering, its department of geology, and other divisions whose work is allied to the state's mineral industries.

If completed according to present plans, the building will be 212 by 120 feet.

Dean D. V. Terrell, '10, presided at the cornerstone laying and others participating were: A. D. Sisk, chief inspector of the State Department of Mines and Minerals; Samuel Cassidy, '25, president of Consolidation Coal Co., Jenkins, Ky.; Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, vice president of the University and C. S. Crouse, head of the University's department of mining and metallurgical engineering.

Junior League's $5,000 Gift Will Aid U Of K's Speech Clinic

The Lexington Junior League, through a $5,000 gift to the University of Kentucky, has provided for expansion of the psychology department's speech and hearing clinic.

Formerly the clinic has been conducted during the summer months only, but now it will be operated as a speech school during the regular school months.

The Junior League's gift will finance employment of a teacher—who will teach all subjects—and of two trained speech therapists. The University's facilities will be used for the school but the instruction and therapy will be furnished by the league.

The speech and hearing school will be operated in conjunction with the UK speech and hearing clinic and will open with a 12-child capacity. League officials said plans call for future expansion.

Not only will children with speech and hearing disabilities be helped, but the school will provide a training ground for UK psychology majors who desire to specialize as speech therapists.

The league's gift specified it was to be used "for supplementing the training clinic in speech corrective therapy by establishing facilities for a number of children to receive speech therapy and, at the same time, to receive regular classroom instruction comparable with that available in the public schools."

Carl P. King, of Lexington, a law school graduate of the University, has been appointed director of enforcement of the Kentucky Office of Price Stabilization.

A native of Danville, he is a veteran of World War I and has held several federal and state positions.

Capt. E. S. Penick At Univ. Of Michigan

Capt. E. S. Penick, Jr.

Capt. Everett S. Penick, Jr., of Lexington, Ky., alumnus of the University of Kentucky and son of the late Everett S. Penick, LL.B. '16, recently entered the University of Michigan to study toward his master's degree in aeronautical engineering, under the auspices of the USAF Institute of Technology.

The USAF Institute of Technology at Wright-Patterson AF Base, Dayton, Ohio, conducts an officer education program in civilian colleges as well as resident courses, designed to meet the great demand for AF Office specialists in the engineering and scientific fields.

Capt. Penick served extensively in World War II in the central and western Pacific area with the amphibious assault forces, and was with the Counter-Intelligence Corps of the Army of Occupation in Germany for three years.

He attended the University of Kentucky from 1940 to 1943 and was manager of the Wildcat basketball team.

Grid Wildcats Honored By Alumni Association

Football Banquet Held November 26

Kentucky's football Wildcats, who culminated another successful season with a bid to the Cotton Bowl on January 1, were honored by the UK Alumni Association at its annual banquet on Monday night, Nov. 26.

Homer Baker, Louisville alumnus of the University and loyal supporter of Wildcat athletic teams, was the principal speaker at the banquet.

Baker defended college athletics against the recent attacks which have been made on it, saying the spirit generated by competitive athletics is the spirit which has made the United States the greatest in the world.

"Good, sound competitive athletics must stay with us," Baker said, adding that "universities should give the greatest amount of help possible to the greatest number of boys and girls possible and the elimination of an athletic program would eliminate automatically the possibility of thousands of boys going to college."

Dr. H. L. Donovan, UK president, defended the University's athletic policy, saying there is "no overemphasis of athletics at the University of Kentucky at the expense of education."

Ed Hamilton, senior halfback from Louisville, was announced as the winner of the Sam Huey Jr. Scholarship trophy which goes annually to the senior footballer with the highest scholastic standing. The presentation was made by the trophy donor, Sammy Huey.

Bill Rives, sports editor of the Dallas Morning News, told the group that the Cotton Bowl is looking forward to a great game Jan. 1. "Kentucky plays the kind of football we want to see," he said. "I don't know who will win the Southwest Conference championship but the combination of Kentucky and the Southwest champion should give the fans a great football show.

I'll guarantee you one thing—they won't see any of this old single-wing stuff that day."

Bryant introduced all the members of his squad and his coaching staff. The 12 seniors—Co-Captains Doug Moseley and Vito (Babe) Parilli, Hamilton, Emery Clark, John Netoskie, John Ignarski, Jim Mackenzie, Bill Leskovar, Bill Conde, Cliff Lawson, Paul Jones and George Claiborne—all received watches from the alumni association, as did Senior Manager Al Wiemann.

UK Athletic Director Bernie Shively served as master of ceremonies.

Before the speaking part of the program, George Horine presented a floor show which included a comedy skit and a number of songs by Horine.

CLASSES HOLDING REUNIONS THIS YEAR ARE: 1895, '96, '97, and '98; 1902; 1912; 1914, '15, '16, and '17; 1933, '34, '35, and '36, and 1927.

Notice To Nation: Kentucky's In Hoop Picture

By Marvin Poer,
Sports Publicity Office

Coach Adolph Rupp and his University of Kentucky Wildcat cagers, ranked number one in the nation in the pre-season polls of leading colleges in basketball throughout the nation, have done far more than was expected of them at the beginning of the 1951-52 basketball season.

Laboring under adverse conditions since the opening game, the Wildcats have won nine of their first eleven games against major competition, and the two losses have been by a total of only five points. The Rupp Raiders have dropped a four-point decision to the Minnesota Gophers in the third contest of the season and the first away from the home court, then had an eight point lead disappear in the final four minutes of the game against the fired-up St. Louis Billikens in the Sugar Bowl Tournament finals. The Billikens won by a slim one-point margin.

The opening game, with Washington & Lee furnishing the opposition, found big Bill Spivey sidelined due to a knee operation that failed to respond properly. A short time later the entire team was placed under a tremendous handicap when investigators from New York entered the state of Kentucky with orders to dig up additional facts in regards to basketball "fixing". Spivey, the center of numerous unproved rumors, voluntarily resigned from the squad temporarily in late December in order to relieve the pressure on his teammates, caused by malicious rumors.

With Spivey out of the line-up, six-foot-four Cliff Hagan stepped into the picture to take over the all-important center position vacated by Spivey. Cliff has given a remarkable account of himself in all of the games to date. He leads the team in six important departments in team play, having scored the most field goals and free throws, being ahead in the rebounds and assists departments, and is the high point man with 230 points for an eleven game average of 20.9.

Hagan has paced the team in most of their important wins for the first half of the 1951-52 season. In the DePaul game, Cliff poured 21 points through the nets to lead all scorers. In the Sugar Bowl he scored 24 points against Brigham Young University and came back the next night to score 15 tallies as the St. Louis team dropped the Wildcats for their second defeat of the season.

As the team returned from the Sugar Bowl tourney, Ole Miss furnished the opposition at Owensboro, Ky. and the Owensboro product collected his highest point total of the season as he scored 37 for the home folks.

Prior to the appearance of the Kentucky team in the Sugar Bowl, the St. John's Redmen moved ahead of the Wildcats in the weekly polls. The following night the Redmen invaded the Wildcats lair and were soundly spanked to the tune of 81-40, hardly an indication of the superiority of the Redmen over the Kentucky team in the polls. Cliff Hagan and Bobby Watson shared high point honors in that contest as they each contributed 25 markers to the easy victory over the New Yorkers.

Rupp maintains that his Kentucky victories over court rivals are the result of well-rounded team play. With the high powered attack being led by such able performers as Bobby Watson, Cliff Hagan, Frank Ramsey, Lou Tsiropoulos, Skippy Whitaker, Shelby Linville, and a newcomer to the scene, Billy Evans, this fact is borne out by the blazing fast-break employed by the players under the tutelage of the "Man-in-the-Brown Suit", the Baron Adolph Rupp.

Kentucky may be humbled again this season, but the pre-season "dopesters" can't be far from right in placing the Kentucky five in the number one spot in the basketball scramble. The "Cats" are capable of beating any team in the nation on a better than average
