Centennial Seminar Probes Morals, Marriage, Society

The Centennial Family Life Seminar will continue tonight with a discussion of "Men, Women, and Morals," to be held at 8 p.m. in the Student Center Theatre for the public.

Dr. Jessie Bernard, sociologist, and Dr. David Mace, marriage counselor, are the seminar leaders in the five-day session.

Dr. Bernard is a Pennsylvania State University research scholar in the field of family marriage, and Dr. Mace is president of the American Association of Marriage Counselors.

The seminar, which intends to probe in panel and group discussions the far-reaching effects of today's society on marriage and the family institution, began Monday and will continue until Thursday night. The first discussion "The Environment of Families of the Future."

Morning and afternoon programs in connection with the seminar will begin today for student and adult delegates.

Nightly panel discussions in the Student Center Theatre, however, are open and will be held through Thursday at 8 p.m.

Wednesday night's program will be on "The Future of Marriage," and Thursday night's discussion will center around "Parenthood and Child-Rearing."

Dr. Bernard is on the editorial board of the "Journal of Marriage and the Family, Sociology and Social Research," has written several books, and served as president of two sociological societies.

Dr. Mace has been internationally active in marriage counseling, and served as a Methodist minister for 14 years. He is a regular contributor to "Women's Home Companion" and "McCalls," and has also authored several books on family relations.

Miss Chloe Gifford, director of Special Activities, is serving as chairman of the seminar.

Student Directories Set For Distribution

Student telephone directories will be distributed this week according to Rich Robbins, chairman of the student directory committee of Student Congress.

Directories will be distributed Wednesday to all fraternity and sorority houses and all residence halls. Beginning Thursday morning they will be distributed to "anybody not living in the houses or residence halls" in the Central Information Room, Room 225, of the Student Center.

"There will be one directory for each student at the University," Robbins said. Previously, there was one directory for each dormitory room.

Any administrative office or Lexington business wanting a directory is requested to send a written request to Robbins at the Student Congress office in the Student Center. Such requests will be honored, Robbins said.

The directories, which are being distributed a month ahead of last year's schedule, have a new look this year.

"I think the directory is a lot more colorful than ever before," Robbins said.

This year's directory is also printed on a different kind of paper—"regular phone book paper."

"The directory was printed by the off-set process which made it a lot faster," he said. "There is also a picture on the cover."

The new directory contains more than 100 pages, in contrast to last year's 88 pages. The added pages are accounted for by the extra students on campus and by the added section at the end of the directory. This section contains the names and phone numbers of the presidents of all campus organizations.

Information for the directory was taken from special cards filled out by students during registration. This information was compiled in the University Computing Center. Students proofread the copy and the printing was done by the University Printing Corporation.

"Directories will not be sold this year," Robbins said. Requests for extra copies should be made in writing to Robbins.

Representatives Elected To SC In Second Vote

With only two members of last year's Student Congress regaining office, members of the Congress election committee put the final seal on this year's election late Friday afternoon.

The new Congress, composed of 22 Greek affiliates and one independent, will hold its initial meeting Thursday after a week's delay brought about by the paper ballot revote.

Approximately 300 more voters appeared at the polls Thursday than on the previous week even though weather conditions were similar.

John O'Brien, vice president of SC, attributed the greater turnout to the use of paper ballot voting which eliminated long waits in line and to the greater publicity given the election due to a revote.

In the future voting will be executed in one of three ways, O'Brien said: Using voting machines with the requirement that more be obtained, using paper ballots, or voting by IBM cards with a computer count.

Although last Spring's election for the presidency and vice presidency drew 500 more votes, O'Brien attributed the lower number this time to a lack of real issues and knowledge of the candidates.

Of the 56 students seeking election to Congress only three were incumbents: Carson Porter, Connie Mullins, and Willis Bright. Porter and Mullins were re-elected.

Commenting on why there were no more incumbents running, O'Brien said there were two general reasons.

"1. Many of last year's SC members were not provided with the incentive to become good Student Congress representatives.

"2. Lack of interest on the part of old members."

"As far as being optimistic about our Administration's legislative program, we're quite satisfied with those elected," O'Brien said.

"We feel that the 23 people elected is ample leadership in this body to be a creative factor in itself—not just a railroading group.

"The atmosphere for strong effective student government at the University is present at this time due to the fact that the University administration has indicated publicly and privately that opportunities for student government to play a large role in University affairs are present.

Students elected and their votes are:

Carson Porter, 671; Ed Ockerman, 583; Bob Bostick, 553; Oscar Westerfield, 549; Mary Jane Britton, 523; Barry Brooks, 519; Majja Avots, 497; Mary Alice Shipley, 495; Marcia Martin, 494; Pam Bush, 469; Connie Mullins, 466; Cary Marr, 441; Kate Kennedy, 440; Ed Hastie, 435; Mary Wright, 435.

Also running for election were: Rick Tarrant, 334; Robert Walker, 330; Miriam Gaitskill, 328; Willis Bright, 322; Jamie Gaddie, 317; Jim Varelles, 316; Bobby Allphin, 311; Diane Salling, 309; William Hamilton, 308; Nancy Storey, 307.

New Library Program Planned

An undergraduate library program is among the future plans of the University Library, according to its new director, Dr. Stuart Forth.

While at the University of Kansas from 1959 until arriving at UK, Dr. Forth was head of the undergraduate library for two years before becoming associate director, and he also has taught.

"I feel strongly that undergraduates, especially the good students, must have access to all the resources of the library," Dr. Forth said.

Some universities have separate undergraduate libraries while others do not, but he thinks that a carefully planned program, especially one which best serves all levels of teaching and research, would be of key importance to students. "The initial cost of such a program is high," he noted, "but as the University and its libraries grow, it eventually becomes a necessity."

From observations he has made since taking over his new duties, Dr. Forth says he is "very impressed with the quality of the library staff and its devotion to the best interests of the University." He also is equally impressed with members of the teaching faculty, and the high quality of the Library's book collections.

"It is already apparent that UK must have larger book budgets and the necessary staff to increase our resources," he emphasized.

Conference On Aging Set

The Centennial Conference on Aging will be held on the campus on Wednesday in conjunction with the Governor's Conference on Aging.

The conference is expected to draw 450 persons from throughout Kentucky reported Dr. Earl Kauffman, director of the UK Council on Aging.

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt will participate in the daylong program by delivering an address at 12:15 p.m. luncheon in the Student Center ballroom. Also to speak is Dr. A.D. Albright, UK executive vice president.

Delegates will attend sessions centered on the themes, "Planning for Action" and "Aging for a Purpose" during the morning meetings, beginning at 10 a.m. Internationally known authorities on matters pertaining to the elderly will serve as consultants and will conduct a panel session at 2:15 p.m. They will discuss "Needs, Resources, Action: Meeting the Challenge of Living a Full Life."

An exhibit of arts and crafts executed by senior citizens has been set up in the Student Center art gallery in conjunction with Wednesday's events. Sponsors for these and other displays are the Senior House and Club 60 (both senior citizen organizations of Louisville), Fayette County Homemakers clubs and the UK Centennial office.

Berkeley Students Uneasy About Rules

BERKELEY, Calif. (CPS) - Students at the Berkeley campus of the University of California are again uneasy, this time over new rules governing student activities.

The new regulations, issued on Sept. 15, are "provisional and will be in effect until a final set is developed with formal student participation," Chancellor Roger Heyns said.

Heyns, the former vice-president for academic affairs at the University of Michigan, took the Berkeley post this summer following an administrative shakeup by President Clark Kerr.

Heyns said the final rules will be drawn up by an Associated Students of the University of California (ASUC) constitutional convention.

A spokesman for the Free Speech Union (FSU), which is not associated with the Berkeley ASUC but acts as a government outside the recognized channels, said a "constitutional convention should be preceded by a declaration of independence from the regents."

"As long as the convention derives its authority from the regents, it is incapable of being an effective student voice," he said.

The FSU secretary said if the chancellor were really interested in student participation in rule making he would set up a student referendum for student ratification of the rules.

He said the only meeting the FSU has had with Heyns was one at which about 40 other students were present. "The students just don't have any real voice. They've just advisory," he said.

Criticism of the rules centered on provisions concerning students manning tables, the keeping of financial records, and provisions for student hearings.

Both FSU members and an ASUC representative were critical of the sections of the rules dealing with student hearings. "The hearings decision should be final and the chancellor should not have the final say," the FSU spokesman said.

The ASUC representative said that the rules say a student cannot be forced to give self-incriminating evidence but don't say who is to decide what is self-incriminatory nor do they provide for a student refusing to answer.

He said the rules do not provide for the right to cross-examine prosecution witnesses. "Rights such as these should not depend on the goodwill of an individual chancellor. They should be guaranteed," he said.

A member of the Young People's Socialist League (YPSL) objected to the provision stating student groups financial records had to be available for inspection if complaints were made concerning the use of these funds.

He said that none of the student groups kept complete financial records and they would have to be invented if a group was told to produce them. The YPSL member also said of the new rules, "If they try to enforce them, they'll have a fight."

New Pamphlet Released For Kentucky's Drivers

Copies of a new pamphlet on basic information for Kentucky drivers have been sent to public safety officials throughout the state for general distribution.

The booklet, entitled "Your Kentucky Driver Privilege," contains information which has previously been available from scattered sources, according to Glenn Lovern, state public safety commissioner.

Applications For Grants Announced

Students interested in filing applications for Fullbright foreign study grants must do so before Oct. 25, according to Dr. Kenneth Harper, dean of men.

Applicants must be U.S. citizens at the time of application, have a bachelor's degree or its equivalent by the beginning date of the grant, and be proficient in the language of the host country.

More than 800 American graduate students will have the opportunity to study in any one of 55 countries. Applications are also received for professional training in creative and performing arts.

Outlined in the pamphlet are programs initiated by the driver improvement clinics, and driver limitation program.

License requirements are discussed, as well as the point system, accident reporting procedures, and defensive and free-way driving tips.

Copies may be obtained from a Circuit Court Clerk or Kentucky State Police post.

Bulletin Board

ANNOUNCEMENTS of any University organization for the Bulletin Board must be turned in at the women's desk in the Kernel office no later than 2 p.m. the day prior to publication. Multiple announcements will be made if a carbon is furnished for each day of publication.

Applications are available at the desk in the Student Center and in the Centennial Central office.

Those interested in a Danforth Graduate Fellowship may apply at the Office of the Dean of Men until Oct. 25. The fellowships are open to men and women who are seniors or recent graduates, who have a serious interest in college teaching as a career, and who plan to study for a Ph. D. in a field common to the undergraduate college.

Girls interested in becoming Army ROTC sponsors must turn in applications to the Army ROTC office by 4 p.m. Friday. A picture must accompany the application. For further information contact Capt. Lester, extension 2657.

Men Make Progress In Styles To Give Females Competition

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
NEW YORK (AP)—After a half century of letting women be first in fashion, men—or some of them anyway—are shucking this feolish chivalry. They're not style leaders yet, but they are fast moving up.

Tired of letting all the ladies have the good things, they are buying fur coats not for pretty girls in the chorus, but for themselves. Or they order a "he" coat at least with a mink lining. Pale pastel shirts with polka dots and flowers, ruffled and lace-cuffed shirts for evening, corduroy slacks in violent colors, velvet jackets, sweet smelling tiolet articles—even earrings are a part of the wardrobes belonging to the manliest of men.

The suggestion that men could be less than men for appreciating the finer things of what was hitherto thought to be feminine fashion has ebbed away. For men without doubts of their own virility never worry about being labeled sissies.

Some psychologists would have us believe that men are stealing away the fashion lime-light to get revenge on females who now stubbornly insist on equal billing in what was once a man's world.

If this is the case, then women must certainly be eager to be revenged. Or they are working hard at emasculating the other sex, as their own sort of revenge.

In an impromptu survey we discovered that four out of five married women persuade their husbands to be less conservative, and more colorful in choice of clothes. And five out of five single women said they prefer a man with a bit of style flamboyance.

This new market potential, menswear manufacturers are looking harder at what the womenswear manufacturers are doing, and then following suit. Women's designers were the first to use leather as dresses and suits. Now leather suits for men are available, too.

Mix-and-match sportswear is a favorite of the thrifty woman because she can stretch her wardrobe by interchanging coordinated skirts and jackets. Now men's suits have extra slacks and jackets that may be switched for a change in the same way.

This year's fabric vogue in women's apparel is corduroy, thick or thin waled and in a variety of colors. This year men of all ages, not only the collegiate crowd, are cottoning to corduroy slacks and jackets in wild hues.

The cosmetics industry reports the largest sale of men's cologne in history. Today, men buy toupees with the unabashedness of women buying wigs.

Worn by men on formal occasions are brocade dinner jackets, or evening vests, some twinkling with jeweled buttons, and rivaling the opulence of the lady in their company.

Men aren't wearing necklaces yet, but they are buying earrings in singles. They attach them to only one ear, pirate style.

These men aren't sissies. They are rugged individualists.

Colonel Miss Kentucky

Governor Edward T. Breathitt is shown commissioning the reigning Miss Kentucky, Becky Snyder of Owensboro, as a Kentucky Colonel. "The state of Kentucky was mighty proud to have you as its representative in the Miss America pageant," Breathitt told Miss Snyder. Becky recently returned to the University where she is a junior Fads And Fancies . . .

Color coeds green, burgandy, blue, red, brown or beige this fall but color them matching! Color coordinated clothing has reached epidemic proportions on the campus this year as feminine undergarments join the list of color-coed coed attire.

Not only do slips, panties, brassieres, and girdles match each other, they are also keyed to the colors of the coed wardrobe. Thus, pink lingerie with burgandy and red outfits, beige with brown tones, blues with blues, etcetera.

While the wearing of this foundation finery is not apparent to even the interested observer, (hopefully) a decided lift of the spirits can be seen. Psychologically, a woman feels happier and more secure knowing she matches!

Femininity is the key to the selection of color-matched under-clothes. Men choose their own clothing along practical, useful lines, while women prefer the feel of a soft, fine fabric.

Not to be discounted as female reasoning for feeling "special" when surrounded by all this matching silk, is its expense. While she may not realize it the woman is motivated by the snob appeal produced by the higher price of tinted undergarments.

Why the higher price? A simple matter of the economic law of supply and demand. When demand increases, manufacturers can ask for and receive more per item until the demand and supply reach an equal point.

Pastel hued foundation garments are indisputable first choice among coeds. However the pop-art and op-art crazes have produced a notable affect in the girdle industry particularly.

Girdles now appear decorated with pictures of ketchup and mustard jars, hamburgers, and Campell soup cans.

One manufacturer preved a girdle which carried a reproduction of the American flag. The Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) objected strenuously enough to force the garment off the market on the grounds of "improper display of the flag."

Op-art's influence on the girdle is slightly less apparent since the geometric forms will vary from wearer to wearer, depending on the amount of girdle stretch.

Perhaps, when the op and pop-art influences have been replaced and what remains are the coordinated undergarments and wardrobe, coeds may become color-keyed as an added means of identification. The possibilities of such keying are endless, and left to your imagination. . .

SHULTON

A Responsibility

The election of 23 new Student Congress representatives finally has been completed, and hopefully the organization is ready to begin work involving student government on the campus. Although a month of the semester has passed before a Congress body is assembled, sufficient time remains to generate a workable and responsible governing body.

Problems in getting the legislative body elected were unfortunate, but we feel these difficulties should be forgotten as the group convenes and begins discussions of programs which will be initiated during the year. We would hope members of the student body will realize election problems were not intentional. It is imperative that new representatives feel no antagonism as a result of the election delay.

But it is even more important for new representatives to develop a sincere feeling of responsibility. The 23 students were elected on a campuswide basis, and therefore, they are expected to represent each student of the University. We would hope Congress will not become a mere name because of a weak legislative body.

It is unfortunate that only one of 23 representatives is an Independent. The Greeks are to be commended for their apparent interest in Student Congress and other campus activities. Likewise, the Independents are to be condemned for their apparent lack of interest and lack of coordination to elect more students to represent their interests.

We would only hope that all new representatives sought election to Student Congress because of a genuine desire to do something constructive for the University community. Any representative who ran for Congress only with the intention of filling an activity record should volunteer their resignation before the entire body suffers.

This year is an important one for student government, and the Kernel, as always, will pay close attention to the group. The Kernel also will give close attention to the work of individual representatives, and we will not hesitate to comment when we feel a representative is neglecting his responsibility.

Student Congress thus far has showed promise of establishing a new image and getting on with beneficial programs. We would hope Congress will not suffer a setback due to unfortunate incidents involving the election. We hope strong, progressive representatives will be the key to success for Student Congress.

The Pope's Visit

It would seem not too important today that history take the time to record a visit to this country of a bespectacled Italian priest. But the priest is not just a priest. He is the Holy Father of the Catholic Church, one of the world's major religious groups. And his visit was not just a visit. He came on a pilgrimage of peace.

Many Americans will probably miss the point, but Pope Paul VI came to the United States not only to greet the over 40 million of his faith which live here, but also to deliver a message of peace to a world body, some of whose members do not even recognize the reason for the Pope's existence.

Yet the members of the United Nations, Christian, Non-Christian, and atheist alike, received his Holiness and his message because he had something vital to say which had an interest to all of them. Each diplomat present knew that what Paul VI had to say needed to be said, and needed to be said by someone with the prestige that only one in his high position has.

The Pontiff's speech to the U.N. was not drastically different from speeches that have been heard there many times in the past. He called for an end to the threat of war, the continual building of arms, and their use of the destruction of one man by another. In short, he spoke of peace among all men no matter what their religion or belief.

Probably what Paul VI said to the U.N. will be remembered only for a short time in the annals of history. But the fact that he came there to bring his plea for peace and world cooperation will remain as an historic symbol to the beginning of a new era of respect of man for man.

In recent years, the international assembly has been fighting for its very life. It has been fighting to remain a viable spokesman for the world. But now Pope Paul VI has come to this body, which he must sincerely believe is perhaps the world's last hope for peace and unity.

Perhaps this is only an idealistic dream; but if it is, the U.N. held it too. The members must have seen that a visit by this Italian priest could mean a new start, a life's spark, for them and for the world.

Reader Promotes Bond Issue

To The Editor:

An important bond issue will be placed before the voters of Kentucky in the Nov. 2 balloting. The passage of Kentucky's Bond Issue, which amounts to $176 million, will enable Kentucky to receive a total of $685 million in Federal matching funds and monies from other sources, with no increase in taxes. And, with surrounding states receiving federal grants it is obligatory that we, the voters, pass the Kentucky Bond Issue in order that Kentucky will receive its fair share of such grants.

The use of funds derived from the issue will be spent entirely on capital improvements (none spent on administrative functions or pet projects of short term duration). New roads will receive $138 million matched by $597 million of Federal money. New and improved roads attract tourists (tourists paid $21 million in taxes to Kentucky in 1964). The remainder of the monies will be spent on new schools, health will be spent on new schools, health facilities, parks and other capital improvements.

This bond issue is a bipartisan issue endorsed by every organization in the state. But, just because the group endorses it does not mean the individuals in the group must vote for the issue. A recent poll showed a large group of undecided voters. This issue must pass for the continued success of Kentucky and this undecided group must be presented with the facts.

The alternative, if the Bond Issue fails at the polls, is to increase taxes.

To The Editor:

I was appalled by the action of some UK students at the UK-Mississippi game. Shortly after the game began, the UK fans—legal and true to the spirit and the tradition of the Wildcats—began yelling GO TO HELL, OLE MISS, GO TO HELL! I was shocked and embarrassed to think that as hosts to the visiting team we would insult them in such a degrading chant.

From my seat in the end zone, I could easily see the reaction of the Ole Miss cheerleaders. They were apparently so humiliated by this insult that they turned and walked off the field.

Either the UK fans were so confident of victory that they felt they could afford to insult the opposing team or they were so unsure of victory that they thought their GO TO HELL chant would give the Cats some support on the field.

Since I do not know, I can only assume that the Wildcat supporters had degraded the team with which the players were trying to emphasize sportsmanship.

Are we to assume that the University of Kentucky students cannot distinguish "giving HELL" from "going to HELL?" Do they know that there is a vast difference in connotation of "Rip 'em up, tear 'em up, give 'em Hell, Wildcats," and "GO TO HELL, OLE MISS, GO TO HELL?"

Blue End Rumored Ahead

UC's Kerr Criticizes Statement

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—The University of California's president says a California Senate subcommittee report is inaccurate and contains half-truths and distortions concerning 1964-65 student unrest.

Clark Kerr, the president, gave his reply to the 1965 report by the State Senate subcommittee on Un-American Activities in a statement Monday.

Kerr asked that the subcommittee remove its report from legislative privilege "so that its contents may be examined fairly and with due process before the courts." If the subcommittee did so, individuals named could file libel suits.

If the subcommittee does not do that, Kerr contended, the report should be withdrawn. "Many errors and innuendoes" in the report, he said, have caused "widespread and harmful publicity to individual staff members and to the entire University of California."

The subcommittee report dealt with uprisings led by the Free Speech Movement at the Berkeley campus which led to a sit-in Dec. 2-3 at which police made 773 arrests.

Much of Kerr's statement concerned the positions of individuals named in the Senate report, including Mario Savio, FSM leader who has since left the campus and is reported studying in England.

Subcommittees said Savio, 22, joined the Young People's Socialist League in Berkeley in the spring of 1964 and the organization was Trotskyite Communist.

Kerr said the league is affiliated with the Socialist party of Norman Thomas and "is strongly opposed to communism."

reveals the nasty mood in which the record-breaking 89th Congress is now staggering toward adjournment. Although it is not unusual for Congressmen to complain about "that man in the White House" at the end of a long session of Congress, President Johnson's personal involvement in lining up votes for the Great Society has given the complaint a cutting edge.

It should be stressed that this session of Congress will go down in history as perhaps the most productive ever, with President Johnson winning passage of landmark legislation that had been bottled up for years. Freshman Democrats who were swept into Congress through the Goldwater debacle have provided the margin of victory time after time.

That's just the point. After passing the President's blockbusters, the lawmakers are suffering from battle-fatigue. The result is a quiet mutiny on relatively minor issues.

For example, the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee was just closing the door of its committee room to mark up the government pay bill when Rep. Spark Matsunaga, Democrat from Hawaii, and a committee member, rushed in with a bulletin direct from the President.

He had just been informed by telephone from the White House, he told the surprised 25-member committee, that President Johnson would veto the 4½ per cent pay rise by a vote of 20 to 3.

Angered at this White House ultimatum, the committee quickly approved the 4½ per cent pay rise by a vote of 20 to 3.

Last week after the Federal Employees' Union itself asked House leaders to scale down the 4½ per cent in hopes of avoiding a Presidential veto, the figure was pegged at 4 per cent (still well above the President's figure), and passed the House.

The significance of this incident is not that the White House invaded an executive session of a House committee (agencies and departments are doing that all the time). What was significant was the committee's reaction: anger, resentment and a refusal to knuckle under.

Another example of growing hostility to the White House was the refusal of a veteran House Democrat to accept a call from the White House—possibly the President himself—early this month.

The Congressman was out of town, but when the White House telephone operators finally tracked him down at home they were told he had just left on a trip. The Congressman suspected the President was going to put the squeeze on him to sign the discharge petition for the District of Columbia home-rule bill. Rather than knuckle under, he simply took a powder.

Also angering members of Congress who have given the President so many sensational victories on his Great Society program is their sneaking suspicion that he intends to go slow in implementing much of the new program next year. Congressional leaders of both parties are passing the word that wherever possible, Mr. Johnson will scale down government spending and keep a tight rein on most of the new programs.

The reason for this is the high cost of the war in Vietnam, and the certainty that those war bills will rise rapidly next year with no end in sight.

Accordingly, many members of Congress hoping to see quick results of their work this year in their districts back home, are going to be disappointed. If so, the session-end blues of 1965 could become a full-year headache - the President in 1966.

Indiana Students Use Service

Beat The Walk . . . Catch The Bus

Indiana University has put into practice a bus service to reduce campuswide traffic jams.

With an ever-growing campus radius and gargantuan traffic problems, the University initiated the routes to give students quick and inexpensive transportation from their residence units to the main campus.

The cost to students is relatively low, averaging about $1 a week. Students using the service buy a semester-long ticket entitling him to as many cross-campus trips as he cares to make. Tickets are $16 a semester.

During the class week the buses run about every five to eight minutes, slowing down to every 12 to 15 minutes on the less busy weekends. To encourage academic inclinations of all students, buses to the library are free.

The buses run from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. each weekday and begin service at 8 a.m. on Sundays.

An agreement between a commercial bus company and the University provides the quick, short run, weather-beating service.

You can't trust luck.

You can trust seat belts.

Auburn Stops UKats 23-18 As Defenses Sputter

By HENRY ROSENTHAL
Kernel Sports Editor

Auburn defeated the Wildcats Saturday 23-18 in a defensive collapse for both teams. UK had held its opponents to the lowest points of any Southeastern Conference team while Auburn had given up the least yardage. That is, until the Saturday game which saw UK taste defeat for the first time this season and Auburn come out on the long end for the first time.

Actually, until the second half it looked like the Wildcats had suffered an offensive as well as defensive collapse. Auburn forged ahead 17-0 before the Wildcats could put a point on the scoreboard. UK scored 12 points in the third quarter and six in the fourth. Three tries for two point conversions after the touchdowns failed.

UK scored all three touchdowns on the passing of Rick Norton. Bob Windsor took one pass for a 76-yard TD play while Larry Seiple grabbed two for 74 and 44 yards.

While trailing 23-18, UK tried an onside kick after the final touchdown, but the ball was awarded to Auburn. UK claimed that even though the ball did not go the required ten yards, it was touched by an Auburn Tiger and therefore the ball could go to the Wildcats if they recovered. Films of the play show that possession should have gone to UK.

The only trouble is that the

Students Allotted More Tickets For Florida State

Bernie Shively, UK athletic director, announced today that 500 more seats have been set aside for students for the Florida State game Saturday.

"However, due to the increase in student allotment we are unable to sell date tickets," Shively said.

A greater number of state police will be on hand to handle crowd control, Shively said. In addition, new entrances have been added to the west bleachers of Stoll Field.

films also show Auburn leading 23-18 at the end of the game, and that is final as far as the won lost column is concerned.

Outside of the passing of Norton, the UK offense suffered somewhat of a reversal from the successful game against Mississippi the week before.

Larry Seiple who gained over 150 yards rushing in the Mississippi game got none against Auburn, although he did get 135 yards as a pass receiver.

Kittens Win 12th Straight By Edging Vanderbilt 7-0

By GARY YUNT
Kernel Sports Writer

Flashing a tight defense and a solid offense, the UK Freshmen recorded their 12th straight victory, a 7-0 decision over the Vanderbilt Freshmen, Saturday night at Nashville.

The second time that the Kittens had the ball, they marched 83 yards in ten plays highlighted by a 37 yard touchdown pass from Jim Prather to Bill Jansen. Mike Granato added the conversion giving the Kittens a 7-0 lead.

Following the touchdown, the defense took over and held Vandy to two first downs for the half and a total yardage of 17. Meanwhile, the offense had rolled up 90 yards rushing and 54 yards in the air, with Prather completing four of eight passes.

The second half was virtually a replay of the first except for the lack of scoring by either team. Vandy's offense did not penetrate Kentucky territory the whole game while the Kitten offensive machine rolled into Vandy territory ten times.

The Kittens had one drive stopped in the second when Mike Granato's 33 yard field goal attempt was wide. Another scoring chance was snuffed out in the third quarter when David Slaughter fumbled on the Vandy 7.

For the game, Prather completed eight of 14 passes for 97 yards and Dicky Lyons was the leading rusher. Vanderbilt's passing attack was held to a minus two yards on one completion out of 10.

Leading the Kitten defense were guard Kenneth Wood from Montgomery, Ala., Bob Freiburt, a tackle from Louisville Bishop David, Louis Wolf, a from Louisville St. Xavier, and Derek Potter, an end from Elkhorn City, Ky.

Moving back into the tailback spot from which Seiple had gotten all his yardage, was Rodger Bird who had been out with an injury. Bird performed admirably as he gained 76 yards.

Dan Spanish who was leading the SEC in pass receiving caught none as did Rick Kestner who was used mostly as a decoy.

Norton completed nine of 20 passes for 26 yards. Windsor was second to Seiple in pass receiving. Windsor caught five, two more than Seiple, but Seiple's were good for 17 more yards.

This Saturday the Wildcats meet Florida State at Lexington. Last year Florida State beat UK 48-6. The week after the F.S.U.

game, Louisiana State furnishes the opposition in what will probably be the key game of the year for the Wildcats.

About the only consolation the sixth-ranked Wildcats got out of the day was the fact that fifth-ranked Louisiana State also took it on the chin. Once-beaten Florida hung it on L.S.U. 14-7 to make it highly unlikely that any team will go undefeated in the SEC this season.

Of the remaining unbeaten teams, the Georgia Bulldogs rate as the prime contender to go unbeaten. Georgia has already handled Alabama and Michigan, two of the top powers in the nation.

Pope Paul Returns To Home Greeting After U.S. Journey

Rebel Resistance Falters

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI came home today from the papacy's first transatlantic pilgrimage, a day-long quest for world brotherhood, and vowed he would "continue to work as much as possible" for peace.

He returned to a red-carpet welcome in Rome and said that his striving for world peace was "a fundamental point of our program—that is, of our ministry."

The mission that cast the papacy in a new international role seemed to have refreshed the Pope. He did not show fatigue after the lightning 30-hour journey. Instead he had the appearance of being satisfied with a mission accomplished.

He was also thankful. He said in his arrival remarks that "A sentiment of gratitude rises in our heart to the Lord for the good inspiration he gave us to undertake this voyage."

The Roman Catholic pontiff issued a separate "message to the peoples of the world" thanking them for following his trip and promising to seek peace "with all our force."

Forty-five minutes after his American jet airliner landed at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci Airport, he was back in the Vatican. His limousine drove through St. Peter's Square where several thousand persons lined the route and cheered.

Relates of the Vatican Ecumenical Council greeted him on

Head Start

Discussed

School superintendents or their representatives from 45 counties in Central and Eastern Kentucky met today in the UK Student Center to discuss plans for "Operation Head Start" projects during the coming year.

Royland LaFayette, regional director of the program conducted the meeting. James Peel, coordinator of Kentucky Office of Economic Opportunity projects, in the office of Gov. Breathitt, and Joseph E. Smith, assistant OEO coordinator, attended the meeting.

the steps of St. Peter's, and he immediately entered to report to them on his mission. The huge bells of the basilica sounded.

As he entered the basilica, a choir sang a hymn of thanksgiving.

Unlike his quiet departure before dawn 30 hours earlier, a ceremonious and enthusiastic welcome awaited the Roman Catholic pontiff.

Dress-uniformed police stood at attention along a red carpet, and a crowd of more than 1,000 on the airport observation platforms applauded and cheered when the Pope appeared at the plane door.

Among the delegation was Socialist leader Pietro Nenni, once a fellow-traveler of Communists but now a deputy premier. His party newspaper Avanti called Pope Paul's speech to the United Nations "a courageous discourse."

WBKY Starts New System

WBKY-FM, the University of Kentucky's student-operated radio station, is operating on a new broadcast schedule, according to Don Wheller, the station's faculty supervisor.

The station is on the air from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

"Masterwords," a two-hour program of classical music, is now broadcast an hour later than previously, beginning at 9:05 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. "Evening Concert," is heard on weekends at 8:05 p.m.

Several new programs are included in WBKY's fall schedule:

"The Contemporary Piano Sonata," a series of 13 half-hour programs will feature a performance and analysis of the more representative piano sonatas of the 20th century, at 7 p.m. on Monday; "Chicago Lectures," a series of six one-hour programs, will include lectures on the nature of man, his place in the universe, his biological, intellectual and social potentialities, at 8 p.m. each Wednesday.

SINGAPORE (AP)—Reports from Jakarta today said organized rebel resistance in central Java appears to have collapsed.

The reports, sent through diplomatic channels, said small pockets of rebel forces were still scattered throughout the central part of Indonesia's main island but these were believed to be ill armed and poorly led.

The diplomatic reports said an American businessman, who was not identified, drove the length of Java in the past two days and found very little fighting.

The American reportedly encountered rebel forces but found them quite friendly. He reported that many people he had spoken to in central Java were supporters of Lt. Col. Untung, the leader of the attempt last week to overthrow President Sukarno.

Jakarta Radio announced that Sukarno had called a meeting of his political and military high command Wednesday at his summer palace in Bogor, 40 miles south of the Indonesian capital. The meeting was expected to shed some light on the murky political situation in Indonesia.

Earlier the Malaysian government radio reported that fighting between government forces and pro-Communist rebels had broken out in sections of central Java. The broadcast did not give the source of the information.

The Radio Malaysia report said the rebels controlled several districts, including the Jogjakarta region 250 miles southeast of Jakarta. An earlier Malaysian report said army troops had retaken Jogjakarta after Communist elements captured it.

The army high command reportedly ordered the crack Siliwangi Division into central Java to clear out the rebels. The latter's main strength seemed to come from units of the region's Diponegoro Division.

A diplomatic report from Singapore said three key leaders of the attempted revolt were in central Java: Col. Suherman, commander of the Diponegoro Division; Air Vice Marshal Omar Dhani, the pro-Communist head of the Air Force, and Lt. Col. Untung, leader of the coup last Thursday.

Radio Jakarta claimed that many men of the Kiponegoro Division had surrendered to the government forces.

Another Malaysian radio report said armed Communist units were using guerrilla tactics to harass government troops along the main roads between Jakarta, Bogor and the mountain resort of Bandung, 75 miles southeast of Jakarta.

The army's new chief, Maj. Gen. Suharto accused the Air Force of "mercilessly" killing the former army chief of staff—Lt. Gen. Achmad Yani, an anti-Communist—and five other army generals.

The mutilated bodies of the six generals were found in a common grave near an Air Force base just outside the capital.
