

LAMINATION FOR PRESERVATION

The Commonwealth of Kentucky has a new document conservation laboratory. The laboratory will have the capability to repair documents damaged by water, fire, and natural aging. After documents are repaired, a lamination process will insure that they receive no future damage. The laboratory will specialize in preserving the records of other public agencies, as well as those at the State Archives.

PLEASE DO NOT EXIT

The outside door from the Art Library and the doors from the mail room to the loading dock have been found open recently. Please do not use either of these areas as exits from the new building.

Because this has been a recurring problem, I am asking Special Collections to keep the elevator locked at all times other than Monday - Friday, 8 - 5.
