SCANDAL

Watch Out That Your Name Is Not
In It! Now Is Your Chance To Get Even.

Rejoice ye young ladies, and make merry ye young men, for the next issue of The Idea is going to be the "Scandal Issue." Oh, it is going to be the most glorious, newsy, and most interesting, gossipy sheet you ever saw! And there are going to be pictures in it, too! Nice little photographs that you did not see taken—but just wait till you see them! Oh, but won't you squirm when you read that line or two about yourself? But there, the other nine hundred and ninety-nine lines that you read and laugh over, that hit the others, will more than make up for that guilty blush or sheepish grin that the lines about you caused.

And we want you to help us get out this edition. That will be half of the fun—to know that you had a finger in the pie. This is to be a very mysterious and secretive edition, for no one is to know who hit him—a sort of ambuscade, you know.

The Idea does not print articles that are not signed, but as said before, this is an exception. Do you know where The Idea box is? It is in the main entrance of the Main Building, to your left as you go in. Only the Editor of the Idea has a key to that box.

Now listen! Go around and hunt up all the scandal you can find, or that you know of, about your friends, be a regular detective for a day or two, and chase up some little happenings in the College life of your friends, which they think are forgotten or unknown to you. Don't send in anything that would hurt anybody's character. That would not be according to Hoyle—too much like a stab in the back.

When you gather all your material together, write it down. You don't have to sign your name, and you can disguise your handwriting, and place it in the Idea box before 4:30 p. m. of next Tuesday; that is April 12th.

We give you our word of honor that if the scandal you send in seems that it won't bring the faculty to more than mildly protest, or that it won't cause a wrathful student, with vengeance in each hand and blood in his eyes, to go on the warpath that would lead to our humble office, the above mentioned spicy bit of scandal shall appear in the next issue of the Idea of April the 14th.

It will do you good to watch the people—we won't say students; can you guess why?—read the Idea next Thursday. It is going to be worth while coming to chapel on that day.

My! Won't it be grand? A mad revel in scandal!

WHAT TO EXPECT AT COLLEGE

The date of the appearance of "What To Expect at College," has been changed from the first of April to the first of May. It was found that the production could not be prepared for the stage by April 1st, and so the change was made. About forty of the most popular students at State will be given parts in the play, although only the most important ones have been given out so far. The largest portion of the cast remains to be chosen.

The play, as stated before, was written by a student at State, and the production is to be entirely a student affair, the most important scenes being laid at the University of Ky.

A YEAR IN COLLEGE.

$250 cash or a year in College can be easily earned by one young man or one young lady in each county in the United States. Plan easy and does not interfere with other employment. State name of institution you wish to attend. No money required. For particulars, address M. H. Pemberton, Columbia, Mo.

A scholarship amounting to $1,000 will be given to the most popular man at Columbia.

PAYNE DEFEATS HUBBARD

DELIVERS AN ORATION AFTER CICERO'S OWN HEART.

Will Represent the University in the Intercollegiate Contest.

By the unanimous decision of the three judges, John Howard Payne, Freshman classical student, and representative of the Union Literary Society, won for himself and his society the honor of representing the University of Kentucky in the Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest of this year, yesterday morning by defeating Alpha Hubbard, representative of the Patterson Literary Society.

The contest between these two speakers, representing the young men's literary societies of the Universities, was held in the University Chapel at 10 o'clock, and was one of the hottest oratorical battles ever heard at the University. The entire student body was assembled to hear the orations, and at the conclusion of the last speaker, opinions were much divided as to who was the victor.

Mr. Hubbard, representing the Patterson Society, flushed with his recent victory in the annual contest of his society, made a strong talk upon the "Race Problem," but his opponent, gifted with rarer oratorical powers, and possessing a voice unequalled in the University, delivered his oration with much more ease and grace, and presented his thought in a clearer and more connected form.

Mr. Payne's subject was "The Impending Peril." In this he dealt with the Trust and Liquor questions, and showed how it is necessary for restrictions to be placed upon these if the integrity of the nation is to be preserved. Mr. Payne is from Cold Springs, Ky., and is one of the most popular students at the University.

The speakers were ushered to their seats on the rostrum by the Presidents of the Young Ladies' societies, Misses Sarah Marshall and Katherine Schoene. Miss Sarah Marshall presided over the contest.

The judges were Professor A. N. Gordon, the Hon. James G. Dennig, and the Hon. John Sledd.

The Annual Intercollegiate Contest will be held in the University Chapel on April 22, and will be participated in by representatives of Transylvania and Central Universities, Georgetown College, and Kentucky Wesleyan, and Mr. Payne, who will represent the University of Kentucky.

MECHANICAL HALL.

There is nothing of unusual interest going on at the Mechanical Hall just at present. Every one seems to feel like they are making the last turn before the home stretch of the present school year. The Seniors are, in fact, (most of them at least) nearing the home stretch of their College days. They are all hard at work on their theses.

The Juniors are being pressed rather hard just at present. The trouble is being caused by a variety of things, such as steam lab, electrical lab, machine design, electrical design, roof truss design, mechanics of engineering, telephony, metallurgy, etc., etc.

The work of the Freshmen and Sophomores is about the same as it has been since Christmas. There Mathematics and Physics is all the Sophomores care for. Of course, the Freshmen are not being worked very hard. Such a thing would not do, because they might feel hurt and not return next year.

ONE WILLIN'.

Dear Sir: Having seen your adv. in Idea (Wanted: A Wife) I hereby apply for the position. I am 4 feet, 3; weigh 150 lbs.; am sorry to say I am no peroxide blonde, but a brunette; no children (as yet); can cook beans and could soon learn to hoe in the garden, if necessary. I'm very talented in music; can play from Beethoven's "Sonata" down to "I've Got Rings on My Fingers and Bells on My Toes." I never snore, but sometimes talk in my sleep after attending a State dance or a Hagerman reception. Born 1891. Schlitz is pretty keen, but Wiedemann is better.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.

Back on the job again. It feels like old times to have the familiar blue pencil behind one's ear, to run one's fingers through one's hair, while one tries to think up something new to please the dainty but all compelling taste of the patrons of the Idea.

It will be very hard to maintain the high standard that Mr. Clugston has set in the disence of the editor, for he has shown himself to be the thoroughly up-to-date and efficient newspaper man that he is. Although we will have to work harder than before to keep up to the standard he has set, nevertheless we thank Clugston for the time and hard work he has given to the Idea, and through it to the University.

Come Take a Walk With Me.

Come, friend of mine, look up from the dusty gravel we are on; clear your mind of the dry and musty Latin lesson you are thinking of. The youthful summer laughingly calls to us. Come, dear heart, a few rapturous moments, hand in hand with this beautiful youth will cause us to forget, for the time, the weary and narrow classroom.

Why the charm has even now, cast a spell over us. How pleasant it is to walk on the soft turf and the velvety blue grass. Was there ever a Persian or Turkish paper rug that was as beautiful in design or color as this natural carpet we stand?

That bed of "Spring beauties" told us before the weatherman knew it that spring had come. Do you know that the faces of the little flowers are perfectly white, but they are such shy little things that the very second you look at them, they blush so becomingly that one who does not know, thinks that it is their natural color. Look at that "Judas" tree yonder. You know that it is sad that its fair blossoms are stained with the blood of Judas who hung himself on one of the trees in the days when its flowers were white. I don't believe that story, for if a man should want to hang himself and should come to a pretty tree like that to do it, he would forget all about the object of his visit to the tree and go to picking blossoms instead.

That Robin is a jolly good fellow. My seat is by the window in that class-room over there and Robin perches on that limb and sings for me every morning. He thinks he is doing me a favor, but it is awfully hard to pay attention while he is twittering his one or two notes.

Just look at the violets. Let's wear one for the sake of old Yale. There are two white violets hiding among the leaves—one for you and one for me. Now we can wear both Yale's and Kentucky's colors—violets for Yale, blue and white for State.

Is that the bugle, and is chapel over so soon?

This is what that bugle says when it blows at the end of chapel:

Stop your talking, stop your walking. Don't you know that chapel's through? I don't care what all you do. Say you preacher, time is up! Cut the prayer in two!

A LETTER OF PROTEST.

In the annual report of the Kentucky State University Alumni Association. Professor Wilson wrote an article, entitled "The Year in Athletics," in which he makes this, among other drastic comments:

"There are so many reasons underlying our monumental failure in baseball that a detailed discussion of them here would take too much time and space. Conceit, neglect of training, and disobedience, were the chief elements entering into our failure, for which the members of the team were to blame.  Under all the circumstances, we had no right to expect to accomplish much, and we certainly did accomplish very little.  Standing out in sharp contrast with the miserable failure of the baseball season, is the excellent record in track athletics."

Last year's team fully realize that they did not do as well as we should have done, but it was quite stunning to see a member of the Faculty Committee take the stand of newsboy to the public about it, a year after it all occurred. We accepted the "knocks" of the student body as a matter of fact, but when the Faculty Committee comes to that lack of appreciation of efforts made, when they themselves are giving us less advantages than those offered any other team in the K. I. A. A., that they lay all the blame for losing the State Championship upon the shoulders of the team, we are amazed at their brazen audacity, and make no excuses for telling them so.

If the Athletic Committee of State University, who receive more money directly from the student body than probably all the other schools in the Association combined and, from the view-point of an outsider at least, was or should have been far more able to furnish us an efficient coach last year than any one of them all who did furnish their teams with a coach, no doubt the result of last year's season would not have been such a "monumental failure."

A proof of their desire for last year, and certainly of their desire to redeem themselves from last year's reputation, is evinced by the fact that every member of last year's team is out trying hard for their respective places on the team.

We thank you heartily, Prof. Wilson, for your kindness in giving us undue notoriety as great athletes, and anything we can do for you to assist you to climb the wall of fame we will certainly be glad to assist you, but this we promise, that if we can't say something good, we will keep our mouths shut.

(Signed:) SOME OF LAST YEAR'S BASEBALL TEAM.

How shall I break the news to my parents that I have failed in my exams? "Merely telegraph them, 'examinations over. Nothing new.'"

Her Husband—Did you make those biscuits, my dear?

His Wife—Yes, darling.

Her Husband—Well, I'd rather you would not make any more, swe'heart.

His Wife—Why not, love?

Her Husband—Because, an' I mine, you are too light for such heavy work.

Miss Frances Taft, Secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement was the guest of Miss Anne Simrall, at Patterson Hall from Friday until Monday.

Miss Sallie Bennett left Tuesday for Seattle, Washington, to spend the summer with relatives.

Miss Alma Faulconer has re-entered school after an absence of several weeks, caused by severe illness.

Miss Anna Hearne, of Richmond, visited her sister Miss Hannah Jane Hearn from Friday until Sunday.

Miss Florence Crowder spent the week-end at her home in Lawrenceburg.

Miss Mary Rhodes has gone to Oregon for a visit to her sister, Miss Arnold.

Miss Margaret Nolan was the guest of her sister at Patterson Hall last week.

The Alpha Tau Omega dance has been announced for April 29.

Miss Marian Johnson spent Sunday at her home in Lawrenceburg.

Sunday's Herald gave the following: Messers George Becker, Walter Fox and Early Ewan have returned from Mt. Sterling where they were, Hair goods—best quality at a fair price, guests of Miss Fogg's house party.

Miss Mattie Cary will sail for England June 10. She will spend the summer there with friends.

The Senior class will observe Friday as Arbor Day. All class work in the University will be suspended after second hour, and the following program will be rendered:

President's Address... R. C. Edwards
Class Prophecy... Lida Jines
Planting of Tree... Class of 1910
Senior Oration... Morgan F. Jones
Junior Reply... A. C. Baird

Mrs. Alfred Zembrod entertained with a delightful tea, Saturday afternoon, at her home on West Fourth St. The tea was given for Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Xi Delta and Kappa Kappa Gamma.

The house was beautifully and artistically decorated in fruit blossoms. Mrs. Zembrod received the guests and was assisted in entertaining by Misses Clara Belle Walton and Elizabeth Clenault. Delightful refreshments of substantial were served. Mrs. Pryor presided at the coffee urn and Mrs. Farqua poured tea. Those present were, Misses Marietta Cassady, Innis Gillis, Addie Dean, Anna Wallis, Dolly Battaille, Lida Jones, Nell Wallis, Anna Hawkins, Katherine and Mary Belle Pence, Aubyn Chinn, Annie Dean, Mary Barrett Smith, Sara Carter, Marian Taylor, Nannie Taylor, Mary and Sunshine Sweeney.

The geology and Botany classes enjoyed a delightful picnic to Natural Bridge last Saturday. The day was ideal; The arbutus was in full bloom and the bridge as stately and majestic as ever. In class, Monday, when Professor Miller asked Mr. Baird to tell about the trip he replied that he fell completely in love with the place. Wonder if it was the place? When B— was asked, how she liked the bridge—she replied, that she thought "Old Lady" was the nicest boy she ever met. Miss De Jarnett is strong for Natural Bridge.

Miss Helen Lowry entertained with a lawn-fete Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. A flowering Judus tree, a stately Elm and Jessie Van Meter were the honored few.

Beautiful Fraternity Dance.
The Lambda Lambda chapter of the Sigma Chi fraternity was host Friday evening of a beautiful program dance at Merrick Lodge, given to several hundred from Lexington and a distance. The affair is given annually and is among the most charming and brilliant features of the season. The beautiful hall was a bower of green and elaborate decorations in the fraternity colors, old gold and blue, pennants, insignias and signs, which completed a most picturesque setting for the dance. The chandeliers and throne chair were festooned with smilax, and the lights shaded in blue and yellow. The walls were covered with fraternity pennants and banners, with the fraternity pin, the cross, in electric lights at each end of the hall. Smittle's band from Cincinnati furnished the music and the program was of exceptional beauty, the musicians being screened from view by the beautiful pyramid of palms and ferns before the orchestra rail.

In the parlors there were also pretty plant decorations, and in here fruit frappe was served throughout the evening and at midnight an elegant supper was served by Hughes & Co. There were long tables attractively decorated in the banquet hall, and the menu consisted of chicken salad, sweetbread patties, croquettes, potato chips, hot rolls, cocoa, mints and almonds.

The hosts for the charming occasion

BASKET BALL FINANCES.

The Basket Ball season this year was one of the worst the University has had. Last year's team was broken up at the beginning of the season and most of the games, especially the Northern trips, were played by second and third team men.

On the other hand, the Co-ed team did exceptionally well, and can easily claim the Championship of the State.

The financial statement of the 1909-10 season is as follows:

An Irishman was sitting in a depot smoking when a woman came, and, sitting down beside him, remarked: "Sir, if you were a gentleman you would not smoke here."
"Muh," he said, "if ye wuz a lady ye'd sit farther away."
Pretty soon the woman burst out again: "If you were my husband I'd give you poison."
"Well, mum," returned the Irishman, as he puffed away at his pipe, "if you wuz my wife I'd take it."
—Harper's Magazine.

An innovation was introduced at the annual informal at the University of Chicago, in the form of a "broomstick special." Twenty men were armed with brooms and started dancing around with these implements as partners. When the crowd had filled the floor each of these men was allowed to claim a partner of a fairer nature by tapping on the back with the broom the escort of the desired lady. The deposed escort in turn was forced to take the magic wand and seek in the same manner another partner.

HEDGES WINS MEDAL.

The Eighth Annual Gymnasium Tournament, held in the Gymnasium on the night of Saturday, April 2nd, was a pronounced success. That these events are growing in popularity was shown by the large crowd present, all of whom enjoyed the Tournament very much.

Music was furnished by the University Band.

After a few introductory remarks by Prof. Mustaine, all those who took part in the tournament formed a grand march. The Gym team, composed of H. B. Hedges (captain), Short, Crosthwaite, Taylor, Porter, Theising, Bateman, and Sallee, then came on the floor and performed on the horizontal bar. Short and Crosthwaite were not eligible for the medal, and Short, Crosthwaite, Hedges and Taylor were not eligible for letters, because they had previously won these prizes. Of those eligible for medal, Hedges and Taylor were the best and were about a match for each other.

The pyramid builders then took the floor, and considering the fact that these men had had only about two weeks' practice, they did exceptionally well.

Then followed the Gym team on the parallel bars. Once more, Hedges and Taylor showed class enough to win the medal, Hedges having probably a little advantage.

Two preliminary boxing contests followed. The first between Francis and Ebbert, Francis winning; the second between Shanklin and Jackson, the latter being the victor.

The Gym team again took the floor and performed on the mats this time. Hedges "cinched" the medal at this exhibition, as his work on the mats was fine, especially his stunts in which Short takes an important part.

Following this, Jackson and Francis had a two-round boxing contest. Jackson, the winner, was given a handsome silver medal.

Hedges was announced winner of the medal, and Porter and Theising winners of "K's" as rewards for their gymnastic abilities.

This is Mr. Hedges' third year on the team, and we are very glad to see him be the one to receive the honors, and we congratulate him most heartily.

E. S. Haynes, instructor in astronomy at the University of Missouri, received a telegram this week announcing the discovery of a new comet by the astronomer Videux, February 20. The comet is very dim and can be seen only through powerful telescopes. It is not probable that it will become bright enough to be seen with the naked eye. At sunset it is about thirty degrees above the southwestern horizon.

THE SENIOR INSPECTION TRIP.

(J. J. Curtis.)

On the night of March 19th there assembled at the Union Station, a crowd of jolly good fellows, suit-cases in hand, and all ready to take the 8:40 C. & O. train for a week's inspection trip.

All went well until Charleston W. Va., was reached at an early morning hour. Here, under the gallant leadership of Profs. Anderson and Wilson, started to take in the town, but lost all courage when a small, insignificant bridge-keeper held us up for 5c per. That extracted, some went to restaurants to appease their appetites, while others, growing homesick, proceeded to give Uncle Sam's liege, the mail man, some extra labor.

But after long eons, day-light and train time came, and we had a chair car over the Virginia Railway for Norfolk. This is a new road which leaves the C. & O. at Deepwater, W. Va., and makes a beautiful detour through Southwestern Virginia in the very heart of the Alleghenies. We arrived in Norfolk Monday morning and were met by Messrs. Bradley and Gilbert, former students and graduates of K. S. U. At the Monticello Hotel we made ourselves presentable once more, and accompanied by Mr. Adams, Chief Engineer of the Norfolk and Portsmouth Traction Co., started on our tour of inspection. In the morning we visited the company's big power house, and in the afternoon we took the ferry for the Portsmouth Navy Yard. Here we were shown through the armored cruiser, Montana, and saw the great dreadnaught, Delaware, the largest battleship in the United States Navy and next largest in the world. The great dry docks were also of interest here.

Next day we went out to Ocean View, and there Mr. Elam was observed to walk down to the water's edge, fill his palm and taste the water to see if it was salty. So much for his spirit of scientific investigation! Fortress Monroe was next "taken in", and for dinner we enjoyed the hospitality of Captain Carter at the Hotel Chamberlain. The Newport News Ship Building & Dry Dock Co., the largest in the world, was visited that afternoon, but I shall not deal with technicalities.

Next day we had a delightful trip to Cape Henry, where Mr. Lamb gave us an oyster roast that was the real thing. "Tiny" Clark could only eat 56 (!), nevertheless he won his box of cigars.

That night we took the steamer for Baltimore, and had a beautiful trip up the moonlit Chesapeake, arriving next morning. After having inspected the Maryland Steel Works, we were given a fish dinner at the Baltimore Country Club, and then Mr. W. A. Garrett, our host, with three big touring cars, took us for a spin over the elegant suburbs of Baltimore. After two hours and half thus spent, we departed for Washington, by way of Annapolis. At the latter place we were welcomed by Prof. Rodes, a former student of K. S. U.

At Washington, we visited many places of interest, with which all are more or less familiar. We saw the House and Senate in session, and Senators Paynter and Bradley extended to us the warm hand. The former gave us a nice dinner in the Senate Dining Room.

We now retraced our steps to Norfolk, from which place we departed for Old Kentucky on Saturday night, arriving here on Monday morning,—a weary, but satisfied lot of fellows, each of whom would not have taken many times the cost of the trip for his experiences. Many thanks to Mr. John B. McAfee, who arranged this most delightful trip for the class of 1910.

wore badges of white leather embossed with the fraternity shield in gold and blue, and their partners for the evening carried beautiful bouquets of white roses, the fraternity flower. The programs were especially unique and beautiful, of brass shields. They were in booklet designs, tied with blue silk cords, with the music, chaperones, patronesses and hosts on the leaves, and hammered on the cover was the fraternity cross. They were of artistic workmanship and were lovely souvenirs of the event.

The dance was one of the handsomest of the beautiful fraternity dances given in Lexington, and was opened with a beautiful march gracefully led by Mr. Clay Goodloe and Miss Anne Clay McDowell. The hosts were: Messrs. J. B. Giltner, W. B. Johnston, G. M. Hendrickson, Alchin Frye, Philip Holloway, D. W. Smith, W. B. Panter, T. M. Marks, C. B. Bright, J. P. Barrow, R. L. Willis, J. W. Garrett, Derril Hart, G. E. Hogan.

The local Ophite fraternity of Washington State College will soon have an installation as a chapter of the national fraternity, Sigma Nu. The Iphite fraternity was founded in third national fraternity at W. S. C.
