HERE SHALL THE KERNEL ALL STUDENT RIGHTS MAINTAIN

RHYTHM IS OUR BUSINESS

In eight days an empire might fall, the Supreme Court might be packed and unpacked or vice versa, a weapon such as the sit downs might be evolved to sweep every labor area in the nation, every building on the campus could be burned or razed, or some of the older ones might collapse, the University might receive an appropriation of $4,800,000, a couple could easily fall in love, and the season being what it is, might marry.

If you care to look back over the eight-day period which ended Saturday at midnight, you will be somewhat surprised to note that six dances of the major type were sponsored by six different campus groups.

Anyway you look at it, six dances in eight days is a pretty well-filled social program for college students. The University might begin an advertising campaign to compete with Palm Beach for this year's crop of debutantes, or to draw some of the movie actors from Palm Springs.

THEM'S FINE WORDS, GOVERNOR

Acting-Gov. Keen Johnson, himself a newspaperman, told delegates to the Kentucky Intercollegiate Press association convention in Danville Friday in effect that new ideas, new political, economic or social theories, no matter how outlandish, strange, or - to use that greatest of all misappellations - radical, should be studied carefully, tolerantly, and intelligently, not superficially examined, then to be cast aside labelled "slush."

These words, particularly because they come from the second highest executive in the state, are hart-warming. They speak well for the future of the Commonwealth, too.

EVALUATING THE HONORARIES

On a campus which possesses so many honorary organizations that three-fourths of them are unknown to the average student, we hear the criticism that many of them are losing sight of their purposes, that they are accomplishing nothing useful, and are existing only to give individuals an opportunity to wear a pin or possess a key. Most of the members of such honoraries never know the purpose of their organization, have no knowledge of what the large national taxes are used for, and feel by the time of graduation, that membership was a useless waste of money.

There are, on the other hand, honoraries which are filling a definite need on the campus, which are giving to their members a sense of cooperation and a chance to do useful work with congenial students, and whose absence would deprive the University of very necessary groups.

Tonight in Patterson hall, all students are being given the opportunity, at the forum sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A., to openly discuss the entire question of honoraries, to evaluate the organizations on the campus, and to hear what other students think about the same question. The forum will conclude the series, based on the "Students' Bill of Rights," which has been held weekly on problems of student government, student religion, and student freedom of opinion.

The discussion tonight will, if the students speak frankly and objectively, in all probability be an eye-opener for freshmen, a stimulant to sophomores, and a chance for juniors and seniors to "get plenty off their chests."

CUTTING UP THE CAMPUS with THEO NADELSTEIN

SPEAKING IN SUPERLATIVES:

The most disagreeable surprise is slipping on a banana peel... the most frequent surprise is a "pop" quiz... the most delightful surprise is a sudden kiss... the most irritating surprise is a slap on the back... the most amusing surprise is an elaborate Christmas greeting received on St. Patrick's Day... the most embarrassing surprise is walking in on two love-bug bitten romancers... and the most unsurprising surprise is, "This is so sudden!"

DON'T LOOK NOW, BUT - the hand you're holding so romantically under the Library table doesn't belong to me!

THEORIES:

The worst incident of STUDENT HONORARIES is the fact that they are most severely criticized by the members, themselves!

Which is an indication of a need for investigation of some kind - or sumpin'!

CAMPUSOUNDS WE COULD DO WITHOUT:

- 1. "I made an A - what did you make?"
2. "Aw, stop worrying. They won't campus you. You're only ten minutes late."
3. "What Student Union Building?"
4. "Of course it's true, but I wouldn't discuss it if I were you."
5. "I go right ahead, you too. Don't mind me!"

UNIVERSITY TYPES:

The Campus Bromide - She revels in phrases like, "But where is your school spirit?" and "I don't think people ought to criticize!" every-time a thoughtful student questions a University custom... She's a mixture between a campus-herd, following the herd, and a campusap, spouting conventional generalities that mean nothing... In arguments she puts a stop to all discussion by the bromidic phrase, "You may be right, but I prefer not to think so..." She's more frightened of a new idea that may shake her prejudices than she is of an earthquake...

Seemingly So... by ODIS LEE HARRIS

Thursday, April 22, the students of the University of Kentucky will participate in a national peace strike demonstration. The supporters of this strike have never experienced war. It is their desire not to experience it. Before their minds is the pitiful picture of Europe as a result of the World War.

"Devastated Belgium presents a joyless landscape. Cemeteries and monuments preserve the geometry of artillery bombardments, observation posts, and gas-infested zones."

"The sorrowful fields of Flanders remember the war. From the hilltop one sees the hills and valleys where hundreds of thousands of men learned the greatness of oblivion. The tremendous struggle that was unfolded over Flanders' field carried whole towns away, and the naked upturned soil, unadorned by a single house or tree now surrendered itself to the peace-time occupations of man."

"The land that begins at the French frontier is 20 years old. Not a single house or tree has been in existence for more than 20 years, not a single forest or grove."

"Meager trees tremble in the wind that blows from the North Sea, timidly marking the roads they skirt, and the peasant huts receive almost no shade from their foliage."

"Only the cemeteries are monumental. The white English cemeteries, with their upright slabs, the gloomy German cemeteries with rows of black crosses, hundreds of thousands of graves laid out in battle array - columns of those who fell, legions of those who perished, divisions of those who suffered gas poisoning."

"Green crosses more numerous than road signs indicate the direction of the cemeteries. Beautiful monuments and statues of sorrowful women with their hands crossed on their breasts, arches and slabs with names engraved upon them crown their triumphant oblivion."

"To this day craters made by artillery shells are filled with dark water. For man has not yet redeemed all the land."

"Every year when the peasants start their plowing they find thousands of artillery cartridges, which they pile up in rusty pyramids in front of their houses. For 20 years the earth has been bringing forth this yearly harvest. It seems to have no end." - Vladimir Lidin in Izvestia Moscow.

Five students at the University of Michigan, one of whom was a reporter for The Daily, were arrested for participating in a strike. The reporter, whose bail was paid by the paper, had a by-line story on page 1 about details of the event.

This Campus and That World by RALPH E. JOHNSON

KENTUCKY IS ANXIOUS to go 'big time' in a dancing way, but there are many things that are going to have to be ironed out before this Blue Grass institution can hope to have dances as impressive as those held by bigger and wealthier schools.

The junior prom should have served as an eye-opener to those interested parties. When asked what sort of a time he had at the dance, one of our senior journalists replied: "Oh, I had a good time all right. I made a short gain on every play, made my share of the tackles, and did as much blocking as anyone else."

Which was in no mean sense, essentially how the battle raged. The single file line into the gym stretched intermittently to Limestone as the tenth of a dollar tax was exacted of all who entered, and "all who entered" must have amounted to at least 3,000. If your mother and father were not there they were the only ones. What a mob! And they came from miles around to crowd the junior prom past-dancibility.

Limiting of Bids Just how many bids were faked, no one will ever know. It would be well in the future to limit the bids to the danceable capacity of the gym and stamp the bids in such a way as to make them difficult to imitate as the soldiers did for their civil war this year. We don't want that 10,000 seat field house yet.

It has been rumored that both the President and the Board are not in favor of giving expensive dances. They fear the worse, know we don't have the money, and to those older and sinner heads, the whole brawl looks silly.

Imagine of paying hundreds of dollars for a "name band" to play for three hours and then taking up the maestro's time signing programs. In the case of Little Jack Little, his band is good only because of his own individual way of playing the piano and singing, yet you and you didn't give him time to sing more than half a dozen times many a time.

Hill bills and yokels - never saw a dance band leader before. Your eyes popped out of your head. Clamoring over the all-too-frash band stand, tempting it to crash in your mad desire to see Mr. Little close-up.

Hop, Skip and Jump Southerners have often been accused of not liking to dance. They are blamed mostly by the prejudiced sn students who are used to explaining the Trask croonette, the problems of leading a dance band. He talked for hours. Bob Tabeing, Manny Schofman, Bob Mills and Frank Ellis were as gay as any as comprehensive in the Centre conservatory as they are back home. Younger Alexander and Johnny Crouch found the maids as agreeable and datable as our own coeds.

There were other UKysters present, but we could not learn their names. So there is another problem. We have refugees from the state University.

The Kernel delegates want to extend thanks to those Centre newspapermen who admirably tolerated us and who made the visit a happy memory. We won't forget the hospitality of "Handshaking" Hanratty, Gilbert Van Sant, Harry Winston, and James Jesse.

Kappa Kappa Gamma tossed their shuffle in the cloisters of the Phoenix. The gals, considering that it was daylight, were eye feasts. The pupa room downstairs. The Centre of all who were fugitives from the dance floor. The shuffle upstairs is a paradise for punishment.

You all know the AyTeOhs had a great dance. Alpha Tau Omega put on their show Saturday night. The crowd was the size that is ideal to dance among. Regis Childs spouted with top-notch interpretations. Any band that can play flutes in a slow tune and then move a fast one with five brass is indeed wonderful. Outstanding at this fandango was the considerable number of Avery Brundages. We wonder what Avery would do to a few of the students here who deviate from America's mores. Perhaps to him a local dance would be a paradise for punishment.

A Complaint: "Dear Mr. Kerler: After all the trouble of getting up a dance, the only comment on the Independent Formal by you in your column was on a sorority girl. At least you could have mentioned the Independents for once. Look us up sometime, we do get around, whether you will admit it or not. Four Disgruntled Independent Girls."

ROBERT H. HAYS President JOHN G. CHAMER Manager

Ah, how crude and ungentlemanly I am! Voluntarily, I will go to one dance a week. When the number exceeds one, I act under the whip of obligation. The Triangle whirl was my dish that week-end. However, I'm not questioning the fact that I was neglectful. An apology can not solve a wound so deep as being snubbed in the "scandal" column. Anyway, it's comforting to know that people like to be mentioned in here. Something I hadn't realized before. Also it's consoling to know that you get around.

I have a post office box. The power of politics was in evidence during the Campus Ewerd election. Forty-four ballots were thrown out because they came in wads. Some thieving politicians sneaked into The Kernel press room Thursday night and stole proof sheets of pages one and four, nothing at the time being printed on pages two and three. They tore the ballots out of page four and used them. Leiguable stupidity.

Also, the power was exemplified by the backing that Marjorie Doyle received. In a vote bout, minus politics, she would have been a dark horse. With the I. C. giants behind her, she ran Irene Spinks a close race.

Betty Murphy was the show number. Had she been backed, she might have won. These voters, who bolted, but on Murphy. When men bolt, it shows that emotion is stronger than orders. At the ballot tube, many men were emotional.

Next Saturday comes the Ohio rodeo in the Alumni swingbox, with Ace Brigade at the baton. Friday afternoon the Chios are staging open house for 30 rushers. Gents who were successful with freshmen last September, but who now have been turned aside, can pour their syrup lines on these potential freshets.

The Alphas are not starting a zoo in their back yard. That six foot alligator in the pit was sent to

SKIPPER Holbert by his brother down in South Carolina. Let's go over, girls, and see it. (unpaid adv.)

Bob Hess, in the robes of success, will arrive in town Saturday. On the following Monday, he will interview "spring graduates who are interested in getting in the 1937 Group Dept. of a life insurance company at a fine salary. -Gee, it seems funny, after one year to be on the other side of the fence."

Hess' career has been meteoric. Just one year ago he didn't know what to do with himself. Now he's giving jobs away.

RECORD HEN PASSES AT AGE OF 7 YEARS

By MARTHA MOORE

Weep for L-168! She died at the age of eight years Friday at the University poultry farm, where she had been in solitary for the past three weeks.

And oh, how L-168 will be missed - for she was the third highest producing hen on record. During her long life she laid 1,688 eggs, and the highest on record is only 1,616.

For seven years of her life she averaged laying 216 eggs per year, but she had only laid two eggs this season. The skeleton of this hen will be preserved and measurements taken of the various bones for statistical purposes. The post mortem examination also revealed enough embryonic eggs in this hen to produce as many eggs again as she had already laid.

And although this famous white Leghorn has passed, her memory will be preserved in the form of her skeleton, which will be kept at the University poultry farm for years to come.

Seeing Sport Stuff

By TOM WATKINS
Kernel Sports Editor

SERIOUSLY HAMPERED by the absence of key men, the Wildcat basketball squad has undergone over a week of intensive practice for the annual spring drills. Walter Hodge, Fred Curtis, Joe Hogan, and Bob Davis, all members of the varsity squad and lettermen of the past season, are at present lending their talents to the spring football drills. Lawrence Spears and Sam Duncan, freshman pivot men, are also attending gridiron sessions. In spite of this impediment to the effectiveness of practice, several stirring scrimmages have been staged by Coach Adolph Rupp's proteges. Capt. Rlee Walker announced. Bob Mefford, sterling freshman guard, has also been among the absentees, and it is likely that he will not report for the squad next year. However, his place will be amply filled by several other freshman applicants for guard positions, notably Gilbert Jennings and Bernard Harris. At the close of football practice, the gridiron patriots will be available to Coach Rupp, but, as basketball practice will last not more than one week longer than football drills the former suffers a tremendous handicap.

The defeat suffered Friday at the hands of Tennessee by the golf team was a disheartening beginning for the Wildcat maulie welders, but this ache will no doubt disappear in later matches. Capt. Bobby Thaxton, Jack Mohney, Bain Smith, and the remainder of the squad need to have more experience as a unit before they equal the feats of some of departed golf heroes of late years. Captain Thaxton is the sole letterman of the present squad, all the rest having good reputations as golfers, but not as members of a team.

A Kentucky graduate helped snatch the headlines last week when Arline Judge, divorced wife of Wesley Ruggles, famous motion picture director, and a star in her own right, embarked upon the rolling seas of matrimony with Dan Topping, Broadway playboy. John Simms "Shpwreck" Kelly, Kentucky's star halfback of a few years ago, was the best man at the wedding, which came as a surprise to all but a few intimate friends. Kelly, although never an All-American, was one of Kentucky's most famous gridiron heroes, and is part owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers' professional football team, in which Topping is his partner.

KERCHEVAL SPEAKS TO OPTIMIST CLUB

Ralph Kercheval, former University star football player and now a member of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was the guest speaker of the Optimist club luncheon meeting Friday at the Lafayette hotel.

Kercheval, the only professional who has kicked a football 91 yards in the air, was interviewed by Neville Dunn and introduced by Edward Meyer, program chairman.
