PROF. BEST HAS BOOK PUBLISHED

"Blindness and the Blind in the United States" Is Title of Latest Volume of Sociology Authority

"Blindness and the Blind in the United States," the latest book of Dr. Harry Best of the sociology department, was published by the Macmillan company of New York, during the month of January. It was published by way of a celebration of the centennial of the beginning of organized work for the blind in the United States.

The volume is dedicated to "those bearing the heaviest of human sorrows but in whose souls there shineth an everlasting light and to those who labor for them with the noblest courage and faithfulness." Doctor Best has acknowledged the interest shown in the work by the New York Institution for the Education of the Blind, the Perkins Institution and Massachusetts School for the Blind, and the Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind.

The book, which deals with the causes and prevention of blindness as well as the treatment of the blind, is divided into the following seven parts: 1. Blindness and Possibilities of Its Prevention; 2. General Conditions of the Blind; 3. Provision for the Education of Blind Children; 4. Intellectual Provision for the Adult Blind; 5. Material Provision for the Blind; 6. Organizations Interested in the Blind; and 7. Conclusions with Respect to the Work for the Blind.

Doctor Best has also published "Crime and Criminal Law in the United States," "Blindness and the Blind in the United States," will be reviewed for the Lexington Leader by Professor Manning of the political science department.

Library Will Make File of Newspapers

Collection of Medical Books Is Donated by Dr. R. A. Edwards

A collection of all Kentucky newspapers is being made by the University library and will be put on the shelves of the Periodical Reading room for the use of students and faculty. Letters have been sent to all papers in the state and a complete collection is hoped for in the near future. These papers will be put on permanent file for future use in historical work, legislative acts, local and personal information, interstate transactions, wills, and other material which might otherwise be lost.

The first gift of this kind was contributed by Mr. F. S. Brong, editor of the Licking Valley Courier, who sent a file of his paper for the last five years. Copies of 100 papers are now on file with the expectation of more being received.

Dr. R. A. Edwards, Walton, Ky., has presented the University library with a collection of medical books that were published between 1820 and 1840. These books are mostly on skin and bone diseases and contain a good description of the Lexington cholera epidemic.

The books, written by medical men who were prominent during this period, add greatly to a large collection of medical books owned by the library.

Dr. Edwards is the father of Ralph Edwards, senior in the Education college.

American and English students may study under "Red Professors" at the First Moscow university's 1934 Summer School, six weeks courses ranging in subject matter from "Political Economics of the Reconstruction Period" to "Crime and Punishment in the Soviet Union," ten in all, will be given in English by the foremost teachers of the U. Pitkin Club Hears Dr. Robert Miles

The first meeting of the Pitkin club for the second semester was held Wednesday noon at Maxwell Presbyterian church. Dr. Robert Miles, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was the speaker. His subject was "Vocations and Avocations."

Dr. Miles in discussing various ways of choosing a vocation, said that one should choose one in which he was interested and one in which he could be happy, and that one should do the work for which he is fitted and which will render a service to others. He also said that he became a minister because it was a profession in which he was happy.

The speaker further pointed out that also one should choose a vocation which would enable one to express himself.

The Rev. George Heaton, the regular speaker, returned to the meeting yesterday after a three-week illness from appendicitis. Several new members were admitted and a picture for the Kentuckian was taken.

Opinion among the faculty members as to the advisability of doing away with compulsory foreign language attainment examination was divided when the heads of the various departments of the college of S. L. A. at the University of Wisconsin were asked their stand on the question.

'Yam What I Yam; An' I Know That I Am Countrified'

By JAKE MCCREARY
I'm a country jake an' I don't care who knows it. I'm so fresh from this hills that the corn silk still sticks out from behind my ears. I like my good ole hockeas an' a sip o' the man's drink. Pap cuts my hair with a bowl an' I shaved for the first time in three weeks yesterday mornin'. But all this ain't what I'm aimin' to get at. I cum up here to the city to git me a edjakashun, an' I got a good start cumin up on the bus. I bought me a nickle magazine in Paintsville an' I been readin' up on some o' the things a gentlemans should do. I'm green, like I tole you, but I want to be able to join up with one o' them Egyptian outfits, an' I want to take a gal, an' lots o' other things.

These magazines like you all read in the city are a great help. They know just what a feller needs when he's got some hole an' wants to spruce up a bit. The first thing I got to do is git me a auto. I bin tole that a feller can't git around much thout one. An' I tole as how that's a book you kin send fer that shows you how to play the planny. Pap telled me to do a little messin on the mouth organ, an' I figger it's okay fer the country an' all, but I'm goin' to need some stylish-like fer entertainin in the city.

Another thing I sent fer was that brass thing I hit on ter a long time. It's a book that tetches a feller the right thing to say when he's takin a gal out fer a feed, or if he's addressin a board meetin' or somesim. My mom alius said I had to larn to talk in cumpany. This book's goin' to fix me up right well. I read about this right kind o' soap to use too. I ain't takin no chances, no me. I'm too shy to get caught like a lot o' these fellers who'd ought to know better. An' them livin' in the city all the while too.

Many Mistakes Exist in State Boundary Lines

Do you really know where you are at?
That is not so foolish a question as it may appear to be. A large portion of the state and county boundaries in the United States was surveyed many years before the extension of the triangulation net of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey and many errors occurred. A glance at the map of nearly every state in the country will show some deviations from intended meridians and parallels. The southern boundary of Kentucky is legally a straight line eastward from the Tennessee river, but a glance at the map will show that in very few stretches is the line a due east-west one.

The Civil Works Administration is sponsoring a special program of work in Kentucky under the federal Coast and Geodetic Survey, with D. V. Terrell, professor of Civil Engineering at the University, in direct charge. Ultimately, 270 engineers will be employed in the state. The work will consist for the most part of running traverses between stations whose precise locations have been established.

At the present time the Coast and Geodetic Survey has areas of triangulation over portions of Kentucky spaced at intervals of 25 miles. The exact location of the corners of these triangles has been computed.

in up a ladie's handkerchief an lettin her walk in the door fast. Pap tole me never to pick a fight but he says to stick up fer my rights. An he gave me his ole six-shooter too. I think I'm all set. All I'm lookin fer is a break to prove I'm as good as the rest o' the mob. I'll betcha when I git goin there ain't nobody that kin show me up.

portwhile results will be obtained. In the meantime, many geographical features of Kentucky will be removed from the "lost category" and their locations accurately determined for the first time.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! DEAN ANDERSON

Dean F. Paul Anderson, master engineer, master humanitarian, tomorrow passes the 57th milestone of his life. To him, our beloved friend and teacher, we pay tribute now...

It is from a sick-bed that Dean Anderson must observe the anniversary of his birth. Although yet unable to leave his home, it is reported that the Dean is improving, and that soon he may return to the University.

We miss his familiar figure on the campus where he could be seen often, working in his flower garden or strolling with his dogs, of which he is very fond. As he cultivated his flowers, so does he cultivate friendship, the respect and veneration in which he is held being nationwide. Particularly are his exhaustive efforts to place graduating engineers in positions praised.

WHAT'S YOUR PURPOSE? So much emphasis has recently been placed upon the securing of a good position after graduation that an important question has arisen in the minds of many thinking students. The question takes the simple form of asking ourselves whether or not we came to college to learn how to earth a living.

seriousness, that the economic reason predominates in the prominence of a higher education. Others will say that they came to college for social reasons, for the prestige that comes with a university diploma.

It is interesting to note that our contemporary Cameron Coffman delights in taking cracks at us.

We suppose that Kaydee Elizabeth Jones has got something more to "grow" about since she was elected as one of the campus beauties again this year.

Last week's issue we said that Alphasigma Epsilon House was planned to a Sigmanu but we hear that she is NOT. But that Sigmanu "Looks, Car, Money" Brown still has hopes.

It seems to us that Sigmaw Erwin Faber lost no time in pinning another ether. It was just before Xmas vacation that his pin was handed back to him. Must be easy to fall in and then out of love again.

WE ARE SURPRISED to hear that Larry Rauh was the outstanding person at the Delta dance Saturday night. Don't ask us why!

Extra! Extra! We just been informed that the Kahpas have at last agreed on their candidate for SGO sponsor.

Surprises! To see University High school Jan; Freeman getting a big rush by ruses...

MORE ARGUMENT In the communication appearing elsewhere on this page the writer answers an editorial appearing in the last edition of The Kernel.

After reading our scandal column, with its rose-girls and rose-boys, the stranger might easily mistake The Kernel for a horticultural publication.

American Consul Returns to U.K.

Dr. Harry Lee Franklin of American Consular Service in Germany and Russia, Enrolls This Semester

By SUNNY DAY

A native Lexingtonian who has distinguished himself in the American consular service in Berlin, Leipzig, and Warsaw, during the last several years has returned and is now enrolled in the University.

This gentleman is Dr. Harry Lee Franklin, who received his Ph.D. from the University of Leipzig less than a year ago and who is now studying under Dr. Amry Vandenberg and Prof. Enoch Grenhan for an M.A. in Political Science.

Mr. Franklin has done a considerable amount of journalistic work both in German and English, and is now preparing a book on the post-war German-Polish relations to include the problem of the Polish Corridor.

Mr. Franklin showed the writer a copy of the Leipzig "Abendpost" in which there appeared an article written by him concerning Roosevelt's policy.

Of course, the first question one wants to ask a person who is familiar with the German situation is what he thinks of the Hitler regime. Mr. Franklin states that he is not at all in sympathy with the Hitler principles.

Seen from the Press Box
by Delmar Adams

Now that interest is centered on basketball it seems rather out of place to begin a discussion of football, but here many days the aspirants for next year's Wildcat gridiron machine will begin spring practice.

While Coach Chet Wynne has not definitely set a date for the beginning of the spring drills, he has intimated that they will not be long in coming. The grid candidates will have to work hard to get on to the Notre Dame system which is used by the new coach, because it is rather complicated to those who are unfamiliar with its intricacies.

In last week's Liberty magazine appeared an article which named an All-American football team, which was picked entirely by the players on all the teams in the nation. Ralph Kercheval, who received honors on several other All-American teams, again was ranked close to the top, being given honorable mention nationally, and was also named all-Southern halfback.

This method of selection is one of the best that has yet been devised, for it is selected by those who should know best of all, just what qualifies their opponents' possessions. Weaknesses that do not appear to the critics in the pressbox are evident on the field and have kept several players who made all-star teams from doing so on the Liberty team. Kercheval was highly regarded by all of the opponent teams, especially Tulane, Duke, Georgia Tech, and Cincinnati, in which he probably gave his best exhibitions of the season.

Win or lose, both Kentucky and Alabama have great ball clubs which are easily the class of the Southeastern conference this season. (This is written Thursday morning.) The scoring record of the Cats is an enviable one, but their defensive one is even better. Not once this season has an opponent scored more than 23 points on them and seldom have they reached that figure.

"Little Bill" Davis and Andy Anderson, the two guards, are always on the alert and are seldom caught unaware by their opponents. The two little guards are two of the reasons why the Big Blue has such a fine defensive record, and then too, Dave Lawrence, Franchy DeMosey and Tucker make a fine first line defense which often checks the enemy scoring record when it reaches the final line of defense.

Len Miller's fresh aggregation seems headed for an undefeated season, that is by outside opponents (they were beaten by the Cat reserves in their first game). In Edwards and Carlisle the greenlings have two outstanding performers. Edwards is a tall, rangy being six feet and four inches tall, is as agile as a much smaller man and is a finished ball player. Carlisle, a former Kavanaugh High school player, is a crack shot from anywhere on the floor and is in addition a great rebounder. Both excellent on the defense. In addition to these two stars, Miller has finished performers in Ellington and Goforth, guards, and Donohue, forward.

The outlook for a good track team this spring seems much better at the present time than it did before the candidates reported. Over 25 men reported to Coach Bernie Shively Monday and Tuesday of this week, and of this group a general prospect for the distance and middle distance runs were uncovered. In the past, these events have been the strength of the Cats, but it seems now that they will be among the weakest events on the card.

The weight event men are headed by Heckman, Kelly, Olah, and Rupert, all of whom are expected to lend strength to these events. The pole vault, which had only one man for two seasons, boasts four candidates in Thomas, Captain Parrish, Jackson, and Hay, all of whom are good vaulters.

It is still not too late to come out for the track team. If you can run or jump, or toss the weights come out, as there as several events which still need plenty of strength.

Coach Rupp is always ready to give basketball a helping hand, even though he is swamped with his coaching duties. Last Wednesday night Rupp was watching a game between Transylvania and Kentucky Wesleyan, when the referee, Gayle Mohney, Kentucky's only all-Southern quarterback, was forced and forced to leave the game less than a minute after the start. The game was called up indefinitely when Coach Rupp came out of the stands and offered his services. The crowd gave the well-known Wildcat coach a rousing welcome when he came out on the floor and refereed the game, to the satisfaction of all.

About this time it is a consolation to know that Lindbergh flunked out of the University of Wisconsin. Dr. W. J. Mayo, of the Mayo clinic, flunked out of the University of Michigan medical school; and Stewart Edward White and Franklin F. Adams were likewise given their walking papers from the S. A. college of the same institution during their freshman years.

The president of the University of Southern California says that a college freshman has only about one-half the vocabulary of the common laborer. "Well," he says, "is used to describe 4,972 situations."

CATS MEET TECH SATURDAY NIGHT

Kentucky's Wildcat basketball team will host for the second time this week when they engage the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech tomorrow night in the Alumni gym. The opening whistle is scheduled to sound at 8 o'clock.

This will be the first meeting of the two schools on the hardwood this season. However, the Georgians will be seeking revenge for the defeat handed them by the Wildcats on the gridiron last fall.

The boys of Roy Mundorf are "laying" for the Big Blue, as is every other school in the "Big 12," and would be delighted with the opportunity of knocking the Ruppmen from the top of the ladder. The Wreck has only one letter man back from last year, and this coupled with the fact that Alabama dropped them by a decisive score several weeks ago, indicates that they are of mediocre strength, and should stand little chance of defeating the Cats. However, the Kentuckians are taking no chances and will enter the fray ready to take anything the Golden Tornado has to offer.

The Kentucky starting lineup will be the same as it has been all season, with DeMosey at center; Lawrence and Tucker or Jerome at forwards; and Anderson and Davis at guards.

TOPIC GIVEN FOR UK DEBATE TEAM

Governmental Affairs Will Be Discussed in This Season's Argumentative Contests; Meets Scheduled

During the next few months the University debating team under the direction of Prof. W. R. Sutherland, will discuss the following national problems.

1. Resolved, that the powers of the President of the United States should be substantially increased as a settled policy.

2. Resolved, that the United States government should create a department of the consumer, with a secretary in the President's cabinet.

3. Resolved, that the United States should adopt the essential features of the NRA as a settled policy.

Professor Sutherland said that the interest in the debating team had increased during the present season because the department had been allowed a better means of advancing.

The temporary schedule for the team has been announced as follows: Berea college, March 3; Centre College, March 3; University of Florida, March 5; Davidson college, March 7; New York university, March 12; Ohio Wesleyan (women), March 14; Kentucky Wesleyan college, March 25; University of Vermont, March 27, and Lovelia university, Chicago, March 28.

YEARLINGS FACE OHIO FIVE TONIGHT

By NORMAN GARLING

After hard practice sessions during this past week, Coach Len Miller's Kittens will endeavor to win their twelfth consecutive game tonight when they encounter the Greater Cincinnati All-Stars in the Alumni gym at 8 o'clock.

Thus far this season, the yearling team has a record for games won, to be proud of and one that would be a credit to many college varsities. Under the expert tutelage of Coach Len Miller, the Kittens aggregation has come through all their frays on the long end of a large score, and the only game that they lost was that to the Varsity B team, but at the present time it is thought that they could whip the B team without any trouble.

Although the yearlings have not played many college or other school teams, they have come in contact with independent teams that were rated above scholastic teams, and the Kittens knocked them off the same as anybody else.

The Coffman Red Devils came here with the reputation of having a team that was equal to a professional team, but after observing that game, it could readily be seen that they were very much over rated, and the Kittens defeated them without the least exertion.

Next year, when these freshmen who now occupy positions on the yearling team, come up to the Varsity, there will be a tough battle between the boys who now have positions on that unbeaten Wildcat team and the former freshmen.

Intramural
By J. DARWIN STEPHENS

The Intramural department today announced the point-standings in the intramural activities beginning in November, 1933, and continuing to the present date.

The standings were rated as follows: The Sigma Chis are now leading with a total of 542 points, while the SAE's are second with a score of 429; and in third place are the Independents with 283 points to their credit. Following these are the Alpha Gamma Rho's, with 167 points; Kappa Alpha, 163; Delta Tau Delta, 131; Lambda Chi Alpha, 129; Alpha Tau Omega, 110; Alpha Sigma Phi, 108; Phi Delta Theta, 93; Phi Kappa Tau, 93; Sigma Phi Epsilon, 79; Triangles, 75; Kappa Sigma, 69; Pi Kappa Alpha, 40; Sigma Nu, 40; Delta Chi, 30; Phi Sigma Kappa, 16; and Alpha Lambda Tau, 15 points.

The team with the highest score, after the final activities, will receive a large Intramural trophy, in order to show that it has won the Intramural championship for the year of 1933-34. If a team has won a trophy for three years it will have permanent possession of the famed "Big Cup."

Heat will be turned off in nearly all the buildings on the main campus at the University of Minnesota on Sunday and holidays when no classes are scheduled and it is estimated that $5.00 will be saved through this action.

PETITE PIECE

By LORRAINE LEPERE

The man with the boyish face was kissing the girl with the blond hair.

Never begin your story like that. In the first place it isn't his thing to do; the public likes him to kiss her at the end. And in the second—but the first is enough. It isn't the thing to do.

Anyway, the man with the boyish face was kissing the girl with the blond hair. But they were interrupted.

"Good evenin' folks." Everybody in the joint looked in the direction of the doorway. It was a basement place, with a bar lining one wall.

A settie stood with its back to one wall. It had a shiny table in front of it. On this settie sat the man with the boyish face, and the little girl with the blond hair.

"Havin' a nice time?" he chuckled. "Sorry to break in on the party. Course, it's my duty, y'know. Then he became serious. 'Come on, you stew,' he said, 'this is a raid.'"

Only the ordinary excitement, but everybody was protesting. At one table a short man with a blond in a tight black satin dress on his lap. He had a heavy jawed face, little milk blue eyes, and the suit he wore held no news for the trousers fit him skin-tight in the region of the thighs. That was when he sat down. The suit was very far from the man's mind just then. He began to plead with the officer.

"I've got a wife," he whined. "What'll you take to get me out of this?"

"Solve I," answered Hogan, the officer. "Nobody's getting out of this."

The short fat man chewed on his big cigar for a few minutes. His forehead wrinkled and a pained expression appeared and deepened between his eyes.

"But you wouldn't like your wife to see you in a tight spot, would you, now officer?" He thought of appealing to the cop's sense of fraternity against wives.

But the blond broke in to remark, "Never mind, Charley." She climbed down off his lap. "It's never much. Come on."

The platinum head with the beaded dress was already moving toward the door. The rest of the crowd seemed used to it. They were even amused at the short fat man's anxiety. They were regular customers at The Joint. None of them looked bothered.

The officer moved over in front of the settie.

"Was I he wanted to know, 'what's the matter with you two?'" The girl spoke.

"Oh, officer," she pleaded, her face raised to him, "we were wondering if you wouldn't let us go. You see, we'd never been to a place like this before, and we wouldn't like our folks to know about it. We're almost engaged," a faint blush came over her face, "and they're always around at home. We only came here to talk things over quietly."

Hogan noticed the untouched glasses of beer in front of them. He looked at the girl. She was crushing a pale pink wisp into her hand. Kind of nervous like, he thought. He noticed the anxious looks on their faces. But he remembered to nod his duty.

"Sorry. I've never come closer to lettin' anyone off before. But a place like this ain't the thing to come to. You ought to use the parks."

"But it's too cold," said the boy, speaking for the first time. "And if we promised you, officer, if we promised on our honor..." They were both the picture of youth, looking earnestly and eagerly at the cop.

Hogan relented. He smiled at them. He said, "All right. Skip out the side door, and don't let the patrolmen see you. An' remember what you promised."

The girl thanked her gratefully, and the boy pumped the officer's hand. Then they flew out of the basement.

Hogan looked after them, then picked something off the table, and went out. He nodded to the patrol driver that he would follow in the scout car, and went in the direction he imagined the two had gone. He arrived behind a brown rodgen with side curatins in time to hear a voice remark enthusiastically, "Boy, what a line you've got sister! Next time I'm in town I'll sure call you up!"

And the answer, in a voice strangely related to the one Hogan had just been listening to, "S'all right, big boy. Got a cigarette?"

As the car drove off, officer Hogan could be seen crushing a pale pink wisp into the ground with his heel. Not kind of nervous like, though.

Wildcats Defeat Crimson Tide 26-21

(Continued from Page One) from the ranks of the Wildcats. Every man played his best. DeMolsey played a good defensive game, and did not go out on fouls as he did in the first game with the Elephants.

Lawrence's uncanny marksmanship again made him high-point man for the Big Blue with 10 points with Davis close behind with nine. Coach Rupp placed a team on the floor that clicked like a well oiled machine, and refused to be defeated.

Last night's game definitely establishes the Cats as the favorite to win the championship of the Southeastern conference again.

Kentucky started off soon after the game opened when DeMolsey cut loose from the side with a free-wheeling shot. "Little Bill" Davis cashed in on a free throw and Lawrence hit an easy erip shot to give the Cats a 5-0 lead and at this point the Crimson Tide took time out.

hit a pot shot for the first Alabama score, and, after five minutes had elapsed, Davis hit a flip shot to give the Cats a five-point margin. Alabama seemed to have a new life at this point, and with Walker leading the way, ran the score to 8-7 before Whitley fouled DeMolsey and the Cat leader made it good.

Both teams played cautious ball during the first period and took few shots at the basket, especially the Big Blue. The huge Crimson Tide had the ball most of the time as they controlled the tip-off consistently.

Just before the first period ended Lawrence made one of his one-handed specialty shots, and then Bauman made a free throw as the gun flashed.

The play became cautious with the start of the second half but the Cats jumped into a short lived lead, as Lawrence made a beautiful erip and "Primer" Davis eased in a pot shot. A'shams lightened up and tried every trick in their possession to penetrate the Blue and White defense.

Davis and DeMolsey again increased their team's lead with a flip shot and a sleeper.

The Cats enjoyed a perfect percentage on their free throws, making eight in eight tries, while the Red Elephants managed only five out of eleven.

The box score follows: Kentucky (26) Pos. (21) Alabama Lawrence (10) P. (3) Kimbrough Tucker (1) F. (10) T. Walker DeMolsey (6) C. (6) Whitley Davis (9) C. (6) Bauman Anderson (4) F. (2) Coonster Substitutions—Kentucky: Settle; Alabama: McLeod.

SHOP SIGHTS

By MARY REES LAND

College girl, you have been paid a compliment by the J. D. Purcell company. They have opened up a Campus Shop on the second floor just for you, and especially for the petite girl who has such a time getting clothes in smaller sizes which do not look juvenile.

One dress to be found there is of the unusual color combination of gold, brown, and gray. It is a windblown jacket dress of printed crepe with brown taffeta yolk which looks like a blouse. The neckline is high with an attractive ruching collar.

A dresser and more sophisticated model is one of black corded sheer. The three-quarter length sleeves are full. There are three rhesmofa buttons on the belt and buttons down the waist. Interest is in the petal collar of starched chiffon.

Ping Pong is loaded of fun. Don't you want to play? Smith-Watkins has nice sets. Each contains two balls, four paddles, a 60-inch net and the net holders. The paddles are smooth on one side and sanded on the other. And the net is strong enough to withstand any balls which beginners may drive into it.
