Dean Kirwan explained to the Faculty that the Constitution of the Student States' Rights Democrats of the University of Kentucky, which had been circularized recently, had been presented to the Student Government Association and that organization had made some objections which would have to be adjusted before the constitution could be presented to the Faculty.

Dean Seay asked that the Faculty reconsider the calendar for 1949-50 which had been adopted at the meeting of November 8, in the light of certain revisions which seemed desirable. He explained that, in view of the sentiment among the students that longer holiday should be given during Thanksgiving, a study had been made of the practice of other institutions; that about 75 per cent of those institutions studied allowed three or more days, and that the larger institutions in Kentucky, with one exception allowed a longer holiday than had been the custom at the University of Kentucky. Dean Seay stated further that the proposed new calendar would allow an extra day and a half holiday at Thanksgiving and by extending the closing of the semester from January 24 to January 27, would allow an extra day and a half of teaching. Then by beginning the second semester on February 4, instead of January 31, and shortening the Easter holiday by one day, the second semester would have a total of 84 teaching days as compared with 85 for the first semester, thus making the two semesters more nearly equal in length. After some discussion the Faculty approved the revised calendar, as follows:

Dean Maurice F. Seay
Dean of the University
University of Kentucky
Lexington, Kentucky

Dear Dean Seay:

I received your letter of November 11 and appreciate you passing the information on to me.

We realized there were two sides to the question and submitted the proposal to the University for what it was worth.

I am sure the Faculty weighed the advantages and disadvantages fairly in coming to a decision.

The Veterans Club is grateful for your consideration and the consideration of the Faculty. I hope you will convey my thanks to them.

Sincerely your,

Sidney A. Neal
President

The Faculty expressed appreciation of this attitude on the part of the Veterans Club.

Dean Seay presented to the Faculty a list of student organizations, with their faculty advisors for 1948-49.
