Gillespie Named To Law Journal

Hatfield, Lassarier Get Managing Editorships

John Richard Gillespie will be appointed editor of the Kentucky Law Journal, succeeding co-editors Frank Warrick and John Hopkins, Prof. Roy Moreland, faculty adviser, announced.

Gillespie, third year law student from Franklin, will take office at the beginning of the fall semester. George W. Hatfield, Whitley City, and James M. Lassarier, Murray, were chosen managing editors for the journal and successory Harry B. Miller, who will remain managing editor until his graduation in August.

Six men were appointed to the Journal editorial board: Clarence Crech, Ashland; John J. Larkin, Lexington; Calvert C. Little, London; D. L. McLaughlin, Lexington; Morris Q. Miller, Fortson; and Robert E. Park, Trenton, Tenn.

These appointments were made to fill vacancies left by Bernard Wells, Catherine Gillis, Miller, Warrick and Hopkins, all of whom will have graduated by September.

Other members of the editorial board at present are John J. Gillett, Fred H. Daugherty, Porter H. Gilbert, Norris Reiger, and William P. Threlkeld.

Basis For Appointment

Appointment to the Law Journal staff is based on scholarship as well as the ability to do creditable professional writing, Prof. Moreland said. The journal is published four times a year, in November, January, March, and May.

It has a mailing list composed mostly of practicing attorneys in Kentucky, law school libraries, and other persons and institutions with a professional interest in such publications.

Dr. Deily Resigns Library Position

Dr. Robert H. Deily has resigned as head of the Department of Library Science after two years at the University of Kentucky, to become chief of the production staff at the New York State Library in Albany.

His resignation was accepted by the Board of Trustees at its meeting Friday, July 22, 1946.

No successor has been selected. Before coming to the University, Dr. Deily spent three years as an army intelligence officer at the Los Alamos, N. M. atomic bomb project. He has been librarian at the Kentucky Public Library and the Western College State Island, N. Y. Dr. Deily has received degrees from Middleburg College and Lehigh, Columbia, and the University of Chicago.

Mixed Chorus Plans Amphitheater Concert

The summer school mixed chorus under the direction of Alvin Kivins will present a special concert in the Memorial Auditorium Amphitheater at 7 p. m. Thursday, August 8, at 10 o'clock.

The program, fifth in the Music Department's summer concert series, will include a sacred selection, a madrigal, a selection of madrigals, light choral work, and two songs from the opera, "Nausicaa Marjatta."

Solo parts will be sung by Philip Brown and Jo Ann McGinnis. McGinnis will be accompanied by the music department, which directed community singing before the concert program begins.

Ag College Announces Poultry Study Course

The 24th annual poultry short course will be held at the livestock judging pavilion August 2 through August 6, the College of Agriculture and Home Economics announced.

No tuition charge will be made for the course, which is offered mainly for poultrymen and hatchery operators. There are no entrance requirements, and the course is essentially practical, it was stated.

Freshmen Field Forms

The men's dormitories will be filled completely with freshmen this fall, according to the Dean of Men's Affairs.

No upperclassmen will be admitted.

Students Must Fill Out Kivins Mailing Forms

Any summer graduate or regular June graduate who has not filled out a mailing form for his 1946 Kentucky must do so immediately, according to the Kivins mailing office.

Students who have already paid in full must fill out forms or yearbooks cannot be sent to them.

Mailing forms may be obtained in the Kivins business office in the basement of Motley Hall.

Protests Voiced On Entrance Setup At Medical School

Following a claim by a University of Louisville official that students are getting into the Medical School through political pressure, some UK pre-medical applicants to the school raised an outcry against what they called "discrimination."

But UK authorities gave an official viewpoint making an opposite statement.

"I'm not aware of any discrimination in any way how they should go into the school," said President H. L. Donovan. "And I don't believe there is any."

"The admission of students to medical school at the University of Louisville is a problem for the University of Louisville, not the University of Kentucky," the president said.

"Their Business"

"We would not think of indicating to them in any way how they should go about the admission of students. That's their business."

Other members of the editorial board at present are John J. Gillett, Fred H. Daugherty, Porter H. Gilbert, Norris Reiger, and William P. Threlkeld.

Wants Good Anywhere

He said that UK graduates who have been recommended by the medical screening committee would make good in any medical school. At latest report, Dr. Allen said "there has not been a single failure in the medical school since its formation in 1939."

Dr. Allen is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, the American Society of Zoologists, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and other scientific societies.

Fluence Nightingale To Be WBKY Feature

The story of Florence Nightingale and her fight against the prejudices and indifference of the English government, which she overcame, will be the feature of the WBKY radio program, "Adventures in Research," Tuesday at 7:45 p. m.

Dr. Allen is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, the American Society of Zoologists, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and other scientific societies.

Fence Being Erected For Maxwell Place

Students of the Department of Mines and Metallurgy are making a steel fence to be erected, under the president's direction.

The fence will extend from Rose Street, past the president's home, to the new Fine Arts building, and past the east side of the building to the new Fine Arts building.

The metallurgy department has employed students for the work which is being done on the campus, according to Prof. C. S. Crouse of the metallurgy department.

'Great Future For Amateurs' Says Briggs, Guignol Director

By Stanley J. Schill

"There's a great future for amateur theatricals," according to Prof. Wallace N. Briggs, director of the Guignol Theater.

Prof. Briggs who is also an assistant professor of English in addition to his duties in the theater, is an old hand at amateur theatricals. "He lives, breathes, eats, and sleeps theater," according to one of his proteges.

He has personally directed seven or eight shows, and has worked in conjunction with others on at least four more. His acting experience includes countless programs and plays.

Radio Adaptation Planned

Plans are underway now to have "John Loves Mary," the show under production at the theater, adapted for radio and broadcast over local radio station WBKY.

Prof. Briggs has planned three or four more shows for the coming year, including popular plays, light drama, and revivals of the old masterpieces, including the works of Shakespeare.

Dr. Allen Fills Zoology Vacancy

Dr. William R. Allen, U.K. professor of zoology was named head of the Department of Zoology at a Board of Trustees meeting Friday.

Dr. Allen, a member of the University since 1922 succeeded the late Dr. W. D. Pankhouser.

A native of Oeston, Ind., Dr. Allen received the bachelor of arts, master of arts, doctor of philosophy degrees from Indiana University. Before coming to the University he had taught zoology at Kansas State College, Indiana University, and Akron University. For five years he was principal and teacher in the elementary schools of Hartford, Conn.

Vets May Sign Forms

Any Public Law 246 veteran, either in summer school or not, may fill in forms for fall registration and one time between next Monday, Monday, August 30, in Room 214, Administration Building.

Veterans planning to be in school in the fall will save a delay in picking up their veterans' cards at registration by filling in the forms now, the Veterans Administration said.

Those who wait until the opening of the fall semester will have to fill in the forms on registration day before obtaining their veterans' cards.

Fellowships Given To Two Students

Two graduate bacteriology students have been awarded fellowships and one has received assistant professorship, Dr. M. Scheraga, head of the bacteriology department, announced.

Helvio Giesmer, who will get her master's degree in August, was awarded a National Institute of Health Predoctorate Research Fellowship to study for her doctor's degree with Dr. J. C. Humphries, UK associate professor of bacteriology.

The fellowship gives the student a Public Health Service, about $1600 a year, plus tuition, to Miss Giesmer.

Lectures Scheduled By Dutch Professor

Dr. A. N. J. den Hollander of the University of Amsterdam will speak on "The Poor Village, A Legend of the American South," at 8 p. m. Thursday in Memorial Hall.

Continuing the series of lectures sponsored by the political science department, Dr. Hollander will speak on "Hungary Today: Behind the Iron Curtain."

Wednesday night's lecture, the fourth in the series, was by Prof. M. K. Mankind going to Slavery.

Miss Morton was graduated in June from the Nazareth School of Nursing, Lexington.

Nurse Joins Staff

Miss Pauline Morton, Lexington, has joined the staff of the University Health Service as a nurse.

Miss Morton was graduated in June from the Nazareth School of Nursing, Lexington.

Ferguson To Attend University Of Geneva

Crawford Ferguson, journalism senior from Charlotte, N. C., will study French literature, language, and culture, at the University of Geneva in Switzerland next year.

Ferguson, who will be graduated in August, will attend the European Union conference in the provisions of the GI Bill of Rights.

UK Group Entertains

Seniors in the Home Management Department and the Home Economics Department, Helen Wilmore, entertained with a dessert party Thursday. They will attend the Guignol plays afterwards.

A device for pumping heat from the earth and into homes will be in operation in 10 October in the mechanical engineering laboratory, according to Prof. E. B. Penrod, head of the department.

The objectives of the experiment are to see if the earth is a suitable source of heat for the pump when used to heat small homes, and to make a careful study of the present heat flow through the ground.

Graduating Veterans Must Sign Fee List

All veterans in the University who plan to graduate this August must sign the list in the Veterans' Office, Room 204, Administration Building, in order for the government to pay for their nine dollar graduation fee.

Tour, Picnic Close Business Ed Week

A five-day business education conference will end formally today with an address by Dr. Frederick Nichols, administrator of the University, at 9 a. m. in Room 103, White Hall.

Dr. Nichols will speak to the approximately 80 students, teachers, and school administrators on "Planning a business education program."

Lead Roles

One of the lead parts, that of John Laurence, will be played by a University graduate student, Conrad Richardson.

He has appeared in several other UK productions, including "The Sign of the Cross," "The Sign of the Cross," "The Sign of the Cross," and others.

Three other lead roles will be played by students in the cast are making their Guignol debut. They are Joe Dross, in the role of Prof. Taylor, Tom Neel, who plays George Beethoven, and Ed Perkins, as Prof. Taylor's ally, Allan Watson, who plays the part of the doctor, in a summer term student who has been in one other Guignol production, "The Sign of the Cross."

Production Staff

Summer students on the production staff are Elizabeth Groggin, assistant director; David S. Stinebaugh, stage manager; Mark Goodman, the state Department of Education, and about 50 of those attending the conference, Dickinson said.

Radio Station Has New Chief Engineer

Arnold H. Haun, Louisville, has been appointed Chief Engineer at the University's radio station, WBKY, according to E. H. O. Sledge, head of the department.

Haun, a graduate of Purdue University, was formerly associated with the Louisville Radio School where he was an instructor. He was transferred to the station station WKYV, Louisville.

Owen Is Director

Wilfred I. Owen has replaced John T. Adair as director of the men's barracks, effective last Friday.

Mr. Adair has taken a job with Heagman Properties, Inc., as an assistant general manager.

Owen graduated from the engineering college in June, and will take graduate work in September.

Heat From The Earth' Is Aim Of Engineering Experiment

Prof. Penrod pointed out that ground coils are now being laid for the pump, and final preparations are to be completed soon after the start of the fall semester. Approximately 500 feet of tubing will be laid five feet underground, the pump, and will extend 100 feet west of Anderson Hall.

Great interest in the project has been taken by the students of the engineering department.

Student Union Plans Bluesgrass Farm Tour

A tour of Blue Grass farms Tuesday will be sponsored by the Student Union, Miss Margaret Bruce Cruise, SUB social director, announced.

Places of interest to be visited on the tour include Calumet and Circle M horse farms and Keeneland race track.

Students are to take the tour on August 15, and transportation costs of 30 cents below noon Monday, at room 122, SUB, Miss Cruise said.

Home Ec Picnic Given Yesterday At Joyland

Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics fraternity, went on a picnic and swim party at Joyland yesterday. The event was attended by active and some members of the Home Economics staff, and was under the direction of Mrs. Polly Freels, according to Miss Edna Lewis Smith, publicity director for the College of Home Economics.

Movie Shows Iceland

Continuing the series of free movies sponsored by the Extension Department, "The Long Voyage Home," a movie based on the Eugene O'Neill stories of Icelandic heroes, is shown in the Amphitheater at 7:45 p. m. Thursday.

Picnic To Be Held

The mathematics department will hold its annual summer school picnic at 8 p. m. next Friday in Castlewood Park.

Those attending will be members of the mathematics staff, graduate students, and graduating seniors in the department.

Proficiency Exam

The last language proficiency examination of the summer term will be given on Thursday and Friday.

Students may sign up for it before Tuesday in the office of the dean of the arts and sciences.

Van traveled to Lexington by bus.

If Poll Pans Out, Dewey Will Be Next President

By O. B. Stanley: If a cross-section survey of students at the University means anything as far as the national elections go, Governor Dewey, the Republican nominee, for president will receive at least three times as many votes as President Truman when election day rolls around some few months hence.

Students were asked two specific questions: (1) Do you favor Dewey or Truman for president of the United States? (2) Do you favor Senator Cooper or the Democratic nominee for United States Senator from Kentucky?

These two together got just two more votes than Sen. Cooper polled in the straw vote. Many of the backers of Brown said that would vote for Cooper if Chapman were nominated and several Chapman backers said the same thing.

A true survey on this question would be hard to ascertain, because Cooper's opponent has not been decided. Many of those polled offered comment on the situation. Some were disinterested and said they would complain no matter who is elected.

Joe Lyle, A&A senior from Winchester: "From what I have heard of Cooper, I prefer him to Chapman or Brown." R. P. Hollingsworth, Commerce senior from Lexington: "The Republican ticket is just right for me."

Ted Osborn Named To Coaching Staff

Ted Osborn, veteran Akron, Ohio, high school mentor, has been named to a position on the University of Kentucky football staff. It was announced early this week by Athletic Director Bernie Shively.

He will replace Mike Ballistreri, a former Tennessee Vol end star, who recently resigned as Wildcat end coach to become a member of Vanderbilt's football staff.

Osborn, who graduated from Ohio Wesleyan in 1933 and starred as a varsity halfback for three seasons, has been head football coach at Central High in Akron for 12 years.

In 1933, Osborn returned to Ohio Wesleyan as an end coach after spending one season at Ohio State as freshman football coach.

From 1934 to 1935, Osborn was line coach at Akron University. During the war, he served as a lieutenant in the Navy.

The other boy nudged him and whispered: "Quiet, stupid, he ain't no father, he's got a wife and three kids."

Carl Weber, Commerce senior from Frankfort: "I am a Democrat but Cooper is undoubtedly the best man in the number one spot."

Betty Lou Sellers, Education senior from Sierra: "Truman's incapability to be president has already been proven."

William Presser, Engineering Junior from Burlington: "I am a Democrat but I'll have to vote for Dewey. Truman is a good man for a next-door neighbor but not for the presidency of the United States."

While no world-shaking consequences are expected from this poll, it may give some slight indication of student opinion.

More complete information may be had when the Campus League of Women Voters conducts its straw vote fall.

U. S. Olympic Team Arrives In England; Bluegrass Tennis Meet Booked For August 2-7

Cats, Oilers Renew Rivalry In Scotland

By Dudley Saunders, Kernel Sports Editor

The Kentucky Wildcats and the Phillips Oilers renewed their basketball rivalry yesterday in Paisley, Scotland, where the NCAA and AAU champs clashed in the first of four pre-Olympic exhibition games in Scotland.

Today, they meet in St. Andrews, tomorrow at Perth, and Sunday at Edinburgh. On Monday they will join the rest of the United States squad in the Uxbridge housing project just outside London to await the beginning of the World Tournament on July 29.

Except for several half-rinsing mix-ups with the English monetary system, the cagers from the New World have had smooth sailing ever since leaving New York. Several members came down with sore throats in mid-ocean, but reported recovery by the time the Golden Isles had been sighted.

In a mid-ocean press conference early this week, Bub Browning, head coach of the U. S. cage team named his own Phillips 66ers as the greatest basketball team in history and the Kentucky Wildcats the second greatest.

Greatest College Team In History He went on to say, "Early in the season I thought in California Nile Price had the greatest college team in the country, but I was mistaken. Kentucky definitely has the smartest college team I have ever seen."

Browning, following in his colleague Adolph Rupp's footsteps, went on to predict greater things for basketball in America and in the world. He expects crowds of 20,000 and 25,000 in the very near future, and the 15,000 turn-out to witness the Kentucky-Phillips game at Stoll Field helped lend emphasis to his point. The youthful Oiler coach believes most of the basketball arenas being built today will be too small in a few years to accommodate the crowds.

U.S. Favored By Omitting Rule In regard to the Olympic games, Browning stated that kicking the three second rule out of the meet will give his team a great advantage over the entire field. He has at least three men capable of standing under the basket and knocking incoming goals away from the hoops. Besides seven-foot Bob Kurland, he has 8'7" Alex Gross and 6'9" Don Barkdale, who can serve as goals, should one of their opponents get too hot.

Browning says, however, that he will not use his tall cagers as goal-tenders unless it becomes absolutely necessary, because it would give the U.S. team such an outstanding advantage. He believes his team can win without taking advantage of their great height to "rob" their opponents of goals.

It is believed that Browning will divide the 14-man squad into two seven-man teams, just as they were in the Cat-Oiler series, and use them in alternate games. In the finals the entire squad will probably see action.

Pre-tournament ratings still favor the United States team by a comfortable margin, with Czechoslovakia gaining prestige as Europe's strongest hope.

Theory For Russia's Absence During the crossing, several reasons were given for Russia's refusal to enter the Olympics, but the one offered by an American official has found the most followers.

His theory: "There's only one reason we can see for Russia's refusal to enter the games this year. Russia can't stand to lose. They're going to practice four more years and then try to bowl us over in every sport."

Continental observers say it isn't as funny as it sounds. Those who have seen the Russian basketball team and their track and field stars in action, and the great athletic building program under way in the land of the Volga, say the Russians would work their heads off if they thought there was even the slightest chance to win the 1952 Olympic lock, stock and barrel.

Brundage Considered As Possible IOC Head

Avery Brundage president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, has been prominently mentioned as a likely candidate for the office of chairman of the International Olympic Committee. It was learned Wednesday, Brundage announced on board the S.S. America that he would not stand for re-election as president of the U.S. committee.

J. Sigurd Edstrom, president of the International Olympic Committee, stated at St. Morris, during the winter games that he would resign at the London meeting. Brundage hinted that he would not turn down the chairmanship should it be offered him.

The United States Olympic team arrived in Southampton, England, early Wednesday morning and shortly afterwards boarded buses for their quarters in Uxbridge, near London.

The basketball team, however, left for Scotland for a four-game exhibition series, sponsored by the Olympic committee in an effort to build up interest in basketball in the Isles.

Only one member of the swimming team was reported in bad condition. The rest of the team had nothing to complain about other than stiff muscles and a few mild sore throats.

In London, the team was greeted by the warmest weather that city has seen this year. Food was of good quality and in abundance and the housing units were reported in excellent condition.

Cuff Notes

Today, the Olympics is a world tournament for amateur athletes, who are selected by tournaments in their respective nations, and represent the finest athletes in each sport from throughout the world.

In the beginning, the tournament was an event celebrated every four years on the plain of Olympia in Peloponnese in Greece. The first Olympiad was held in 776 B.C.

The Greeks computed time by the tournaments each four years making up an Olympiad. The event soon became a world-wide affair and continued until the breaking-up of the Greek empire.

The event was revived in Athens in 1896 as the first modern Olympiad. Although this years tournament will be the eleventh held, it will go down as the fourteenth Olympiad, since the custom of calling each four years an Olympiad is still retained.

Site of the 11 modern Olympic tournaments: 1. 1896—Athens; 2. 1900—Paris; 3. 1904—St. Louis; 4. 1908—London; 5. 1912—Stockholm; 6. 1920—Antwerp; 7. 1924—Paris; 8. 1928—Amsterdam; 9. 1932—Los Angeles; 10. 1936—Berlin; 11. 1948—London.

The numerical makeup of the squads reads like this (first total athletes; second, officials): Soccer 15-3; boxing 14-4; canoeing 8-2; basketball 14-3; equestrian 9-3; cycling 10-2; fencing 22-1; rowing 15-5; field hockey 15-0; gymnastics 18-3; modern pentathlon 4-1; men's swimming 21-3; water polo 11-2; women's track 12-2; women's swimming 17-4; men's track 68-3; weight lifting 16-2; wrestling 16-2; yachting 16-0; and pistol-10-2.

Come on, you professors. Get that journey started. Last summer the faculty members of the University held their own exclusive tournament with no one but the instructors and professors eligible to enter. Nearly every department at the campus has been represented at the courts recently. Why not see what department is hiding the real faculty champ?

Following the tournament games the basketball team will go to Paris and possibly to Switzerland for short visits before returning to the United States.

Koreans Arrive First Korea's Olympic hopefuls were the first to arrive at the Uxbridge housing project, unpacking their bags on July 8. Since then, however, teams from nearly every nation in the world have arrived. Uxbridge is a converted war-time R.A.F. base.

Should the Olympics draw capacity crowds of 100,000 to each day's session of the tournament, and keep 4,000-seat Harrington arena filled, better than $3,500,000 will click through the turnstiles, giving the 1948 Olympic tournament a $1,275,000 profit.

Sweden's team will have the biggest following from the home country to cheer them on at Wembley. The Swedes ordered a block of $108,000 worth of tickets, followed by the United States, which purchased a $92,000 block.

Captain Kenny Rollins will become the property of the Phillips 66 Company as soon as he returns to the United States. Kenny will join the Oilers at Bartlettville, Oklahoma between September 15 and 20.

Open Letter To Time Magazine...

Sir: If I had a red ribbon on this typewriter, I could REALLY show you some indignation. As is, I want to blast a slur cast on the Kentucky Wildcat basketball team's good name.

In Time's July 12 issue, "... somebody threw a firecracker. Thinking it was the final gun, the Oilers walked off the floor. A Kentucky player playfully grabbed the ball and shot a basket. Then the regular gun sounded, ending the game... Ky. 70 - Oilers 69'."

Oh now really. I have long been an admirer of Time's concise, informative, racy style of journalism, but this piece of angle-ized, misleading comment reporting left me cold.

No mention was made of the pre-th blast that halted the regulation game twelve seconds before the gun, with Kentucky in possession of the ball and the score deadlocked.

Moreover the way the reported portion of the game occurred, according to the United and Associated Press correspondents and Wildcat Joe Holland, was, "Well towards the end of the second overtime period, the Oilers were ahead by a point so they started to freeze the ball. Vince Boryla slapped the ball from one of their hands and I picked it up and started for our basket. I was halfway there when the firecracker went off. My first impulse was to stop dead and slam the ball down, but I went on ahead and put in an easy layup shot. I don't know why."

Amid the uproar following the game, Bud Browning, coach of the great Phillips Oilers team, grabbed a microphone and shouted over the airwaves, "I thought before this game California had the best college team we'd played, but Kentucky proved to me tonight, they're the greatest college club I've ever seen."

The Wildcats clawed their way to the first collegiate victory over the All-American cluttered Phillips 66 team in the last two seasons.

Let's give full credit where full credit is due.

Betty Rowland Loses In First Flight Finals

Betty Rowland, University of Kentucky freshman playing in the Southern Women's Amateur last week at Nashville, lost to Mrs. Robert Monsted of New Orleans on the 20th hole in the finals of the first flight.

Earlier, Miss Rowland had qualified for the championship flight with 93 but had lost her first round match to the Arkansas women's finalist, and was thus dropped into the first flight.

Playing in the first flight, the Idle Hour' hopeful won three straight matches against some of the South's top women golfers before losing the flight championship in the extra hole final match.

Plaudits are in order for Henry Guile, who did a fine job in managing his first tournament, the Lexington Open. With the help of Prof. Downing, Sergius Leach, Julia Ann Waters, and others, Henry staged one of the most successful, yet inexpensive tournaments held recently at the University. In addition to officiating duties during the tourney, Harry carried on his regular duties as court supervisor and conditioner.
