Are UK Qualities Appreciated?

TIME OUT—By Tommy Moore
It's been a little over a month since we first set foot on the University campus and during that time life here has been everything we hoped for, and even more.

This week-end, of course, was the biggest of them all, and seeing old grads, parents, and friends coming in added a lot to the occasion. We feel that that the social side of Homecoming was a success, and the decorations, dance, and dinners were not lacking anything.

Wonder if the students really appreciate the all-around qualities of UK. It is an accomplished institution in many ways, yet does not have the stiffness or snobbery which often follows.

No one would deny that UK is liberal in expressing its views, at least not after reading the Kernel editorial page for the last several issues.

Even the library was closed for the football game, with a sign proclaiming the fact as early as Thursday afternoon.

Correcting the impression that the Kernel is not subject to libel suits. It definitely is, and once in the past, came dangerously close to having one to fight.

Wise and Otherwise
By BOB AMMONS
All in all, Homecoming lived up to its classic reputation—a holiday when all the alumni get drunk and look as if UK has some old school spirit behind the football team.

We hope there was nothing significant in the reaction to the beavers—bait band formations. The crowd cheered louder for the dollar than they did for the V-for Victory.

From the way they were dragging UK's Tide-battered centers out of the game, we have cause to suspect that someone in the Alabama line had a Mack truck concealed up his sleeve.

However, we don't believe the crowd was as patriotic as it is at the Vanderbilt game. No one tried to sell a V-for-Victory button.

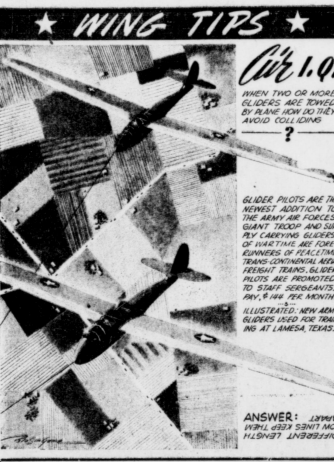

We make a motion that someone design a wound-stripe for those great patriots who suffered injuries during the scrap drive.

In this trying world one must learn to take the bitter with the sweet as the unfortunate British people well know.

Christmas Deadline
Christmas presents for service men stationed outside the United States must be mailed by midnight, October 30.

QUOTABLE QUOTES
Love takes to be a pleasure when it ceases to be a secret.

Through all the drama—whether damn or not—Love glids the scene, and women guide the plot.

GLIDER PILOTS ARE THE NEWEST ADDITION TO THE WEST COAST that Gil Rodin, head man in the Bob Crosby band, and Ray Baudica, its ace drummer, have enlisted in the Army.

The Crosby crew will, of course, continue, but it'll seem a lot different without Rodin and Baudica.

And that's not all, brother. The number of plain musicians who have recently joined up is absolutely staggering.

Navy Appeals On Navy Day

Today is Navy Day and a day that will be observed everywhere in the United States. It is not necessary for us to remind—or be reminded—of the great service that the United States Navy is rendering in this war that is being fought on every ocean and sea.

In former years a navy was just a means to transport troops and guard harbors from enemy landings.

But today it is a different story. The modern American Navy forms our main fighting arm. This navy has been growing until it is now the largest and most powerful afloat.

This new navy was the conception of the Roosevelts but they lacked sufficient backing to accomplish such a mission, for at that time the Coral sea and Pearl Harbor battles were a million years away.

Now recognized as one of the saddest events of all American history was the scrapping of the Navy after the World War with hopes that the 1917-18 trouble would never knock at the door again.

The Navy appeals to every American for help, for manpower and spirit. It offers young men chances for a career through its highly specialized technical branches while aiding a fighting team and being a member of a great fighting team.

Beyond all doubt this Navy will be maintained and well kept after this war and not be shoved into some harbor to rust and allow to become obsolete as were the fifty hulls that were traded to England.

On this day, Navy Day, the Navy is calling to those who desire to specialize in a branch of the service and to travel. The Navy is doing a swell job in the Solomons and are highly commended for the wonderful job just completed in the Midway and Coral sea affairs.

In appreciation for the service rendered by this fighting unit we should do all in our power as students to endorse enlistments and cooperate with the Navy Relief which was last year

Not For The Glory Of The Campus

During the last two months nine out of every ten babies born in Greece have died of starvation. Of the 300,000 babies born since the invasion of Greece 100,000 have starved to death.

The entire population of Greece is existing on the verge of starvation and famine, and the swollen bodies and prominent bones of the babies and children are mute testimony of the fate of a whole generation.

A brave people whose exploits and sacrifices have written some of the most brilliant and memorable pages in this war are now dying daily by thousands from starvation.

Food has been bought in Turkey and sent into Greece by the Greek War Relief association. Two 100-bed field hospitals and 15 mobile disinfectors have been sent to Egypt which are in use among the Greek forces.

While it has been possible to get food from Turkey to Greece, the quantity is hopelessly insufficient. The most recent reports tell of 700 to 800 children of Athens—proud city of ages past—dying each week from starvation.

Three ships with grain sailed from Montreal in August. The State department reports that food already sent has been distributed and consumed by the Greek people.

There is a wonderful lack of medical supplies. There are over 10,000 amputation cases among young men and women.

INTEREST IN SGA NEEDED

Here at the University we have a governmental system on a small scale which is our very own. It can easily be compared to our big government.

We are told that school prepares us in such a manner as to give us better judgment in the shaping of our careers. With this statement comes the advice to make the most of our opportunities.

If the aforementioned is true, why not consider the SGA as a parallel training for more intelligent participation in "government of the people, by the people, and for the people."

By participating actively in the SGA the student is not only working for an immediately better campus, but is also acquainting himself with governmental functions so that he will better understand future political affairs.

As the great danger to a democracy is the indifference of its members, so it is with the SGA, which is a democracy in itself.

Just a few days ago, the freshmen elected their representatives. Approximately 100 out of 600 are bothered to vote. Now is the time to improve this attitude—impressively, too.

The SGA is still only a comparatively young organization and in its adolescent period needs a positive interest from each and every student.

Musical Mutterings By Charlie Gardner

TOP MUSICIANS CALLED
It will only be a few weeks from now when Claude Thornhill will enter the Navy, thereby disbarring one of the most promising and certainly the most musically dancing bands to hit big-time in a decade.

Coincidental with the news of Thornhill's enlistment comes word from the west coast that Gil Rodin, head man in the Bob Crosby band, and Ray Baudica, its ace drummer, have enlisted in the Army.

The Crosby crew will, of course, continue, but it'll seem a lot different without Rodin and Baudica.

And that's not all, brother. The number of plain musicians who have recently joined up is absolutely staggering.

Huey Long's Ghost Smells

THE FREE LANCE—By Bob Warth
The late Huey Long, until he changed to stray in the path of one too many policies, was one of the most successful politicians this country has ever known.

It may seem incredible to literate persons, but Huey made one statement in his lifetime which bears repeating: "Fascism in America will arrive on an anti-Fascism platform."

Although the population in occupied Poland cannot be reached at present, there are three million Polish natives outside the country who need aid and can be given aid.

At the present time the Polish American council has sufficient funds to send only one food package a month to every twentieth Polish prisoner of war in Germany.

These are only two of the funds that are combined in the War Chest drive beginning today on the campus and in Fayette county.

Students at the University of Kentucky are expected to contribute to this drive, to make it a success, not for the glory of the campus, the glory of the city, of the county, of the state, of the nation; but to aid those people who have no homes, no food, no clothing; to aid the men in camps through the USO; to aid Russia for the sake of our ally, and because she is vital to US.

We must reach into our pockets and come out with a gift that we can afford, big or little, according to how much we have.

I'm no draftee Sure, I enlisted in the army. Been in since December . . . since Pearl Harbor. Lots of the fellows left the University after the Rising Sun gave the double-cross to Uncle Sam. Some of them won't be back on the campus, either. But we're not kicking. We figure our universities and colleges are one of the really big things we're fighting for. A few of us left college to enter the army and we know that that sacrifice meant to us. We want to guarantee our sons and daughters against the same experience. We also want our investment protected from the start. We want those of you who are still in college to make a good job of your part in this war. Whether it's solving a math problem or working in a chemistry lab, make the best of it. In a short time you may be one of the nine men or women who keep me at the front. You wouldn't want to sell me down the river, would you? We fellows in the trenches aren't worried, though, about the Americans at home coming through with their part of this bargain. We've studied a little history and a people that has descended from the Washingtons . . . Lincolns . . . Hales . . . and Lees, just couldn't fail a fellow citizen when the chips are down. We believe in American colleges because not to believe in them would be to doubt our very selves. We're risking our lives, young Americans, to protect the things we believe in. We're counting on you to do just as much!
