Annual Exercises Held By Sophomore Women's Honorary Group ANNA EVANS GIVEN MEDAL BY HOME EC Deans of Men and Women Are Speakers on Program; Skits Presented

Pledging of fourteen girls to Cwens, national honorary society for sophomore women, was a feature of the annual mass meeting held Thursday in Memorial hall.

Girls who were pledging to Cwens were Katherine Calloway, Mary H. Danzler, Dorothy Dundon, Martha Fugitt, Adelle Hendley, Lillian Holmes, Frances Kerr, Mary King Koger, Betty Moffett, Virginia Murrell, Caroline P. Quigley, Lucille Thornton, Dorothy H. Walker, and Mary Gunn Webb.

Talks were made by Mrs. Sarah Holmes, assistant dean of women; Miss Sarah Blending, dean of women; and Hazel Nollau, president of W.C.A. National Executive Committee.

Skits were presented by the various women's organizations. Hazel Nollau gave a short talk explaining the purpose of the Women's Student Government association and the scholarship which is given each year by the organization to the student who makes the greatest contribution to the University.

Cwens conducted its annual pledging as part of the exercises. Phi Beta presented a short parent pledging the University to Phi Beta. The national home economics society, Phi Upsilon Omicron, used a ceremony house which is a part of the organization.

Elizabeth Baute spoke briefly for Theta Sigma Phi, national journal for elementary education. Members of the Kernel staff were introduced. Betty Boyd gave a short talk on skits, which is the object on the campus.

New members of Cwens and the activities in which they are engaged during their freshman year.

Kampus Kernels

The office of the Dean of Men wants to express its appreciation of the fine spirit of co-operation of the faculty and students in carrying out the parking regulations.

What has surprised all of us is the large number of cars and trucks for parking space on the campus, approximately 500 of whom 170 are faculty. Consequently, there is no present have parking space for all. There is an unsatisfied list of about 100.

We think we can assign to our present area of about 50 cars, and we plan to open a new area that will hold another 50.

Naturally in attempting such an undertaking of allotting space to 100 cars, unforeseen difficulties have arisen, but we ask for you to be patient until we can straighten these difficulties.

Kentucky photographer is in the basement of the Men's gym from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. every day this week. Seniors, juniors, and members of campus organizations should have their pictures made at once.

All members of The Kernel staff are requested to attend a meeting at 2 p. m. Wednesday in Room 50, McVey hall.

LANES will hold a meeting at the Phi Sigma Kappa house Thursday, at 7:15 p. m. Very Important.

There will be a meeting of Phi Mu Alpha, men's honorary music fraternity, at 4 p. m. Thursday in the Art center.

A meeting of all the residents of the men's dormitories will be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in McVey hall, to make plans for the coming year.

All University students, who are or have been Democrats, interested in forming an honorary fraternity, (Continued on Page Four)

ARCHERY PRACTICE

Archery practice for girls will be held at 3 p. m. each day, while hockey practice will be held at 4 p. m. each day, on the Women's athletic field, back of Patterson hall, according to an announcement by Clara Margaret Fort, president of W. A. A.

The price is one dollar for the first print and twenty-five cents for each additional print.

U. K. To Offer New Extension Courses

Classes Open To Lexington Adults Will Be Non-Credit

If plans now under way in the department of University Extension, Lexington, which will include a series of non-credit courses, open to adults in Lexington and central Kentucky, will be offered in the evenings at the University of Kentucky.

No definite time and place for the offering of these proposed classes in adult education have been selected, but according to an outline of tentative courses, University Extension departments present plans include the following:

Archaeology, by Prof. A. S. Webb; Secretarial Practice, by Prof. A. J. Lawrence; Elementary Accounting, by Prof. D. H. Hunt; Money and Banking, by Prof. Rodman Sullivan.

Following the completion of a definite schedule, the time and place of meeting for each class will be announced.

K.E.A. To Promote Debating Contest

Inter-Collegiate Discussion Will Be On Educational Problems in State

At the request of the Kentucky Educational association, the Department of University Extension, University of Kentucky, is formulating plans for the promotion of an intercollegiate discussion contest to debate some of the current educational problems in Kentucky, and to be conducted on an elimination basis. The winner in each college will represent his school at an intercollegiate meeting, the winner of the two runners-up will receive the division of a $50 award, offered by K. E. A.

According to the plans announced by Dr. Wellington Patrick, director of the University extension department, the various colleges in the state will be invited to hold school debates on subjects to be announced later by the extension department, and an intercollegiate contest will be held, probably at the University of Kentucky, in the fall.

Annual Membership-Finance Campaign Will Be Conducted October 4, 5 and 6; All Women To Be Interviewed

Y. W. C. A. Membership-Finance campaign, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, October 4, 5, and 6. A committee, headed by Augusta Roberts and Betty Boyd, will interview every woman student on the campus. The money pledged by the students will be used to carry on the work of the Y. W. C. A. on this campus to be a member of the National Student Federation of the Y. W. C. A. and of the World Student Christian Federation.

National and campus speakers are brought to the campus for the benefit of all students. Other projects for women students are sponsored by the Y. W. C. A.

A large portion of the women students were members of the Y last year. All who join for the first time this year will be formally recognized at a Recognition service to be held in Memorial hall October 15.

Unique Sets For Guignol's Opener Near Completion

Unique stage sets for the forthcoming Guignol production, "When Ladies Meet," operated by the 16, are rapidly taking definite form.

The first set calls for a small porch of a modern New York apartment. Alza Stratton, a student in the art department under Miss Callahan, designed the modern mural painting for the set. It is a scene done in silver, green, and gray to give it the proper outdoor effect. This set, in particular, is much more elaborate than that used in the New York production under John Gould.

The stage crew, under the direction of G. L. Crutcher, is copying the movie set to be used for the second. It represents a barn which has been made over for entertainment purposes. For the past few seasons, this department has been under Mr. Crutcher.

Assisting Mr. Fowler in the direction of the season's opener is Miss Margaret Furr, who has been connected with Guignol productions of the past, is in charge of properties. Clarence Moore will manage the lighting effects.

Phi Beta Sponsors Musical Program

Phi Beta, honorary music and dramatic society, will sponsor a program, to be given Friday, October 6. This is an annual affair, and according to Elizabeth Harkin, a resident of the local chapter, will probably be held at the Lexington College Hotel.

This program, given for the children of Lexington, will consist of program and reading. Willie Hughes Smith has charge of the program, for which final plans have not been made.

Phi Beta is continuing the ticket sale for the Guignol productions for this season.

MORTAR BOARD, University Band O. D. K. MEET IN DINNER SESSION

Groups Unite For Purpose of Discussing Student Building Fund

Money Raising Drive Slated For October Support of Women's Groups Asked; Committees Are Appointed

Mortar Board and Omicron Delta Kappa held a joint dinner meeting at 6 p. m. Thursday at the Teacup Inn for the purpose of discussing the Student Union Building fund. A drive will be held the latter part of October in an attempt to secure funds for various University organizations.

Gordon Burns, president of O. D. K., gave an explanation of the plans planned and asked Mortar Board to assist in the drive by obtaining the support of all women's organizations. The committees appointed to be in charge are: the General Union Building committee; Ralph Edwards, chairman, Walter Stettler, Smith Director, Prof. Roy Langford, Evelyn Grubbs, Alice Loring, and Eldred Lewis; publicity committee, Frank Adams, chairman, Virginia Lee Moore; Hamilton Greenup; benefit subscription data committee, Joseph Mills, chairman, Hugh Adcock, James Bishop, O. B. Murphy, Tom Campbell, and Fred Brewer; committee on honoraries and professionals, Gordon Burns, C. E. Lewis, and Lois Robinson, Mortar Board.

Dr. Wallace McPherson Alston and Dr. Robert W. Miles, and members of the University faculty were honor guests at the meeting.

Mortar Board held its second meeting at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the Women's building, with Lois Robinson presiding.

A program of music and a program, which the organization intends to carry out this year, was reviewed at the meeting. It was decided to assist O. D. K. with the Union Building project. Also a budget for this year was drawn up.

Dairy Club Hears Phil Wilson Speak

Cattle Judging Team Goes To Iowa To Attend Convention

Phil Wilson, head of the Lexington Dairy, addressed members of the Dairy club at their first meeting of the year held Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Dairy building. This club, which is a new organization of the campus, was organized the latter part of last semester for the purpose of bringing the following groups in close contact with some of the leading dairy owners; to sponsor a homecoming banquet for the Dairy Club; to organize a department, and to aid in sponsoring a dairy judging team each year.

A judging team composed of Boyd Wheeler, Harlan county; Charles S. Bell, Mason county; Woodrow Cook, Logan county; and James C. Downing, Fayette county, left Thursday for Waterloo, Iowa, where they will attend the Dairy Cattle Convention.

Officers of the Dairy club are: James C. Downing, president; Boyd Wheeler, vice-president; and Charles S. Bell, secretary-treasurer.

Cancer Top Of Pre-Med Lecture

"Cancer, Its Nature and Effect On The Body," will be the topic of the lecture which will be given by Dr. E. S. Masvill, at the first meeting of the Pryor Pre-medical society, at 7:30 p. m. today, in the basement of the Museum. Gross specimens and slides will be used to illustrate the lecture.

Detroit Editor Praises College Newspaper Work

College men are making most outstanding contributions to the field of journalism and especially to newspaper work now than ever before," was the opinion expressed by C. O. Wagoner, Sunday editor of The Detroit Times, in an interview yesterday.

Mr. Wagoner arrived in Lexington Sunday night, and left yesterday on a trip through the south.

"The experience gained by students in work on campus newspapers, perhaps, is more than any other one thing. It is no longer necessary for graduates to spend several years in newspaper work before specializing," the distinguished newspaperman said.

Mr. Wagoner firmly believes that textbooks and classes in journalism can only lay a foundation, and must be accompanied by actual reporting work. It is because many college newspapers are serving as good several years' prep work in the realization of responsibility that college editorial staffs are becoming more efficient.

University Band To Parade For Ky-Tech Battle

Unit Will Make Formations Under Two New Drum Majors

The University band will make its first appearance in formation on Stoll field Saturday between halves of the Georgia Tech-Kentucky game, under the direction of the two new drum majors, R. C. McDowell and Alfred Eckles.

The first formation will be that of the letters U. K., and "On, On U. of K." will be played. From that formation, the letters G. T. will be formed, and the Georgia Tech song played. There also will be a special act portraying the "Ramblin' Wreck" song of Georgia Tech.

New officers of the band, appointed last Wednesday by Director Lewis are:

R. C. McDowell and Alfred Eckles, drum majors; Roy Hahn, personnel officer, business manager and captain; Boyd Wheeler, assistant personnel officer, librarian and sergeant; Fred Moor, head of trombone section and sergeant; Robert Griffith, head of baritone section and sergeant; John Potter, sergeant; Marshall Hamilton, head of saxophone section and corporal; Leslie Scott, corporal; Ralph Winfrey, head of cornet section and sergeant; Joe McDaniel, sergeant; James Miller, corporal; N. J. Holbrook, corporal; E. Kirkpatrick, head of drum section and corporal; August Luecher, sergeant; James G. Lewis, sergeant; Carl Boyne, head of horn section and sergeant; Marshall Hamilton, head in charge of lockers; and Thomas Scott, head of bass section and sergeant.

Rotogravure Section Giving Collegiate News Happenings on Various Campuses To Be Presented Weekly

Beginning with this issue, The Kentucky Kernel will present weekly to its readers a complete pictorial review of events that happen in the college world in Collegiate Digest, a rotogravure section that is included with each subscription to this newspaper.

Collegiate Digest will present each week a complete review of events that happen in the collegiate world and will keep the readers of the Kernel in touch with the important events that happen on every campus in the United States.

Collegiate Digest will give every student the opportunity of following educational, scientific, and student activities that happen throughout the United States and will thereby give all students an opportunity to compare their activities with those of other students in other institutions.

Dr. Funkhouser Has Article Published

The leading article in the last issue of "The Indian Paper Recorder," a journal published at Delhi, India, by Dr. W. D. Funkhouser of the University of Kentucky on "Entomological Investigations on the Spiny Disease of Sandal," is one of the most important of the forest products of India and Doctor Funkhouser has been successful in identifying a number of important insect pests from the government forest near Coimbatore. The paper describes and figures 27 species of which one genus and four species are new to science.

Doctor Funkhouser's work was done at the request of the Forest Research Institute of India and the article was published by order of the Government of India.

Listening Centers To Be Established

Prof. Elmer G. Sulzer and Harris M. Sullivan are planning the bases for four new radio listening centers, and the changing of sets in four centers already established in the mountainous sections of the state.

There is a possibility of centers being placed at Dryhill and Elk Horn in Leslie county, in Breathitt county near Quicksand, and at Lost Cove in the paper describes and figures 27 species of which one genus and four species are new to science.

Listening posts bring to the people a special brand of music, the only chance they have for the betterment of their education. The people have become dependent upon these posts, and listen to each program with ever-increasing interest, according to Professor Sulzer.

The Lions club of this city has been instrumental in the establishment of a new center.

RADIO PROGRAMS STOPPED

There will not be any radio programs broadcast from the University of Kentucky studios of Station WHAS this week because of the series of baseball games, according to an announcement made by Elmer G. Sulzer, director of the University radio public relations department. The studio will go back on the air at 12:45 p. m. Monday, October 9.

Big Blue Outplayed From Start To Finish

Brilliant Work of Kercheval, Murphy, and Wagner Strengthens Team

By JACK ANTHONY

Playing a heady, inspired game of football, a fighting Seawanee team outplayed Kentucky's Big Blue team only to lose by a close 7 to 0 decision under the lights of Stoll field Saturday night.

Although making two fumbles, one of which almost ended a touchdown, Seawanee Tiger started off with a rush, completing two passes and flashing a quarter back punt back 77 yards for the only touchdown of the game.

Before a partisan crowd of 8,500 football fans which included Governor Reby Lafoon of Kentucky and Dan Beard, scout executive, the greatly under-estimated Seawanee Tiger started off with a rush, completing two passes and flashing a quarter back punt back 77 yards for the only touchdown of the game.

PARKING REGULATIONS

Although the time is indeed short since the inauguration of the new parking system, it is well to stop and view what has been done. The system now in use should prove acceptable to all, although, of course, naturally, it has its disadvantages. Under the new regulations each owner of a car is assigned a definite place in which to park his car while it is on the campus. The nominal sum of twenty-five cents is charged for each car that is registered.

Everyone should be glad of this new system for it means increased convenience for all of us. To know that there is always a parking space should be of some relief to the people who have not been able to find one in the past. The congestion that existed before certainly constituted a condition that was highly undesirable. The small fee charged brings high returns both from the view of parking as well as of police protection. The latter greatly reduces the amount of articles stolen from cars each year.

Naturally this plan has its defects, but nothing in this world is perfect. It is decidedly inconvenient to park on one side of the campus and have a class on the other. Such situations will be changed to fit the convenience of all in so far as is possible. Even with this slight defect the plan is far superior to the confusion and congestion that resulted before.

The Kernel is happy to congratulate Dean Jones, Mr. Crutcher, and all others who helped in the inauguration of this plan. It is, according to our way of thinking, a decided improvement over the former systems and The Kernel urges the students to co-operate in every possible way.

BARGAINS IN BRAINS

The graduates of the Commerce college of 1933 inaugurated an excellent method of concentrated application for positions with their "Bargains in Brains," and this pamphlet is to be reproduced and enlarged upon by the class of 1934.

Many of you will recall reading the make-up of this pamphlet, even though you may not have seen a copy. It indicated the University of Kentucky's contribution to future business in the form of the young men and women graduating from the College of Commerce. It contained the picture, name, address, age, height, weight, the major subject, chief interests, activities, and experience of each graduate.

The book was planned by the faculty of the college and was executed and paid for by the class. The graduating class was composed of 56 members. Twenty-one of this number had obtained positions prior to the publication of the pamphlet, and a very large per cent of the applicants were successful. The application was mailed to 405 concerns throughout the country and was praised by a great many business executives as an exceedingly ingenious idea.

This idea which has been promoted by the members of the Commerce college cannot be praised too highly. In this period of economic depression we will know how extremely difficult it is for college graduates to find any sort of job upon completion of their course. This united effort to secure positions for students in the business world has indicated the heart-felt interest of the Commerce faculty in the ultimate achievements of their graduates and has already been attended with considerable success.

Large business firms showed their appreciation of this novel co-operative scheme for obtaining employment for the graduates by hiring one or more applicants. Why don't the other colleges of the University try this? It is a similar plan to that which has been inaugurated and aid their graduates in finding employment?

The University of Kentucky is proud of its graduates and has high hopes for the achievements and success of their alumni. It is certain that it made a concentrated effort to start them on the way to this success by giving them all possible assistance in obtaining a suitable position immediately following their graduation? Nothing would be more thoroughly appreciated by the students than such a determined effort on the part of the University authorities in the role of "job-finders."

LIVE AGAIN—AND MORE FULLY

As we were glancing over a high school paper of the past year, we came across a well written, telling editorial expressing the editor's thoughts on his last composition for the paper. A member of the graduating class, he was looking back over his four years in high school with a mixture of pleasure and regret. Regret for a similar plan to that which has been inaugurated and aid their graduates in finding employment?

What became of that editor? Did he come on to college? What a shock it must have been to him to become a freshman — to start in all over again. And what an opportunity it gave him to put his own suggestions into practice. Most people wait until too late to change their ways, and then proceed to tell others how to do better, and what they would do if they could start over again. College is the one time in life when it is possible to re-live the past to some extent, the extent of correcting past mistakes.

Freshmen, you have the chance of a lifetime. For four years you have been in high school. You have seen more or less on your own. You have had to make decisions and shoulder responsibilities. You have made mistakes, of course. No one is infallible. However, no matter how serious the errors you have made, do not let them affect you, except to create in you a resolve to conquer in the long run.

Now you have entered a world which is partially or wholly new to you. But it is the world you have left, reproduced on a larger scale and with an added coat of sophistication. In this new world, it is possible to correct many of your past mistakes. No doubt, you have many regrets. You can think of many things which you might have done in high school and failed to do. You have found which of the many things that occupy your time are the most important in the final count. Are you strong enough to face about and change, if you realize that you are striving for a splendid opportunity in which to coast on previous laurels. Either one is, or one is not an officer in various associations. If one is not, there is no further chance, and some interest in the project is lost. If one is, it is the last position to which one will be elected. In either case, with or without the honor, one is liable to slacken one's speed. During the year one becomes accustomed to thinking of oneself as permanently this, that or the other, and stops working. College is very good for a "swelled head." You may have been a star at dear old Alma Mater high school, but now you are the greenest of green things— a freshman. So start out to work, and start in the right direction.

THE KENTUCKIAN BUSINESS MANAGER

For the first time in recent years, the selection of business manager for the annual published by the senior class, has been made by appointment rather than by election by the members of the class.

Undoubtedly, this step is in keeping with the prevalent tendency to centralize responsibility, since the business manager is responsible to the editor of the yearbook who has the power of appointment, subject to the action of the committee on student publications.

Under this system, total responsibility and sole power of decision rests primarily with one person. Likewise, his chances are greater for obtaining full co-operation from the staff in charge of the financial end of the enterprise. His plans may be more definitely drawn up and more completely executed, especially when the business staff functions efficiently, as it must when the head of the staff is responsible to one person rather than to a whole class.

The opportunities for political activity to interfere with the wise selection of a business manager are checked doubly, first, by the editor's own need of securing an efficient head of the business staff, and secondly, by the action of the committee on student publications which must approve the recommendation of the editor.

That the inauguration of the new system has functioned efficiently is testified by the fact that the business manager who has been selected, has already to his credit the successful handling of the financial part of another campus enterprise, namely, the publishing of the student "K" book for the present year.

Just Among Us

We have observed that, quite invariably, "fall skirts" will be the fashion again this fall.

Gussie says, "People who live in glass houses should pull down the blinds at night."

Just a Cottage By the Sea
Sign on bulletin board: "Furnished Cottage for Rent Suitable for Lighthouse Keeping By Students."

What a pity, that the valuable coaching advice of "sodden" spectators can not be related to the players themselves.

And then there was the freshman girl who wondered why the engineering students took pictures all over the campus.

We Might Have Known
While skimming along through the dictionary, we pulled up short on this one: the two words, "assassin" and "hash" both have the same origin.

No Nice Girl Swears. Alice-Leone Moats. Knopf, 1933.

What do you answer when she says "May I call you some name?" Can you get away with "You're the first man I ever kissed?" How do you answer a question like that? It seemed quite well up to the last three cocktails? And what do you do with an amorous young man who seems to have absolutely no resistance to the romantic atmosphere of a taxi or a bench?

Alice-Leone Moats, herself attractive, sophisticated and twenty-three, decided very suddenly that girls of what she calls "this casual era" of ours, surrounded by a generation which seems to be doing anything it wants to and getting by with it, need something or someone to tell them just exactly what is taboo (if anything is) and which of several methods of procedure is likely to prove the best in the long run. The result of her decision is "No Nice Girl Swears." The nice girl Moats thinks the nice girls don't admit that most of them do; but she advises them to break it up if possible, not (this being a modern book) because they are breaking the second commandment, but because it is usually vulgar and always tiresome to the listener.

This question of swearing, however, takes up only a small portion of the first chapter. Miss Moats goes on to a list of a hundred observations of our social system. Listen to her definition of a blind date: "Blind dates are of two kinds: one, George has a friend, Joe Gutch, who either is a stranger in town or for some reason, knows no girls. Kind-hearted George asks Helen to provide another girl for the occasion, and the merry foursome sets forth. All too soon the poor girl discovers that the probable reason why somebody had to be provided for Joe is that he, on his own, provides another girl for the occasion, and she goes out with him alone. This kind is a risky proposition, says Miss Moats. "She will do well to keep in mind." The other kind, she says, is where Joe gets Helen to have a date with a visiting friend, and she goes out with him alone. This kind is a risky proposition, says Miss Moats. "She will do well to keep in mind." The other kind, she says, is where Joe gets Helen to have a date with a visiting friend, and she goes out with him alone. This kind is a risky proposition, says Miss Moats. "She will do well to keep in mind."

Thoughts at Saturday's Game
The speaker of football, who is the instigator of the extreme pronunciation of the once great Notre Dame coach's name? I have heard that it is "Notre," but at present I am torn between "Canotte" and "Canot." Would one of the Irish please enlighten me?

Right here I want to doff me ill to the Sewanee bunch who gave all our Boy Scouts such a head. When it comes to enthusiasm and pep, the Scouts were there. Incidentally, the Engineers come around, and if we don't, we should encourage their presence. They made a bad appearance.

A word of sympathy for the boys. Those suits must be plenty warm these early autumn nights. Maybe that's why they didn't tear into the lads from Tennessee. Did you ever notice how the "spare ribs" polish the bench where they sit? Let's hope this is anxiety, for we'll need it along about next Saturday when the Engineers come around. Wonder if they can be had? Would be nice to hang up a neat score against them.

Ever notice how the white helmet recognizes as perhaps the leading philosopher and theologian of his day, easily could have been the topic of a very bad novel. But this is a very good one.

Floundering persons doubtless have attempted to fictionalize the life of Abelard, but it remained for Miss Waddell's father was a missionary in Manchuria and Japan. She has brought out a book of Chinese lyrics, but her main scholarly interest, since studying at Belfast (North Ireland) and Oxford (England), has been in medieval Latin, and the wandering scholars who spoke it. Latin in fact, is the eye of the needle through which one must enter, to read at first hand the correspondence between Abelard and the mother of his child, written after they had separated permanently, and after she has become an abbess and he had been reinstated to a position of dignity in monastic circles.

This story ends with Abelard's conversion from bitter discouragement to a new devotion and zest, some time before the anti-climax of the lovers' platonic reunion. Apparently faithful to know all the facts about and characteristics of Abelard and Heloise and Canon Fulbert, and flawless in his presentation of the general historic setting, the novel invests or at least elaborates, several interesting minor personages, such as their mutual friend Giles, elderly episcopus and humanist; Godric, aged Irish nun, from whom Heloise had learned to copy manuscripts; and Abelard's man-of-all-work, whose crazed passion for a harlot leads him to betray his master. Bernard of Clairvaux appears briefly, as do the zealous schoolmen who accuse Heloise of heresy, and the admiring students who pursue his assailants and follow him to his hermitage for a new series of lectures.

Miss Waddell's medieval love-Biblical text, patristic reasoning, pagan poetry, street singer's ballad—used always in the right place, to heighten the story. The sin that the modern reader too easily might overlook since it was a case of true love, become shocking blasphemy in a setting of holy days, holy places, and ecclesiastical laws, and which she has handled with a sure touch is this made clear.

—STARR MENDEL.

Tuesday is the opening day for the Gaumont British-Universal picture, "Be Mine Tonight." This is a musical picture featuring Jan Kiepuro, the Polish opera star.

If you are looking for a picture that is fairly overflowing with laughter, and music, you will surely enjoy "My Weakness" which is now playing at the Kentucky. This picture is a starring vehicle for Lillian Harvey, whom the producers bill as "the cutest thing in pictures"—and she doesn't miss it. Only one of her pictures, "Congress Dances," has been released in this country.

The story concerns a plain young girl who, quite by accident, becomes a much sought-after playmate. It is more or less of a wager that she is first put on the road to fame for her beauty. She follows victim with victim, until the very man who made the disparaging wager, falls a victim himself. Lew Ayres plays the masculine role in this picture. "My Weakness" has been produced under the supervision of Buddy Ross of the "Sunny Side Up."

Once upon a time Zane Grey wrote a story about the land where men and women are men and women and can take it. This story was finally filmed, so we have "To the Last Man" at the Strand, which Randolph Scott, Esther Ralston and Buster Crabbe play.

Running through Wednesday at the Ben All "The Masquerader" will be shown. In this picture Ronald Colman plays the double role of an English gentleman and his dissolute cousin whose role he assumes. The story starts with Colman as the prime minister of England, a half-crazed drug addict, who finally collapses. It is imperative for the welfare of his party

A clear cut emerald of gypsy hue,
A piece of hand made lace,
A twisted candle burning low,
A thin tipped porcelain vase,
Rounded notes from a gitted throuse,
An artist's color pot,
The giant body of a young dabbler,
A cared for garden spot,
Now in my breast
Lies a struggling bird
Lies thoughts that are never sung,
I feel my thoughts,
They cry inside,
I can give my words no tongue.

Zeta Tau Alpha Initiation
Alpha Chi chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha announces the initiation of the following pledges: Misses Ruth Averitt and Frances Bush, Lexington; Dolores Shannon, Kansas City, Kansas; Jeannette and Carolyn Sparks, Ashland; Mary Trisch, Dayton, Ill.; Ida Egan, Lexington; and Goldie Vaughn, Science Hill, Ky.

Following the initiation ceremony at the chapter house Saturday afternoon, the new actives were guests for a delicious buffet supper, and in accordance with the chapter custom, each girl was presented with a lovely shoulder corsage.

Mother's Club
The Mother's club of Alpha Delta Theta met yesterday afternoon at the chapter house, with Mrs. H. C. Robinson, the president, in charge of the business meeting. Following the business meeting, at which plans for the year were discussed, Mrs. Robinson was assisted in serving tea by Mrs. A. C. Brown, the housemother.

Kappa Delta Mothers' Club
The Mothers' Club of the Kappa Delta sorority will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the chapter house, 115 east Maxwell street, for its first meeting. Mrs. C. Spillman Jones, president, will preside.

Sanborn-Rose
Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Jane Hathaway Sanborn to Mr. Conrad A. Rose, September 28 in Newcastle, Ky.

The wedding took place at the home of Mr. L. G. Furgur, a classmate of the groom and a fellow football star. It was witnessed by a few intimate friends, with Rev. T. C. Meador officiating. The couple left immediately for a visit with the groom's family in Evansville, Ind.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Sanborn, 343 south Upper street and is a former student of Henry Clay High school. The groom is a graduate of the University where he was especially outstanding on the football teams of 1929, 1929, and 1930. He is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity. Mr. and Mrs. Rose will make their home in Georgetown where he is employed as freshman football coach of Georgetown college.

Morgan-Taylor
A recent announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Madge Morgan to Mr. Nathaniel Cole Taylor on August 12. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Morgan, of Stearns, and is a graduate of the University. Mr. Taylor is also a graduate of the University, and is the son of Judge Powell Taylor and Mrs. Taylor, of Lawrenceburg. He is situated in Hazard with the State Highway Department.

Alumnus To Wed
An interesting announcement to University students will be that of the engagement of Miss Mary Josephine Bishop, of Rancho Santa Fe, California, to Mr. Benjamin P. Van Meter, Jr. of this city.

Mr. Van Meter graduated from the University as an engineer in 1930, and was a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity. He is now associated with the Los Angeles branch of the Carrier Engineering Corporation in Los Angeles.

The marriage will take place sometime this winter.

Dinner at Maxwell Place
President and Mrs. McVey will entertain the executive committee of Pan-Polition at dinner this evening at Maxwell Place, after which a business meeting will be held. Guests will include Misses Elizabeth Whitley, Louise Ewing, and Elizabeth Hardin; and Messrs. Gordon Burns, George Vogel, and Arthur Muth.

Kappa Kappa Gamma Pledging
Beta Chi of Kappa Kappa Gamma held formal pledging at the chapter house Friday afternoon.

Miss Martha Alford, president of the chapter, led the impressive ceremony. After the pledging services the members and pledges with a delicious buffet supper. Mrs. L. L. Dantler was in charge of the arrangements and was assisted by Mrs. Powell Bosworth, Mrs. Paul Boyd, Mrs. George Chick, and Mrs. Robert Hawkins.

The new pledges of Kappa Kappa Gamma are Misses Scovel Bryant, Sue Swinford, Naurie Calhoun and Susan Johnston, Lexington; Elizabeth Lloyd and Georgia Turnwood, Mayville; Anne Dedman, Harrodsburg; Nell Duerson, Mt. Sterling; Marian Conner Dawson, Owensville; Elizabeth Evans, Middleboro; Drucilla Hoskins, Beattyville; Mary Lally, Frankfort; Mary Coy Maynard, Atlanta, Ga.; Patricia Park, Kansas City, Mo.; Nancy Phelps, Cloverport; Edith Reager, Nell Crank, and Celine Parids, Louisville; Emily Watson, Gerry Garvey, and Grace Fidler, Chicago, Ill.

Library Staff Luncheon
The staff of the University of Kentucky Library entertained with a beautiful luncheon Saturday at Shady Springs on the Nicholasville Pike. The guests were Mrs. Lydia Croft, Mrs. T. C. Clark, and Miss Sue Montgomery, who has recently joined the staff from the Evansville Public Library. Garden flowers were used in the decoration. Those present included Mrs. Croft, Mrs. Clark, Miss Montgomery, Miss Margaret King, Miss Clara White, Mrs. Henry Hornsby, Mrs. William Blackburn, Misses Ellen V. Butler, Norma Cass, Mary Ann Honey, Lucy Gragg, Emma Jane Stevens, Grace Snodgrass, Susan Miller, Bessie Boughton, Elizabeth Hanson, Margaret Tuttle.

Banquet For Pledges
The active members of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity entertained the pledges with a banquet Sunday evening at the Ten Cup Inn.

Mr. John Mumford presided as toastmaster. The address of welcome was given by Mr. John Lawrence Coover, and the pledge response by Mr. Roy Hoog. The address of the evening was given by Captain Harry D. Schiebla. The guests were Dr. and Mrs. Frank McFarland, Captain and Mrs. Harry D. Schiebla, Dr. and Mrs. Wellington Patrick, and Mr. Robert Tate, member of Lambda Chi Alpha at Southern Methodist University.

Active members of the fraternity are Messrs. George Harris, Charles Kelley, Harry Scott, J. B. Croft, Curtis Howard, Jack Watt, Herman Wyant, Wallace Bailey, John Coover, Ralph Salyers, Charles D. There seems to be only one explanation for the performance of the Wildcats Saturday night—overconfidence. Nothing hurts a team, or undermines the spirit of a ball club so much as overconfidence. Flattering writings by sports writers and expectations of fans made the Cats think that Sewanee was just another push-over. It was just another case of the lamb that was supposedly ready for the slaughter, turning into a mountain goat and goring the butcher.

Another thing the fans who criticized the play of the Big Blue have not thought of, is that those purple-clad Sewanee Tigers are a 100 percent better team than they were rated to be. There were nine lettermen on the team and they had a sterling ball team, although they were about 20 pounds lighter than the majority of the Wildcat players. Their blocking was much better than that of the Wildcats whose failure to block stood out like a sore thumb.

The exhibition of the Boy Scout drum and bugle corps from Louisville completely captivated the football game. Also the cheering of the youngsters in the bleachers at the end of the field was well heard on Stoll field in many moons. It put to shame the few feeble yells of the student body.

The music of the band was very nice at the Sewanee game, but they did not march despite the fact that they were attired in their uniforms. Before comparing the organization to those fine bands of former years, it would be best to see them march on the field and play. After all, it is the noise and the marching of a football band that stamps it as a great or as an ordinary outfit.

The most discouraging factor of the game Saturday was the failure of the Cat offense to get going. For over three quarters it was stopped dead. Little "Bo" McMillan gave the only exhibition of good ball carrying until Bach crumpled his epochal run for 77 yards and a score.

Another factor in recounting the game's flaws was the blocking of the tackles and guards. It was seemingly a game of you push and I push.

And still, after all the humiliating features of the game Saturday, Pressbox is not discouraged. All teams have their off days, and rise from the depths to the heights. Georgia Tech has a great ball club. There is no denying that, but ladies and gentlemen you will see an altogether new team out there fighting for the Blue and White next Saturday afternoon.

It will not be the slaughter that the sports writers are predicting. Tech may win, but the game will be a hard and stern battle. Those Wildcats will be fighting for a place in the football sun.

The football annual which recently made its appearance on newsstands contains dope about every major college football team in the country. Included in the book is the Kentucky schedule and pictures of Coach Harry Gamage and Captain "Dutch" Kreuter. The various teams were rated for last season and the Big Blue was adjudged to have finished 56 in the standings. Many times which were more games than the Cats, were rated much lower.

A full length picture of Kercheval kicking was given a prominent place in the Dixie section of the book. The Big Blue booter was mentioned as an All-American prospect along with several present All-Americans and promising stars.

Saturday's stars—O. B. Murphy, the smallest man in the middle of the Cat forward wall, played the best individual game of any of the players upon the field. Countless times he made the tackle when no one else was close and his blocking was better than any of the other Big Blue linemen. "Pug" Bach, who ran 77 yards for the only touchdown of the night, played a good game and a bad one. He made a beautiful run and some bad fumbles also. "Fug" run was one of the most perfect ever made on Stoll field. His interference was exceptional and it was his only time during the entire 60 minutes of play that the team clicked. But Bach's run was a classic and deserves praise even though he fumbled several times when another touchdown seemed to be within the grasp of the struggling Cats. The entire Sewanee line played a marvelous game. Outweighed, they never quit. Their grit was remarkable.

Scandal Snickerings By CAMERON COFFMAN

Kay Bee, our contemporary, wanted a shot at the very difficult art (call it what you like) of writing the column... it was granted to her... We hope you like it.

We have been asked so many questions concerning the Alphas Gordon Burns situation... To avoid further questioning we have referred all curious persons to Chio Price Fisher... Gordon, old man, it seems that the little girls are very anxious to get something on you.

Alphagam pleb Lil Smith swears she has been waiting four long years for Triangle Bill Wilson's pin... Well, Lil, your prolonged wait has not been in vain... Wilson is scheduled to be initiated in about three weeks.

While we are on the subject of Alphagams we would like to ask Mary Marshall, "What are no-break containers?"

A fast and furious romance has been called to our attention... It is none other than our pals, Kappa Neil Montgomery and Alphas Sam Manley.

The news has leaked out at least... The Kampus Kat, humorous magazine, the legitimate offspring of Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic fraternity, is slated to make its initial SuKy circle.

Wildcats Defeat Sewanee 7 to 0

(Continued from Page One) Bach, Murphy, Wagner, and Cassidy, the Kentucky boys played about the same individually and none could break the hold of the Tigers to start the route that would have resulted in the score that many expected. On the other hand almost all the players on the Sewanee team played their positions to perfection.
