STATE AGAIN VICTORIOUS.

Blue and White Eleven Wins First Game.

After the strains of "My Old Kentucky Home" had wafted away upon the humid atmosphere, and several yells had been given, Captain Webb and his ten "gridiron gladiators" trotted out on the field and took their places, a grim look of determination on their faces. These were the eleven men picked by Coach Sweetland and Captain Webb to down their opponents from Ohio. A heavy rain falling about noon made the field a bit muddy and rendered fast work impossible, but if the work done by the team Saturday is any sample of what we are to expect this year, the friends of old State can be assured of again winning not only the championship of Kentucky but the Southern championship as well.

Ohio kicked off to State at 2:50 p. m., B. Shanklin catching the kick-off on the fifteen-yard line. After advancing the ball a few yards in two downs, Shanklin kicked outside, behind the line, hurting his already injured knee. Ohio attempted an end run, but old Dick Webb broke through the line and threw the man for a loss. Ohio then punted back and on the next play State attempted a forward pass, only to be thwarted by an Ohio man interfering with Threlkeld and not the ball, for which they were penalized twenty yards to the accompanying yells of the stands.

Watkins went through the green and white line for five yards, only to lose it by an offside play. Then to the mystification of everyone, the timekeeper called time. It was soon learned, though, that the game was to be played in quarters of 9½ minutes each. This greatly helps the players and makes the game more interesting from a spectator's point of view. Of course, this being the first game, it seemed unnatural and babyish, but once the football "bug" gets used to it, it is claimed the game will prove all the more enjoyable. At any rate it appears the scores will be smaller and the men better off for the change.

After 3 minutes' intermission play was again resumed. Thirty seconds after the ball had been put in play Threlkeld "bucked" the line for ten yards and our first touchdown of 1910.

Webb failed to kick goal and the score stood 5 to 0. Shanklin in this same quarter intercepted a forward pass and with his game knee gained forty yards. What mightn't he have done with his knee in good shape? Coach Sweetland then exercised the option (under the new rules) of taking a man out in one quarter and putting him back in the game again, by taking Shanklin out and putting Lambertson in at quarter. "Spot" Giltner now did the punting. Lambertson, while only in the game a short while, ran the team well and showed we always have a good quarterback to fall back on.

Time and again Captain Webb broke through theether line, time and again men were tackled where they received the ball, and just before time was called "Speedy" Watkins made five yards on fast running around right end. When time was called it was State's ball on Ohio's 35-yard line.

At 3:05 p. m. the second half began. Soon after the beginning of the quarter Threlkeld was taken out and George Shanklin sent in at full. "Deaf" Shanklin was back again at quarter. The ball was taken up and down the field in a see-saw fashion, the kicking of Jones, the quarterback of Ohio, sending the ball far down the field behind Giltner, who played back for the kick, and the third quarter ended with neither side scoring.

The fourth and last quarter found our champions thirsty for more scores. Forward pass after forward pass was made by State, and many of them were saved by "Spot" Giltner, who is playing right end this year. "Spot" clearly demonstrated that he is a valuable asset to the team, and with a few more games' experience will develop into an "All Kentucky" end. Time and again "Spot" simply pulled them "out of the clouds." With the ball on Ohio's two-yard line, brought there by a series of forward passes by Shanklin, Giltner and Threlkeld, the latter making a beautiful catch on Ohio's 15-yard line, and with the ball on the two-yard line, Threlkeld was called upon to go through the line, and he fulfilled the most sanguine expectations of everyone by making the score easily. All through the game Threlkeld's line bucking featured.

This ended the scoring, and from this on, as before, the ball was continually in Ohio's territory, except when Jones would make one of his long kicks, which Giltner finally judged. The team played with that mixture of Sweetland coaching and Kentucky State spirit, a combination which has yet to be defeated. Coach Sweetland was out in uniform and watched closely every detail of the game. The game Saturday showed that Coach Sweetland can turn out a championship team under the new rules as well as the old. The cadet band under Mr. Grella rendered several selections which were much enjoyed by the fair-sized crowd present. Mr. Banks, Central University coach, and several of C. V.'s students witnessed the game from the bleachers. Every individual starred, but the more noticeable was the work of Watkins (Possum), Threlkeld, Webb, Shanklin, Giltner and Hendrickson. Following is the line-up and officials:

FOOTBALL RALLY.

A Small But Enthusiastic Crowd Present.

While comments have been made on the loyal college spirit shown last year by the student body, if the spirit shown by the students last Friday night is a criterion of what we are to expect for the coming year, Prof. Miller can easily say again, "It is the best that has ever been shown."

Those responsible for the rally were greatly pleased by the large attendance of the fair sex, who time and again, led by that incomparable Miss Hayden, gave their yells and songs with such a vim that they spurred their co-eds to greater hoarseness and mightier efforts.

The meeting was called to order at 7:40 by Mr. Moore, who took the temporary office of chairman until one was elected. Although the crowd was rather small, numbering about two hundred, and which should have been lots larger, because how can a team win without the loyal support of everyone of the men? We don't have to mention the female contingent, because they demonstrated their loyalty. But, anyhow, as we were saying before interrupting ourselves, the classes elected their yell leaders and appointed Mr. Duncan of the Senior class head of the vocal array. Mr. Duncan being absent, Mr. Ebbert was elected temporary yell leader. Mr. Ebbert, as the slang phrase goes, "filled the bill." Being one of the most popular men of his class, and liked by everyone, he made everyone exert themselves to the utmost, even the girls giving the "torpedo" yell with deadly effect. The crowd was few, but those few made up in quality what they lacked in quantity, and under Mr. Ebbert's leadership made the old gym reverberate time and again with a "suky" or a "locomotive," and even Mr. Wheeler would have been "de-lighted" (T. R. pronunciation) with those vocal selections rendered by "Sprig" and his colleagues.

This rally was not merely a "yelling" affair. No, indeed. Between yells several talented (?) members of the crowd gave taffe-offs on some of the more popular members of the faculty, and Prof. Miller gave us one of those extemporaneous speeches that he alone can give and which was received heartily by all present. Miss Hamilton came in for her cheering, and although it is not good policy for The Idea to speak against some of its subscribers, we feel safe in saying that Miss Hamilton will make some of her younger charges hustle in the race for popularity this year at State.

After everyone had practiced themselves hoarse onevery yell, and some new original parodies introduced by Mr. Ebbert, Mr. Cassidy of the Senior class was introduced and told of the decision of the upper classmen regarding the Freshmen, which is published elsewhere in this paper. Mr. Webb, the popular captain of the football team, made a few well directed remarks, praising both our coach and manager and urging the fellows to root hard and help the team pull through the hard schedule before them. It's not often that Mr. Webb makes a public appearance, being of a somewhat shy and modest disposition, and consequently his talk was much appreciated.

Then came the best part of the evening. With Miss Hamilton's permission, the rally was turned into an informal dance, and, although the first one of the year, proved very enjoyable, the new and old students becoming better acquainted, and those that "tripped the light fantastic toe" declared that never had they danced to better music and never expected to, not even to the tune of the angels' harp or lyre or Gabriel's trumpet. We are much indebted for this music to Miss Hayden and Mr. Tichenor, both of whom displayed real talent. Miss Hamilton brought the very pleasant evening to a close at an appropriate hour, and everyone left the old gym, the scene of many terpsichorean activities, with a reluctant step, looking forward to the game on the morrow.

We hope these rallies will be held before every game and give the students a little practice in cheering. Following is a list of the men elected by their class to lead them in jelling:

Head Leader—Mr. Duncan.

Senior Class—Mr. E. C. Ebbert.

Freshman Class—Mr. S. Jackson.

MAYSVILLE VS. KENTUCKY.

October 1, 1910—Stoll Field.

When Kentucky lines up against Marysville at Stoll Field Saturday, October 1, there will be one of the hardest fought games this season. It will be remembered that State in her game with Marysville two years, on the visitors' grounds, we won by a small margin of one touchdown.

What does that mean?

It means that if we want to win, not only the team will have to work, but also the rooters will have to root as they never have before. Marysville has a strong line and has always given us a hard game in the past.

Secret practice will be held all this week, and Coach Sweetland is doing his best to round up a team that will be a credit to the University of Kentucky and the students of this institution.

The line men for Saturday's game will probably be Hendrickson, Earle, Campbell, Webb, Williams or Barnett; the ends will probably be Babb, Shawhan, Giltner or Dabney. The backfield has been made up of new material with the exception of Threlkeld, fullback, and Shanklin, quarter, who played end on last year's team. Downing or aWtkins will probably be the other men in the back-field

Any new men who have been unable to get togs from Manager Boyd, if they will see Coach Sweetland or Manager Boyd can obtain them now.

October 3 Kentucky signs up all men that will participate in football this season. The Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association and the Kentucky Intercollegiate blanks are now in the hands of the Athletic Committee.

An urgent call is issued to the students and any new men who think that it's too late. Bear in mind this call of Coach Sweetland and Captain Webb, for they assure any prospective candidate a fair and impartial opportunity to show his knowledge of the game.

Let all who are not wise as to the tactics of the game show their wisdom by obtaining a megaphone at Calloway's and root for Kentucky as they never have before. Be on hand at 2:45 o'clock on Stoll Field Saturday.

On Saturday Dan Patch attempted to lower his record. Hundreds of people visited his stall on Friday evening and Saturday morning, eager to get just one look at this great horse.

The fair closed on Saturday night with a very promising outlook for another year.

STATE PLAYS FIRST GAME UNDER NEW RULE.

Opinion of Associated Press Representative.

Last Saturday's foot ball game was the first foot ball game ever played under the new rules in the United States. State holds besides this achievement that of winning the first games of foot ball played this way and not being scored upon.

An associated press representative was present and took in every detail of the game. Mr. Dais is a man of no little experience in athletic matters and in his report which is published throughout the United States said that the idea of playing the game in quarters made it uninteresting to the spectators and caused them to lose interest in the struggle. In his opinion the old ruling gave to the patrons and adherents of the game a far better exhibition than the new ruling does. Altogether his article was decidedly unfavorable to the game as it will be played this year.

Walter Camp, the father of foot ball at Yale, says: "That in three weeks' time, the ruling committee will hastily meet and alter the new rules made this year." Whether these two capable judges are correct in their opinion, remains to be seen, as the season progresses.

CHAMPION SLUGGERS CONTEST FOR AUTOMOBILE.

Although the foot ball season is now on, everyone interested in baseball will remember that an automobile has been offered to the champion batter of the world. Five batters are contesting for this and the race is a pretty one. Lajore, of Cleveland, leads with the great average of .372. The great Tigers Cobb is second with .361. Speaker of the Rex Sox occupies third place with .343. "Hanns" Wagner the star batsman of the world who for several seasons lead in stickwork leads the National League and occupies fourth place with the average of .328, while Snodgrass of the Giants follows close on his heels with .326.

The averages are as follows.

	G.	AB.	H.	Ave.
Lajore, Naps	148	548	240	.372
Cobb, Tigers	127	468	169	.361
Speaker, Rex Sox	126	481	165	.343
Wagner, Pirates	136	509	167	.328
Snodgrass, Giants	104	344	112	.326

TRACK AND BASKET-BALL SWEATERS.

Although the Athletic Committee has awarded sweaters to the track and basket-ball teams last spring, neither has been heard of since. It is an honor to wear a letter around the campus, the men making the letters have worked hard to do so, and it is no more than right, that these sweaters should be awarded at the beginning of the school year, although track and basket-ball seasons both occur before base ball season, yet the baseball sweaters have arrived and the old English "K's" are being proudly worn by their possessors. It appears to the students that these other two branches of Athletics should be treated on the same basis as baseball, and that these sweaters should soon be forthcoming. Coach Sweetland says the names have been handed in long ago, and the order only awaits the action of the Athletic Committee.

RHODES STUDENT DISAPPOINTED

After three years' sojourn at Oxford University, a Philadelphian who won a Rhodes scholarship has returned and is not highly enthusiastic over the benefits he has received. His objection to the English university system seemsto be that it is devoted too much to the social side of life and too little to academic subjects.

We must remember that young Englishmen are sent to Oxford with very different objects than a student in this country goes to college. Here we seek preparation in the sciences and other branches of knowledge, designed to fit us for the practical work of life. But in England a young man goes to receive culture and polish. His studies are only minor matters, for there are no recitations, and even the examinations are few and far between and they can be put off.

A very important part of the life there, says this critical Rhodes scholar, is the giving of "breakfasts." A great deal of money and time are devoted to these functions, and it is here that the students form social connections which are very likely to continue through life. Scholarship as we know it counts for very little—the objects of education being entirely different from what they are in this country.

When Cecil Rhodes provided so liberally for sending a select number of students to Oxford from America, Germany, etc., his idea was to bring about a better understanding between the people of the different nations as a result of their thus meeting on common ground and exchanging views, etc. The majority of the Rhodes students are well pleased with the results of the arrangement, but it will take many years before the real merits of the plan can be known.—Pathfinder.

To the Members of the Freshman Class:

The Senior and Junior classes ask that the Freshman class will please comply with the following rules drawn up by the two upper classes. The rules are positively not formed for the purpose of hazing the Freshman class, but for other more reasonable and kinder objects. It is hoped that the Freshman class will receive the rules in a sensible and serious manner, for in that manner were they formed.

1. Every male member of the Freshman class shall provide himself with an official Freshman cap before October 31, 1910. The cap shall be obtained at Kaufman Clothing Co.'s store as soon as possible. (Mr. Kaufman has ordered a supply of the caps and when they arrive the fact will be announced on the campus.) The cap shall be of the design and color chosen by the upper classmen and bid upon by the above mentioned store. The caps are of a design known as "Eton" or "skull-caps," of a good quality, the main body of the cap being cardinal red in color, with an inch yellow button on top. These caps will cost thirty-five (35) cents each.

2. These caps will please be worn on the campus from October 31, 1910, to May 1, 1911, whenever citizen's clothes are worn. The campus also includes the athletic field. Freshmen will wear the official cap to all outdoor varsity games, whether football, baseball or track. The caps will be worn to the gallery of the Lexington Opera House. The caps must not be mutilated or changed in any manner, and no numerals or other additions may be placed on the caps.

3. The young ladies of the Freshman class are requested to wear the caps out of loyalty to the male members. Of course, this is optional.

4. A Freshman must not appear bareheaded on the campus.

5. No Freshman will wear the official cap until the day of Monday, October 31, 1910, when every member of the Freshman class will wear them. They will please be worn that day on the campus from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. The caps will arrive by October 15 at the latest, giving the Freshmen two weeks in which to get them.

6. The day of May 1 will be known as Freshman day at the University of Kentucky. Every Freshman will wear his cap all day, and at night the Freshmen will have a parade and bon-fire. The bon-fire will be held first in the center of Stoll Field. It will be presided over by the president of the Freshman class. A regular program will be carried out. Speeches will be made by members of the class, members of the faculty, upper classmen, and anyone else chosen by members of the Freshman program committee. College songs will be sung by the class and the last part of the program will be the Freshman orator. After he has spoken, the exercises will be closed by the members of the class marching around the fire and tossing their caps in the blaze one at a time. The upper classmen guarantee that this meeting shall not be molested, but shall be respected and entered into by the whole college. After the bon-fire the class parade will be held.

In regard to these colors being chosen by the present Freshman class, it will be remembered that this is the official Freshman cap that will be worn by this year's Freshman class, next year's and so on. The style and color will be as it is this year.

KENTUCKY COACH.

Mr. Frank A. Baker, '10 Law, has been selected by the Faculty Committee of Columbia College, Lake City, Fla., to coach athletics of that institution. Mr. Baker held down the position of left tackle on the '09 football squad. He could always be counted on for a straight buck or a "tackle 'round" play. Mr. Baker was noted as one of State's best line men last year. His many friends wish him the best of success in rounding up a team that will be a credit to him and to Columbus College.

In the four literary societies in the University there are enrolled about one hundred members out of the six hundred students enrolled in the University, which means that one out of every six belongs to one of the four societies. Two of these societies, Philosophia and Neville, are for young ladies, the other two, Patterson and Union are for young men.

The enrollment of one-sixth of the students in this work means that less than one-sixth of the boys and girls of the University are so trained that when they leave college they are capable of becoming public leaders.

The course of training offered by these societies is as good as any one can find in the South. The training received in any one of these is of more value than any one subject pursued through one's college course. It qualifies one for leadership. It enables one to express one's self clearly and distinctly. It removes that timidity and backwardness which generally confronts one when called before the public.

The leader of today in public life are those who have had such training. Yes, even those of the past, had such training; if not in a literary society, probably it was in some secluded spot, as Demasthenese of old, who shut himself in a cave that he might train himself for public life. It was he, who, by his wonderful eloquence, stired up the Athenians to resist the encroachments of the King of Macedon. It was he who hurled against him his "Philippic" speeches, that caused the Athenians and Plebans to unite and meet Philip upon the memorable field of Chaeronia in Boeotia.

In the history of our own nation such men as Thomas Jefferson, Samuel Adams, John Hancock, Peyton, Randolph, Abe Lincoln, Patrick Henry, Henry Clay, Daniel Webster, John Calhoun and the Breckensridges, have all been men of action and men of words. They have stood before the nation and debated the most vital questions of public interest. Even in our present time there are none that can mold the public opinion as does Theodore Roosevelt.

To the students of the State University we come with an appeal for your thoughtful attention. The Idea is, in a way, only beginning its career as a student publication and it is for you, and not the handful of officers you have put in charge; to make it a success or a failure. We are here to represent the best interests of the student body and to do whatever we can to build up a college paper that shall be a strong factor in all things connected with the student life and its problems.

It is not for ourselves that we ask your loyal support. It is for you. The Idea belongs to you; it is devoted solely to the promotion of your welfare, and who will stand back of it with faithful, earnest assistance but you? Who will take an interest in your paper unless you first show that you think it is worth while?

We need the support of our faculty and must have it, but first of all the students have their part to play or we accomplish absolutely nothing. It is to you that we turn for subscriptions. You are the ones to speak a word in the interest of The Idea whenever the opportunity offers. Let the business men of the city know you read The Idea. Then they will see the value of advertising in its columns. Let them know that we do things out here and they will give our institution the credit that is due it. In a word, put your whole heart into the work and go shoulder to shoulder with the staff. If you do this, and we feel sure you have already begun to do so, we will indeed have a paper that will be an honor to ourselves and to our entire University.

But the faculty must not think we are going to do all this independent of their support. Of course we can do nothing without the help of the students. That is conceded. Nor can we even make a beginning unless the faculty smile upon us. So here we are: students, faculty and staff—we must work harmoniously or we fail.

When we go co-operate in this manner success will surely accompany our efforts and we will have a paper that would do credit to any university in our land. Why should we not set up a high standard and follow it? Are we Kentuckians to stay behind the other students in the country? Have we less ability than they? Woe unto him that tells us so!

Now let us all resolve to make The Idea a great success and we must win out, for worthy labor will not be unrewarded.

COUNTY CLUBS.

It is cause for wonder to an Eastern student why an institution as large as Kentucky State University does not support State or county clubs. The fact that K. S. U. does not support State clubs is plainly evident upon slight investigation. There are but few students here who are not Kentuckians. No other State heretofore has had more than two matriculates here at the same time, so such an organization as a State club is futile. But in an institution that has an aggregation of students representing one hundred and nineteen counties it is indeed strange that but one county, Jefferson, has been progressive enough to organize its students into a club.

There are at least six counties which have more than ten matriculates, and three that have more than fifteen, while there are three that have over twenty-five. Naturally, Fayette has the greatest matriculation, with Daviess and Jefferson second and third, respectively.

The question that naturally arises in the minds of all of us is: What good can be derived from a county club? In the first place, they would be advertising media for the university, for it is easier to get a boy or girl to follow the crowd than it is to get them to travel to fields unknown; they will promote a more fraternal spirit among the students from the same county; they will serve as a means by which the stronger students may cheer and help their weaker brother; they will, in a sense, be guardians for the unsophisticated freshman and tender "preps," and last, but not least, they will serve as reception committees to persons of note who may chance to visit the university, thus making them enjoy their visit and making them warm supporters of K. S. U.

Now is the time for all progressive students to think this question over. While you are thinking, remember that it may be the means of greatly helping your institution.

LOUISVILLE CLUB ORGANIZES; SPLENDID PROSPECTS.

On Friday during chapel hour all those students from Louisville or immediate vicinity assembled and organized the Louisville Club for this year. In the absence of last year's president, who graduated, Mr. Day presided at the club election. Mr. Day was unanimously elected president, Miss J. White vice president, Miss M. K. Venable secretary, and Mr. J. O. Thower's treasurer.

The prospects of the club for the coming year are extremely rosy, it being composed of a large number of old members and the influx of new Louisville students. The Louisville Club is extremely fortunate in having elected to office people who in the coming year will make the club emblematic of what it stands for.

THE SENIOR CLASS ENTERTAINMENT.

On last Friday and Saturday nights the Senior occupants of the third floor new dormitory, entertained the Ohio University foot ball team. Owing to the crowded condition of the hotels the manager, Mr. Boyd, was unable to secure lodging for the team. The Seniors moved out of their rooms and gave them up to our visitors. The Ohians were well pleased with the game, and said it was won fairly by Kentucky. They expressed their appreciations for the hospitality shown them by the Senior class.

Their coach was well pleased by the work done by his team. They were expecting a large score, as they had heard of the Kentucky-Illinois game of last year.

Their team was made up mostly of new men. The half back, right tackle, and right end being the only ones that had ever played a foot ball game before. This is also the first year their coach has ever trained a team.

The Seniors should consider it an honor to have entertained such manly men as those composing the Ohio University foot ball team.

Y. M. C. A. RECEPTION.

The Y. M. C. A. will give a reception in their room Friday evening, September 30, at eight o'clock, in honor of the Patterson Hall girls and the new students of the University, who are most cordially invited to be present. Every fellow get him a Pat Hall girl and bring her over.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

An enjoyable feast was spread by the Patterson Literary Society on last Saturday night. A large crowd was present and every one enjoyed the beautiful feast. The next regular meeting will be Saturday night, Oct. 1. Every one is invited to attend.

The Union Literary Society rendered a very interesting program at its last meeting. Everyone present was delighted with the interest manifested in the debate. The essay read by Mr. O. H. Taylor was a treat, and is seldom equalled by a college student.

Prof. Noe will attend the Union at its next meeting, Saturday, October 1. Prof. Noe is a man that can entertain an audience in any place and at any time. Come out and hear him.

This is a list of the yells that we use principally.

AGRICULTURAL JUDGING TEAM.

On Saturday, September 24, Prof. J. J. Hooper, with his live stock judging class and other agricultural students, visited one of the Cooke stock farms and there inspected most of the animals to be sold in Cooke & Co.'s sale.

A judging team composed of G. C. Routt, J. Oosthizen and E. F. Worthington is being prepared by Prof. Hooper to go to the National Dairy Show on October 15 and there compete with the judging teams of other agricultural colleges.

SAYRE NOTES.

(Mary E. Spencer.)

A cordial invitation was extended to the students by the First Baptist Church, of Lexington, on Friday evening, September 23. The expression teacher favored those present with a number of delightful readings, and near the close of the evening delicious refreshments were served.

Miss Patsy Hoyal was the guest at a week-end house party given by one of the students, Miss Lizzette Gibbons, of Winchester.

Miss Eliza Richards, of Knoxville, Tenn., who attended Sayre College last year, returned on Friday, September 23.

Miss Blanche Watson spent from Friday until Monday with relatives in Winchester.

After a week's visit at Sayre, with his daughter Miss Mary Watkins, Mr. Watkins has returned to his home in Tampa, Florida.

A trip to Frankfort was planned by the Sayre girls for last Saturday, but on account of a number of girls who were not able to go at that time it was postponed.

Last Saturday night the girls were honored with a delightful serenade given by the State boys. It was much appreciated and complimented by all.

HAGERMAN NOTES.

(Ellen Moore.)

Miss Martelle Thomas, of Jacksonville, Florida, was the guest of friends here, last week.

Miss Theodosia Peak spent the week-end with her mother, at Georgetown.

Dr. W. K. Price, from near Richmond, visited his daughters.

Mrs. Nance, Class '07, of Utica, Miss., was with friends at the College, Saturday.

Miss Lenhardt, of Elkhart, Ind., visited friends at the college.

Miss Rebecca Irky, of Bourbon College, Paris, Ky., spent Saturday here.

Mrs. Beauchamp and Miss Davidson, both well known W. C. T. U. workers were present at chapel, Monday.

On last Saturday evening, in Argyle Hall, Prof. and Mrs. Simmons very delightfully entertained the students and faculty.
