Recommended Minimum Safety Requirements for 1953

Attached is a copy of the recommended Minimum Safety Requirements for 1953 which were approved by the Central Safety Committee at its meet- last December 29. They are substantially the same as those for last year, the only exception being that more emphasis has been given to the matter of contact with outside contractors employed to perform work of any kind at our properties.

By complying with these requirements, as well as all other safety rules and regulations, a firm and sound step will be taken in the field of accident prevention.
