Salt Shaker

"Go, Big Blue!" yelled the crowd when the team boosted the score another six points. "Go, Big Blue!" yelled the crowd when the bottle slipped from eager hands and fell to the pavement. Conversation overheard in the dining room: "I heard that we have lights out just to save electricity." "Where do you put electricity when you save it?" "In a can. Didn't you ever see a battery?" "You're crazy. You ought to be in a dry cell."

While we were munching our fudge cake the other night, we were seized with the desire to see what effect some classical music would have on the other fudge-cake-eaters assembled there. We dropped a jirney in the slot and asked to hear Beethoven's Eighth Symphony. The operator, thinking that his hearing was at fault, handed the phone over to a sister, operator. We repeated our request and were told, midst much laughter, that they didn't possess the recording. So then we asked for anything by Liszt, Kovicich, and when the operator

Sur-Meis-Ing

Perhaps it's the war, but we notice a new expression of greeting in the cafeteria. It's "sur-meis-ing." Have you got a cigarette? "Sur-meis-ing." Have you got a cigarette? "Sur-meis-ing." Have you got a cigarette?

What Goes On There...

By Dora Lee Robertson. A professor at Purdue told a pupil on Monday morning in an unconventional way. In an 11 a. m. psychology class Dr. Lawless, blindfolded, was demonstrating a memory feat. A rugged Navy V-12 picked up his books and tipped out. Must Be So. Roses are red, Violets are blue, Lilies are white-I know, I saw them hanging on the line.

What Goes On There...

By Dora Lee Robertson. The wrong moment. Girls who cry, "stop." Girls who sit in a car with their backs against the door and their knees on the seat. Girls who laugh you off. "I'm not that kinda girl." Girls. Soldier and his Sarge at Fort Greely, Alaska. "Look here, soldier, this man beside you on this fatigue detail is doing twice the work you are."

What Goes On There...

By Dora Lee Robertson. Even With Tobacco Shortage. The coeds at Alabama P. I., having reverted to a Bull Durham nicotine diet, are looking for a remedy for stained fingers. So far they have tried everything from lemon juice to sulphuric acid to no avail. South American Way. Just discovered a sheep that can run 60 miles an hour. It takes that kind of a lamb to keep up with Mary now.

What Goes On There...

By Dora Lee Robertson. Hills of West Virginia. In the dining room of Woman's Hall at West Virginia, "the news news" was, "Is there any milk in the jug?" The optimist says, "Please pass the cream." Alabama's definition of a drunk: He is not drunk from the floor. Can rise again and drink some more. But he is drunk, who prostrate lies. And cannot drink and cannot rise.

Are Frats On The Way Out?

Generally when we think of college life and all that's built around it we consider fraternities with their definite activities almost foremost as a monument of fond memories. We think of the traditions that have been passed on down through the decades since the first social fraternity was installed on the campus in 1893.

Will This Be Permanent?

Ode to Mayhem

By Don Lail. A New Personality. It has never been my policy to stand idly by, or to throw salt but a certain "shaker" needs shaking. It ain't what you shake, it's the way that you shake it. In the Kernel is a column labeled "Ode to Mayhem" which has never been an accomplishment sought after by the amateur writers. As we write like Keats, Wordsworth, or Fischer it would wonder what the question mark is? Being literary has never been an ambition of mine.

UK-Way Back When

October, 1910-1911. One of the first explanations a stranger offers when he sees our campus is, "What a beautiful location." Where can we find a better site? Nowhere can we find a more beautiful growth of our far-famed blue grass, but as we look out upon this wealth of natural beauty, our aesthetic souls cringe within us to see the many ugly scars.

Measuring Up!

By Adele Denman. "Box Cars" is tired of picturing merely love as a gamble, so in this column, I am going to gamble on a few more things—your interest for one. Pick out what you like—hope you like it. Everything in this column is an original idea, and does not necessarily constitute an endorsement of our product. There comes a time in the life of every columnist when he finds himself forced to break down and say a few things that he has felt like saying all year. Editorials have been called the mind and soul of the newspaper. Then, may I ask, "Why in the heck doesn't someone take them to heart?" Last week Miss Edwards sat down and wrote an editorial and in a nice way mentioned that going to convocations was beneficial. You who didn't attend convoc last week have obviously found out that the University is in a pretty big mixup. Well, President Donovan can't, as all you football players know, play a game with a marble, so it's up to us students to pitch him a real ball, by offering him all of the moral support we can. We don't want a bunch of "mothheads" for professors, and the way to keep our own road ones is to win this fight. Write letters, this space will be used to print any of them. How about it kids, let's show them what we can do! 2. Another thing that we are all interested in is—(I speak of myself)—Politics?—Politics? is a right as future citizens to voice our views and to know about them. Let's not go around mumbling incoherent things about Roosevelt's not going to live another four years, or that we don't like Dewey because he has a mustache. Let's get facts, many of us can vote, so let's go to the polls knowing what it is

Reet Pleet

 Tops for Outdoors
Completely glamorous for the key winter ahead, yet very simple, sumptuously plain, is the beauty of the furred tuxedo coat. Perfect for any occasion which requires you to look and feel your best, it comes in the purest, richest shades of blue, black, brown, scarlet, gold, and American Beauty wools, trimmed with handsome furs as minkion, stunk sealine, krummer, lamb, shaved muskrat, and squirrel.
Coming down a notch for the conservative type of gal is a dress-up coat that will bring forth compliments, and maybe courages, is a sleek fitting princess style coat, cut on severely tailored lines in such divine shades as you've never seen. For the larger girl, try a cozy Chesterfield arranged to camouflage your figure in the softest wool and best looking shades.
Not that you're praying for rain, but just in case, a "must" for every school or campus wardrobe is a slim fitting slaty-light coat of popular rayon gabardine to repel showers. You will find it in autumn-gold, tender-blue, cocoa, navy, beige, white, and gay plaids, stripes, and checks for all, or every thunder-storm, gentle shower, or hurricane.
To bring glory to your crown and sights from the males, any one of the new hats, which the beauties of the country are modeling: the fine felt cloche, banded with ribbons; colored half hat with a look-alike bow; off-the-face baret with crisp ribbon belting; two-layer muffin with a saucy little feather; and the British beret with Roman numerals around the crown, are sure to bring you quick results.
 Scenes Around the Campus
At the VMJ game, L.H. Taylor was looking her smoothest in a pale orchid suit, and Jan Sabatini in rain-coat, drinking a coke in the grandstands was Ann Garland Jeffries in a navy checked skirt, crimson red jacket, and white chevron blouse; cheering her lungs out was Fike Sheen wearing a three piece suit of black and white checked wool and petit black cloche hat; Pat Howell dressed smartly in a black tuxedo suit, black shoes, and a tiny off-the-face hat; Isabell TePas was at the Union Dance Saturday night making a drowsy appearance in a black skirt, a dainty white blouse, and black toez' and heelless shoes.
At the Chi O open house Friday night, Mary Margaret Higginson danced in a two-tone blue and beige rabbit-hair wool dress with two boxes on either side of the sweetheart neckline; along the jewelry line, saw Ann Black and her distinctive silver bracelets, and the ever popular silver hair clip. Monie Ormsby looked cute as a big ear in a green cord necklace, surrounded in red with a bunny rabbit's head on the shoulder.

 How to Be a Wallflower in One Easy Lesson
Poor little Sally Beapole is all ready for the big showing of the year, "The Draft Dodgers Dance." Naturally wanting to look her best, Sally decides that in order to be the glamor puss of the evening, she must have that clinging white jersey dress that fits in the window of the Droop Shop downtown. The night of the big dance arrives and skinky Sally with her new white dress arrives at the dance uncorrupted (manpower shortage, you understand). After slinking past the stage line 12 times in a row, with no results, Sally, with spirits still high, but her feet killing her, slides down in the corner. Meanwhile Freddy Flatfoot, Sally's dream man, comes tripping in. Freddie has promised her one dance. Eesek! He spies her! Ye Gads, where is she, is that a yardstick or a pole to hang your hat on? There's Sally by her sweetest smile and her downfall, the white clinging jersey dress, running home in tears, Sally sobs out to her mother the horrible time she has had, saying she can't understand what spoiled her evening.
True, Sally tried to look her prettiest, but a thin girl just doesn't click in a slenderizing dress. Poor Sally, some day she'll learn that a very slim girl should always, always, wear clothes that don't emphasize her thinness. Ruffles, plaits, goreds, and gathers are the only things to fill out curves that aren't there.
 Club Elects New Officers
The Business Education club has elected the following officers: Election Bach, Jackson, was re-elected president; Sarah Goodwin, vice-president; Irene Bridgeman, Wheelwright, secretary-treasurer.
Membership in the club is open to all students who are interested in teaching commerce. Prof. A. J. Lawrence, head of the Department of Business Education, is sponsor of the organization.

Woman's Club Holds Meeting

The Woman's Club of the University held its first meeting of the year at 3 p.m. Tuesday in the Music room of the Union Building.
Betty Harris Russell, vocalist, and Helen Lipscomb, pianist, presented a musical program. Miss Lawrence L. Quill, chairman of the Bridges and Newcomers group, was in charge of the program.
Immediately following the musical program, an informal tea, arranged by Mrs. A. J. Lawrence, social chairman, was given in honor of the newcomers to the University. Mrs. Amy Vandebosch, first vice-president, and Mrs. M. M. White, second vice-president, presided at the tea table.
The complete program for the year, arranged by Miss Margaret McLaughlin, program chairman, is as follows:

He Conducts "Worship for All"

Rendering practical aid to listeners who grapple with the cares of life!

C. E. BURNS . . . WHAS' newly ordained Religious Co-ordinator, is a seasoned, kindly man of the cloth, now offering an entirely new type of airfare to listeners. Selected from numerous candidates after a country-combing search Burns has been entrusted with an important mission.

WHAS is the first station ever to offer a sustaining broadcast service . . . ending religion with a full-time place on its staff.

"Worship for All" is what the name implies, a message with broad appeal to all ages, all creeds, church and unchurched alike . . . applying the principles of religion to major problems of the day. Heard Monday through Friday, 1:45-2:00 P.M., the service opens with a theme song especially written for it, has a brief prayer, three well known hymns and the eight-minute sermon.

Holder of degrees from Hiram College (Ohio) and the University of Chicago in religion and social sciences, Burns took a pastorate for four years, then turned to child welfare foundation work. Prior to joining WHAS he served Milligan College, Tennessee, as college pastor, dean, professor and finally president. Tempered by life, Burns has seven grown, married children with whom he recently celebrated the arrival of his 17th grandchild. "Worship for All" has been on the air only since September 1st, yet many listeners have written us their appreciation of this much needed service.

Dedicating the power of 50,000 watts to the greatest message of all time!

Wildcats Trim VMI 26-2 Before 8,000 Spectators

Single Wing Used For First Time

By Dick Lowe

The Kentucky Wildcats, using the single wing formation for the first time this season on Still Field, defeated the VMI Cadets 26-2. Approximately 8,000 people witnessed Saturday's contest, including hundreds of guests of high school days. The victorious Wildcats were heroes to the future football generation who mobbed their favorite players for autographs after the game.

Score Every Quarter

The Wildcats scored in every quarter as their more powerful line opened wide gaps and ran stiff interference for the scoring of Klein and Campbell. The Cadets fought gallantly but their scoring efforts were constantly stopped by the Wildcats' stubborn defense. Wash Sertel again played his ever-brilliant game at tackle throwing the VMI backfield for several losses and stopping them at the line of scrimmage for no gain.

The backfield combination of Parrott, Saunders, Klein, and Campbell proved too powerful for the visitors to hold in check. The whole Kentucky team had great respect for the play of Kozorra as the 168-pound triple-threat back played the entire 60 minutes, completing nine of 24 passes and handing the ball on nearly every play.

Quick Punts

Norman Klein showed his ability at punting by quick-kicking Kentucky out of danger several times. His longest punt was for 64 yards when he kicked from his own 34 and the ball rolled dead on the one-yard line.

The first 12 minutes of the game was a methodical run and punt contest with the game being played mostly in midfield until Sertel intercepted one of Kozorra's many passes on the 36-yard line and returned it to the visitors' 20. The Kentucky broke loose when on the second play Campbell ripped through the line, sidestepped the remaining would-be tacklers and went over the goal for the first score of the game. Ferris' kick from placement split the uprights and Kentucky led 7-0. The Cadets tried hard to get back in the game but it was the second quarter before they registered their first down.

Fake Reverse

Kentucky's drive down the field for the second touchdown began after Kozorra's punt went out of bounds on the Kentucky 21. Using several fake-reverse plays Klein and Parrott teamed together to place the ball on the VMI 22-yard line, from which Dutch Campbell passed to Norman Klein for six more points. Ferris' kick from placement was again good.

Kentucky struck fast and furiously to start the second half when with only one minute of play gone, Ken Campbell rased around right and outdistancing the opposition for 57 yards and the Wildcats' third touchdown. Midway in the same quarter the Cadets gained their only points of the game after putting four first downs and a 15-yard holding penalty against Kentucky together backing the Wildcats to their one-yard line and on a bad pass from center they grabbed Klein behind his own goal for an automatic safety.

Intercepts Pass

Kozorra used his passing skill in an attempt to put VMI back in the game but on one of these plays Klein crossed up the strategy intercepting a pass on the Cadet 42 and racing to the 26 before he was brought down. Then on a fake reverse Parrott handed the ball to Klein who slashed his way wide around left end and sprinted across the goal for his second touchdown of the game and Kentucky led 26-2. He demonstrated his prowess in deceptive running as his change of pace pulled the would-be tacklers out of position and not one of them was able to bring him down.

Although VMI led in first downs, 15 to 7, Kentucky gained the most ground, totaling 204 yards to 190 for the Cadets. However, the Cadets passed 25 times, connecting 9 times for 196 yards, as the Wildcats completed 17 passes out of nine tries for 55 yards.

Memos Of A Chorus Girl, Or Why Did I Do It!?

By John Violette

A chorus line of barefooted boys, armed with white-tiled and bull-in-bushes, invaded Mae West's monopoly of the "Twist" market last Saturday night in the Bluegrass room. A visiting art student is to blame for the makeup but those well-rounded curves were elevated under the direct supervision of Dr. and Mrs. W. S. W. English professors seem to be turning from Chaucer to Esquire.

For three days the troupe invaded Guilford and every other source of costumes and still, on the night of the show, were forced to fit themselves with Scotch tape and bits of string. They had planned to have wings but all efforts to secure them were in vain.

Some courageous male ventured inside the dressing room and three fake "fifteen" were trampled in the rush. He was smoking a Camel. Fifteen minutes before curtain call the boys were herded backstage. They had only been allowed two practice sessions for the contest. The show was dubious. They donned their gowns to the rhythm of knocking knees. Some few of the men were well versed in slipping into dresses but the remaining majority sludged bewildered until Dr. Ward came to the rescue.

Then the curtain call came. Of course there was no curtain, but with an air of bravado Tony Vila and Roman Sales snatched through the dressing room door into full view of the audience. They danced their charms so vigorously that night, it has been said, that their physical education instructor has excused them from class for three weeks. All

Long Distance Calls Aren't Always So Very Much Fun

By Mary Louise Patton

This seems to be quite the season for long distance telephone calls with so many of our rory-checked cheeks receiving an excited "Hello." From all appearances not all these calls are successful in communicating just what is said and all too often the operator is thoroughly cussed out (to put it mildly) and both parties are left most unhappy and befuddled as to what is going on.

In the first place you're probably in a vile mood and have decided that Mr. Morgan and his psychology book will be your steady date for the rest of the quarter, but after an hour with him you throw Mr. Morgan back into his corner and decide to wash your curly locks. Just as you have completely drowed your head some friendly soul rushes into the room shouting,

"Hurry up! San Francisco's calling you!"

So with your head in a towel and soap in your eyes you drip up to the phone and say an excited "Hello." After hearing innumerable nickels drop into the phone with a rattling clink a familiar voice says "Hello. This is Joe!"

"Oh, Joe, how wonderful!" you exclaim madly wondering WHICH Joe. You explain your troubles and she gets your party back—so SHE says "Why haven't you written me?"

"Oh, er, I was going to."

"What?"

"Oh, I was."

"Was what?"

"GOING TO WRITE." You're shouting by now.

"Oh—click, click" says the receiver. Then the whine of the operator says, "Number please." You explain your troubles and she gets your party back—so SHE says "Hello Colonel, this is General Dingham in Washington," a new voice says.

"Yes, Joe."

"What? Colonel did you receive the new Zenithanna code today?"

"What? What? You're completely bewildered by now.

The voice shouts, "Colonel,—Is this Pt. Knox?"

In a meek voice you manage to say, "No sir, this is the University of Kentucky."

"What???? CENSORED—Operator!" At this the phone goes into spasms and the operator cuts in, "So sorry, sir! I'll have your connection in a minute."

And through some miracle you're again talking to Joe, who shouts, "Hey, where'd you go?"

"Nowhere, we got cut off."

"What? Can't hear. Don't whisper."

Men Join YM

All upperclassmen are invited to join the YMCA. A representative will be in the Post Office lobby from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. Friday, November 3, to enlist all men who wish to join.

"JOE, have you been drinking?"

"You know I never unnamghub glub hic."

"JOE, you have too!"

"NO, it's the connection. I glub glub hic." Then the whine again— "Time's up, please."

"Joe, goodbye."
