Bart Peak, head of the University M. C. A., addressed the freshmen Monday morning at their weekly matriculation lecture in Memorial Hall.

AMERICANS HAPPIER NOW THAN YEAR AGO, SAYS DOCTOR FAY IN INTERVIEW

By THEO NADLESTEIN It would be fun to interview people if you weren't so new at it that you couldn't think of anything to ask. I was interviewing Dr. Bernard Fay, the speaker of the second convocation, and was finding it sort of difficult to get started. Mrs. McVey's warm welcome, Doctor Fay's cordial and friendly greeting, and the sunny atmosphere of the Maxwell Place living room. Then Doctor Fay started talking, and I forgot that I was there to ask questions, and just listened.

TECH'S LOSS TO TENNESSEE BY 15 - SCORE

Freshmen Wage Close Battle On Stoll Field Saturday; Handicapped By Lack Of Offense

KENTUCKY BOY STARS FOR TENNESSEE RATS

Kentucky Makes Four First Downs To Two For Volunteers

Completing the upset of Kentucky's football squad, the University of Tennessee freshmen defeated the University of Kentucky yearlings, 15 to 0, on Stoll field Saturday afternoon.

Handicapped because their work of scrimmaging with the varsity had left them little time to plan a real offense, the Kittens fought a valiant but losing battle.

Joe Reno, a Kentucky boy from Georgia Tech, was the star of Tennessee, leading the Volunteers in his punting and passing.

The playing in the first quarter was uneventful with both teams frequently after failing to gain first down. Early in the second period Reno took the ball on the 40 yard line, faked back and dropped a beautiful pass into the arms of Sanders. Sanders wriggled through the arms of several tacklers but was finally downed on the Kittens' two yard strip. Reno then plunged over on second down for the initial mauling. The try for point was no good. The third period started slow with frequent punting by both teams. Finally Reno punted one to the Kittens eight yard line where the ball was downed. Keller then tried to pass but was pulled by the cat out of the fire with a 22-yard dash on an end around play.

In the last frame Dispayne recovered a Kentucky fumble on the Kittens 13. After failure to gain first down, the Rats relinquished the ball and Keller went back behind his goal line to punt to safety. A pass from center went over his head and into the end zone. Keller recovered but was tackled for safety and two points for the Baby-Vols.

The last score was made late in the afternoon out of desperation the Kittens tried to pass from deep in their own territory. Reno intercepted the throw on Kentucky's 20-yard line and was not molested on his short jaunt to the goal line. Moynisk's kick for the extra point was good.

The Kittens made four first downs to the Rats two and were limited to 33 yards on Friday, the Tennessee yearlings.

RADIO OPERATORS TO MEET TONIGHT

Licensed amateur radio operators, who are interested in working on the University amateur radio station, will meet at Mechanical hall tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

The visiting executive will be taken on a tour of the University campus and a tour of the blue grass stock farms. We will be guests at a tea to be given by President and Mrs. McVey at Maxwell place.

Nursery Teachers To Hold Session

A short course for federal nursery school teachers will be conducted Oct. 12 to 31 by the department of home economics of the University.

Only those teachers that have been officially appointed by Miss Gene Shelby, state superintendent of the federal work, will be admitted to the course.

Instructors will be Dr. Ruth Melcher and Miss Mary Mumford of the University nursery school and Mrs. William K. Evans, Lexington.

HAMMONDS TO SPEAK

Dr. Carsie Hammonds, head of the department of agricultural education at the Grand Canyon, will speak before the meeting of the Indiana Teachers of Vocational Agriculture at Indianapolis, Oct. 23. Doctor Hammonds will also speak before the meeting of the Southwestern Ohio Teachers Association, Oct. 30 at Cincinnati.

Bewildered 'Cats Crushed By Razzle-Dazzle Plying Of Brilliant Wreck Eleven

Georgia Tech Takes Early Lead In Win Handily From Listless Kentuckians, 34-0

By RALPH E. JOHNSTON Kernel Sports Writer

Grant Field Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 10—Kentucky went down today in miserable defeat at the hands of a grimly determined Georgia Tech which flashed a "razzle-dazzle" brand of football that baffled, bewildered, swamped the 'Cats, 34-0.

But razzle-dazzle was not in itself responsible for Kentucky's defeat—the Jackets' out-ran, out-fought, out-charged, out-blocked, outplayed, outwitted, and outlasted—the Big Blue from the start's whistle to the finish gun.

To repeat in this story just how it happened, play-by-play, would be only to replay the game, miserable enough without repeating. Suffice it should be said that Tech scored early in the game and then from there on. One period remained free of score—the last one, after both sides had substituted freely.

Let us give credit where credit is due, and slip it on where it should be slipped. To Georgia Tech—each and every player a better than ordinary Kentucky team because of their shining in the departments of football. It must be a great team, and headed towards even greater glory.

This week, on our side, it is different. Credit can be dishd out in small packages only. Kentucky's offense was so feeble that it passed the time in a "UK" formation. At this point the band broke up and the people looked on with amazement while the band appeared in a "CATS" formation, playing "The Kentucky Home."

Ending the special-bound formations with an "ON-ON" the band fell in and the announcers giving praise to its leader, John Lewis with these words, "This is the greatest spectacle ever staged on Grant field."

Dutch Lunch Club To Meet On Friday

The Y. W. C. A. Dutch Lunch club will hold its first luncheon meeting of the year at noon on Friday, Oct. 16, in the student room of the Agriculture building.

Town girls and commuters who wish to attend are asked to make their reservations before Thursday in the Y. W. C. A. office at the Woman's building. Reservations are limited to 50 girls, so leave names in the office as early as possible.

Any women who can assist at the luncheon and who have the time to spare on Friday, are asked to see Libby Cowan at the Y. W. C. A. office this week.

Nine Candidates Entered In "Most Popular" Contest

Nine petitions for candidates in the "Most Popular Senior Boy and Girl" contest have been submitted to Al Vogel by University students. The contest, sponsored by a downtown concern, will be voted on Friday, when ballots will be printed in the Kernel.

Candidates so far nominated are Evelyn C. Groves, Paul Smith, Bosworth, Lexington; Rosemary Clinckscale, Williamstown; Virginia Robinson, Lexington; John F. McHenry, Versailles; Henry Miller, Savannah, Ga.; Brock Forsythe, Lexington; J. B. Breckinridge, Lexington; and Pete Reisinger, Cleveland, Ohio.

Positions for other candidates must be submitted by one o'clock Thursday, Oct. 15, and must contain 20 signatures.

Kyian Pictures Are Being Taken

Pictures for the Kentuckian will continue to be taken during the first week in the basement Memorial hall from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. and until noon on Saturday. "ONE SWALLOW..."

That common species of football fan, the person who must put every unexpected sports happening to the acid test of rationalization, was with us again.

Not content with the fact that the 'Cats were simply outplayed by a brilliant ball club, these people must find some sinister reason for so complete an upset.

To The Kernel the truth is plain. Tech played a better game than did Kentucky Saturday. Consequently, it won.

CLOISTERED YOUTH AND THE POLITICAL SCENE

The student, living a life apart, is of necessity out of touch with those phases of political life which involve his family and friends who are out in the world.

Cloistered in the walls of an institution of learning, national affairs mean little to him unless they are of great importance, and when he is finally confronted with an issue of the magnitude of a presidential election, it is impossible for him to vote with either a "what-difference-does-it-make?" attitude, following the lead of his friends and family, or he can face the election seriously, objectively, critically, eager to discover what seems to him the best party and the strongest leader.

New at the voting game, he can bring to it the curiosity, impartiality, and interest of a young voter, unhampered by former alliances and barriers. Whether he can vote or not, he can gather facts, read campaign speeches, compare parties and personalities, open his mind to arguments, and study major issues.

Looking at the political scene today the student finds himself in contact with two especially colorful personalities, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Governor Alfred Landon. Listening to their speeches, he is impressed with the former's strength and confidence, with the latter's energy and sincerity. He is confronted with a bewildering array of issues, some of them truly important, some of them "red herrings," and he must attempt to sift these to the best of his ability.

He feels far away from these matters, closer to his campus elections than to those of his nation, ignorant of the undercurrents of the campaign; and yet, if he is young and intelligent and alert, he and others like him, the cloistered youth of the nation, will receive the challenge of citizenship with willing hands, searching eyes, and an honest desire to find the best and most hopeful way.

CUTTIN' UP THE CAMPUS with "Scoop"

ALPHABET SCOOP: C is for Coed, who's cute to her toes, A is for Ardent, her circle of beaux, M is for Monday, which gives her the blues, P is for pinned, if her heart she should lose, U is for Uh-huh, hands off, gals, he's mine! S is for Smoothie, who falls for her line.

C is for Cutting, it happens at dances O is for Ogling, when she's on the campus, E is for Early, to bed at the dorm, D is for Dating, which keeps her in form.

SPEAKING IN SUPERLATIVES: Most in love boy on the campus is Jimmy Sales...prettiest hair and eye coloring belongs to Margaret Stanley and Jessie Roby...

UNIVERSITYTYPES: The Campustogee—Whenever some one is needed to fill in for a blind date, he's the goat... He's a professional at thinking up good excuses for his brethren who want to stand up a coed...

Accuracy: I retract the following heart merges, previously announced as sealed romances: (1) Helen Farmer and John Good (and all in fun...)

Chio Mamie Maddox and the football team traveled on the same Pullman car to Atlanta... From Georgia KA Billy Dennison wired a message dripping with sentiment to Emily Quigley-collect... Hot stuff! Margaret Greshouse... Joe Arvin and Anne Bess Clarke are nearing the church climax...

Richmond's heart has been thrown into a commotion by Robert Payne... Mary Kay Boland knows most of the footballers but she can't get to the 30-yard line with 'Ticky Scholtz. Wake up, Ticky... Phisig Ray Lathrum and Charlie Cole pulled the threads of a trick of running out of gas in some desolate frontier land... Cheerleader Wanda Strong, half of Kentucky's little gridiron burlesque show, was the reason. Cole had to trudge back for the petrol and Ray had to sit there with Strong in broad daylight and wince under the wise cracks flung by viewing motorists.

ELECTRIC HEAT FOR SOILLESS CALIFORNIA nurserymen are growing tomatoes, strawberries, and sweet peas in chemically treated water heated by electricity. The method was developed by Dr. W. F. Gerstner, of the University of California, has been extended to commercial installations. Tomato plants, grown in this way, produced unusually high-quality tomatoes. The yield was large, and they matured ahead of tomatoes grown in soil.

COFFIN FELLOWSHIPS THIS fall eight young men will be carrying on advanced research in seven American universities under fellowship grants from the Charles A. Coffin Foundation. The recipients: George E. Boyd, U. of Chicago '33. At Chicago. R. Frank, U. of California '33. At California. Second grant of fellowship, Alvin H. Howell, U. of Kansas '29. At M.I.T. Russell A. Nielsen, Stanford '33. At Stanford.

GENERAL ELECTRIC

Hooey Pollui

By GEORGE KERLER If you didn't lose your October allowance on the game Saturday, try hard to forget about it. The toughest and most interesting part of the schedule is in the future, and we can't do much worse.

To Fred Fugazzi, the Jim Farley of the Fraternity Combine, goes the distinction of throwing the first bomb of the 36-37 political war. About a week ago Fred took a look at his forces and then gashed at the formidable opposition. Obviously, something had to be done. So he set sail for the Kappasville and sprung this garbage on them: The staunch old Independent Conny James Chi, had divided its votes, half going to the Fugazzi tribe and the other half remaining loyal. This whopper was followed by Fred's suggesting that the Kappas swing over to his side. Oh, the Independent Com. line wouldn't say anything about it. He had talked it over with their leaders and they said it was all right, go ahead.

Needless to say Fugazzi, who may have meek thoughts about being the Senior Sultan, was original in his thinking that night. If this is a forecast of the political direction of the truth that may pollute the campus this year, the I. C. boys answer with "our swords are sharp and our arms are ready." Dear Lab: Try a muzzle.

Sexy-Lexy Potter is getting ready to vote in his third presidential election. Deltachi Joe Hicks, proprietor of a nearby Wimpy Mince, felt a woman's wrath when school opened this semester. It seems that Joe went to summer school here and among his campus pursuits was a course named Alma Love, the 1934 beauty queen at Duke University. At the time, was pinned to Kaydee Carol Flohr, and he was making a last attempt to win her. But Joe is a normal young man, so the inevitable happened. He spent the summer singing "Alma Love" to Alma Love.

Came September and Carol Flohr, the faithful Hicks came bounding up the KD steps and Carol Flohr floored him with a Deltachi pin-right between the eyes, and she burst forth with a volley of prize-brighting names appropriate for such a scallywag.

Old Joe, who now devotes his life to the improvement of hamburgers, says, "It was a happy summer, but it's a sad fall."

Chio Mamie Maddox and the football team traveled on the same Pullman car to Atlanta... From Georgia KA Billy Dennison wired a message dripping with sentiment to Emily Quigley-collect... Hot stuff! Student Opinion

Editor, The Kernel: Dear Sir: Awake ye males of the University and let us avenge a slanderous piece of criticism voiced by the feminine members of our alma mater. Last summer while you and I were enjoying our vacation a piece was published in the paper and sent throughout the state by our girl friends entitled, "What Coeds Dislike About College Men."

Through a poll taken by the girls they decided there was very little they liked about "we-mas." The gals claimed that the only time we looked any where's neat was when we took military and that we wore ties on very few occasions! Perhaps this is true but at that we don't wear those self-made knut outfits that look like freshly soaked shredded wheat. Most of the gals that wear their home-made creations look like a cross between a breakfast food and a wet blanket.

That isn't all, not by a long shot; they also claimed we wore atrocious looking ties and that our color schemes were cockeyed. We may be color blind but at least we don't dress up like the "Lexington Hook & Ladder Company, No. 12" on a parade.

Another little item is that we didn't shave often enough. Shaving you must admit, takes time and a sharp razor, but at least we don't have high water marks on our necks and, takes time and a sharp razor, but at least we were also disclaid as being too concealed. That is a laugh. Most of the coeds treat us like lepers and act as aloof as Greta Garbo in a rain storm. If they do happen to be asked for a couple of dates they act like they are "Miss America" on a tour.

The last and most mane of their childish prattle was: Quote, "That we hold on, this may floor you) act like we were still in an early adolescent stage." Did you ever take a gander at some of those oh so sweet campus cuties trying to be funny? Adolescence me eye, they act like junior on a visit to the zoo. Why Henry Clay freshmen aren't as naive as some of our dear campus sisters.

Men, we must unite and show these mislead coeds that men are men, and though we may be uncouth and unkempt, at least we can take it as fast as they can dish it out.

What is she saying?

She is simply stating the fact that the finest place to eat is just off the campus at Lime and Euclid. Come in today and try our Famous Hamburgers and Grilled Sandwiches.

Now we know how V. M. I. felt. For Kentucky endured just about the same sort of treatment last Saturday in Atlanta as they had dealt to the Cadets a week before. Coming into the stadium a slight favorite, the Wildcats were a bewildered bunch filing out at the finish, after Georgia Tech had run through its entire repertoire of amazing stunts to score five touchdowns.

It might be well to say, without alleging, that the Cats were defeated by a Tech team that will probably never again play as flawless a game as it turned out last Saturday. Coach Alexander's boys, worked up to a proper pitch, battled and fielded 1000 against Kentucky. They just didn't make any errors.

Americans Happier Than Year Ago—Fay

said that American poetry is the most alive part of its literature, and that more of it is being done here than anywhere else. Life in France is now more intense and actual than it is in America, and so we are producing very good essays. In America it is easier to dream, and so you have some very good poetry. Short stories and poetry are at a low ebb in France, he said, and there is instead an emphasis on long novels, short essays, and brilliant newspaper work in the political field.

Doctor Fay spoke on a great many more interesting subjects, among them Gertrude Stein and her two famous dogs, about his friend, Andre Maurois, the great French writer, about the French stage, about the genius of Marcel Proust, about Sherwood Anderson and Ernest Hemingway, about American literary criticism and French review of literature; in fact, on such a diversity of interesting things and interesting personalities that when I said goodbye my only regret was that our interview had not been twice as long, and that there were not more students besides myself, who could have heard him.

afternoon that we felt like smiling was during the intermission and the Kentucky band was going into a formation. . . . an absent-minded French horn player found himself all alone when the formation was completed and made a hurried dash into position. . . . it's still "the Best Band in Dixie". . . . the Atlanta sports writers treated us swell, but the press-box was not so hot. . . . there were about five programs to accommodate 40 people, all trying to figure out the substitutions. . . . the P. A. system was ragged, with the announcer having Joe Skaggs playing at one end for Kentucky and Red Hagan swerving in the "Cat BACKFIELD at various times, along with several other slips.

All the Atlanta writers gave Kentucky the edge in their pre-game stories and Ed Danforth was especially certain the visitors would come through. . . . on the train home someone mentioned a couple mistakes the Wildcats had made during the afternoon. . . . Dameron Davis made the smart report to that when he said "Our biggest mistake was in coming to Atlanta this week-end."

Wildcats Crushed By Georgia Tech

the end the line began to droop. It leaked yellow shirts like last year's slicker leaks rain. There were others, as individuals, who stood out. Simpson played well. He is one of the best backfield men who, as yet, has not been named after one of our better known equine friends. Sophomore Tommy Coleman did his best, and time after time he faded back to pass, then faded again, and again only in desperation to run with the ball, often gaining back all he had lost and more.

There were those who thought Neviers played up to scratch, but your writer thinks he was off, and quite definitely. Bosse, replacing Neviers, played a better game. Once, at the second quarter started. Black, subbing for Myers, noticed Coleman unable to pass had started to run the ball but was about to be cut down by two tacklers. He raced into action and threw as pretty a block into them as ever was seen. As a result Tommy gained eight yards on a play that was about to lose play.

Little things like that, if you noticed them made the game worth watching, but there were so many other miserable things to see. Over a thousand Kentucky fans, anxious to see Kentucky shine, were broken hearted to see Bob Davis start for an end run and lose five yards, being engulfed by a huge yellow wave of tacklers.

Everyone wants to know what happened. Everyone has a theory. No one knows. Essentially they did to Kentucky exactly what Kentucky did to V. M. I.—beat them early and then held a psychological stick over their heads.

Coach Wynne is still of the opinion that they have a better team than Kentucky has. He does not believe they are that much better. He is inclined to blame newspaper talk for the impression every one had before the game. He feels it is decidedly wrong to create "All-Americans" before the season starts. A player soon believes what is being said about him in the newspapers.

In many ways Coach Wynne is right. Surely the newspaper men in Atlanta knew better than what they wrote. They ran Georgia Tech down boosted Kentucky. Kentucky writers were honest in what they wrote—they believed we had a championship team.

However the season is far from being over here on this campus. If the confidence fans had in Kentucky was not entirely misplaced, then Kentucky can come back fighting as they are supposed to do. Before they lie hard games, but the games can be won.
