PROMINENT WOMEN
OF CAMPUS TO SPEAK

Charm School Has Again
Been Organized To Aid
Co-Eds

A rule has been passed by the A. W. S. allowing all sophomore women with a standing of 2 or over for the past semester to have one date night a week, juniors, two nights a week, seniors, three nights a week, and students with a standing of 2 every night out.

Francis Sadler, president of A. W. S., will introduce the presidents of Owens, Mortar Board, W. A. A., Y. W. C. A., Phi Beta, Phi II, Epsilon, Sigma, Phi, Theta Sigma, Phi, Chi Delta Phi, and the various intercollegiate organizations on the campus at a convocation to be held at 5 p. m. Monday in Memorial Hall.

At its first meeting of the week, Wednesday afternoon in Boyd Hall, the A. W. S. ruled all Freshman and transfer women would be under suspension to attend convocations.

Keller Returns
To Duties After Extended Leave

Dr. Wayne Hicks Keller, on sabbatical and extended leave since June, 1935, studying chemical spectroscopy at Cornell University, has returned to his teaching duties at the University's chemistry staff.

Dr. Keller received his doctor of philosophy degree last June. He wrote, along with Professor Spedding and J. P. Howe, a thesis entitled "Energy States of Praseodymium Sulfate," a treatise which attempts to explain and to interpret the spectroscopic methods the internal structural arrangement of this rare metal and part of the general problem of understanding the structure of matter.

First Meeting Of Frank's Club Held

Mrs. Frank L. McVey was hostess at the first full meeting of the University Women's Club Tuesday afternoon in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Featured on the program was John Jacob Niles, authority on mountaineering, who presented a recital of American folk music. It included ballads, carols, nursery rhymes, and songs of the Appalachian mountains, and negro spirituals played on the dulcimer.

Love's Forgotten Will Find
Solace In Campus Date Post

It's here at last! You probably read about it in "The Book" and were a trifle dubious, but the University Dating Bureau is actually to become a reality. Sponsored by the YMCA, YWCA, A.W.S., and the Deans of Men and Women, the bureau is to be put into operation as soon as a sufficient number of students have registered and expressed their desire for dates with members of the opposite sex.

To register, a student must furnish a photograph of himself or herself, and give the following information. Name, address, phone number, height, weight, hair, color of eyes and hair, and any special interest which he or she may have, such as dancing, riding, sports, etc.

The photograph and information will be placed in files and will be strictly confidential, no one having access to the files but the registrar. Students may apply for files on Monday today at Patti Hall and the YWCA for women and at the YCA for men. Men, as well as women, must be registered in order to apply for dates.

All dates secured through the bureau will be "dutch." That is, regardless of who requests the date, women will pay their own way, as will the men. The registrar will endeavor to fulfill the requests as nearly as possible. However, the fact that a girl or boy is registered does not mean that he or she must accept every date offered them through the bureau.

Prehistoric Discoveries Of Punkhouse, Wash, and
d. New Archaeological
Site Investigated

A report describing prehistoric discoveries made in Henry county, Kentucky, by Professor Funkhouser and Dr. C. B. Smith, recently published by the department of anthropology and archeology at the University.

Until the discovery of the Chilton site three and one-half miles east of Campbellsville, which is the most important site of this report, there was only one known prehistoric site of any importance in the county.

Under the leadership of John I. Buckner, also of the University and to whom the authors of the report are indebted for the material presented, a party was organized which thoroughly investigated the site. From the site were made discoveries of great archaeological interest.

The total number of artifacts discovered on the site was not great. Of the 30 burials only seven had artifacts of any kind. Among these were two wolf jaws which had been ground to a fine surface on the lower edge, two strings of beads made from incisors of elk, an elbow pipe of sandstone, and three hat shaped grooves. No pottery of any kind was found.

CLARK IS ELECTED
FACULTY SECRETARY

Prof. T. D. Clark, of the history department, was elected secretary of the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences at the first meeting Monday afternoon.

Dean Thomas P. Cooper spoke yesterday at the freshman assembly of the College of Agriculture, held at Memorial Hall. L. J. Horcher, assistant to the dean, presided.

Enrollment of the agriculture college is the largest in its history. Dean Cooper pointed out with an increase of approximately 100 per cent over that of six years ago.

Oscar Patterson from Iliou, N. Y. is freshman in the college of Arts and Sciences. He was a member of the Y.M.C.A. and a member of the intercollegiate basketball team.

DRUM MAJORS AND BAND QUEEN

Students Asked

No Women Named To Group; Plans For Dance Discussed And Concessions Awarded At First Meeting

Official appointment of three new cheerleaders for the ensuing year were made Tuesday afternoon at Suky's first meeting of the semester.

Plans for a dance to be held in the near future were discussed at the following committee appointed to make arrangements: Curtis Bennett, Alice Wood Bailey, and James Quisenberry. No definite date has been secured for the dance.

Howland Jones, custodian of the Alumni gymnasium, was granted the soft drink and candy concession at all college athletic games.

Largest Ever To Carry
U. K. Colors

By CLIFF SHAW
Crossing the Mason-Dixon line for the first time in three years, the University's "Best Band in Dixie" will blow its Southern rhythms for the benefit of "Naw-thy" ears when it accompanies the football team to Cincinnati Saturday for the game with Xavier University.

One hundred strong, the musicians will chamber abroad buses at 8 a. m. Saturday morning and will arrive in Cincinnati in time to practice during the downtown section from 12:30 to 3 p. m. They will make their headquarters at the Sinton hotel.

Handled the pistol shots, which are very important to the success of the band members, is quartet leader George Duncan. It is by his signals that the band breaks from one formation to another.

A new instrument in the band this year is the bell tree, which is designed to attract a goodly share of attention. Played by musician Frank Goodfriend, its dulcet longings out above the deeper notes of the brasses and reeds and lends a pleasant effect to the martial music.

The enrollment of the marching band this season is one of the largest in university history. Last year's aggregation being composed of only ninety pieces.

State Education Meeting Held;
McVey, Ligon Represent U.K.

Dr. Frank L. McVey and M. E. Ligon represented the University at the meeting of the Council for Higher Education in Kentucky held Tuesday in Frankfort.

The Council, which meets several times a year, considered matters relating to the certification of teachers, extension classes, and correspondence courses.

Important changes were made during Tuesday's meeting. It was decided that, beginning September 1938, 24 semester hours for a major and 18 for a minor will be required before a provisional high school certificate will be given.

Matters concerning institutional budgets was also considered and the council appointed a committee to give special consideration to budgets.

This Council is a legal body set up under the law to consider and report on matters of higher education, especially those pertaining to the training of teachers and consists of all presidents of institutions, the members of their boards and dean of the College of Education.

Representatives from other colleges were: Dr. Raymond Kent and Dr. Spencer University of Louisville; Dr. Donovan and Dean W. C. Jones, Eastern State Teacher's College; Professor James Garwood and Dean Finley Grier, Western State Teacher's College; Dean James H. Richmond and Dr. H. A. Babb and Dean William Vaughn, Morehead.

Ready To Cut Loose
For Wynnessen

By GEORGE KERLER
Kernel Sports Editor

Kentucky's Wildcats make their annual pilgrimage to Cincinnati whenever they square off in St. Xavier Musketeers on Corcoran Field at 1:30 p. m. Lexington time.

In each of the last three years the Wildcats have visited in the Queen City and on each occasion the Kentuckians have come home with empty hands. It is the opinion of this writer, however, that the Wildcats are optimistic and has made plans for a victory. Yet word comes from the Cincinnati team that the Wildcats are carrying 2-1 on the Musketeers.

Anticipations of Cat rulers are expected to be on hand tomorrow inasmuch the Wynnessen are taking only 50 miles in home instead of last week's 233 miles. Next week Kentucky meets Georgia Tech on the Stoll playground.

Getting back to this Saturday's match, the Wildcats, according to press reports, will play with the strongest aggregation in Musketeer history. Already they have trampled Transylvania, 43-0, in a touchdown party held last week in Cincinnati. What glory there is in accomplishing that, St. Xavier has.

Kentucky on the other hand looks in their season's second Vanderbilt, though much can be said in defense of the 'Cat. What the Bluegrassers learned in that ambush, will go far in helping them to complete with the remainder of their schedule.

In all probability, if the turf is fast, Kentucky's backfield will take advantage of the wide open spaces of the Musketeer secondary. Bob Davis, Wednesday afternoon, gave flashes of his old self, cutting through the line with savagery and swiftness. He did not, however, show any further aggravation the Dayton Dynamo will flaunt his stuff in the game.

His brother, Dameron, has just about recovered from his knee trouble and may be ready to re-engage the game alongside of brother Bob. Dameron has taken it easy up until this mid-week, when he began to cut loose and show signs of the better man.

Either Simpson or Hodge will get the fullback nod, Bessemer Red, and Robbie probably get the kickoff call.

The Vanderbilt must party definitely proved that three offenses are almost essential to rear work. Ed Snyder and Tom Spickard, at times were standouts in that game and Luke Linden, the Blue Diamond.

Block and Erdle will meet at 7:30 o'clock Monday night, October 4, at the Agriculture building. Plans for the freshmen agriculture party will be discussed.

Phi Alpha Theta, honorary history fraternity, will meet at 4 p. m. Monday, October 4, in the Woman's building.

The B. S. U. council will hold a business meeting at 5 p. m. Friday in the Woman's building. Members are asked to be present and bring a visitor.

There will be a compulsory convocation for all new women students at 4 p. m. Monday afternoon, October 4, in Memorial hall.

Men students assigned to part time hour under N.Y.A. may work extra hours if they like. If they are not present this month, extra hours can be counted on next month. The first work month ends October 9.

There are not more than a dozen part-timers left on the campus. Late students wishing to register cars should do so at the office of the Dean by Monday afternoon. Plans will be imposed on those parking without permit.

There will be a meeting of Lamp and Cross Tuesday night at the Phi Delta Kappa house. It is important that all members attend.

COMPLETE CAMPUS COVERAGE

Teaching The Faculty!

A RECENT incident in which a faculty member was too modest to divulge some newsworthy information to a KERNEL reporter provokes the following remarks.

At the dawn of each school year THE KERNEL is in the hands of a completely new staff, green in spots and competent in others. Occasionally, a budding reporter will cover his beat, get a story replete with scientific data, and inadvertently distort it slightly in his recording. Upon reading it in the paper, the department which released the facts quietly condemns its school news vehicle and mutely vows "never again to give THE KERNEL another story."

When a professor or a department assumes this myopic attitude, THE KERNEL editors look askance. Now, if this University is a training ground for life's battles, is a student to learn how to write and to interpret news when the campus news makers lock the doors of printable matter?

There have been complaints that at times THE KERNEL's reporters are crude, and careless. These characteristics might individualize a young campus journalist. But certainly, a University faculty man or woman should overlook such imperfection and blame it on youth. If a faculty man or woman considers a KERNEL reporter unworthy, then he should take special pains to see that the recorder gets the facts in a layman's language. Much reportorial short-coming is traceable to the lofty, technical remarks the news-giver serves with his story.

Other complaints from professors frequently sift into this paper's editorial offices. Some claim there is a lack of news. Others state it is loaded with trivia. But critical teachers are usually ones who refuse to communicate to the University's newspaper information of interest to the student body and the state.

THE KERNEL can be a successful conveyor of news from every department. If one campus faction prohibits its work and progress to be reported in THE KERNEL, then its readers may rightly conclude that the department is stagnant.

On the surface THE KERNEL may seem at present loose and collegiate. Yet its history spans more than 25 years of faithful service to the University. Its plant is worth $45,000 and is entirely self-supporting. It has paid to working students $49,000 in 12 years. It has done as much as any University organization for the students. Its circulation carries it from California to South Africa. It has praised and assisted in the success of many projects prevalent on the campus. And it can hammer into oblivion, forces objectionable to the pursuit of happiness and knowledge.

From now on, THE KERNEL shall consider any faculty flippancy and disrespect a backhanded slap on the face of the University's people.

Thank You, Lexington Herald, Leader

ON BEHALF of the student body, THE KERNEL sincerely wishes to express its appreciation to The Lexington Herald and Leader for the admirable courtesy shown the students by placing in the University library bound files covering nearly half a century.

This material is valuable not only for historical research but also because it gives students ample opportunity to get information directly preparatory to many courses of study, thus furthering professional training.

Since the room in which the files are to be kept will not be completed until the latter part of next week, the library staff requests that the students do not use the files until they are made available for such use.

Scrap Irony

By HARRY WILLIAMS

I SEEMS the inevitable lot of columnists the world over to write at least one short-short story during their lifetime. We have chosen today to write ours because we do not like having a thing like that hanging over our head.

SORORITY LADY
(A short-short story complete in this column)

Margie was sophisticated all right. This was her first year in college and she had already joined a sorority with a "perfectly adorable" name. She was dating a half-back whose long runs were just "too thrilling," and all her professors were "old darlings."

She was sitting in a downtown restaurant the day she first saw Larry, that is when she really saw him. She had heard of him of course, everybody who was anybody had heard of Larry. He danced well, no, divinely, and he had dark hair and he was built like Apollo himself. When he looked at a girl she fell like a plummet.

Well, like I say, she saw him and she "just had to meet him," or else she'd "just die." She managed an introduction at a house dance one night and when I saw them both leaving, I felt like running after her and telling her about Larry, about his thirty-two pins and his reputation, but someone offered me a drink and I forgot it. The next time I saw them together they were looking into each other's face and murmuring something about "Mackaws flying into the sunset." This sounded a little like the real thing to me, for some reason or other, so I left the place.

They ran around together for about three months, with Larry dating no one else and laying off the liquor like a regular bluejoe, and I was actually beginning to believe that he was in love with her when Larry's steady, or the nearest thing he had to a steady, blew into town from up-state. I immediately washed my hands of the affair and sat back to watch the fireworks.

The next thing I knew, Larry's other girl, the one from up-state, was living in the same sorority house with Margie. I thought I ought to warn the poor kid, so I ankked over to the Alpha Delta house to spill the beans. The kid met me at the door and asked me to come in. After I had settled down into the divan about a foot, I got up enough courage to tell her. She took it like a champion and said she thought I better go before there was a scene and I practically fled.

Nothing happened for about a week and I was figuring that maybe they had settled the whole thing without bloodshed, and then I picked up the paper one morning and saw where Larry had gotten married.

Choose your own ending for this story:
(1) Margie persuaded him to forget the girl from up-state.
(2) The girl from up-state persuaded him to forget Margie.
(3) A tall man with a shotgun persuaded him to forget both of them.

The best mix-up of the year is on the Tri-Delta. It seems as if Delt Britt Alderman was at their open house Sunday, and was introduced to Ruth Stewart, who had on dress on. Well, Britt made a date with Ruth and then wandered away. A few minutes later he had forgotten her name. So he asked the girl he was dancing with who the girl in the red dress was. She gave Britt Betty's name. Betty really lives in Lexington, so the good sisters save him her address. He promptly calls at Betty's house and the title of the date came. Betty walked into the triple D house and asked for Betty Sowards. Betty really lives in Lexington, so the good sisters save him her address. SIDESHOW

By DON IRVINE

IN NO SINGLE place is a more complete cross-section of campusiana exhibited than at a non-frequent luncheon at noon. They are all there: the campus whizzes and the campus p-f-ts; the social lions and the social oysters; the brains and the brawn; eating, talking, laughing and smoking with elaborate good-nature, concentrating on the passing moment with intensity.

One Mexas of the hungry in particular seems to present a universal picture, drawn to scale, of collegiate social relations. There the pleasant processes of nourishment and digestion seem to have an immediate segregation effect. The eaters flee with delight to the various groups which formed around them, wishing company but looking ferociously uninterested about the passing moment. With wooden appetites and with a single cigarette and a beer party. The personel sidem changes, and charter members are invariably evident.

For example: The Phi Delta and the Kappa usually settle like a plague of locusts over the lower right hand corner of the seating arrangements. There they exchange gossip and half-sandwiches in thorough approved colloquial fashion. Lewis Haggin, Herb Hillenmeyer, Bob Holliday and sundry other members of the organization meet regularly five days a week crowding themselves into infinitesimal spaces with Charlotte Briggs, Leigh Brown, Pattie Van Meter and other pillars of the Kappa chapter. Another corner are the Tri Delta, talking to a plentiful peppering of S.A.E.'s, Del Hillenmeyer, Betty Balkhaus, and Frances Woods are never difficult to locate when this group is complete. In another nook the K.D.'s enclose themselves with more miscellaneous men from several fraternities. And so it goes. The parties change from time to time, and independents occasionally trend in, but frequently they remain unfurled by the arrival and departure of Outsiders. With conversation of Conger they touch a veneer at noon and the air bulges to the rupture-point with conviviality. But there are those who sit alone. Usually they are girls, neither at one. Back at the frat house after the date they both told each other what Betty thought of them. However, both were the same thing. Two college students aren't being taken by a young blonde are they?

The much touted romance between Dolores Collins and "Booger" in another corner. However Dolores is very sentimentally attached to his jeweled pin. Even though they have been together a long time, the badge remains on the dressing table of the lovely KD.

Sigma Chi Al Fulmer tried to break during rush week to pledge in another corner. And so it goes. No one knew why except his fraternity brothers who call Al "Double Dady." They feel that this little nickname has Al all up in the air, and they wonder how he is handsome or ugly.

A hint to members of SuKy who would like to sell more soft drinks at the football games this fall: Al Nashville the soft drink peddler wandered through the stands yelling "Chasers for sale, who wants Cokes and Seven Up Chasers, right here? Not a bad idea at that."

Boys who have dinner dates with tall girls must be very tight in buying them something to eat. Last week during the rest period from ten until ten thirty, twenty orders from Dunn's and twelve from the Cedar Village were delivered. I think that it will apply for the job as delivery boy at Dunn's.

While on the subject of Pitt Hall, I must admit that I overlooked perhaps the cutest freshman on the campus. Her name is Leila Moran and she hails from Ft. Thomas. Waited at the hall until twenty-one after ten for her to come back from the library, just to see what she looked like.

To those who are going to the Xavier game it would be a good idea to have a special ride spot where UK students will be. Of the many places mentioned, the Topper Ballroom, whose ad is in today's Kernel seems to have the most number of votes. So will see you there Saturday nite.

How would you like to be a radio entertainer? Well the program director of the University radio studios has sounded the call for new talent and will audition anyone who will come to his office with any sign of talent along the lines of radio. So if there is anyone, especially you, fresher, who would like to take an audition, stop in Mr. E. G. Sulzer's office in the basement of the Administration building and he will arrange for a date. You will find Mr. Sulzer a very congenial person and if you have the "stuff," he will give you a break.

Does any one person run a radio network? The answer is a very emphatic no. To start with, there is no such thing as a radio network. The answer is a very emphatic no. Shop Sights By MARJORIE RIESER Greek rush being over, quiet and calm at a housecoat? A new rule in the residence halls states that a suitable housecoat may be worn in the dining room during Sunday breakfast.

Another is blue, yellow, red or black chit with wide haired fox terriers running from neck to hem. It has buttons at the front and short puffed sleeves and a V neck. If you prefer something a little heavier the forthcoming winter nights then a flannel housecoat is ideal.

A more dressey one in moire is very similar to the flannel one. Only the colors are light tan with a turquoise zipper or aqua blue with diamond.

Wasn't it hot under those vent lights? My goodness, your great paint (pardon me, your make-up) is rapidly disappearing, and what are those tiny beads of water doing on your forehead?

According to Mrs. Long, who for the fifth consecutive year is operating the camera in the basement of Memorial hall, the new vent lights are softer and easier on the subject's eyes.

Watching Mrs. Long as she dexterously handled the camera and at the same time commanded the student to pose for the picture one realizes that she must have the inherent qualities of a director.

Horticulture Show Preparations Begin

University horticulture enthusiasts were urged yesterday by W. O. Hubbard, president of the Hort. club, to begin preparations for the Kentucky horticulture show to be held November 30 and December 1 in Lexington.

The show, to be held in the Phoenix hotel ballroom, is being organized by the University Hort. club and is under the sponsorship of the state horticulture society.

A catalog of the show is being prepared and will be ready for distribution the latter part of next week. Copies of the catalog and further information concerning the show may be secured from the horticulture office in the Agriculture building.

COWAN LEADER OF YW FROSH DISCUSSION

"Why the Y. W. C. A.?" was the subject of a discussion by the freshman group of the Y. W. C. A. on Tuesday afternoon at the Woman's building.

Rae Lewis, chairman of the group, about thirty-five freshman girls, introduced Elizabeth Cowan, Y. W. C. A. secretary, who led the discussion of the afternoon. The purpose of the organization was stated by Anne Lang, president, after which representatives of the Book, Worship, World Fellowship, and Hobby groups outlined their plans for the year to the freshmen.

AND TOMORROW it's St. Xavier, a Catholic school in Cincinnati which usually has the bristling faculty of putting eleven tough guys afield whenever there is a football game in the vicinity.

I see by the Cincinnati papers that St. Xavier has a slated thunderbolt again this year. This point alone convinces me that Kentucky will win tomorrow's battle.

And so this season the Queen City papers have patted and puffed up the X-men to the point of Midwest supremacy.

Naturally, on experience alone, the Kentuckians ought to take tomorrow's battle. We have been through one major engagement in which things turned out lamentably.

On the other bench, the Saints have played our Transylvania neighbors routing them by some thirty points. So as yet, the Cincinnati boys haven't had a mouthful of real football.

Our Nashville starting line-up may undergo revolutionary changes for the Musketeer marauders. You might see McCubbin at right end.

McVey Hall Archaeologist Limns Fossils In Lockers

By ALICE WOOD BAILEY
"Any old rags, any old bones, any old bottles!" That is the way the archaeologist, Dr. J. W. McVey, looks at the junk men of old, but the saying might well be changed to "Any old mags, any old books, any old bottles" if applied to conglomeration of articles found in more than a dozen lockers in basement of McVey hall last Wednesday.

In locks on these unclaimed vaults were saved in half and the contents that were taken from them revealed that many had not been opened since as early as 1922, and others, although they had been opened more recently, still contained papers—mainly, Kentucky Kernels—that bore dates of the year 1931.

It was amusing to watch the expressions of George, colored custodian of McVey hall basement, as he swept up the curious collection of old clothes, papers, placards, and pamphlets, stooping to pick up a pair of girl's gashoes and a black wig.

One locker gave birth to four neckties, a pair of gloves, three cans of No. 90 paint, a pair of shoes, and a manuscript for a Stroller program of a few years ago. "Old Kentucky Minstrel Show," it was titled.

In locker No. 13 was found—and quite appropriately—a crutch. The crutch of some one's mishap. Two pair of men's socks, a man's

Frank Fowler Chides His Cast Into Perfection

By JANE LEVI
Frank Fowler, Guignol's Louis B. Mayer, Frank Capra, and Mervyn LeRoy combined, is once more springing lightly over the Guignol boards. The play in progress is "The Great Guy," it's Frank Fowler's meat and he's chewing it gaily, with vim and vigor. The members of the cast through their lines the other night. When one of them complained of an overwhelming desire to laugh instead of being hateful to Doctor Dantler, playing the part of a supreme court member, he giggled with her and left us wondering what will happen if the player has the same impulse on the opening night.

The lines went smoothly with Fowler either tilted back in his chair or leaning forward in deep concentration with his hands behind his knees. But allow one subtle interpretation to be missed and the director was at the side of the offender, explaining either amusingly or gently just what it was he wanted.

He does the lines of the feminine members of the cast with trim and grace, capturing the very essence. His "Oh my, oh my, oh my," came in an offhand, sarcastic manner, indicating the exact mood required in a scene.

Air-Minded Students To Follow 'Cats By Plane

How can you go to the Xavier-U. K. tilt tomorrow afternoon? "Go by plane," suggests the four shadownes, Junior Hatter, Jessie Sadler, Jodie Halcomb, and Billy Keaton.

Last Saturday afternoon these four air-minded Wildcat rosters cast their shadows on Nashville soil, and now with one pleasant experience behind them, they are flying to Cinoy tomorrow to view the second Wildcat clash of the season. Despite the rainy weather and the game with Vanderbilt last Saturday afternoon, the men report that it won't be long until following the home team by plane will be "all the rage."

"What I mean to tell you is that it was really smooth," says Billy Keaton when describing his last week's trip to Nashville. "It was tough luck about the game, and I didn't enjoy sitting in a greasy shop for two hours, while my water soaked clothes were dried out, but with the aid of a little chill tonic, I managed to survive without a cold."

And so the four shadows are planning to shove off for Cincinnati tomorrow.

Doghouse Imminent For Scribes Who Fizzle At Covering News

By JOHN WILKERSON
"Who knows anything about Graves County?" "Where in the world is Johnson County?" These, and other similar inquiries are often floating around in the midst of the members of the advanced reporting class, who have had new problems heaped on their heads in the shape of a number of counties, the papers of said counties being the goal of these budding writers, who will attempt to bring to the sheets back home the news of what goes on behind the walls of that celebrated institution, the University of Kentucky.

This diabolical scheme had its origin in the mind of professor Niel Plummer, and it consists in having the members of the class select a group of four counties, papers of which are each to be sent teams of copy dealing with some aspect or other of the University that pertains to the county in question.

The recipients of any such copy are supposed to gratefully print any amount of journalistic phobey that records the doings of little Emer, the pride and joy of Sand Gap, who is the seventy-fifth applicant for water boy on the football squad. If you send in twenty-five column inches ye shall be graded.

The lucky ones are those who have chosen a county that has at least three papers (four is par), because one item may be published

Sid's elation at the success of his clever scheme has somewhat tempered—rather—for he has received a bill of $65 for back tuition and has learned that for a non-payment the fees are higher. The cleverly conceived idea will cost him $104 extra for his four years in school.

Knowing that Sid's home is at Sturgis, Kentucky, we asked him how long he had been living there and how it happened that he had never become a citizen of the United States.

"We have lived there for the past 11 years," he answered, "however, my father chooses to remain a British subject and since I am still a minor I have to be what my father is."

"One hundred and four dollars is a mighty expensive price to pay for the privilege of not having to drill isn't it Sid?"

To which he answered philosophically. "Oh well, they would have found it out sooner or later anyway."

Do your work NOW. Idlers work "later."
