UK Alumnus To Speak On Atomic Radiation

Brig. Gen. Albert DeCoursey, head of the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology, will speak before the Bacteriological Society on Monday. He will speak on "Ionizing Radiation Injury To The Reticulo-endothelial System." He is coming here at the personal invitation of Dr. M. Sebeva, head of the department of bacteriology.
 Gen. DeCoursey, a native of Ludlow, is a graduate of UK. He received his AB here in 1924. After leaving UK he went to Johns Hopkins, where he received his MD in 1928. In 1929 he became a first lieutenant in the United States Army Medical Corps and has been with the Army since then.
 Dr. Alfred Brauer, of the department of zoology, said that he had Gen. DeCoursey in the first class that he conducted at UK. He said that DeCoursey was a campus leader, as well as an outstanding student.

During World War II, DeCoursey held several important posts. From 1941 to 1943 he was commanding officer of the Ninth Army Area Laboratory at Ft. Lewis, Wash. He was a laboratory consultant in the Pacific Ocean Theater from 1944 to 1946.
 Gen. DeCoursey has done considerable research in the field of atomic radiation. In 1943 he was a member of the Joint Commission for Study of Effects of the Atomic Bomb in Japan. He also served as director of the Army Group in Nagasaki.

Ann O'Roark Wins KPA Scholarship

Ann Marie O'Roark, sophomore journalism major, is the recipient of a $100 scholarship given annually by the Kentucky Press Association to the outstanding sophomore majoring in journalism. Prof. Victor R. Portmann, KPA secretary, made the presentation yesterday.

Want any off the top, bud?

Kernel Korn

Bill: What's the name of that book you're reading?
Joe: "What 20 Million Women Want."
Bill: Let's see if they spelled my name right.
Freshman: I had a nightmare last night.
Roommate: Yeh, I saw you up with her.
Father: Young man, I notice that you're paying quite a bit of attention to my daughter. Is it all on the square?
Bill: Oh, no, sir, it's mostly right here on the porch.
The other day while the Wildcats were practicing on their new practice field on the UK farm, this one happened.
A football game soaring from the field and landed in a yard where some chickens were scratching.
The rooster studied the football carefully and said: Girls, I'm not complaining, I understand, but look at the work they're turning out next door.
A pretty girl is like a melody—after you marry her you have to lose the music.
Wife: Do you know what day this is?
Just 23 years ago today we became engaged.
Absent-minded Professor: Why didn't you remind me of it before, dear? It's high time we got married.
Then there was the traveling salesman who took a heavy load off the farmer's shoulder after he married his daughter—the shotgun weighed ten pounds.
And there's the one about the UK law student who heard of the death of a junior member of a local law firm. Piss of self-confidence he hurried to the offices of the firm.
"How about me taking your partner's place?" he asked.
"It's all right with me," replied the senior partner. "If you can fix things with the underbarber."
Slim: Who gave the bride away?
Tim: I could have but I kept my mouth shut.

UK Professors Make Own Special Gestures

By DON YOUNG JR.
When Napoleon wanted to, he would draw himself into his majestic full five feet plus, pierce his victim with a hawk eye, vibrate with emotion, and—in his new classic pose—deposit his right hand inside his tunic.
That's how the "Little Corporal" did it. And while he lasted, his wife was superlative. When he talked, everyone listened.
But not being an emperor, those who are faced with speech making and such, sometimes find it difficult to put across the important facts.
Emphasizing is done best using what method?
It is best to move closer and more confidentially toward one's audience, lower one's voice to intimacy, look at each person present as to include them personally in every syllable, and then quote sincerely "state one's case."
"Hi Might Work"
It might work, but don't count on it to succeed more than once. Maybe it's because audiences have got together in the past few years, or maybe it's that student's every-where are too used accustomed to large percentages of professors using the same methods.
Poetry has it that "Nothing succeeds like success," so when a really fine, high type scheme adequately stressing it is found, the discoverer keeps it.
Examine some of the ways employed by UK professors to plant seeds in student minds. (This doesn't necessarily infer that professors look upon all students minds as unencultured, empty pots of ground.)
A cool version of workable ways to stress comes to us from the College of Commerce. According to reliable sources, one disseminator of economic myths and legends literally climbs a desk to emphasize. When this erstwhile educator is engaged, he will write notes on walls, blackboard space, expand down right infuriating theories to arouse student ire, and for capping statements, plant his right foot on the board.

University Colors Once Questioned

Blue and White or Blue and Gold?
This question came up in 1893 when some of the students at the University decided it was time for a change.
Blue and Gold were the original colors of the Agricultural and Mechanical College, the name under which the present University was known from 1865-1898. Prof. Ezra L. Gillis, former University Registrar, reported that the present Blue and White was chosen by a committee of Students on April 10, 1893. The Lexington Daily Press of April 11, 1893, carried the following statement:
"Some of the State College students have become tired of the colors—blue and gold—and yesterday at a mass meeting, decided to make a change. . . . It is about settled that the committee will select "Blue and White."
OTOMETRY IN THREE YEARS, IF YOU HAVE SIXTY L. A. CREDITS
In three college years, you can prepare for the attractive profession of optometry, if you have a minimum of sixty required Liberal Arts credits. There is a shortage of optometrists in many States. Eighty per cent of the Nation's optometrists and the professional skill in concerning vision. The optometrist possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders a service essential to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice. Optometry is especially attractive to women.
The U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometry students the same consideration accorded medical students.
Chicago College of Optometry, nationally accredited, is located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is famous for its eye clinic. A building program is in progress. Dormitory accommodations, apartments and other facilities are available on a large campus.

Man Who Named University Dies

The man to whom the University owes credit for its present name died last week at Bowling Green at the age of 74. He was M. G. Colson, who received his L.L.B. degree from UK in 1911.
It was Colson, while serving as state representative from Pulaski County in 1911, who introduced the bill which proposed changing the name of State University to the University of Kentucky. Colson also introduced other important legislation setting up precautionary measures to prevent mine accidents.

Nothing-no, nothing-beats better taste and LUCKIES TASTE BETTER!
Cleaner, Fresher, Smoother!
Ask yourself this question: Why do I smoke?
You know, yourself, you smoke for enjoyment. And you get enjoyment only from the taste of a cigarette.
Luckies taste better—cleaner, fresher, smoother! Why? Luckies are made better to taste better. And, what's more, Luckies are made of fine tobacco. L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike Means Fine Tobacco.
So, for the thing you want most in a cigarette... for better taste—for the cleaner, fresher, smoother taste of Lucky Strike...
Be Happy—GO LUCKY!
For mildness, freshness, firmness, too, try Lucky Strike today! Buy the carton, buy the pack—They're better either way!

UK Baseballers Win Three; Close With Eastern, Centre

The UK Baseball team winds up its season this week, playing host to Transylvania tomorrow and then journeying to Richmond to meet Eastern Kentucky in the season's finale Tuesday.

Transey will be facing the Cat baseballers for the first time this year while Eastern downed the UK squad 11-9 earlier in the season. The Transey game will get under way at 2:30 p.m.

The Pioneers have won only one game while losing eight. The win came against Union. Leses have been to Belmarine of Louisville, Centre, Eastern, split with Union, Morehead, and Georgetown.

Transey coach, Harry Stephens will start either Gene Houser or Larry Jefferys. Jefferys won the only game against Union.

The Eastern game will be a grudge game for the Cats. The 11-9 win for Eastern in their last meeting was a 10 inning affair to add to the UK loss record with no wins.

Cats Split With Tech

The Cats split their two games with Georgia Tech last weekend, beating the Jackets 14-3 on Friday and losing to them by the identical score on Saturday.

The Cats had their hitting shoes on Friday as they swamped the Yellow Jackets with their meek powerful hitting performance of the season. Leading their hit barrage was third sacker Miles Willard who had a perfect day at the plate with five for five, including two home runs. Harry Jones also hit for the circuit for the Cats.

In the meantime, Lefty Phil Grammeier was scattering five Tech hits as he chalked up his first win of the season. The six-foot seven-inch freshman struck out seven and walked four.

It was a different story on Saturday, however, as the Yellow Jackets reversed the score on the Cats. Tech blasted five Kentucky pitchers for a total of 15 hits, five of them belonging to rightfielder Austin, who duplicated Miles Willard's five for five performance Friday.

Joe Curry, who started for the Cats was the loser as Redford coasted to his first SEC victory by limiting the Kentuckians to eight scattered hits. Larry Jones had three of these.

scored when Vol shortstop muffed a play and failed to pick off Willard who scored.

A humorous incident occurred the other day which went to prove the old adage that if you want anything done, do it yourself.

Transylvania was entertaining Centre with the visitors showing little respect for the host, leading the Pioneers, 18-10, in the fifth of the ninth inning.

A new batter named Harry Stephens was announced. Stephen happens to be the Transey coach so, not to be outdone, Briscoe Inman, Centre coach, arose from the bench, picked up a glove and took his illegitimate turn on the mound.

The first two pitches from Inman were in the dirt. The next pitch, Stephens fooled to the mound. The next one, Stephens hit to the shortstop who promptly threw the Transey coach out, ending the game.

(Kentucky plays Transylvania tomorrow on Stoll diamond and has had two games rained out with Centre this year.)

Four Grid Newcomers Called Impressive In Spring Drills

By JOHN RYANS

Paul "Burr" Bryant, head football coach of the UK Wildcats, singled out four freshmen this week, as the players who had shown the most promise since the beginning of spring practice.

The four players he selected were Don Bowman, fullback, Ken Lutz, tackle, Ken Williams, fullback, and Frank Pettit, a fullback.

When interviewed by the Kernel, all of the four freshmen were of the same opinion that practice was rough, due to the strong competition such men are waging to gain a position on next year's squad.

Lutz, a product of Louisville Manual, was especially impressed by the smoothly organized drills here at UK and the amount of work that could be accomplished in each day's practice. As Williams put it, the competition in high school wasn't too much, but here at UK every athlete you go up against is top notch.

Pettit, a Tompkinsville High grad, said that here you were up against much bigger men than you were in high school. Bowman agreed with this saying that anytime you run the ball you know you are going to get hit hard and it's just up to you to hit them hard first.

Since these men are only freshmen they have not had a chance to become as specialized in any one particular phase of football, as some of the older veterans have. Thus the new rule of this year which virtually eliminates the platform system will not have as great an effect on them.

Each of these four played both offense and defense on their high school squads and like the idea of getting a chance to play both. Bowman, a former Louisville Male athlete, said that he was more used to playing offense, but that he liked playing defense, and was sure that he would like it even more when he had more experience at it.

Williams, who hails from Lebanon, Tennessee, said that playing both offense and defense means more work, but will also be a greater honor when you do make the team. Both Pettit and Lutz agreed that playing both was hard work, but that they liked it very much, since it gives them a chance to play more.

The question came up as to what prompted Williams to come to UK, since he was from Lebanon, Tennessee, instead of going to one of UK's greatest rivals located in his home state. He said that during the last part of his senior year in high school, a new coach was hired. He became a great friend of this new coach, although he never had a chance to play under him. He was the man who was responsible for Ken's enrolling at UK. It just happened that he is Joe Glenn Atkinson, a former assistant coach here at UK.

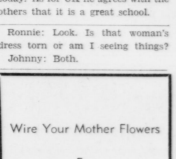

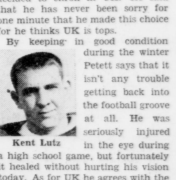

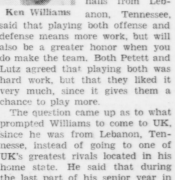

Don Bowman Bowman says

that as far as he is concerned UK is the greatest school in the country. He attended a summer session at the University of Miami, Miami, Florida, and said that it doesn't even come close to comparing with UK.

Lutz had a hard decision to make before coming to UK. It seems that he was offered a Naval ROTC scholarship, which gives you a chance to go to any one of 52 colleges and universities throughout the country, as well as paying tuition, board, room, etc. However, his love of football won out and he decided to enroll in UK. He said that he has never been sorry for one minute that he made this choice for he thinks UK is tops.

By keeping in good condition during the winter Pettit says that it isn't any trouble getting back into the football groove at all. He was seriously injured in the eye during a high school game, but fortunately it healed without hurting his vision today. As for UK he agrees with the others that it is a great school.

Ronnie: Look. Is that woman's dress torn or am I seeing things? Johnny: Both.

Golfers Win; Face CinCY

Kentucky's homestretch week saw the Blue linksmen make a mediocre showing in the Southeastern Conference and Southern Intercollegiate meets at Athens, and posting a not too impressive win over Centre at Danville 14½ to 3½. With a few weeks left in the current 1953 campaign Kentucky has a 9-2-1 record in dual meets.

Gay Brewer Jr., as has been the case throughout the season, was high man for the Blue taking a tie for fifth in the Athens meet and shooting a five under par 67 at Centre. Rain soaked courses were blamed for the below average scores of Brewer and his teammates at the three day Georgia meet.

Eddie Merrins of LSU took the southern golf extravaganza, and Brewer tied with Mason Rudolph of Tennessee and Tom Morrow of LSU, both highly touted players, for the fifth position. Last year's champ Bobby Hill of Alabama dropped to ninth in this year's competition.

Centre Meet

Summary:
Brewer (K), def. Cottrell 3-0;
Buckner (C), def. Brown 2-1; Kentucky won best ball, 3-0; Riddle (K), def. McCall 3-0; Foster (K), def. Knuch 2-1; Kentucky won best ball 2½-1½.

He properly would have held the distinction of winning this crown four years in a row, had he not attended another university for his first year.

In attempting to put a little humor into this column, there is one other incident which makes Gay Brewer, ace UK linksmen too happy but here it is.

It seems that Mr. Brewer carries his interest off the golf course and into his dreams, meanwhile talking about the sport, he knows so well, while sleeping.

On the trip to the SEC and Southern Inter-collegiate tourneys, Mr. Brewer got so excited about a golf dream that he fell out of his upper berth and scared the dickens out of teammate Ches Riddle who was sleeping below.

With his national and collegiate golf feats, we are sure that these were idiosyncrasies will be overlooked by the public and that we will remain in the good graces of Junior Brewer.

Three of Dr. Sexton's track men will be putting in their last appearance at home tomorrow when the UK squad meets Western. These boys: Jay Wallace, George Rishell and Doug Adamson, may be few in number but they will leave a gap in their respective events which will be hard to fill.

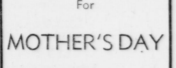

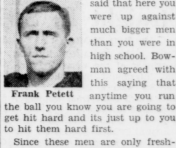

Wallace, track captain last year and acting captain for Speedie Price this year, has always turned in a top performance in the 880-yard run. Last year, he won the Southern Indoor Game's 880 and placed second this year. He has been a member of the cross country both of the years it has been in existence and on the track squad for four years.

Rishell, 440 and 220 man also is a three year man who has turned in the points when needed. Adamson, who is a transfer from the University of Michigan, has put in two years as number two 880 man behind Wallace and as a member of the mile relay squad.

Kentucky baseball teams have fared well in only one season as far as the SEC race is concerned. In past years, UK's best season came in 1950 when they won the SEC crown with 13 wins and only two losses, losing to Alabama, three games to one for the division playoffs. The playoffs were eliminated the following year.

Their worst season since 1933, when baseball took its place in the SEC, came in 1934 when the Cat diamonders failed to win a conference game while losing two. In 1941 when they finished in the conference cellar with a 2-10 record.

This year's record stands at five wins and ten losses and with only one game left, should wind up at 6-10 which is a long way from both the worst and the best season.

All the roads lead to Kankakee
Some routes, naturally, are longer than others. But if there is less traffic on them, they might get you to Kankakee faster.

The same holds true of your Long Distance calls. When circuits are temporarily busy on the most direct route for your call, a new electronic brain in the telephone office automatically selects alternate routes. They may be hundreds of miles longer, but the detour saves you time.

And the entire operation of selection and rerouting is done in a split second!

The Bell System people who perfected, maintain and operate this electronic switching system have one goal: to make the best telephone service in the world even better. Would you like to join this competent, aggressive team?

There are many opportunities in the Bell System—in engineering, business administration, accounting, and other fields. Your Placement Officer can give you the details.

What Was UK Like 'BG'?

By KIM SANFORD
Wonder what UK was like B.G.? That's Before Grill, naturally. Wonder where the kids went for coffee and limonade when there wasn't any grill? And there wasn't any grill before 1933.

When the cafeteria moved from the "commons" on the fourth floor of McVey Hall to the Student Union, it added a grill to serve sandwiches and soft drinks. But the cafeteria itself goes back almost 20 years farther.

The cafeteria served its first lunch to the faculty and students on Jan. 27, 1919. The dining room was located in the Administration Building in the room that is now the Registrar's office. Individual tables were set up for two, four, or six people. A service room adjoined the dining room.

Home Ec Girls Prepared Menus
The 15 girls of the Home Economics Department prepared all the menus and received credit hours in home economics for helping to prepare and serve the food.

Armand J. Franchi, electrical engineering junior, has been awarded a $500 scholarship by the General Electric Company.

Catering Company Lost Money
The cafeteria was moved to its present location in the Student Union in 1938. At that time it was managed by the College Catering Company, a subsidiary of the Turf Catering Company of Chicago. In 1940, the company canceled its contract because it was going in debt and turned the cafeteria and grill over to the University.

The University bought the equipment used in operating the services for $23,231.21. Five thousand dollars was borrowed each from the reserve fund of the Kentucky Kernel and the Student Union and the rest was paid by the general University fund. The borrowed money was paid back to the groups by the cafeteria's profit.

Miss Alberta Limbach, the manager and dietitian of the women's residence halls, served as manager of the cafeteria and grill. The University took over management just before the Christmas holidays, so while the students were gone, Miss Limbach had the place redecorated and painted. She also had a new fountain ice cream bar installed.

Advisory Committee Appointed
Acting President of the University, Dr. Thomas P. Cooper, appointed an advisory committee to direct the cafeteria. This group consisted of Mrs. Sarah Blanding, Dean of Women, Dr. Stacie Erickson, head of the Home Economics Department, and Dr. James W. Martin, director of the Bureau of Business Research. As far as the University was concerned the cafeteria and grill was a losing proposition, and therefore, it has thrived every since. And the students, of course, have thrived on the grill.

It's hard to imagine what they did before there was a grill. Probably they went to the dorms and studied during that one free hour, or if class was dismissed early. But it must have been dull. Well, anyway, quiet.

Troupers To Hold Picnic Saturday

Troupers' annual picnic will be Saturday, May 30, at Sleepy Hollow, Chairman Carl Nerey has announced. Cars and a truck will leave from behind the Student Union at 1 p.m.

Trouper awards of letter sweaters and keys will be announced at the picnic. Lovene Smith, chairman of the nominating committee, said that nominees for officers for the next year will also be announced, and that elections will be held. First Senior: Busy? Second Senior: No, you busy? Third Senior: Nope. Fourth Senior: Then let's go to class.

University Students Voice Their Opinions On How To Lecture And Conduct Class

By KIM SANFORD
"If I were a professor I would..." The remarks of students go all the way from rambles through to helpful suggestions. They showed that students are interested in classes to the point of trying to get something besides a grade out of them. Students suggested more humor in class lectures. It doesn't have to be the hysterical kind that breaks up class. But interesting and humorous angles make the subject as well as the professor sound alive. Many professors take to their subject like Digger O'Dell takes to one of his.

Time Is Not Perverse
A pet peeve voiced by several students concerned the professor who refuses to let class out until the bell rings, even if he finishes the lecture five minutes ahead of time. Nothing is more irritating than the professor who, at quarter of the hour says, "Any questions? Mr. O'Neil, do you have a question? No questions, huh? Well, that reminds me of a story..." Students may be more willing to stay a few minutes after the bell if a professor runs over his lecture, if he'll reverse the situation when it occurs.

The delicate subject of cuts was also attacked by some students. Most of them agreed with the old worn out theme that the number of times a student cuts a class should be up to the student. But several students complained about the professor who looks on all excuses, including the written ones from the infirmary, as life on the student's part.

Exams Rejected
There are some professors who, when shown an excuse, just brush it aside with a snarl "I don't excuse anybody." The student then wishes he'd gone ahead and come to class and blown grams in the professor's face. The students seemed most worried about the present system of final exams. They felt that setting aside a special week for exams, covering the whole semester's work, was bad psychologically as well as unfair in grading. They felt that exam week was especially hard on freshmen, because they didn't know quite what to expect. Also the unusual emphasis on finals caused many students to tighten up and not do as well.

It seems almost brutal that some professors base half the grade on this one exam. In place of this type of final, some students suggested having the final grade based on an average of several one hour tests given throughout the semester.

Some Want Daily Quizzes
A test at the end of the course could be given at the last class meeting, but should cover only the material studied since the last test. The students were in favor of more tests, even to the point of daily quizzes, and more class assignments to avoid a final exam.

One student made the recommendation that professors should file or clear mid-term exams through the Dean's office. It seems professors decide to give mid-terms about the same time and hold no pity for the student who turns up with six tests on the same day. Who's got six classes on one day? Another student recommended a "favorite" professors list at UK used. She said the class as a whole respected him as a person and certainly learned the subject. He set up each person's grade on a point system.

Point System Used
There were no stated number of points for a certain grade, but the students competed among themselves for the highest number of points. Points were given for the number of correct answers on the four tests given during the semester. The tests also included bonus questions for which a student got extra points if he answered correctly, but no points were deducted if he answered it wrong or left the question out. All outside work and class assignments were graded on a number of points, however many he thought it was worth.

Extra points were also given if the students caught the professor in an error of fact or mis-spelling. At the end of the semester the professor totaled each student's points and the totals fell into a curve from which the letter grade was obtained.

One brave and happy graduating senior suggested that no grades or degrees be given, that the student just pay by the semester and go to class whenever he wants. The only trouble with that is that professors, just like people, have to eat sometimes.

YMCA President Will Be Installed
Jim Hudson will be installed as president of the YMCA at a banquet at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Student Union. Bill Compton, publicity chairman, said this week. Other new officers to be installed include Norman Boegess, vice president; Arch Maimous, treasurer; and Elliot Netherlton, secretary. John Profit will install the new officers. Dr. Willbur Ham, associate professor of law, will preside over the program. Dr. James Gladden, assistant professor of sociology, will be the main speaker of the evening. Student members elected in March to the advisory board are Jim Baker, Norman Boegess, Marvin Jones, Jim Hudson, Arch Maimous, Elliot Netherlton, and Jim Brabant. Compton said tickets for the banquet can be purchased at the Y office. Reservations can be made until noon Monday by phoning 2309.
