SDS Tells View Of Student Role

By DOTTIE BEAN
Kernel Staff Writer

With student power as the main issue, three members of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and about 70 residents of Haggin Hall participated in a lengthy two and one-half hour Haggin Hall-sponsored symposium Tuesday evening.

The symposium, which opened with the three SDS representatives presenting their views on student power and its role in the UK community, lapsed into a heated discussion of SDS views and objectives with residents both supporting and opposing many of the ideas projected.

In the pre-discussion presentation by the SDS members, Jeff DeLuca, a graduate student, Doug Morrison and Joe Hoban, a national SDS member and a large organizer—student power was defined as essentially "community power."

DeLuca said that he, as an SDS member, feels the University is a community and those involved directly in this community—students and faculty—should make the decisions concerning it.

Right To Make Policy

Qualifying this, DeLuca said there are two points in the academic area in which students and faculty have the definite right to make policy decisions—the curriculum and the grading system.

Hoban asked his audience, "Who does the educational system belong to—the administration or those involved in the educational system—the students and the faculty?"

"We think it belongs to the students," he stated. He went on to say that he believed the taxpayers own the buildings but do not have the right to hire administrators to decide educational policies regarding the students themselves.

In the questioning and heated discussion which followed, the SDS members were asked what the University belonging to students meant in actual policy. Hoban replied, "I'd like to see administrators administrate—not make policies concerning a student's education and private life. Educational decisions should be made by the students and faculty. Administrators are to administrate policies made."

Questioning Ability

In response to questioning on the ability of students to make their own policies on educational and non-academic life, the SDS members said that students are not expected to administrate, but that they are qualified to make decisions which concern them. A debate followed.

Hoban stated that he believed many administrators are not qualified to make educational decisions affecting the student community. "I really don't think a lot of administrators know what education means today. We have to be realistic and question their abilities to form policies regarding this."

After a discussion of this point,

Police Evict Rubin Again From Chicago Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Police evicted 14 antiwar protestors and lawyers Tuesday when they tried to disrupt a hearing by a House subcommittee on un-American activities probing the bloody Chicago street battles at the Democratic National convention.

Bushy-bearded Yippie leader Jerry Rubin, a major figure in the demonstrations, was led from the House Office Building by police for the second time in one day.

Police had grabbed Rubin by the arms earlier and hustled him out of the House Office Building after he tried to enter the hearing room wearing a leather bandolier ribbed with brass-jacketed bullets.

Rubin, readmitted after shedding the live ammunition, carried a toy M16 rifle into the hearing and made child-like signs of shame at the subcommittee. Fellow Yippie Abbie Hoffman stood in the audience to ask if he could go to the bathroom.

Rubin and Hoffman were leaders of the antiwar protests during the Democratic National Convention.

Removed Twice

The subcommittee ordered the protest leaders and their attorneys ousted from the room a second time when they stood to stage a silent protest against the hearings.

Police ushered them out without resistance.

No immediate arrests were made, although the subcommittee chairman, Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., warned the protestors they could be charged with trying to disrupt Congress. He told their attorneys they could be cited for contempt.

"We'll be back Thursday," said Rubin, who has been subpoenaed to testify when the hearings resume after a one-day pause.

Pentagon Protestor

Among those evicted was David Dellinger, a leader of the massive peace march on the Pentagon a year ago. Dellinger, also a participant at Chicago, has been summoned, too.

The subcommittee voted unanimously to have police remove the 14, including four attorneys, when the protestors refused a request from Ichord to take their seats or leave the hearing room.

Those evicted included Rennie Davis and Robert Greenblatt, both under subpoena to testify Thursday, and prominent civil liberties attorney William Kunstler.

Reel View

Students at the Koinonia House Tuesday night discuss the problem and image of the homosexual in America today. A film investigation by researcher Bryan McGee was shown prior to the discussion.

Psychiatrist Leads Talk On Homosexuality Today

By CLAY GAUNCE

"Homosexuality In Men And Women," an investigation by Bryan McGee, was a film viewed in the Koinonia House Tuesday night. The film was followed by a discussion concerning homosexuality today, led by a local psychiatrist who requested anonymity for fear of jeopardizing the confidence and rapport he shares with homosexuals under his counsel.

The film was made primarily in England and Amsterdam, and exposed such men as Socrates, Plato, Alexander the Great, Julius Caesar, King James I, Michelangelo, Leonardo da Vinci, Percy Bysshe Shelley, Lord Byron, Alfred Lord Tennyson, Hans Christian Anderson, Tchaikovsky, and Lawrence of Arabia as possibly having been homosexuals.

The film revealed that the ratio of homosexuals to heterosexuals in the world is about 20-1, and in Amsterdam, where homosexuality is legal, there are several clubs where homosexuals can meet and socialize.

Several confirmed homosexuals were interviewed in the film and each one of them, when asked if he or she would rather be heterosexual if they had it to do over again, replied yes. The reason they said was that it is so difficult for the homosexual to live unpersecuted in a basically heterosexual world.

Have Hostile Fathers

The movie was concluded by Dr. Irving Bieber of the New York Psychological Research Center who stated that in most cases the homosexual male comes from a family where the mother was over-protective and the father was literally hostile to the boy, and vice versa with the female homosexual.

Immediately following the show, a Lexington psychiatrist held an open discussion concerning the problems of homosexuality, comparing the film with life today.

It was the opinion of the homosexuals interviewed in the film that a homosexual can not be spotted at first sight. One student in the discussion group strengthened this statement by explaining that he had roomed with a homosexual while attending Eastern Kentucky University and didn't know of his roommate's perversion until 18 months after their introduction.

Searching For Something

Lasting relationships were prevalent in the film, but the discussion leader said that on the surface, at least in the United States, homosexuals appear to be more promiscuous, although he did say that just as the movie illustrated, homosexuals are searching for something more than just kicks in the sex act. "They are lonely, frustrated kind of people," he explained.

In further discussion on the amount of promiscuity among homosexuals, the leader stated that even on the college campus where people are pinned and going steady, these people are also promiscuous. Therefore, the homosexual can hardly be condemned for this alone, we said.

When the question of homosexuality in nudist colonies was raised, the speaker said that homosexuality would not likely take place there as nudist colonies try to establish more of a "family" relationship where incest is not allowed.

Complex Problem

The psychiatrist related, "This is such a complex problem . . . to really understand it one must listen to more than just one theory." The group leader further said, "I firmly believe that it is an environmental kind of thing. Heredity has little to do with it."

One interviewed homosexual in the movie said that he first became aware that he had homosexual tendencies at about age 14. The discussion group further elaborated by concluding that everyone has some homosexual tendencies even though they aren't always aware of the fact. They agreed that homosexual tendencies begin during the age of puberty.

Regarding homosexuality in life today, the group discussed the college student and how he might tend to take the way of the pervert. Their main deduction was that the many frustrations which the college student encounters can be manifested if the student is not properly counseled, and make a normal student more prone to become homosexual.

Ay-O Is Existing

By GARY REXROAT
Art Critic

For anyone who has not visited the Reynolds Building over on South Broadway I can tell you that its looks are truly deceiving. Outside, a blank brick finish but inside—a blank wood finish!

Yet inside also are the most artistically elite of the University campus. It was here that I was to meet a renowned and distinguished member of the circle of contemporary artists: Ay-O.

Dusty, barren steps led to a landing that was empty of people. A grind-saw-soft-scratch sort of sound sauntered subtly across the floor. (Whew).

"Aha," I thought, "these could only be the sounds of an artist diligently working on a masterpiece. No doubt something daring—something devilishly clever and esthetically conceived."

An informed smile creased my face.

Rushing in the direction of the sounds, I met with a fellow who had just come out of the men's room.

"Excuse me," I interrupted, "but could you direct me to the studio where those inspired sounds of creativity are coming from?"

A puzzled look, then a grin, then a laugh.

"Yeah," he giggled, "go in that door that says 'men's,' take a left, go down three stalls and there you'll find a freshly flushed toilet, a truly great sign of man's creativity on this earth."

Embarrassment reigned heavily on my head.

Anyway, many wrong turns and several questions later, I finally met Ay-O, who was reading what looked like a Japanese novel at the time. I found that he was born in Japan in 1931 and at 23 graduated from the Kyoiku University in Tokyo. Since then he has presented his various works in one man shows and in group shows such as the International Art Exhibition in Tokyo and the Museum of Contemporary Crafts in New York. He has also exhibited his talents in Germany, Canada, Venice and throughout the United States.

A novice to the art of art, I could not even begin to explain Ay-O's art forms. He is a contemporary artist and has experimented successfully with a form of art called "environment." Which are solid structures like little houses, built with only one opening into which you can crawl and experience a new "environment."

Stick It Stick your finger in and pull out a block. That's Ay-O's work.

UK Art Events

By JEANNIE LEEDOM
Kernel Staff Writer

How culturally oriented is UK?

According to the UK calendar of campus events, this year seems to be abundant with concerts, theater productions and guest lectures.

Some of the concerts scheduled for this fall are the University Symphony Orchestra, Oct. 3; the University Chorists, Nov. 17; the Lexington Philharmonic, Dec. 5 and 6; the University Chorus and Symphony, Dec. 8; and the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs, Dec. 11.

The Central Kentucky Concert and Lecture Series are also available for UK students. This term the series is presenting Goldovsky Opera Company with "Carmen" on Oct. 14, speaker Jules Bergman on Oct. 22, Metropolitan Opera soprano Birgit Nilsson on Nov. 11, the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra on Nov. 15, news commentator Elie Abel on Nov. 25 and duo pianists Ronald and Jeffrey Marlowe on Dec. 11.

The Guignol Theater is planning two productions this fall which will be available to UK students for a small fee.

The Student Center Film Series provides movies each weekend for only fifty cents per person. Some of the movies to be shown are "Barabbas", "Georgy Girl", "A Raisin in the Sun", "A Man for All Seasons", "Cat Ballou" and "Elmer Gantry".

If this cultural entertainment seems to be a drag, there are always jam sessions, Greek activities and UK intramurals to liven up the campus scene.

The Student Center Board sponsors jam sessions frequently during the semester in the Grand Ballroom or the SCPatio. Several of the bands they feature are the Wellingtons, the Mag 7, the Students of Soul and Gary Edwards and the Embers.

Greek activities include hayrides, jam sessions, derbies, formal and parties.

Intramural events offer challenging experiences in golf, tennis, badminton, ping pong, volleyball, basketball, bowling and handball.

Melodrama Still Exists

Once upon a time in the barren, desolate Northlands there lived a brave and bold young warrior and a beautiful princess... This, or almost so, begins the story of "Hagbard and Signe," with all the ingredients of an exciting, early Nordic folktale of battle and love.

The story is simple and straightforward, proceeding from point to point, like a simple ballad or folk tale.

The story is basically a tragedy in the classical sense and if it seems melodramatic it is because it is not meant to be a slice of life, but a story of pure, young love struck down by corrupt and insensitive adult society which destroys all that is innocent and good.

The film is as simple and honest in showing a youth decapitated in battle as it is in showing Hagbard and Signe holding each other in bed.

N. Vietnam Spurns HHH Bomb-Halt Pledge

PARIS (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's qualified bomb-halt pledge was brushed off by a North Vietnamese spokesman in Paris Tuesday as "still the same demand for reciprocity which we reject."

The North Vietnamese have long spurned American demands for prior assurances that the Communists display matching restraint after a halt in the bombing of the North. They have insisted instead that a cutoff of American military action against the North must be unconditional.

In a campaign broadcast Monday, Humphrey said that if elected president he would stop bombing the North but only if he saw "evidence of Communist willingness to restore the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam."

Le Duc Tho, Hanoi politburo member and one of the North Vietnamese delegates at the Paris peace talks, said he saw "absolutely nothing new" in Humphrey's offer.

The implication appeared to be that it did not differ from President Johnson's position. The North Vietnamese have offered verbal assurances that "positive efforts" would follow an unconditional American bombing, but the Humphrey pledge was viewed as by no means unconditional. The Soviet news agency Tass also said "no new approach" could be detected in Humphrey's speech broadcast from Salt Lake City, Utah.

It said Humphrey's speech was "clearly calculated to win over to his side the numerous voters resolutely denouncing the dirty war in Vietnam and demanding that it be ended."

Some foreign diplomats feel, however, that Hanoi might surprise its Moscow supporters, as it did when it accepted President Johnson's offer of preliminary peace talks in Paris.

They reason that Hanoi could calculate Humphrey will prove easier to deal with than any of his rivals. Following this logic, the North Vietnamese might decide to make a response to his speech, thus hoping to ease his way into the White House.

"The North Vietnamese would be taking a risk," said one West-em diplomat, "just like Humphrey said he's ready to take a risk."

Officials in the U.S. peace delegation here declined all comment on Humphrey's speech, obeying orders to steer clear of the presidential election campaign.

At the United Nations in New York, visiting foreign ministers from the Philippines and The Netherlands demonstrated the diverse overseas reactions sparked by Humphrey's pledge.

J.M.A.H. Luns of The Netherlands called it "a real concession" and "a very constructive proposal."

Card Section Full Of Spirit, Students

"Go Cats!" will be the familiar cry of thousands of UK supporters again this Saturday when the Wildcats take on Auburn in the second home game. Foremost among the leaders of the Wildcat spirit will be a full section of card flashers, which sponsors say is unique to the Southeastern Athletic Conference.

According to A. W. Morgan of the Student Ticket Office, by 1:30 p.m. Tuesday all of the 400 seats reserved for the Wildcat Card Section had been taken.

As the spirit is aroused as kickoff time Saturday approaches, Section B of the north side of the stadium should be a focal point when a mass of blue and white cards will spell out hopefully victory for the Wildcats.

The Wildcat Card Section, newly formed this year, will be on hand to back the Cats, not only orally, but visually with cheers spelled out in poster cards during time-outs and between quarters.

Berkeley Course Starts With Quiet, Caution

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—An experimental course on racism, with Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver scheduled as a future lecturer, got off to a quiet start Tuesday at the University of California.

Chancellor Roger Heyns readily conceded that the simmering controversy over Cleaver's appointment could boil up into a campus disruption, depending on what the Berkeley faculty senate does Thursday.

That influential body is being asked to decide whether to accept a regents' decision that there should be but one Cleaver appearance and no credit for the course—or credit and 10 Cleaver lectures as demanded by sponsors.

"If the senate takes a very confrontational posture then very possibly we could have a disrupted campus," Heyns said.

Cleaver is minister of information of the militant Negro Black Panther party. An ex-convict, he is on parole from convictions including assault with intent to commit murder.

State Junior Colleges Seek Federal Funds

MOREHEAD (AP)—Six Kentucky junior colleges announced plans Tuesday to cooperate in seeking federal funds.

The six include Alice Lloyd, Lees, St. Catherine's, and Southeast Christian, all private institutions, plus the Henderson and Southeast Community Colleges of the University of Kentucky.

The federal aid will be sought to improve faculty education and administrative efficiency, add new courses, intensify student recruiting and find ways for students to earn more money for college expenses.

The six-school agreement was reached at a two-day meeting at Morehead State University. A specific program is expected to be presented to the U.S. Office of Education for financing next month.

Boycott Grapes

The efforts of California grape pickers to organize themselves into a meaningful labor union deserve the support of every citizen concerned with the basic issues of human dignity and freedom.

The grape workers, under the leadership of Cesar Chavez, are now in the 43rd month of a strike against the grape industry. The concessions which they are seeking are so elementary that many may not believe the workers have not already obtained them. The demands are for a minimum hourly wage, sanitary working conditions, a seniority system to protect workers of long standing and an end to harassment by owner-appointed stewards.

Although several of the large wineries have agreed to the workers demands, the table grape industry remains largely untouched by the strike. It is clear that if the struggle of the grape workers is to succeed, it must have support from the public in a meaningful fashion.

The most meaningful way that members of the UK community can contribute to this cause is through a boycott of California table grapes. If the efforts of Chavez and his United Farm Workers are successful, a new era will be opened in labor relations in this country. Abstention from grape eating seems a small price to pay social justice for thousands of Americans.

A Good Yank

George Wallace has revealed in an interview with the New York Times that a syndicate of wealthy Alabamians have created a fund to reimburse any policemen docked pay for wearing political (Wallace) buttons while on duty.

He urges the lawmen to wear the buttons despite the fact that doing so violates the regulations of most police departments. This lack of concern for adherence to the rules, by those whom we most expect to conform to them seems a clear contradiction to the candidate's expressed concern for "law and order."

But then, we never really believed the ex-governor's impassioned pleas anyway. He himself demonstrates the height of hypocrisy when he self-righteously shouts, "and if they (hippy protestors) lay down in front of my car, it'll be the last time they ever do." He doesn't say he'll run over them, of course, but this is clearly what he would have his listeners believe.

Perhaps his performance is no better than that of the demonstrators who assert the errors in his ways. They criticize his political beliefs, his legal interpretations, his proposed methods of law enforcement. He criticizes the nation's highest court, its legal interpretations, its views on law enforcement.

What is the difference between "righteous indignation" and "wanton disrespect?" George's hair is also long enough to "give a good yank," as he advocates, and perhaps it would be just as appropriate to do so.

Kernel Forum: the readers write

To the Editor of the Kernel:

I think it rather ironic that our Faculty Senate wants to impose a speaker policy on students which is designed to keep irrelevant speakers from using the University as a forum. It is ironic because most of the speakers who visit our campus each year to give public addresses are irrelevant. The latest case in point is Al Capp, that great intellectual from up East. These speakers are irrelevant in the sense that they usually have very little to say of intellectual importance. If they aren't outright banal, prosaic, or inane, they are little more than entertaining. Thus, our new speaker policy says in effect Al Capp and people like him are relevant and the Elridge Cleaver's are not.

Our new campus speaker policy is a moral victory for the administration and all of the other apathetic academicians who think the principle of free speech has been soundly established. The AAUP proposed a speaker policy which contained no subtle provisions for censorship. A good speaker policy should function as a reminder to everyone that the hallmark of a genuine university is its willingness to provide a forum for speakers whose ideas are alien and oftentimes offensive to society in general. Our present speaker policy does not re-affirm this commitment to free speech, but rather it signifies the academic community's willingness to make a political compromise as a means of pacifying those in our society who have never understood or appreciated the free speech principle.

The Faculty Senate perceives speakers who visit our campus in the same light as athletics. University sponsored athletic events have traditionally served the entertainment needs of the larger society. Campus speakers, almost by definition, cannot be selected for either their entertainment value or their popularity, otherwise the process of education would be impaired. One test of whether a proposed speaker is relevant to the educational goals and mission of the University might be to see if the proposed speaker is designated as a "troublemaker" by the non-academic community. Unfortunately, our new speaker policy has the potential for keeping such individuals off the campus. As suggested in the first paragraph, we only need to protect the free speech of the Elridge Cleaver's of the world and not the Al Capps; and if our own Faculty Senate can't fathom this point, then we ought to resign ourselves to being in the entertainment business.

To the Editor of the Kernel:

Democracy, the ideology that has liberated myriad individuals from the coercive dictates of would-be oppressors, was founded upon the inalienable and innate right to dissent without fear of recrimination.

There is an "outspoken" would-be oppressor on this campus who would deny this right to others under the mistaken guise of patriotism, as if patriotism were the sole and complete embodiment of what it means to be a responsible citizen. This would-be oppressor fails to distinguish between the primary responsibility implicitly endowed in all men toward the ideals of mankind by virtue of his solidarity with all men and the secondary responsibility toward the ideals of his country which may be in conflict with the former. Does not the former take precedence over the latter?

Chauvinism in excess, as John Kirk seems to revel in, very often renders one incapable of recognizing possible alternative or opposing solutions to the problems of humanity such as those propounded by Karl Marx, who certainly would not endorse the tactics of modern Communism, as Kirk implies in his letter.

Is Kirk so absolutely sure that the remedies espoused by his own country are the only workable ones? Are these remedies accomplishing anything in Vietnam or must 25,000 more men die to prove their futility?

If Kirk is not willing to respond objectively and honestly to these questions, then at least let him allow others to do so freely.

I suggest that John Kirk investigate more thoroughly and openly the ideologies of dedicated thinkers before he unjustly assails others who sincerely seek solutions, regardless of their sources.

If Kirk's aversive attitude, which is based not on sound reason but on emotionalism and unfounded misconceptions, is indicative of even a minority in this university, we need not one but many Leonard Jordans who, by their courage to speak out, guarantee the rights of all to dissent whenever it is necessary. Kirk's attitude catalyzes such a necessity.

John Rotter
Graduate Student

To the Editor of the Kernel:

Had a freshman from his sheltered home in rural Kentucky written the letter concerning Leonard Jordan and Karl Marx, it could have been lightly passed over. But the fact that it was written by a graduate student in our academically respectable College of Law is nothing short of an intellectual atrocity.

In the firm belief that Mr. Kirk should begin immediately to bridge the intellectual gap between freshman and graduate student, I offer a few initial suggestions that may help him to begin this task:

That he read the article in question in its entirety so that, when he is searching for his extra-contextual quotes, he doesn't miss complete ideas such as Jordan's "we certainly wouldn't equate him

[Marx] with Communism as we know it today."

That law student Kirk personally inspect the real humanistic and social scientific writings of Marx before pronouncing the man guilty without benefit of a trial.

And that, before he sends any information concerning Leonard Jordan to the Governor, he realize that he is attempting to deprive this University of one of the most intellectually stimulating and scholarly professors ever to teach here.

George Robertson
A & S Senior

To the Editor of the Kernel:

If Mr. John Kirk would be kind enough to allow Mr. Leonard Jordan the luxury of a defense attorney, I would like to offer my services in that capacity in the case of Kirk v. Jordan.

Being a law student, Mr. Kirk should presumably know something about the idea of being "innocent until proven guilty." Mr. Kirk charges Mr. Jordan with treason, and as evidence he submits the fact that Mr. Jordan once called Ho Chi Minh "a leader." Nice try.

Mr. Kirk should presumably know something about the First Amendment to the Constitution. And yet he charges Mr. Jordan with treason because of the way he decorates his office door.

We should not assume that Mr. Kirk knows anything about anything else, for his letter exhibits complete ignorance of the concept of academic freedom, as well as an astounding political naivete.

Mr. Kirk has flopped in his first case. And instead of sending his letter to the Governor of Kentucky in order to prevent the rehiring of Mr. Jordan (thereby violating the "due process" clause), I have found a better use for his letter. No bathroom should be without it.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI said today it has more than kept up with the nation's rising crime rate, but added that the New Left movement "has mushroomed into a major security problem."

In its annual report, the federal crime agency said the fiscal year that ended last June 30 was a period of "harsh, unremitting challenge for law enforcement."

But, the FBI said, it measured gains in several major areas of crime fighting, including a 19 per cent increase in its arrest rate over the previous year.

The 1968 figures were 18,881 apprehensions, compared with 15,878 the year before.

Another gain was claimed in convictions. The figures were 13,059 persons convicted in 1968, against 13,032 in fiscal 1967. The report stated that 97 per cent of those arrested were convicted.

Law and Order

The report came with "Law and Order," a major issue in the presidential campaign.

Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon claims that crime is running wild and enforcement and court procedures haven't been able to keep up.

In a section headed "Protecting our Internal Security," the report, mirroring earlier statements by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, charged that the Students for a Democratic Society is at the core of student unrest "held together by a bitter hatred of . . . the institutions of democratic society."

It accused SDS of sponsoring workshops to teach sabotage and how to manufacture explosives for possible use against some government facilities.

The agency also said the Communist party continues as a danger to the nation's internal security, although it has been working to achieve respectability in the nation.

No Arrests

The report listed no arrests or convictions in fiscal 1968 regarding internal subversion crimes.

The agency also noted what it said was a boost by the Soviet Union and several of its allies in spying operations in the United States.

According to the report, the two Soviet diplomatic missions in Washington and New York have increased their staffs from 346 persons in 1964 to 573 in fiscal 1968.

Between 70 and 80 per cent of these people are involved in intelligence, the FBI said.

Soviet Spies

If these figures are correct, the Soviet Union has between 400 and 480 spies of various descriptions in this country.

Here, too, the report didn't list any arrests or convictions but stated: "The FBI remains alert to this danger."

Reporting on its activities against organized crime, the FBI said it probes netted the convictions of 281 figures associated with the Mafia crime syndicate during the fiscal period.

This compared with 197 the previous year, and in addition the report said there were more than 675 persons awaiting trial on charges growing from the FBI's drive against organized crime.

The rise in bank robberies and related crimes was described as "bewildering," though the report appeared to show that the FBI had kept pace by securing a record number of convictions.

The report showed 2,558 violations of the Federal Bank Robbery and Incidental Crimes statutes, with 1,105 convictions recorded.

Describing the protection of civil rights as "an essential principle in a democratic society," the report pointed proudly to its parts in apprehending James Earl Ray, the accused killer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and listed other prominent civil rights investigations concluded during the year.

State Lags Behind In Nursing Training

FRANKFORT (AP)—Kentucky now is turning out registered nurses with baccalaureate degrees at one-half the rate recommended by Washington, according to a study released Tuesday.

The study estimated that it would be at least another 10 years before the number of baccalaureate nursing graduates could be raised from the present 20 percent to the recommended 40 percent.

The study, in draft form, was submitted to Gov. Louie B. Nunn by the Nursing Education Committee of the Kentucky Nurses Association.

Among the recommendations of the study were calls for further studies to see how more students could be enrolled at all levels, including practical nursing training, and suggestions that nursing students be given financial assistance.

For training at the master's level, the study suggested tuition be waived and scholarships be provided for Kentucky residents at the University of Kentucky.

State funds also were asked to support qualified students in nursing programs and hospitals, and agencies were urged to strengthen their grant-in-aid and scholarship program.

The study expressed "great concern" that less than 15 per cent of supervisory registered nurses in Kentucky have baccalaureate degrees. It also noted that less than 20 percent of nursing administrators and instructors have masters' degrees.

'In Loco Parentis' Idea Still Exists In Europe

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of articles written by Daily Illini Executive Editor Brian Braun. The articles are copyrighted by the Illini.

By BRIAN BRAUN
College Press Service

The degree to which European universities adhere to the concept of "in loco parentis" is manifest in a spectrum of official administration doctrines.

The forms of university-imposed student restrictions in Europe follow roughly the same outlines American administrators have adopted in the past. In the United States, these regulations have taken the form of restrictions on where students may live, when they must return to their dorms at night, visitation bans and drinking, smoking and automobile regulations.

While many Italian, Spanish and Greek universities have been painfully slow in abandoning the "in loco parentis" thesis, several newer British universities have chosen a laissez faire attitude toward non-academic student life.

The administration of Keele University, one of the newest English institutions, is representative of this new concept. A school with an enrollment of roughly 1,500, Keele has trusted the student with his own private life.

Only freshman are required to live in university housing and no closing hours are kept in any of the university's dormitories. Visitation (men are allowed in women's rooms and vice versa) has been unregulated by the university since its inception.

According to the students at Keele, few problems have resulted from the position taken by the administration.

Barbara Dew, a senior, said, "Most of the students are serious enough about their educations to take care of themselves. The men and the women know they have to be up for classes the next day and most of them get in at reasonable hours. As for men going into women's rooms, all I can say is that it doesn't happen too often—what can you do when there's a roommate around? You can always do what you want anyway somewhere more private. One thing I should tell you though, is that almost all the students at my university live on campus even though they don't have to—it's the best housing around."

In direct contrast to the system at Keele is the situation which exists at many universities in Italy and to an even greater extent, Spain.

The University of Barcelona keeps close tabs on each of its students. In addition to regulating student housing, the administration restricts the speech of the students by taking action against persons who speak out against the interests of the university or government. The sentences may take the form of expulsion from the university, army service, trial in civil court, or lesser punishments.

In addition, students find their dorms closed tight at 12 p.m. Visitation is not permitted, and no student organizations which might threaten the dictates of the faculty are permitted.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By JIM MILLER, Kernel Sports Editor

SAE, Cans, SX

Sigma Alpha Epsilon retains its possession of first place in this week's Kernel Top Ten, but there was shuffling for the other nine spots.

The Chicago Cans, by virtue of several big wins including a 33-8 pasting of previously eighth-ranked Munchers, took over second place. Sigma Chi dropped a notch to third while Pi Kappa Alpha remained fourth.

The Judges and Alpha Tau Omega traded fifth and sixth place while Sigma Chi II made the biggest advance, from ninth to seventh. Lambda Chi Alpha dropped games to fourth-rated PKA and number one SAE and slipped a place to eighth.

Tower "C" rolled in its first Dorm tourney game by a 33-7 score and moved up to ninth.

1. Sigma Alpha Epsilon (5-0)
2. Chicago Cans (5-0)
3. Sigma Chi (5-0)
4. Pi Kappa Alpha (5-0)
5. Judges (5-0)
6. Alpha Tau Omega (5-0)
7. Sigma Chi II (5-1)
8. Lambda Chi Alpha (3-2)
9. Tower A-C (5-0)
10. Minerva's Lions (5-0)

Hunter Wins Starting Job

By JEFF IMPALLOMENI
"Size doesn't mean anything unless a man thinks he's small." These words of coach Charlie Bradshaw pertain to Dave Hunter, Wildcat safety.

Hunter, just 5-10, 168 pounds, started his first game for the Wildcats Saturday night.

The sophomore did such an outstanding job on defense that defensive backfield coach, Leon Fuller, said, "He played better than we expected him to. He didn't make mistakes.

"He intercepted twice for 97 yards which was ten more yards than Ole Miss made passing all night. He's small but fast," coach Fuller said, "and he thinks real well out there."

Cards 8-5 Pick As Series Opens

Detroit's Denny McClain, 31-6, and Bob Gibson, 22-9, will square off today as the 1968 World Series opens in St. Louis.

McClain, the first 30-game winner in the major leagues in 37 years, faces, in Gibson, the 1967 Series' hero and the man who, this year, pitched 13 shut-outs and set an all-time low earned-run average mark of 1.12.

Odds-makers chart the Cards as 8-5 favorites, but many believe the McClain-Gibson battles, which could number three, will decide the Series.

Despite the praise, Hunter will argue, "I don't think I played an outstanding game. I just did what I was supposed to."

Intercepted Two

Hunter did just that by intercepting two of Archie Manning's passes and returning them for long gains. On one the speedy back outran all his blockers before he was tackled on the Ole Miss 15-yard line. "I was just trying to go where Ole Miss wasn't."

Hunter had good reason to run where Ole Miss wasn't because on the opening kickoff he said, "I was hit so hard by a 225-pound lineman that I thought I was in five pieces."

Hunter credits his performance to the rest of his teammates. "There were a lot of good blocks thrown or else I wouldn't have gotten as far as I did."

He attributes his interceptions to the defensive line. "They rushed real well and caused him (Manning) to hurry his throw. The other boys helped me out more than anything," he said. Hunter's impressive speed is a valuable asset at this position. Bradshaw has called him "probably the fastest back we have."

9.9 Hundred

Hunter ran a 9.9 hundred at Pine Bluff High.

As tailback for the 1967 Frosh, he gained 247 yards in 69 carries and scored three touchdowns.

David Hunter has virtually assured himself of a starting position on the Wildcat defensive eleven. The Pine Bluff, Ark., native has proved his size has not limited his ability to play college football.

Fourth-quarter errors allowed the Rebels to beat UK Saturday, but it's not the mistake itself that hurts, according to Hunter.

"It hurts you more to know that you let the other players down than the fact that you made a mistake," Hunter said. "It takes 22 men to win a football game as well as lose it. You have to give it all you have."

And little Dave Hunter gives it all he has.

UK Runners Win Fifth Straight

Press Whelan's undefeated cross country team made it five in a row Tuesday by defeating Berea 15-46 at the latter's 3.3 mile course.

Sophomore star Vic Nelson shattered the course record by almost a minute as he clipped the distance in 16:41. Freshman pacesetter Don Weber also eclipsed the old mark of 17:34 at 17:25.

The Wildcat runners took the first five places in the warmup to their "biggest challenge to date" - Saturday's meet at Bellarmine College in Louisville with U of L and Cincinnati.

Ranking IM Teams Roll As Tourney Enters Third Day

By ROB SHIPLEY

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, ranked number one in this week's Kernel poll, strengthened their position with an impressive 22-6 rout of eighth-rated Lambda Chi Alpha.

The number two-rated Chicago Cans demolished the Munchers, who were formerly ranked eighth. The Cans intercepted three Don Munden passes in the first half to sink any hope of a Muncher victory.

Number three Sigma Chi clipped Sigma Nu 15-7. Terry Holloway passed for two touchdowns and crashed the Sigma Nu line for a two point conversion late in the game to clinch the win.

Pi Kappa Alpha, rated fourth, handed Farm House a 28-12 thrashing. Quarterback Gary Frederick hurled three touchdown strikes for the winners.

Alpha Tau Omega, ranked sixth, swamped Sigma Phi Epsilon 21-6.

In other action, the fifth-rated Judges eliminated SADA 9-0, tenth-ranked Minerva's Lions captured a semi-final berth by trouncing the Green Bay Packers 20-6, and number seven Sigma Chi II shaded BSU 13-6.

Tournament games will resume today at the Sports Center.

Borden Aids Trackmen

By DAVE WILSON

Slow motion movies, sequential still photos, stroboscopes and weight lifting exercises are just a few of the new training techniques introduced this year by Richard Borden, UK assistant track coach and physiotherapist.

Appointed to the assistant coaching position early this year, Borden is, at present, primarily concerned with the preparations for the indoor track season which begins in late December.

Working under the concept of a total conditioning approach, he has developed a training program which utilizes the basic practice exercises combined with scientific observation in the hope of producing a better balanced athlete (primarily shot or discus men), capable of turning in an optimum performance each time he steps into the throwing ring.

Weight Program

He begins with competitive practice sessions, which are supplemented by a rigid weight lifting program.

Borden intends not only to improve on the mechanics of the respective events, but to increase the quickness of the athlete, thereby assuring good distance as well as good form.

In other words, the athlete who is able to release his shot put or discus the quickest, will inevitably have the better distance.

Three Exercises

To aid in accomplishing this purpose, Borden emphasizes three particular weightlifting exercises: the bench press, the clean and jerk, and the deep knee bend.

These three exercises aid in developing the muscular conditioning and the psychological attitude essential for quick, explosive movements in the throwing ring.

This technique, coupled with visual aids, sequential still photos and a stroboscope device which will tell him exactly how long it took for him to complete one facet of his move, could give UK's track and field men an edge on competition this winter.

Complex Christening

Known by numbers rather than by names for the past two years, the 11-unit dormitory complex will be dedicated by its new namesakes, Dr. A. D. Kirwan, acting UK president, and Miss Sarah G. Blanding, a former dean and president of Vassar College, this month.

Dorm Complex To Be Dedicated Oct. 26

The year-old 11-unit residential complex on the south side of the University campus will be formally dedicated on Oct. 26. Gov. Louie Nunn will be a featured speaker.

The complex includes two 23-story towers that have become a Lexington landmark, eight three-story dormitories and a central commons.

The UK Board of Trustees in June named four men's dorms and one tower for Dr. A. D. (Ab) Kirwan, UK interim president and history professor, and four women's dorms and the other tower for Miss Sarah G. Blanding, former dean of women at UK.

Both are UK graduates and former deans, and both have distinguished themselves in their respective fields. Miss Blanding became the president of Vassar College. Dr. Kirwan was honored by his colleagues in the College of Arts and Sciences last year as Distinguished Professor of the Year.

Both honorees will be present at the dedication.

Taking part in the dedication will be student representatives from the two residence areas of the complex and representative members of the graduating classes of both Dr. Kirwan and Miss Blanding.

John Y. Brown, Lexington attorney, and Samuel Ridgway will provide dedicatory remarks. Miss Blanding and Dr. Kirwan will speak briefly.

Tentative plans call for ceremonies on the mall area toward University Drive, beginning at 11 a.m. A luncheon in the complex cafeteria and tours of the complex area, including students' rooms, is to follow the dedication. Reservations for the luncheon will be made at the Housing Office until Oct. 18.

Home Ec Coed Travelers Enjoy European Summer

By ELLEN ESSIG

They didn't get to see Paris in the spring, but Paris wasn't its usual self last May when 30 UK coeds began an educational European tour sponsored by the UK Home Economics Department.

The tour, set up for students interested in textiles, fashion and interior design, consisted of visits to Dublin, London, Copenhagen, Zurich and Paris.

But because of the civilian upheavals in May, the girls went to Amsterdam instead of Paris. "The students who participated received two credit hours. The 500-level course is listed as a special problem number and is designed to meet the needs of our students," said Mrs. Charlotte Bennet, a co-director for the tour.

The girls visited a silk farm in London, a weaving establishment in Dublin, a cabinetmaker in Copenhagen, many interior design houses in Amsterdam and a clothing boutique in Zurich. One senior said that Switzerland was her favorite country. She also added, "The people in Holland weren't quite as friendly as in the other countries we visited."

One coed evaluated the trip: "I enjoyed every bit of it. The experience was very educational and worthwhile. I would highly recommend it to students interested in fashion, textiles, and interior design."

The tour was directed by Miss Kathleen Hoell, and Mrs. Charlotte Bennet, members of the home economics faculty.

The trip was Miss Hoell's third. A graduate of Drexel Institute in Philadelphia, Miss Hoell joined the UK staff last year and is presently teaching interior design.

Mrs. Bennet, a graduate of Louisiana State University, teaches textiles and other clothing courses.

Before the next trip can be scheduled, at least 30 girls must sign up. Mrs. Bennet said. Registration for the course will be conducted before second semester begins. Anyone interested should contact Mrs. Bennet in the School of Home Economics.

Junior and senior home economics majors, graduate students and alumnae are eligible to participate in the tour. If space is available, other UK students may participate without credit.

SDS Tells View

Hoban was asked the grounds on which he based his opinion. He replied by stating that many administrators don't keep up with contemporary trends and changes in the educational system.

On this question DeLuca commented: "The point is that administration involves the book-keeping of the system but making the policies should involve those in the field and students are the other end of what curriculum is all about."

Discussed Dorm Rules

A discussion of dormitory rules followed in which the right of administrators to make policies affecting a student's personal life was debated.

Opposition arose from many of the students in support of those administrative decisions and their "design to provide an academic atmosphere in the dormitories."

Coinciding with this was a discussion of the meaning of what education. Several comments of both support and opposition were made by the residents on the SDS views concerning their meaning of education.

The symposium, sponsored as a Haggin Hall Forum program, was designed to "bring controversy and issues into the dormitory and to the students," according to J. Allen White, head resident of Haggin Hall. It was held in Haggin's lounge. He said that several programs are being planned by the Forum Committee, including a political debate.

Sen. Cooper Opposes Fortas Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. John Sherman Cooper, (R-Ky.) announced Tuesday his opposition to the appointment of Abe Fortas as chief justice of the United States on two grounds.

Cooper voted Tuesday for a losing motion to shut off debate on Fortas' nomination. The Kentucky senator told colleagues on the floor he would vote against Fortas' nomination if it came up for a direct vote.

Cooper said he opposed the justice's participation in decisions of the executive branch.

Cantilever Causes Commotion

By JERRY W. LEWIS
 Adventurous students and an "unstable cantilever" are providing a source of concern for the campus police's "safety patrol" since the concrete block structure's erection last Thursday behind Pence Hall.

Although some students have thought that it is really the start of some "outside concrete rest-rooms," UK's cantilever is a serious project by two University professors.

The work being done now is a small scale of a design by Richards Levine, a professor in the school of Architecture, and Dr. Hans Gesund of civil engineering. The structure is a floor-to-ceiling design for hospitals which will save space by housing wiring and ducts within its own dimensions.

Recently students have taken over the structure as a new place to "hang out" between classes. Actually, "hanging on" may be a better phrase in this case and the UK campus police are apparently afraid that "hanging on and climbing on" may result in "a tumbling down."

Due to this fact, a memorandum was issued to Dr. James P. Noffsinger, the Dean of the School of Architecture, from a UK safety officer. The notice was concerned with the safety of the pre-cast concrete projection.

The memorandum stated, "We are concerned with the stability of this heavy concrete framing suspended above persons. Also students are sitting on the projection of this cantilever construction." The first day the structure was hoisted up Professor Levine held his classes upon it.

As far as Professor Levine is concerned about his project, he feels it is completely safe. "It would give plenty of warning before it could fall," explains Levine. "It would have to develop large cracks in it."

The memorandum Levine received asked that the framing be anchored to the building "to prevent a swaying motion," though the structure is now connected to Pence Hall.

The memorandum also asked for signs to be posted asking to "Keep Off—Do Not Stand Beneath."

So, the next time you don't have anything to do, go visit UK's thrilling cantilever. Just be careful, because the campus police may soon make this a "No Parking" zone.

Student Forum Promotes Free Speech On Campus

The UK Student Forum is attempting to get students involved actively in today's important issues.

In a statement issued Tuesday night the Forum set forth their purpose:

▶ To promote freedom of speech on the campus.

▶ To provide an open forum for the discussion of campus issues.

▶ To provide an opportunity for interested students to participate in intramural speech events.

▶ To promote excellence in speech performance among UK students.

Persons interested in becoming a part of the Student Forum should contact Pam Smith at 254-6844 or 252-6141; or Jacquie Shelton at UK extension 8-827.

Ballots Notarized Now

There are only two weeks left to apply for an absentee ballot.

The applications are available at the Student Government office, room 102 in the Student Center, next to the University Book Store. After they are notarized, the applications should be mailed to your County Clerk and must not be postmarked later than October 17.

There is a notary public at the Student Government office on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 3:30 to 5:00. This is the only time that the applications can be notarized there.

Before applying, you should know your precinct and, if you live in a city, what ward you live in.
