Spindletop Tourist Site Approved

UK President Frank Dickey has approved a proposal to develop Spindletop Mansion and accessory buildings into a tourist attraction, museum, and conference center.

Lt. Gov. Wilson Wyatt disclosed the decision at the Citizens Association for Planning's annual dinner at the Phoenix Hotel Wednesday night. He asked the CAP to serve in an advisory capacity in development of a suitable plan for the project.

"I talked with Dr. Dickey today and he said he felt that under CAP guidance we could combine the uniqueness of the Blue Grass with the modernity of research," he said.

Wyatt envisions the Spindletop Mansion as a "unique museum of racing," as headquarters for the Kentucky Racing Commission and the Thoroughbred Association, with trophies on display and with every phase of racing on exhibit.

New Members Needed For SUB Committees

Students interested in working on one of the various Student Union Board committees may now sign for committee work in Room 122 of the SUB.

The method of obtaining committee members has been changed this semester. In the past the Student Union Board held a mass membership meeting for students interested in working with the board.

Linda Coffman, personnel committee chairman, said the mass meeting was not being held because there are "too many meetings already scheduled."

King Candidates

Students Arrested At Own Request

Six members of the Student Congress' Judicial Board submitted to voluntary arrest by the Lexington Police Department Wednesday.

The "arrest" was made at their request to give the board a better idea of what happens when a student is arrested. Dr. Leslie L. Martin, dean of men and faculty adviser to the board, swore out warrants in Police Court, charging them with "breach of peace."

Police Lt. O. L. Wilson and Patrolman W. R. Edmundson served the warrants in Dean Martin's office. They clamped handcuffs on Garryl Sipple, Student Congress president, and John Williams, Judicial Board Chairman, and hauled the students off to jail in the paddy wagon.

After a bumpy ride to the police station, the students were "booked" and thrown behind bars. On the other side of the bars, Wallace McMurray, assistant police chief, explained procedures of arrest to them.

The chief then conducted a tour of the cell blocks, the "bull pen," where prisoners are sent while awaiting trial, and the courtroom.

Fingerprinting procedures were explained, and Myra Tobin sat for a mock identification picture. The tour was interrupted at one point when a genuine prisoner was brought in.

Dean Martin explained that in the 1½-hour tour the students saw the jail "as it really is," since police officers had only about three hours advance notice of the tour.

He felt that the police station tour would furnish the board members with a better understanding of community problems—

Gold Diggers Ball Features Crowning Of Campus King

All social conventions will reverse for a few hours tonight as the campus king will be selected and men become cared for, protected beings at the fourth annual Gold Diggers Ball.

The ball, sponsored by the SUB Social Committee, will be held from 8 p.m. till midnight in the SUB Ballroom.

The females assume the role of the pursuers. The rules of etiquette are reversed. Male guests will be treated. Dinner and flowers are vital to the affair.

Trophies are to be given for the most original corsages made by female escorts. Winners will be judged by the chaperones.

In keeping with a gold digging frame of mind, the ball theme will be "Gold Rush 1961." The 18 king candidates sponsored by the women's residence units, will be pictured as wanted criminals.

Bags of gold nuggets will be placed about the ballroom. Dance hall girls will escort the king and his two attendants.

The center of attraction will be a jail where the "most wanted man" will be crowned by Dean of Women Doris Seward. The King will be chosen by popular vote. Couples will cast their votes at the ball.

Alpha Xi Delta sorority will be seeking its fourth Gold Diggers King. Its candidates have been victors since 1958.

The Pace setters and Bonnie and the Blue Boys, a local group, will provide the music.

Mrs. Bebee Park, program director of the SUB, stated that advance ticket sales were very promising.

The Gold Diggers theme was introduced to this campus four years ago by Dean Seward.

Candidates for king and their sponsors are John Brannen, Kappa Alpha Theta; Bob Broadbent, Chi Omega; Bill Cooper, Zeta Tau Alpha; Fred Haas, Alpha Xi Delta; Mickey Henton, Dillard House.

Jim Holt, Alpha Delta Pi; Steve Hyman, Weldon House; Lew King, Kappa Delta; Bob Lathrop, Boyd Hall; Bob Miller, Alpha Gamma Delta; Doug O'Brien, Patterson Hall; Dick Parsons, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Jim Ragland, Delta Zeta; Sidney Kemmele, Delta Delta Delta; Phillip Sewell, Hamilton House; Garryl Sipple, Jewell Hall; Billy Bob Sprague, Keeneland Hall, and Murray Toborowsky, Holmes Hall.

Hearing Set Monday On Suit Against CORE

The hearing of a suit seeking a permanent injunction against the Lexington chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality will be at 10 a.m. Monday before Circuit Court Judge Joseph Bradley.

The suit was filed last Monday by the Phoenix Amusement Corp., which wants a permanent injunction against CORE members to keep them from blocking "free and ready access to the premises" of the Strand Theater.

CORE has sponsored several "stand-ins" at the movie theater recently, protesting its policy of not admitting Negroes.

Although the suit is against the Lexington CORE chapter and all its members, seven members are named specifically. Six of them, including Daniel S. Claster, instructor of sociology, and Bobby C. Wilhite, Negro Arts and Sciences senior, participated in an antisegregation demonstration at the Strand a week ago.

They were arrested by Lexington Police on breach of peace charges, but the charges were dismissed in Police Court Saturday.

Dr. Abby L. Marlatt, director of the School of Home Economics, is the seventh person named specifically in the suit.

ODK Applications

Applications are available in the office of the dean of men for Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership honorary for junior and senior men. A minimum scholastic standing of 2.8 is required.

"Rain, Rain, Go Away . . ."

Marilyn Meredith, this week's Kernel Sweetheart, took no chance of getting humid hair and messed up makeup while posing for Kernel photographer Dick Ware one dank day recently. Incidentally, Mr. Ware reports that, surprisingly enough, the freshman prelaw major from Smith Grove didn't melt when she put down her umbrella. Marilyn is a Kappa Delta pledge.

'Richard III' Opens Wednesday

By BOBBIE MASON
Assistant Managing Editor

Theater-goers of the Blue Grass will have an opportunity next week to see Shakespeare performed with as much Elizabethan authenticity as they are likely to find in this area.

Guignol Theatre's "Richard III," never performed in Kentucky, has been set for March 1-4, with specially designed costumes and a rare Elizabethan stage setting.

Arch Rainey, technical director, designed the complete stage, parts of the theatre, and costumes. An authority on the Elizabethan theatre, Rainey wrote his master's essay at Columbia University on Marlowe's "Dr Faustus," of this era.

The stage is not a strict Shakespearean stage, but a modified adaptation. Many of the primary Elizabethan qualities have been preserved.

The bracing for the stage is of structural aluminum stripping, which gives the theater a more flowing silhouette than other materials. The material used cost over $400, and was donated by an aluminum concern, said Doug Roberts, assistant director for the play.

Painted scenery and properties in the modern sense were used only sparingly in Elizabethan theater in order to suggest or symbolize a setting rather than to completely realize it. Rich costumes compensated for present-day artificial lighting.

Over 65 costumes are being made for the show—the most elaborate array Guignol has seen in years. The cuffs and collars of the noblemen's costumes are being made of mink.

"Richard III" is a history, probably written in 1592 or 1593, as well as a tragedy. Shakespeare used Holinshed's "Chronicles" for his source.

Richard III is the Duke of Gloucester, the scheming villain who fought his way to the throne of England but was ready, at his defeat, to say, "A horse! A horse! My kingdom for a horse!"

The historical Richard was completely different from the Shakespearean portrayal. The play depicts the king as a monster and a villain, murdering a dozen people, while history indicates he was a responsible figure and the deaths were political executions—not murders.

Through the entire play Richard is a witty, per-

Cases Of The Careless Roommates

A girl can take just so much from a roommate—school girl or career girl. After that she looks for a solution or wants to dissolve the partnership, judging by letters. Here are some:

Q. "What do you suggest doing about a roommate who is sloppy? She drops her clothes everywhere. Even if reminded doesn't pick them up if she is not in the mood. I like her otherwise. How can I cure her of this bad habit?"

A. Stop being a maid to her. Tolerate her sloppiness for a few days, leaving tossed garments around until she gets disgusted and picks them up.

Q. "My roommate is inconsiderate. She studies late, burning a bright light and I can't sleep. Earlier, she listens to the radio, reads or talks on the telephone when I am trying to study. How can I solve this without causing too much friction?"

A. If you cannot get together on study periods, suggest she play the radio in a low tone. The problem of the bright light could be solved by making her a gift of the goose-necked lamp that she could use on her desk. These are inexpensive and usually keep the light over the necessary area.

Q. "I work as a salesgirl in a department store. I was hired in summer and when they offered me a permanent job, I transferred to night school. A girl who works with me suggested sharing an apartment, and although I was not too fond of her I decided to do it to cut expenses. She doesn't give me phone messages and has been hounding in on my dates who call when I am at school. She also uses my hair brush, lipstick, and handkerchiefs. Don't you think I'd be justified in moving out some day when she is at work?"

A. It isn't necessary to put yourself on her level to prove your point. Tell her you have decided to live alone, would like to be paid your share of the furniture or make a deal on splitting the lot. It would be a good idea to find other living quarters before you strain relations.

Q. "My sister and I share a room and bath. There is a vanity in the bathroom, and she spends every waking minute in front of it. I cannot take a bath or wash my hair without begging her to get out. She is my mother's favorite, so I can't get help there. Her mirror mania makes me late for school and dates. Should I tell her friends and embarrass her into releasing the mirror?"

A. Why not get into the bathroom before her some morning, take a leisurely bath, and wash your hair and ignore her pleas. Maybe she'll realize another's dilemma in the same situation.

Q. "What would you do if your roommate talked on the phone all evening so that you could not get a call or invite anyone in? We live in a one-room apartment, attending school a few miles away."

A. I'd ask her to agree to two phones. When she considers having the entire responsibility of one phone she may not be willing to tie it up. Or have a friend call you each evening just as you get home, then have a long-winded conversation yourself.

Not Sable, But Lingerie Costs

By JOY MILLER
Associated Press

Lucie Ann's steady customers think nothing—well, not much anyway—of paying $950 for a nylon peignoir or $1,250 for a lounging costume.

"My prices begin where competitive prices end," says Lucie Ann comfortably.

A dozen years ago in California, Belgian-born Lucie Ann found herself a widow with two children to support. She had had no business experience, but every soul-searching session on what to do came back to the same thing: designing and selling lingerie.

Lucie Ann started without a workroom. "I didn't have the nerve to have a place." She designed and draped, then carted the project to a woman who did all the seams, and on to another who appliqued.

The finished product she put in a pretty quilted box tied with a big fresh ribbon ("I like things very dainty and right") and visited movie studios. Producers' wives recommended her to friends, and Lucie Ann was on her way to the 135-employee factory in Beverly Hills and the three-quarter-million-dollar annual business she has today.

Poetry Describes Weekend

By TONI LENNON

There once was a tree, leafless as could be, no rustling nor swaying did it see. And as it must, be the same goes for me, as this weekend I must compare to that tree.

Ah poetry, it fills the air with such sweet strains and provides at least an inch of the copy necessary to fill this column.

But enough of Willy and poetics. On with the news, social that is, which it is the duty of this publication to print, and of which there seems to be a scarcity.

What with Gold Diggers Ball tonight and the Alabama basketball game tomorrow, the male population, general sponsors of weekend activities, seem to be hibernating their monetary assets, playing the naive role, hording for the next 13 weekends to come. In fact, the girls may have to do a little fanagling to get more than a cup of coffee after tomorrow's game.

Speaking of the expenses involved in a weekend's entertainment, there are times when being a woman has its advantages. It's easier indeed to be provided for than to provide for. The general opinion is that American women feel that their sex is something they must overcome, as opposed to European women, especially the fair mademoiselles, who work at being every inch their gender.

It seems this inference should be cause enough for a social revolution among the American females—so go get 'em this weekend girls, wine 'em and dine 'em, be gentle, demure, tantalize them to death.

Being that this column reeks with culture today, we refer once again to the poets for aid. Get your favorite male escort into a dark, dim, comfortable corner and whisper ever so gently in his ear:

"I stood upon the ocean's moonlit beach and with a reed I traced upon the sands these words, SWEETHEART I LOVE THEE; a wave came rolling in and erased the fair impression, Cruel Wave! Frail reed! Treacherous sand! I'll trust you no more—but with a giant's hand I'll pluck from Norway's shore her tallest pine, dip its tip into the flaming crater of Vesuvius, and with a flaming hand write on the high and starry sky these words, SWEETHEART, I LOVE THEE . . . and I'd like to see some darn wave wash this out."

(Compliments of an anonymous enamored poet of this vicinity).

Elsewhere, the ADPIs are rolling back the carpet for a jam session from 2 to 5 p.m. tomorrow at the chapter house. Little Orbit and the Pacesetters will be there, you all come too, and bring your best dancing shoes.

Cases Of The Careless Roomates

A girl can take just so much from a roommate—school girl or career girl. After that she looks for a solution or wants to dissolve the partnership, judging by letters. Here are some:

Q. "What do you suggest doing about a roommate who is sloppy? She drops her clothes everywhere. Even if reminded doesn't pick them up if she is not in the mood. I like her otherwise. How can I cure her of this bad habit?"

A. Stop being a maid to her. Tolerate her sloppiness for a few days, leaving tossed garments around until she gets disgusted and picks them up.

Q. "My roommate is inconsiderate. She studies late, burning a bright light and I can't sleep. Earlier, she listens to the radio, reads or talks on the telephone when I am trying to study. How can I solve this without causing too much friction?"

A. If you cannot get together on study periods, suggest she play the radio in a low tone. The problem of the bright light could be solved by making her a gift of the goose-necked lamp that she could use on her desk. These are inexpensive and usually keep the light over the necessary area.

Q. "I work as a salesgirl in a department store. I was hired in summer and when they offered me a permanent job, I transferred to night school. A girl who works with me suggested sharing an apartment, and although I was not too fond of her I decided to do it to cut expenses. She doesn't give me phone messages and has been hounding in on my dates who call when I am at school. She also uses my hair brush, lipstick, and handkerchiefs. Don't you think I'd be justified in moving out some day when she is at work?"

A. It isn't necessary to put yourself on her level to prove your point. Tell her you have decided to live alone, would like to be paid your share of the furniture or make a deal on splitting the lot. It would be a good idea to find other living quarters before you strain relations.

Q. "My sister and I share a room and bath. There is a vanity in the bathroom, and she spends every waking minute in front of it. I cannot take a bath or wash my hair without begging her to get out. She is my mother's favorite, so I can't get help there. Her mirror mania makes me late for school and dates. Should I tell her friends and embarrass her into releasing the mirror?"

A. Why not get into the bathroom before her some morning, take a leisurely bath, and wash your hair and ignore her pleas. Maybe she'll realize another's dilemma in the same situation.

Q. "What would you do if your roommate talked on the phone all evening so that you could not get a call or invite anyone in? We live in a one-room apartment, attending school a few miles away."

A. I'd ask her to agree to two phones. When she considers having the entire responsibility of one phone she may not be willing to tie it up. Or have a friend call you each evening just as you get home, then have a long-winded conversation yourself.

Not Sable, But Lingerie Costs

By JOY MILLER
Associated Press

Lucie Ann's steady customers think nothing—well, not much anyway—of paying $550 for a nylon peignoir or $1,250 for a lounging costume.

"My prices begin where competitive prices end," says Lucie Ann comfortably.

A dozen years ago in California, Belgian-born Lucie Ann found herself a widow with two children to support. She had had no business experience, but every soul-searching session on what to do came back to the same thing: designing and selling lingerie.

Lucie Ann started without a workroom. "I didn't have the nerve to have a place." She designed and draped, then carted the project to a woman who did all the seams, and on to another who applied.

The finished product she put in a pretty quilted box tied with a big fresh ribbon ("I like things very dainty and right") and visited movie studios. Producers' wives recommended her to friends, and Lucie Ann was on her way to the 135-employee factory in Beverly Hills and the three-quarter-million-dollar annual business she has today.

Poetry Describes Weekend

By TONI LENNOS

There once was a tree, leafless as could be, no rustling nor swaying did it see. And as it must be, the same goes for me, as this weekend I must compare to that tree.

Ah poetry, it fills the air with such sweet strains and provides at least an inch of the copy necessary to fill this column.

But enough of Willy and poetics. On with the news, social that is, which it is the duty of this publication to print, and of which there seems to be a scarcity.

What with Gold Diggers Ball tonight and the Alabama basketball game tomorrow, the male population, general sponsors of weekend activities, seem to be hibernating their monetary assets, playing the naive role, hording for the next 13 weekends to come. In fact, the girls may have to do a little fanagling to get more than a cup of coffee after tomorrow's game.

Speaking of the expenses involved in a weekend's entertainment, there are times when being a woman has its advantages. It's easier indeed to be provided for than to provide for. The general opinion is that American women feel that their sex is something they must overcome, as opposed to European women, especially the fair mademoiselles, who work at being every inch their gender.

It seems this inference should be cause enough for a social revolution among the American females—so go get 'em this weekend girls, wine 'em and dine 'em, be gentle, demure, tantalize them to death.

Being that this column reeks with culture today, we refer once again to the poets for aid. Get your favorite male escort into a dark, dim, comfortable corner and whisper ever so gently in his ear:

"I stood upon the ocean's moonlit beach and with a reed I traced upon the sands these words, SWEETHEART I LOVE THEE; a wave came rolling in and crashed the fair impression. Cruel wave! Frail reed! Treacherous sand! I'll trust you no more—but with a giant's hand I'll pluck from Norway's shore her tallest pine, dip its tip into the flaming crater of Vesuvius, and with a flaming hand write on the high and starry sky these words, SWEETHEART, I LOVE THEE . . . and I'd like to see some darn wave wash this out."

(Compliments of an anonymous enamored poet of this vicinity).

Elsewhere, the ADPis are rolling back the carpet for a jam session from 2 to 5 p.m. tomorrow at the chapter house. Little Orbit and the Pacesetters will be there, you all come too, and bring your best dancing shoes.

Not A Desert

A point was brought up during the discussion of Student Congress' depleted budget at Monday night's congress meeting that never fails to amaze us when it reappears year after year.

We refer to the objections made to the $900 congress appropriation for the support of the debate team. These objections are rarely based on really serious considerations but the reason cited Monday night is one of the more ridiculous we can remember ever having heard.

The fact that the congress did not see fit to grant the Air Force ROTC sponsors and cadet police $100 to enable them to go to President Kennedy's inauguration does, as was pointed out by a congress member, not pertain to the debate team's grant.

The debate team represents the entire University; the cadet sponsors and cadet police, no matter how we look at it, represent the AFROTC, not the entire University.

As for the relative merit of the two groups, one need only look at the sparkling record the debate team has achieved in the past several years against the nation's top debate teams to recognize its worth to the University. Year after year the University debate team is ranked as one of America's best.

We are gratified that the congressmen upheld the trust placed in them by their constituents and voted to maintain the debate team's grant in face of pressing financial troubles.

They have done their part toward proving that Kentucky is not an intellectual desert.

Small Nations Scotch Soviets

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

The independence and initiative displayed by the smaller members in the United Nations during the Lumumba crisis has injected a new factor into Soviet relations with that body and has helped scotch some of the forebodings about the organization's future.

It isn't so much that they have, most of them, gone down the line for Hammarskjold as against the disruptive proposals of the Soviet Union.

It isn't so much that they have led the U. N. into a new and positive approach to the Congo situation, and that they have done so in such a fashion as to enlist the cooperation of the United States.

The striking thing is that, on Monday night, after 15 years in which the Soviet Union has been able to cripple the Security Council, their combined pressure forced the Soviets to abstain from use of the veto.

The Soviets had demanded U. N. withdrawal from the Congo. They were beaten on that.

Three smaller members, with approval of the Western powers, proposed instead that the U. N. hand be strengthened by the authorization of use of force. The way was led by Liberia, Ceylon and, significantly enough, the United Arab Republic which frequently follows the Soviet line. But they were speaking in the council for perhaps 15 other African and Asian states, not to mention the many members whose stand on the issue was never in doubt.

The Soviet Union, having twice used her veto during the evening, abstained. Seldom has the power of world public opinion, as mobilized in the U. N., been so clearly displayed.

Prominent behind the scenes was India, whose offer to send more troops if necessary already had enhanced the rapidly growing influence which she holds among the nations which are committed neither to East or West.

Significant, too, was the promptness of the United States in accepting the leadership of the smaller nations when they came up with something akin to the proposals she herself had been prepared to submit.

Sanity and wisdom among the small nations beyond what many people had been inclined to expect, and a determination among them to choose a course that is right instead of trying to pick the winner, holds the key to the future of the United Nations.

It can also greatly ease the trouble of the United States, torn between traditional sympathy for the emerging peoples, while at the same time needing to foster her affiliation with colonial and former colonial powers.

Reasonable Adventurers

Reflecting more generally about what could be done for the best students at the best places to encourage more to become "reasonable adventurers," I have become convinced that what is happening now to some of the most gifted young is that they are pushed and encouraged from a very early age to play from strength rather than weakness. If they exhibit a mathematical or scientific aptitude in the eighth grade, they are moved ahead very fast in this field.

As they enter college, their teachers look upon them as potential recruits for the graduate school. Our best colleges are becoming preprofessional and proto-graduate, even if they still regard themselves as liberal arts colleges. And the students never get a chance to explore their full selves.

DAVID RIESMAN

THE READERS' FORUM

CORE Is Needed

To The Editor:

As nearly as I can judge, the Kernel editorial "Not Needed Here" bases its conclusions that "CORE methods may even be unsuitable and uncalled for in Lexington" upon three points: Lexington CORE has "met with little success"; its methods may involve "bloodshed, flagwaving, or fanfare" which would cause Lexington to become "a Little Rock or Athens"; "the evolutionary pace (of integration) set here is working satisfactorily." All of these points are questionable, I believe.

The fact is that after CORE sit-in action, involving no violence at all, downtown Lexington lunch counters were integrated last summer. This was clearly a victory for CORE methods as well as an encouraging indication of public attitudes. In view of CORE's principles of nonviolence and its past actions, it is difficult to determine why the editorial chose to mention "bloodshed" and "Little Rock." The editorial itself presents enough evidence to demonstrate that, CORE or no CORE, Lexington neither is, nor is likely to become, Little Rock.

The last premise of the editorial, "the evolutionary pace . . . is working satisfactorily" is, of course, a matter of opinion. One might emphasize, however, that CORE has made a significant contribution in achieving some of the progress mentioned by the editorial. One might also raise the question—"Satisfactory to whom?" Those actually experiencing the daily insult of discrimination might not so readily take the comfortable view that everything is quite satisfactory. When they and those whites who are naive enough to believe in some of the "flagwaving and fanfare" of American principles of human equality work together in CORE to attempt, through responsible and non-violent means to achieve limited progress in integration, they face many problems. It might have been hoped that ill-founded attacks in the Kernel would not be one of these problems.

WILLIAM B. STONE

Three Cheers, CORE

To The Editor:

Three cheers for Marlatt and Claster!

I am a member of a minority group, and I could not remain silent when members of a majority group have courage enough to let their feelings be known, not only during "Brotherhood Week," but 52 weeks of each year.

Since we celebrated "Brotherhood Week" last week, and since each of us is "our brother's keeper," this is a fine time to get behind people like Dr. Marlatt and Mr. Claster and let them know how much their efforts are appreciated.

Let us all as Americans of both groups remember that we are Americans and give three cheers for the above mentioned, and let us pray for them and their organization, CORE.

ANNA V. LEAKE

Byline Scanner

To The Editor:

In retrospect, the school year has been very generous in providing commentarial substance for the Kernel, and the Kernel has generously reciprocated by satisfying the student's need to be informed on campus happenings.

I am especially pleased with the attractiveness of the Kernel's front page and the retention of those highly entertaining lithograph cartoons. (Doubtless the majority of the student body is unaware of the fits of depression, uncontrollable hysterics, sleepless nights, pencil chewing, et al. which finally foster suitable captions for those ridiculous drawings.)

Conspicuous by its absence has been the humorous article—the satirical. Granted the Kernel is laboring under a titanic handicap—the truancy of talents, such as Gurney Musick Norman, who not only contributed material of great wit, but also was responsible for more than his share of newsworthy antics. Still, with so many nouveaux riche craftsmen (I'm a confirmed byline scanner), the dearth of truly humorous articles is painful.

I have also noticed a void in coverage of the Law School—though Allah knows excitement and mischief are the chief pervaders of Lafferty Hall. Those barristers are second only to journalism students in wit and love of life and the pursuit of—well, just about anything.

What has happened to all the writings by the only two people to out-blyne me last year? Sorely missed is the profusion of articles by sick, sick, sick Alice Akin and the word tennis played by Bobbie (o, lost!) Mason. Someone is not taking advantage of these unique talents and I think it is the reader who must suffer.

Judiciary Board Chairman John Williams leads Myra Tobin, Garryl Sipple, and Bob Fields into a Lexington Police Department patrol ambulance after a warrant charging the members of the board with breach of peace were served Wednesday afternoon. Board members involved in the "arrest" were Garryl Sipple, John Williams, Myra Tobin, Deno Curris, Robert Fields, and Leroy McMullan.

The Judicial Board's main function is to review all cases of student discipline. Students who are arrested are usually freed by the University, but then they must face punishment by the Judiciary Board.

Dean Martin estimated about 20 UK students are arrested by the Lexington Police each year.

"We learned not to put too much stock in the student's sob-stories about 'how rough' everything is down here," said Garryl Sipple.

He said he learned a more important lesson, however, "Don't get arrested."

Kernel Wins Two Prizes

Two third prizes were won by the Kernel in the 1960 College Newspaper Contest on Safe Driving held just before Christmas vacation.

Hank Chapman, junior in the College of Education, picked up the third prize in the contest's cartoon division. Mike Wenninger, Kernel managing editor, tied for third prize in the feature division.

Chapman will receive $25 and Wenninger will get $12.50. The contest is annually sponsored by the Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Co. In the 1958 contest, the Kernel, under the editorship of Jim Hampton, won $500 for having the best overall campaign.

Flight Engineers Decide To End Airlines Strike

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Prodded on all sides, flight engineers of six airlines decided today to return to work at once, ending the nation's most paralyzing airlines strike.

The announcement of the walkout's end was made personally by President Kennedy. Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, who played a key role, stood at his side in the White House.

Kennedy's statement, however, did not signal full peace on the airlines' labor front. Western Airlines was not covered.

U.S. Suffers Laos Setback

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—The United States has suffered a double setback in efforts to gain international support for a U.S.-backed plan to establish a neutral status for Laos.

Western diplomats placed this interpretation today on the reported refusal of Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk to serve as chairman of a three-nation neutral nations commission in the troubled Southeast Asian kingdom.

Fitz's Facts

By John Fitzwater

The year was 1957. The Kentucky Wildcats opened the season by edging Duke 78-74, slipping past Ohio State 61-54, topping Temple in the unforgettable 85-83 triple overtime game, before losing to Maryland, Southern Methodist and West Virginia in the three of the next four games.

As the season went on Georgia Tech, Loyola of Chicago, and Auburn took victories from the Wildcats and the fire-side basketball coaches commented that "this is Adolph Rupp's worst team."

Kentucky, however, entered NCAA play and on March 14 met Miami of Ohio in the Coliseum in the Midwest Regional and soundly trounced the highly regarded Ohio club, 94-70. The next night, UK was set to meet Notre Dame in the regional playoffs and many experts felt the Cat's chances weren't worth a "tinker's dam." That night Johnny Cox, Ed Beck and crew went on a wrecking mission and slaughtered Notre Dame, 89-56.

Almost a week later, Rupp took his charges to Louisville and the NCAA finals for a rematch with Temple. The UK chances were not good because anybody that knew anything about basketball would tell you that the Owls would trounce the Wildcats once they got them out of the Coliseum. Vernon Hatton went to work and the Wildcats staggered past the Owls, 61-60, in another thriller.

Then came the big test, Elgin Baylor and Seattle blocked Adolph Rupp's path to his fourth national crown. A driving John Crigler fouled out Baylor and UK walked to an 84-72 win and the national championship. It was one of Kentucky's finest basketball hours.

The situation this year is very similar and further developments could surprise those who are again saying, "it can't be done."

Wednesday night in the IM fraternity championship game, Delta Tau Delta slaughtered Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 61-26. The Delts got off to a slow start and trailed in the early minutes of the game, but then broke the game wide open to completely outclass the challengers.

The difference in the two teams was the Delts' ability to run, run, run. With Lary Heath, Bob Carpenter and Kenny Baker leading the fast break, the Delts caught the SAE's with three-on-two situations time after time.

Beard, Heath, Kenny Baker, and Fred Hynson have been playing with the Delts five three years now and each year they have contributed one of the top teams in the IM division.

It is fitting in their last season together that they could win the fraternity championship, a trophy which has eluded them on occasion because of crucial upsets in tournament play.

Delta Tau Delta, Tappas Score Impressive Semifinal Victories

By BEN FITZPATRICK

The independent and fraternity intramural finals were won by the Tappa Kegs and Delta Tau Delta, respectively, Wednesday night.

The Tappa K's and the Delts clashed for the IM championship last night. Going into that game, both teams were possessors of sparkling 11-0 records.

In the independent finals, the Tappa Kegs unleashed a blitzkrieg scoring attack on the Baptist Student Union in an overtime to gain a 63-55 win.

The Tappa K's jumped into a quick 11-2 lead after 3:39 of the first half, ran it to 16-6, and opened up the biggest lead of the game at 23-12, on a three-point play by Dick Mattox.

BSU started to hustle and run and cut that lead to two points at halftime, 28-26. Free throws kept the Baptist five in the game as they cashed in 14 of 16 from the 15-foot stripe.

Mattox led a basket barrage early in the second half and the Tappa K's moved ahead, 40-30. Floor errors cost the Tappa's eight of this 10-point lead, and a minute later, BSU gained its first lead of the night, 45-44, as Dan Haley dropped in a driving crisp.

Woody McGraw and R. C. Sims traded buckets, then McGraw hit again, and BSU held a 51-48 lead. Tom Heilbron, Tappa captain, tossed in a clutch free throw, and Mattox swished a 20-foot jumper to knot the score 51-51, and send the game into an overtime.

Catfish Defeated On Disqualification

A disqualification of the Kentucky 400-yard freestyle relay team allowed Eastern to topple Kentucky, 51-44, yesterday.

The two teams entered this last event tied, 44-44. Kentucky won the relay, but the disqualification gave the event and the meet to Eastern.

Individual winners for Kentucky were: Skip Bailer in the 220-yard freestyle and the 440-yard freestyle, Milt Minor in one-meter diving, Chad Wright in the 100-yard freestyle, and Ted Bondor in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Josh Portmann led Eastern with two individual wins.

The Catfish close out their regular season tomorrow when they travel to Louisville for a 5:30 meet with the Cardinals.

Tallest player on the University of Texas basketball team is 6-foot-11 senior Wayne Clark from San Antonio.

Mattox opened the extra period with two long jump shots and Heilbron streaked for five consecutive points before BSU tallied. That ended it.

Mattox, a sharpshooter, paced the winners with 22 points. Heilbron added 19 and Sonny Mayberry eight.

Haley and reserve Allen Bryant netted 14 each for the losers.

In the fraternity finals, the Delts used their big men and a blazing fast break to smash SAE, 61-26.

SAE jumped to an early 5-3 lead, but could garner only two field goals in the next 11 minutes and the Delts, led by big Fred Hynson's 13 points, shot out in front by a count of 29-9 and 33-10 at half.

The second half was a replay of the first as the taller Delts whipped SAE badly off both boards and scored at ease against a team that fought stubbornly to stay on the floor, but just didn't have the necessary material.

As has been the case all season, the Delts exhibited balanced scoring led by Hynson with 18, Ken Baker with 12, Ken Beard, and Lary Heath with 10 each.

Jerry Truitt, Dave Buchanan, and Phil Hutchinson scored nine, eight, and seven, respectively, for the only offense SAE could muster.

After the game, Dick Lowe, the Delts' baron, commented, "Like we predicted, the big men (Hynson and Baker) got it."

Not only good basketball was on hand for the 200 fans Wednesday night, but also half-time entertainment was presented by IM Director Bernard (Skeeter) Johnson.

The entertainment featured the "Dirty Three", a trio reminiscent of the Kingston Trio, and a trampoline act by members of the Troupers.

For the first time the IM games were taped by WBKY and played back last night at 11:05.

Bob Carpenter (4), Delta Tau Delta, moves in to battle SAE's Jerry Truitt for the ball as SAE's Dave Buchanan (3), the Delts' Lary Heath (next to Buchanan), and Delt Kenny Baker (rear) move into the play. The Delts won easily, 61-26.

RARE CAREER OPPORTUNITY

This national company has initiated a management development program in its Home Office to meet long range executive requirements. Opportunities exist in Accounting, Claims, Electronics, Investment, Underwriting and Mathematics. An extensive training and educational program is provided in all fields. Although no special field of study is required to qualify as a trainee in this program, a good record is important.

Mr. Harrison P. Warren, Assistant Vice President, will be on the University of Kentucky Campus on March 3, to interview candidates in the Class of 1961. See your Placement Officer to schedule an appointment.

TAKE A WINDJAMMER CRUISE

MIAMI, Fla.—A project tailored especially for adventuresome college students—a voyage around the world aboard the most famous sailing ship afloat—is in the offing for the summer of 1961.

The ship, the 96-ft. brigantine Yankee, will sail from Miami July 1, 1961, and follow the trade winds to such places as Pitcairn and Easter Islands, the South Seas, Africa, the Orient, and round-the-horn to South America and the West Indies.

The 25 persons aboard will actually serve as crew and help navigate and sail the ship. They will share expenses of the cruise. Besides a rare chance to become proficient in traditional windjammer sailing skills the "round-the-world voyage offers a unique educational opportunity, according to Yankee's owner, Capt. Mike Burke of Miami.

"We'll sail to places far off the beaten tourist path," says Capt. Burke. "For example, we can get a glimpse of history by talking to descendants of The Bounty at Pitcairn, and by studying customs and people from Tahiti to Zanzibar."

Arrangements have been made, he adds, for students to continue their studies aboard under professional guidance during the 18-month 50,000 mile voyage. Side trips will be arranged to major inland points of interest and activity will range from fishing and skin diving to big game hunts and photo-safaris.

Yankee, which gained renown as a result of countless magazine articles and six books about earlier "round-the-world cruises under command of Capt. Irving Johnson, was built in Emden, Germany, and operated as a North Sea pilot vessel until captured by the British in World War II. When Capt. Johnson purchased her in 1947, Yankee was changed from schooner to square-rigged brigantine. Her 15 sails total 7,775 square feet.

Information concerning Yankee's "round-the-world cruise may be obtained by writing: Capt. Mike Burke, Windjammer Cruises, Inc., P.O. Box 1051, Miami Beach, Fla.

Streaking Cats Meet 'Bama In Another 'Must' Encounter

By JOHN FITZWATER

The Wildcats of Adolph Rupp are on the spot again, as has been true for so many years in the Southeastern Conference. Kentucky is the team the other SEC powers must shoot down if they want to keep the Cats out of NCAA play.

Kentucky is riding high on a win streak that has seen it take seven wins in the last eight games, with six coming in the conference.

Saturday the Cats do battle with the Crimson Tide from Alabama in a must game if they are to keep their NCAA hopes alive.

Tuesday night, the Wildcat hopes received a shot in the arm as the team eked a thriller from the grasp of Vanderbilt. The charges of Der Baron showed signs of playing like Kentucky teams of old as they destroyed a 10-point Vandy lead and then held back a determined Commodore squad in the fading minutes of the game.

Alabama, one of Kentucky's oldest foes with a rivalry dating back to 1923, will bring an off-and-on, but dangerous, team to town. A win would make the 'Bama season a success, as it would spoil all UK hopes for a berth in the national championship tournament.

The last appearance that the Tide made in Lexington, they demonstrated stalling tactics, but saw their hopes vanish as UK took a 39-32 win. Last season when the two clubs met on a neutral court in Montgomery, the Cats blasted the Tide, 75-55.

Kentucky's Tuesday night performance might have made future conference opponents a little shaky. With two of the Cat's top scorers out of action on fouls, substitutes came off the bench to take complete charge.

The Vanderbilt game saw seven Wildcats turn in superb efforts. Guard Larry Pursiful kept UK in the game in the first half with deadly outside shooting and ball-handling ability.

Forward Bill Lickert and Roger Newman tossed in crucial baskets and destroyed Vanderbilt with their rebounding, and center Ned Jennings showed his talent in the clutch with the winning basket.

Substitutes Carroll Burchett and Allen Feldhaus were the real key to victory with clutch free-throw shooting, important shots from the field, and tight defensive play. Guard Dick Parsons turned in a fine game with what Coach Rupp calls, his "nuisance ability."

Tomorrow night the Cats will most likely go with Lickert and Newman at forwards, Jennings in the pivot, and Parsons and Pursiful at guards, although a late change might find either Lickert or Newman going to guard.

Alabama will start Gary Blagburn and big gun Larry Pennington at forwards, Henry Hoskins at center, and Darrell Estes and Hinton Butler at the guards.

Frosh Host Untouchables; Nash After Eighth Record

Charles (Cotton) Nash will be gunning for his eighth record tomorrow night as the Kittens of Harry Lancaster and Doug Hines go up against the "Untouchables at 6 o'clock in a UK-Alabama preliminary.

The Lake Charles, La. flash needs only three field goals to break the record set by Billy Ray Lickert for the most fielders in one season.

It is almost a certainty that Nash will set this all-time mark tomorrow. The 6-5 forward has tossed in 132 fielders in 15 games, as compared to the 134 made by Lickert in 17 games in 1958.

The meeting between the "Untouchables," a Lexington independent squad, and the Kittens will mark the first meeting between the two clubs.

The Untouchables, coached by Charles Stewart, will be led by Center Bill Florence, a former star at Lexington Lafayette.

The starting lineup will include Bill George and Earl Waugh at guards, Florence at center, and Don Freeman at one forward with either Joe Southworth or Bill Hall working the other forward.

The Lexington club received its name from a suggestion by Lafayette Coach Ralph Carlisle.

The Kittens will be out to break a two-game home losing streak, the first time in Kitten history that a frosh team has lost two straight on the home court.

Saturday night, the Kittens lost a thriller to the Morehead Baby Eagles and Tuesday night fell at the hands of the Lexington YMCA.

Lancaster will stick with the same lineup which has been opening since mid-January. This will find Nash and Ted Deeken running at forwards, Tommy Goebel and Tommy Harper at guards and George Critz handling the pivot post. George Waggoner is the top reserve.

Monday night, the Kittens will face the Generals from Lee's Junior College. In an earlier meeting between the two teams, the Kittens eeked out a 54-53 win at Jackson.

The Monday game will mark the final home game for the Kittens, now 11-4. The final game of the season will be next Saturday when the frosh test the Baby Vols from Tennessee at Knoxville in a return match.

Placement Service Announces Schedule For Job Interviews

The following schedule of interviews for next week has been announced by the UK Placement Service.

Feb. 27—Allis Chalmers—agricultural, chemical, civil, electrical, industrial, mechanical, metallurgical, and mining engineering.

Carrier Corporation—engineering for application, manufacturing, product development, and research service.

Procter and Gamble—senior graduates interested in market research on secretarial positions in Cincinnati office.

U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey—civil engineering.

U. S. Bureau of Reclamation—civil, electrical, and mechanical engineering.

Westaco Chemical Division—Food Machinery and Chemical Corporation—B.S. and M.S. levels in chemical, and mechanical engineering; chemistry at all degree levels.

Feb. 28—General Motors Corporation—aeronautical, ceramic, chemical, electrical, industrial, mechanical, and metallurgical engineering; mathematics, physics, and chemistry at all degree levels.

Hughes Aircraft—engineering graduates at all degree levels.

International Telephone and Telegraph—electrical engineering.

National Lead Company of Ohio—chemical, mechanical, and metallurgical engineering.

San Juan, Calif. Schools—teachers in all fields.

Shillito's (Cincinnati)—men and women with interest in merchandising.

U. S. Bureau of Census—men and women at B.S. and graduate levels in economics, demography, mathematics and sociology, who have total of at least nine hours in mathematics and/or statistics (at least one in statistics required), who have a 3.0 standing or better average or who are in top quarter of class.

March 1—Dewey and Almy Chemicals—chemistry and engineering graduates with an interest in the chemical industry, B.S. or M.S. levels in business administration for product development, applied research, process engineering, process manufacturing engineering, production supervision, sales and market development, marketing research, and financial management.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society—men in all fields interested in management trainee program (a developmental program for future management personnel). (Strong scholastic background required).

Gulf Oil—men in commerce, arts and sciences, and agriculture interested in management training with interest and aptitude in sales. (No military obligation).

Toledo, Ohio, Schools—Teachers in all fields except men's physical education.

United Fuel Gas Company—mechanical and electrical engineering.

U. S. General Accounting Office—majors in upper 25 percent of class or those who have 3.0 standing average in all subject to date of application or for first three or last two years.

March 1-2—Hercules Powder Company—chemistry at all degree levels; physics, mathematics at B.S. or M.S. levels; chemical, civil, electrical, mechanical, and mining engineering.

March 2—Corning Glass—graduates in liberal arts, mathematics, physics, accounting, engineering, business administration, and chemistry.

Detroit Civil Service Commission—graduates in architecture, engineering, chemistry, city planning, accounting, business administration, psychology, social work, and recreation.

Laclede Gas Company—mechanical, mining, electrical, chemical, civil, and metallurgical engineering; accounting and finance.

R. K. LeBlonde—mechanical, electrical, and industrial engineering.

Southwestern Schools, Columbus, Ohio—teachers in all fields.

Westinghouse—engineering graduates.

March 3—Cincinnati Gas and Electric Co.—electrical and mechanical engineering.

City of Cincinnati—engineering graduates.

Dow Corning—chemical engineering, chemistry, physics at all degree levels, electrical and mechanical engineering at B.S. or M.S. levels.

G. C. Murphy Co.—men in all fields interested in management training program.

Rural Electrification Administration—electrical engineering.

Union Central Life Insurance Co.—men and women interested in management, and development program. Opportunities exist in accounting, business administration, claims work, electronics, group administration, investments, mathematics and underwriting.

4 Administrators Go To Conference

Four University administrators are attending the first Southern Conference on Higher Adult Education in Gatlinburg, Tenn. this week.

They are Dr. A. D. Albright, provost; Dr. R. D. Johnson, associate dean of Extended Programs; Dr. Elbert W. Ockerman, director of school relations, and Dr. G. William Schneider, associate director of agricultural extension.

Speakers in the fields of education, economics, sociology, and the press will discuss the social changes affecting educational and occupational needs of Southern citizens.

Architect Gives $1,000 Scholarship

A Paducah architect, Lee Potter Smith, has given the first private scholarships to the UK Department of Architecture.

His check for $1,000 will underwrite two $500 stipends for undergraduate architectural students, according to Charles P. Graves, head of the department. Students may apply for the grants during the spring semester and recipients will be chosen before the start of the 1961 fall semester.

"GIVE A MAN A TOUGH JOB AND A CHANCE TO GO SOMEWHERE ...AND HE'LL BREAK HIS NECK TO DO IT"

In 1958 when Bill Ebben was only a few months away from his engineering degree at the University of Detroit, he was in touch with 15 prospective employers.

He chose the Michigan Bell Telephone Company because: "This company offered the kind of engineering management opportunity I wanted—and they weren't kidding."

One of Bill's first assignments was a survey of Michigan Bell's big Central District to find out how long available building space could accommodate the switching equipment required by rapid telephone growth. "I wasn't given any instruction," Bill says, "I was just told to do the job."

So Bill did it. His report became the guide for planning and budgeting future construction.

On his next move, Bill proved he could handle supervisory responsibility. He was sent to head up a group of seven engineers to design a new long distance switching center for Saginaw, Michigan—a $4,000,000 engineering project.

Today, Bill is on the staff of Michigan Bell's Program Engineer. He's working on a system for mechanized control of telephone construction costs.

How does Bill feel about his job? "Give a man a tough job and a chance to go somewhere—and he'll break his neck to do it. Of course, I don't think I'm going to be running the business next year—but I'm getting every opportunity to hit the top. You don't worry about opportunity here—you worry about whether you're as big as the job."

If you're a man like Bill Ebben, a man who can size up a job, figure out what needs to be done, and then do it—then you should get in touch with one of the Bell Companies. Visit your Placement Office for literature and additional information.

"Our number one aim is to have in all management jobs the most vital, intelligent, positive and imaginative men we can possibly find."

FREDERICK R. KAPPEL, President
 American Telephone & Telegraph Co.
