DR. J. H. KASTLE, HEAD OF EXPERIMENT STATION, DIES AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Bright's Disease Proves Fatal To Kentucky's Foremost Chemist Following Two Weeks' Illness—Funeral Held Tuesday

WAS GRADUATED FROM "STATE" IN 1884

Dr. Joseph Hoing Kastle, head of the Experiment Station, died suddenly at noon Sunday at his home, 238 East Maxwell Street, following a two-weeks' illness from Bright's disease. Only Dr. Kastle's associates at the Experiment Station, of which he was director, knew of his absence from office and few realized the seriousness of his illness. Dr. Kastle was fifty-two years of age.

Funeral services were held at the residence at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Dean Robert K. Massie, of Christ Church Cathedral, officiating. Burial took place in the Lexington Cemetery.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Callie Warner Kastle, he is survived by two daughters, Miss Elizabeth Thane Kastle and Miss Harriet Kastle, all of whom were with him when the end came, and an uncle, Charles Kastle, of Lexington. The members of the family were advised several days ago that the hopes for his recovery were very slight.

Dr. Kastle was born in Lexington, January 25, 1864, the only child of Daniel Kastle and Mrs. Thane Valandingham Kastle. He attended the University of Kentucky, then the Kentucky State College, graduating from this institution in 1884 with the degree of Bachelor of Science. He received his master's degree two years later and in 1888 graduated from Johns Hopkins University with a Doctor of Philosophy degree.

On recommendation of Daniel Coit Gilman, Dr. Kastle was offered the professorship of chemistry at the University which he accepted and held for seventeen years, resigning in 1905 to go to Washington, where he was made chief in the division of chemistry in the Hygienic Laboratory, United States Public Health and Marine Hospital service, with the rank of major in the United States army.

In 1909 Dr. Kastle accepted the professorship of chemistry at the University of Virginia, succeeding Dr. John W. Mallet, one of the greatest Southern chemists. In 1911 the call of Kentucky and his old home were too strong for Dr. Kastle and he returned to Lexington at the solicitation of Dr. Melville A. Scovell, then director of the Experiment Station, to become research professor of chemistry at the Experiment Station, which position he held at the time of his death.

After Dr. Scovell's death in 1912, Dr. Kastle was his logical successor, to which position he was unanimously chosen by the trustees of the University and of the staff of the Experiment Station. He was elected dean of the College of Agriculture October 26, 1912, from which he recently resigned.

While taking post-graduate work at Johns Hopkins University, Dr. Kastle became a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. He was also a member of the Society of Biological Chemists, of the American Physiological Society, the American Chemical Society, and a member and former president of the Kentucky Academy of Science.

The Alumni Association of the University was formed by Dr. Kastle and Dr. Alfred Peter and upon the former's motion, Dr. Peter was chosen first president of the association. Dr. Kastle was chosen second president and since that time has been an enthusiastic worker and loyal member of the association.

During his faithful service as a professor in the University, Dr. Kastle has made many fast friends among the students and alumni of the institution, all of whom feel as if they have lost a member of their immediate family. Dr. Kastle was keenly interested in the sports and frolics of the students and did everything in his power to make student life enjoyable. He was also deeply interested in athletics and for many years had taken an active part in the faculty management of athletics.

As a token for their affection for him and an appreciation of his services, the Alumni Association presented to the University last June a large oil portrait of Dr. Kastle, who was the first recipient of such an honor at the hands of the association.

Although Dr. Kastle has always been busy as a professor and a leader in active University affairs, he has found time to write articles on many technical subjects and it is upon these that his international fame as a chemist rests. These articles have been extensively read not only in this country, but in European countries as well and chemists have accepted them as the best of authority on the subject under consideration. His "Chemistry of Metals," which appeared while he was a professor here, is now widely used as a textbook by a number of engineering schools.

As head of the Experiment Station and dean of the College of Agriculture, his work has covered a wide range. Probably the greatest practical benefit the farmers of the State

THE DREAM FLOWER

I seek a flower, blood red and small,
Of odours sweet and yet without
More shrinking in its modesty
Than shyest mermaid of the sea.

O'er half the world I've sought to find
This fair creation of the mind.
In meadows green; in forests dank,
And on the brooklets mossy bank.

But still my soul will know no rest,
Although 'tis but an idle quest,
For this one flower that I crave
Grows in a land beyond the grave.
—R. FRANCIS RICHEY.

SIMPLIFIED SPELLING ADOPTED BY KERNEL

Action Is Result of Faculty Recommendation—It Pleases Dantzler

KERNEL IS PRAISED

Adhering to the recommendation of the University faculty The Kentucky Kernel henceforth will orthographize according to the Simplified Spelling Board. The spelling of yesterday is fast passing into obscurity and the public have answered the call for the much-needed simplicity in all walks of life. "To save time is to lengthen life" and keeping this fact in mind will no doubt encourage simplified spelling.

Realizing it is best to begin with the young mind The Kernel takes this step forward that its readers may become intimately acquainted with the three hundred simplified words which it intends to gradually adopt into every-day usage.

A reporter of The Kernel interviewed Professor L. L. Dantzler concerning the policy it intends pursuing and he was highly pleased with the step. Professor Dantzler said:

"Simplified is in no sense a new thing; it was proposed 300 years ago. John Milton advocated it and Tennyson later on even attempted to organize an association to promote simplified spelling. The fact that we, the people of today, are slow in adopting the three hundred words simplified by the Simplified Spelling Board of Madison Avenue, New York, shows that we are at least 100 years behind the times. I am glad to see The Kernel take this important step as so many of our colleges are doing. I believe that it will mean a great saving of time among the students to follow your example and you may tell them that I recommend they write the Spelling Board for free literature up on this subject."

Professor Dantzler has done much good in the line of promoting simplicity in orthography and it stands to his credit that he succeeded in having the University faculty recommend simplified spelling to all of its departments.

FRESH AND SOPHS TO FIGHT AGAINST BATH

October 13 Date of Tug-of-War at Clifton Heights Pond

BOTH CLAIM VICTORY

Arrangements are being made in the Sophomore class to treat the Freshmen on Friday afternoon, October 13, and the Freshmen, not to be outdone in hospitable intentions, are insisting that they are the boys to do the honors. The occasion is the annual tug of war between the lower classes, and if past performances are any indication, the Battle of Waterloo will look like hair-pulling in a girls' seminary when compared to the Battle of Water-Blooey on Clifton Heights. The Sophomores were victorious in the struggle last year, and have the benefit of experience, but the Freshmen insist that they have more men and more pulling.

So far the strategists in each camp have refused to give out any authoritative news on the manner in which they will fight, but it is generally understood that both sides will try to win by retreating, carrying the cable with them as they back away. The civil engineering students from the two classes have mapped off the field, and when the time of reckoning comes every foot hole will be listed and occupied by a Number 9 or better. President Barker has given absolute assurance that the cable will withstand the strain of the pull.

Last year more than a thousand persons witnessed the tug between the 1915 and 1916 classes, and the attendance this year will probably be much greater, as a large number of alumni will come in for the Golden Jubilee before the 13th, and they will all want to see the melee. The girls of the two classes will, of course, be on hand to decorate their warriors with the class colors and to give a few soprano yells to put courage in their hearts and strength in their arms.

Many claims have been put forth by both sides. The Sophs declare that the newcomers have been much weakened by the loss of their hair, and quote Samson as an example, but the Fresh retort that Samson came back and shook down the house of his detractors. Both bunches are sure that Friday the 13th, augurs ill for their opponents. So far honors in claiming have been equal.

The winning class will be allowed to paint a numeral on one of the most prominent buildings on the campus, and this numeral will be safe from molestation by the losers. Also, the losers will be forced to take a bath in the pearly waters of Clifton Pond without even a piece of soap. The pond is reported to be in excellent condition for a cold plunge.

BUTLER-STATE GAME TO OPEN 1916 SEASON

Football Rally in Chapel Tomorrow to Precede Saturday's Contest

LINE-UP IS UNCERTAIN

Some of the old-fashioned brand of college spirit is expected to be exhibited at the football rally to be held tomorrow in chapel in anticipation of the Wildcat-Butler game. Chapel hour, from 10 o'clock to 10:30 o'clock, has been set aside as the time for the big preliminary event.

All the boys will be there with their hoots and yells and their "best" girls. Rival cheer leaders with rival classes will send up volley after volley for the "team."

The first game of the season is nigh and the Wildcats are primed for the "scrap." Kentucky will meet Butler College on Stoll Field Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock.

Weeks of constant practice and training is having its effect on the football squad. With the return of Rodes to quarter, the outlook is better than it has been for some time.

The line-up for Saturday's game has not been determined, Coach Tigert being anxious to give the best men chances regardless of records or reputations. In an interview Dr. Tigert said in part: "Many shifts will probably be made. I was never more completely at sea as to who will be played and where each player will be placed.

"In regard to the outlook for a good season, I will not say that I expect a more successful one than the last, but certainly the prospects for a winner last year at this time were not nearly so good." It will be remembered that a comparatively new team entered the field last year and succeeded in winning all but one game.

The abundance and quality of material at hand was expressed very aptly by the coach in the comparison: "Perhaps we have no eleven men so good as eleven of last year's team, but I sincerely believe that we have twenty-five men in our squad this year who could run a like number of the 1915 squad off the field."

Despite the fact that the team has not been chosen and Coach Tigert refuses to make firm predictions in regard to the future, football "bugs" are cheerful and expect the Wildcats to continue their string of victories from last season well into the next.

Speculation as to the line-up allots the position of quarterback to either Rodes, Kinne, Rork or Gay with Rodes in the lead.

The backfield men are: Grabfelder, Haydon and Gumbert, "K" men; McIlvain, Baugh, Walker, Brunston, Howard and Pullen with Brittain and Simpson as possibilities in case of a shift in the line.

For end, Kinne, Crutcher, Heber, Peak, Thompson, Propps and Pullen are most prominent with the "odds"

A host of heavyweights are candidates for the line positions: Davidson, the 205-pound giant, looks promising; Dempsey, Corn, Ricketts, Brittain and Simpson are veterans. The new men are: Heick, Murphree, Sweat and Thompson with many others rapidly climbing in the rear.

Every man has got to hustle. None of the positions are yet certain, but the one fact is evident, we've got a good bunch and the least each student can do is to start the season right by shouting at the rally and attending the first game.

AT THE ADA MEADE

Eddie Polo, who did such fine work in "The Broken Coin" and in "The Campbells Are Coming," has a very important and spectacular part in the latest Universal serial, "Liberty, or A Daughter of the U. S. A.," now being shown every Sunday at the Ada Meade. In this picture he has the part of Pedro, a faithful old Yaqui servant to Liberty Horton, the heroine of the play.

Polo, before he joined the Universal Company, was an acrobat with Barnum & Bailey's circus, where he was a high diver, aero acrobat, animal trainer and parachute dropper. In Paris he dropped from the top of the Eiffel Tower in a parachute. He also claims to be the only man who has ever caught a fellow acrobat after a triple somersault in the air. As an underwater swimmer Polo also stars, having accomplished the feat of swimming 385 feet under water without coming to the surface for air.

The money will be given to the winning class to be spent as the members desire, and there is little doubt that any one of the four will be able to find use for it. So far as is known, none of the classes has made definite arrangements for this parade.

CLASS SHOWS SPIRIT

An enthusiastic crowd of Freshmen assembled in the University chapel last Wednesday at 3:30 o'clock and proceeded to elect class officers for the year. As usual an unstinted supply of oratory was dispensed and after much discussion the class finally settled on the following members for officers: Gus Gay, of Lexington, president; Miss Lula Swinney, of Eminence, secretary; Miss Virginia Croft, of Louisville, treasurer, and Flournoy Taylor, vice president.

After the election the class was addressed by President H. S. Barker and Dean F. Paul Anderson. Dean Anderson, aroused much interest among the students of the class in regard to the Golden Jubilee celebration. By the interest displayed it seems as if the Freshmen are going to be real "K" students and enter into the spirit of things about the University. The entire class expressed an aspiration to win the large prize offered for the best class parade and went so far as to immediately appoint a committee from the class to make plans for the celebration.

UNIVERSITY BAND HAS BRIGHT PROSPECTS

From all indications the University band is about to begin its most successful season. A number of old band men have returned in addition to many new ones. Professor Cover, the new director, is putting enthusiasm in the work and the members of the band are taking active interest in the organization. It is hoped that a fifty-piece band will be organized in the near future and as more than thirty men have already joined, the prospects for accomplishing this end are unusually good.

Although the University has not enough instruments to supply a band of this size at present, President Barker has given assurance that plenty of instruments will be provided when needed. Every effort is being made to get the band in shape for the Vanderbilt game and it is hoped to give several concerts on that day.

In the band this year are such men as Lovel Rush, H. Fried, M. McGregor and others who have completed their two years in the organization and who are now playing in order to see the band a success.

Membership in the band is not limited, but is open to every student who can play a band instrument of any kind. Students who are able to play are not only welcome, but are urged to join the band and help it to have the most successful year in its history.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING

The Democratic Club of the University held its first meeting of the school year Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the law department with Jesse Gregory, of Owensboro, president. About seventy-five members were present and a general optimistic spirit relative to the approaching election prevailed.

The finance committee and the committee appointed to make the necessary arrangements for sending students home to vote reported favorably.

After the business meeting a number of eloquent speeches were made by various members in which the plans of the club were outlined for the year, the history of the party reviewed, and enthusiasm aroused to such a point that all felt confident that "Woody" will ride the proverbial mule to victory next November. The next meeting will be held in the law department at 8 o'clock this evening. All members are requested to attend.

LITERARY SOCIETIES ORGANIZE FOR YEAR

Patterson and Union Societies Are Well Attended Saturday Evening

The ancient rivals, the Patterson and the Union Literary Societies began to organize for the year's work in their respective rooms on the third floor of the Gymnasium Building, Saturday night with J. Vize Chamberlain, of Unfintown, presiding at the Union meeting, and Frank M. Crum, of Inez, presiding at the Patterson meeting. Both societies were well attended and the prospects for the year are better than ever before.

During the past few years literary spirit on the campus has been at low ebb. Many students of extraordinary ability along literary lines have been among us and have graduated without their genius being discovered. On the other hand there have been many whose native talent was far above the average, but who were never given an opportunity to develop it. Both societies are putting forth every effort to remedy these conditions and to put the University of Kentucky on the map as a literary institution. Both societies will award medals during the year to the successful competitors in debate, oratory and declaiming. Several faculty members have pledged their co-operation and all are looking forward for the most successful year in the history of the institution. Both societies meet every Saturday night at 7:30. Everyone is invited to attend.

EGG-LAYING CONTEST TO BE HELD HERE

Practically all the details have been arranged for the third annual egg-laying contest which will be held at the Experiment Station farm beginning November 1. The birds will begin arriving about October 15 and the houses are in excellent condition for caring for them.

The object of this contest is to stimulate an interest in the poultry industry in the State. Kentucky at present supplies poultry and products amounting to $10,000,000 annually, but it is thought that this figure should be considerably increased.

NOTICE, ODD FELLOWS!

A meeting of the Odd Fellows of the University will be held in Room No. 11, first division, Old Dorm., at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening. All members are urgently requested to be present.

MUSIC CLUB TO BE ORGANIZED NOV. 1

The Music Club of the University will be organized November 1. It is expected that the membership will be composed of the best talent in the University and some excellent programs are being planned.

MEETING OF MINING SOCIETY POSTPONED

The meeting of the Mining Society which was scheduled for last Tuesday has been postponed until next Tuesday. All members are urged to be present, as there is important business to be transacted.

DARK SECRET OF KY. KERNEL BOX REVEALED

One Student Mistakes It For Mail Box and Deposits Letter

A letter addressed to a young lady in Missouri and evidently written by a Freshman was one of the many interesting things found in The Kentucky Kernel box at the north entrance to the Main Building when the box was opened Saturday for the first time in over a year. The letter was transferred to the real mail box nearby in the hope that it would reach its destination sooner.

The other articles in the box were an invitation to the students to a church social to be given last spring, three poems, one joke and a bill against The Kernel from the University Press with the unmistakable phrase, "please remit," still plainly visible.

The box has long since passed into disuse as a receptacle for contributions and it was only due to the curiosity of a member of The Kernel staff that it was opened. Contributions for The Kernel should be left in the journalism department, where they will receive prompt attention.

FIRST STUDENT RALLY IS DECIDED SUCCESS

The first student rally of the year was held in the University chapel last Friday morning, and the spirit displayed indicated that the Wildcats will have enthusiastic support from the stands this fall. The chapel was crowded to the doors and the whole bunch appeared to be laden with the old "pep." A number of speeches were made and Wayne Haffler, yell leader last year, was re-elected to the position. Assistant yell leaders elected were William Shinnick, '17; C. E. Planck, '19, and H. L. Taylor, '20. The coach is empowered to award letters to the yell leaders if in his judgment they earn them.

Speeches on the athletic situation at the University were made by President Barker, Coach J. J. Tigert, Physical Director S. A. Boles, Assistant Coach Bill Tuttle, Captain Maury Crutcher and Curtis Park. Frank Crum presided over the meeting. Dr. Tigert emphasized the fact that the schedule of the football team is an exceptionally hard one, and declared that the team would have to have enthusiastic rooting in order to win some of the big games.

Director Boles said that he had heard of the fighting spirit of the Kentuckians long before he came here and he looked forward to the games with great interest. President Barker insisted on clean sportsmanship on the part of the entire student body. The tone of all the speeches was optimistic, and the opinion prevails that this year's team will be equal to any of past years.

The Kernel has received a copy of the first issue of the Mexican Review, published for the enlightenment of the American people as to the aims, hopes and ambitions of the Mexican Constitutional government. In its foreword the Review says:

"The Mexican Review is the proponent of but a single policy—Neighborhood but a single policy—neighborliness is responsible to a far greater degree than are differences of race or creed or language for the development of the spirit of strife and discord which have characterized the Mexican-American relationship in recent years."

Dr. Joseph H. Kastle.

The University of Kentucky can not do too much in honor of the memory of Dr. Joseph Hoeing Kastle. Recognized by the scientific world as a chemist unsurpassed in his particular field, with the world the only limit to his choice of a field for his talents, he still preferred to come back to the University where he acquired his early education, that he might aid in the up-building of a greater University and a greater Kentucky. That he might be at home, surrounded by his friends, he refused to accept the greatest chair of chemistry in the United States.

To enumerate his accomplishments and abilities in this column would be superfluous, but a few words in appreciation of his kindly, earnest love for his friends and students are certainly not out of place. Busy man though he was, Dr. Kastle had always time for the pleasant word of greeting and for interest in student affairs. "Little Joe" was the affectionate title he carried on the campus, and it is the belief of one who knew him that that title pleased him more than would a monument of bronze or a tablet of marble. We can not bring him back. His spirit has gone to the house where there are many mansions, but the work of his hands yet endures as an inspiration and a guiding light to the students of our University. Perhaps another as great will be raised up to take the place he left vacant. We can only hope.

Get the Spirit.

The Kernel wants to see a little real class spirit this fall. There is no reason why an inter-class football tournament could not be arranged. Class spirit of the right sort will be certain to result in a better college spirit. Only a few years back the class games—football, basketball and baseball—were hardly second in importance to the Varsity games, and there was seldom any question about class supremacy. Somebody always "had the goods."

The tug-of-war has been mentioned perfunctorily, but there has been no action taken toward preparing for the event. All that is needed is a little push and dash by a few live members of each of the lower classes. There are live members, some very live members, in these classes, and if they can conquer the timidity that seems to overwhelm a great many of our good friends when they are put in positions of leadership of something or other, they can get up some regular enthusiasm over the Battle of Clifton Pond.

But even if the class games are not renewed, an enthusiastic support should be given the Varsity teams this year. At the first football rally last Friday a commendable spirit was shown, and it is to be hoped that the meeting tomorrow morning will bring out every good pair of lungs on the campus. The schedule of our football team this fall is such that our warriors may need a whole lot of vim from the side lines to win the big games. Get out and root!

DR. J. H. KASTLE

have derived from his work are his experiments in the treatment of stock diseases and the establishment of soil experiment fields in various parts of the State, where soil problems peculiar to each locality are worked out.

During his regime as head of the Experiment Station, Dr. Kastle endeavored to make the station of the greatest possible benefit to the farmers of Kentucky and the gratifying statements concerning him and the station which have been made by the farmers, are evidences that his efforts have not been in vain.

When Dr. Kastle was taken ill, he was preparing a paper on "The Relation of the Experiment Station to Regulatory Work," to be read before the Association of American Agriculture Colleges and Experiment Stations at the meet in Washington in November.

Very early in his career he developed remarkable ability for original research, especially in that department of organic chemistry pertaining to animal processes and compounds. His death marks the end of the career of one of the country's greatest research workers.

Dr. Kastle's death came as a severe shock to the students and faculty of the University and all college work was suspended until after the funeral. Resolutions of respect were adopted by the Experiment Station, the College of Agriculture, the Board of Commerce, the Alumni Association, the University faculty and the classes of the institution. On account of lack of space all these resolutions cannot be published.

The resolution adopted by the faculty follows:

"Death that comes unbidden at all times and everywhere to those whose lives are dedicated to human service with so great consecration as that which marked the career of our comrade has removed Joseph Hoeing Kastle from the active duties of a busy life and transferred him to his reward.

"While we realize that for those who, either as students or instructors, knew, revered, and honored him, no word this body can command will express in very truth the abiding sense of loss they feel at his passing, still this body takes melancholy pride in recording here its deep appreciation of the services, the character, the example of this serene and manly man, profound student, able educator, poet, thinker, philosopher and genius.

"When the last enemy comes to those who are weary with the weight of years and whose experiences are rich with the record of meritorious service to their kind, we see the sun go down and the night approach without protest, for then we know the journey's end is come in due season and the allotted task is wholly done; but when a comrade falls in the midst of all the virile activities that make life worth the living with the fever still burning in his eager soul to press even farther toward the mark of his high calling, and his path still illumined by zeal to reach the greater goal, we cry out and do not understand, yet take comfort in the sustaining assurance that, 'He doeth all things well.'

"Other records bear ampler testimony than this to the work of the hands of him whose body lies clothed this moment in the majesty and silence of death in the presence of his beloved and bereaved; hence no effort here will be made to recount what now are, and henceforth shall remain, luminous pages in the history of scientific research of our time throughout the world.

"A great thinker, an inquisitive student, a diligent instructor, a persistent searcher after the secrets nature held in reluctant grasp and withheld wrought wholeheartedly to the end, with no thought of praise except the from meager souls, Joe Kastle approval conscience gave when each day's work was done and no hope of reward but that humanity, by his sacrifice, might view in clearer light the problems of the hour and enjoy in greater abundance the blessings he knew science held in store for all. Therefore be it

"Resolved, That by his passing in the very midst of his labors, with his life work at full tide of useful fruition and promising endless succession of even greater achievements, the nation is called upon to give up one of her most outstanding and resourceful men, the State one of her leading scholars, the University one of the most profound students it has ever graduated, the alumni one of its most loyal members, and his friends a comradeship that was so sincere and singlehearted it was an inspiration.

"Be it resolved also, That this body hereby extend to those who are bound to him by the closer ties of life, assurance of heartfelt sympathy in their immeasurable loss, but congratulates them upon the heritage left to them by his life work and consecrated by his loving consideration of them.

"Be it resolved further, That this testimonial be inscribed upon the minutes of the faculty of the University of Kentucky and that a copy be sent to the bereaved family."

The resolutions were signed by F. Paul Anderson, Lyman Chalkley, C. W. Mathews, H. Garman, Enoch Grehan, J. W. Pryor, A. M. Miller, Alfred M. Peter, committee.

MINING NOTES

Charles E. Staub, a graduate of the College of Mines and Metallurgy, who has been employed by the Hager & Bates Company, of Tulsa, Okla., for the past few years, has returned to Kentucky to assist in the development of the vast resources of the State as consulting engineer. He is now a partner in the firm of Hager, Bates & Staub, of Louisville.

After graduating from the University, Mr. Staub took a special course in geology at the University of Chicago. After receiving his degree he accepted a position with the Geological Survey of Kentucky and was engaged in investigating possible oil producing lands in Eastern and Western Kentucky. He accepted a more lucrative offer from the Producers' Oil Company, of Houston, Texas, as geologist and shortly afterward took a better position with Hager & Bates, petroleum and mining geologists, of Tulsa, Okla., with whom he worked until returning to Kentucky.

J. C. Miller, a former student at the University of Tennessee, has entered the junior class of the College of Mines and Metallurgy.

Professor J. W. Reed is on an extended trip to Eastern Kentucky, where he is inspecting mines.

Four members of the faculty of the University of North Carolina attended the encampment at Plattsburg this summer.

Four new tennis courts in addition to the twelve already in use have been constructed at the University of North Carolina for the use of the students.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. received forty new girls into its membership Sunday evening at the recognition service held on the porch of Patterson Hall.

Each new girl carried a candle which she lighted from the President's candle while signing her name in the membership book. A short talk was made by the president to the effect that she hoped every girl would take an active interest in the organization this year and help make it the best year in the history of the Y. W. C. A. Special music was rendered by the music committee.

Next Sunday the Social Service Committee, of which Miss Eliza Pigott is chairman, will have charge of the meeting.

SOME CUTTING UP IN PATTERSON HALL

The Old Recreation Hall Is Divided Into Ten New Rooms

GIRLS USE BOYS' GYM

The old Recreation Hall, for thirteen years the meeting place of all the "co-ed" organizations, the playground and gymnasium of the Patterson Hall girls, the scene of many a gay frolic and quiet gathering, is no more.

Thin board partitions now divide the hall into sections and twenty-two new girls are housed in the ten rooms made and furnished with the $250 granted the authorities for this purpose.

Meanwhile, on dance nights, when once the girls were wont to hasten to the "rec hall" for their half hour of fun before the winking of the lights, they throng the corridors and crowd the Philosophian room as the strains of "Pray for the Lights to Go Out" come from an ancient square piano, suffering at the hands of some ambitious Freshman.

On Sunday nights the loyal members of the Y. W. C. A. carry their chairs from the dining room and shiver on the porch, during a necessarily brief and meager program. All the singing is done by the "choir" through the window of that same old Philosophian room, with the accompaniment of that same ancient piano, giving a peculiar far away sound to the music.

Gymnasium will be held on Tuesday and Thursday as before in the boys' "gym." This is not so inconvenient as some might think, for there is a new walk, soon to be completed, connecting the Patterson Hall lawn and the campus, which passes through a lovely "sunken garden," also soon to be completed, with the expenditure of $5,000.

Even with the addition of these ten rooms, twenty girls were turned away from the hall from lack of space. The number of applicants increases each year. With the giving up of all club rooms and the Recreation Hall, every available bit of space is now being used. The question uppermost in the girls' minds is whether next year the attic or the basement will be utilized for sleeping quarters.

THE HORACE MANN WILL MEET TONIGHT

The first meeting of the Horace Mann Literary Society which was held last Friday evening, was unusually successful from the standpoint of the program. Both Professor Bailey and Professor Baker gave illuminating and inspiring talks which were well received by the audience. The meeting was well attended by the co-eds who organized themselves into a committee as a whole whose duty it shall be to interest their indifferent friends, the male sex, in the excellent work being done by this society. The next meeting will be held in Professor Noe's room on the first floor of the Education Building this evening from 7 o'clock to 8 o'clock.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

"There is no reason why the Girls' Glee Club should not be the greatest success of the school year," said Lawrence Cover, director of the musical department of the University when asked what he thought of the future of the Glee Club. "We should be able to give two large concerts this year and clear all expenses," he said.

There is fine material at hand and if the present enthusiasm is maintained, and I know it will be, there is no doubt as to the result. Forty-five girls have already joined the club and Mr. Cover is positive that this number will be doubled within the next four or five weeks as the "try-outs" will continue for that length of time.

The club will support itself from the dues of its members and it is hoped that expenses as to the purchase of music and advertising will be covered by the proceeds of the concerts.

It has been said by many that Mr. Cover, who came to us from Purdue University, has the enthusiasm and punch essential to an undertaking such as this.

For two years before Mr. Cover went to Purdue the Girls' Glee Club had been an utter failure. Sixty-five joined the year he was there. From their concert they paid off all expenses and have now one hundred and fifty dollars upon which to start work in the new year. The same can be done in the University of Kentucky, and, it is believed, will be done during the coming year.

The club will meet at 3:45 this afternoon in the Alumni Hall for organization and discussion of dues. It is hoped that all members will be present. New girls wishing to join are also urged to attend.

CAMPUS NOTES

Curtis Park, W. D. Sutton, B. F. Creech, and J. B. Hutson, students in the College of Agriculture, were employed during the summer by the Office of Farm Management, Department of Agriculture, and the same office of the University, gathering statistics on farm management in Christian, Todd, Henderson, Daviess, Shelby, Spencer, Henry and other counties. The records gathered were of a year's business on each farm, and were selected in order to ascertain by actual survey the kind of farming which is most profitable in each section. The data will be published by the Department of Agriculture in the form of bulletins.

PHILOSOPHIAN WILL HOLD OPEN MEETING

The Philosophian Literary Society will hold an "open meeting" at Patterson Hall next Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock. The meeting is for the purpose of interesting all girl students in the University who are not members of the society with the hope that they will affiliate themselves with it in the near future. All the girls in the University are invited, regardless as to whether they are members. A quite unique program has been arranged and refreshments will be served.

STATE GRAD ENTERS NEWSPAPER GAME

Word has been received here that C. X. Johnson, a graduate of the College of Arts and Science in the class of 1914, and formerly of Tallega, has engaged in the newspaper profession at Campton. Mr. Johnson with Charles Habit, of Hazel Green, has purchased the old Wolfe County News, and will start publishing the same the first week in October. The paper will be Democratic in politics.

OFFERS COURSE IN LYRIC.

Professor L. L. Dantzier will offer a course in the lyric this semester which will be open to all students who have completed English 3. The subject will be taught by Professor Bradley and the class will be held at the third hour on Tuesday and Thursday.
