

The World Whirls On

The Russo-Finnish war is over. Hereafter, March 13 will be celebrated as Armistice Day by two nations who fought each other desperately for three and a half months without deciding a great deal one way or the other.

To Be Ratified Officially, the treaty will not be in force until the Finnish government ratifies it. Two Finnish cabinet members resigned because they opposed the acceptance of the Russian terms.

Great Britain and France offered to send 50,000 troops Finland, but the only possible route was through Sweden and Norway.

Displays will be arranged in booths around the ballroom and will be open to the public at 7:30 p. m. Graves-Cox, Barnham's, Thompson, B. B. Smith, Kaufman's, Myers, and Angelucci and Ringo already have consented to arrange individual displays for the show.

James Morrissey and his 11-piece student orchestra will furnish music for the show and the dance which will follow in the Bluegrass room.

Prof. R. D. McIntyre, secretary of the Union board, is supervising general arrangements for the show and is in charge of the women's division of the display.

Sweden, Norway, and Finland signed a tripartite mutual-assistance pact, thus making the Baltic again an open aggression.

Italy and Russia were reported on the verge of concluding a trade agreement, largely, it is thought, through the influence of Germany.

The regular weekly roundtable discussion of problems of the day, conducted by Dr. J. H. Dupre, the history department, Prof. W. R. Sutherland of the English department, and Dr. E. Z. Palmer of the economics department, will be broadcast at 12:30 p. m. Sunday, over WHAS.

The subject of the discussion will be "Consumer Co-operative."

What They Think

QUESTION "Which are more sensible—men's clothes or women's?"

Marjorie Webb, A & S freshman—They're just about the same except for the hats."

Sheila Robertson, Commerce senior—"Women's are just as sensible as some of those plaid shirts the men wear."

Marianne Webb, A & S freshman—"Men's clothes are pretty impractical. I don't know much about the other."

Bill Nash, Commerce junior—"I can dress in either, while it takes women—well, you know."

Helen Beach, A & S freshman—"I'm ashamed to say."

Sigma Nu And K Club Will Tangle For Intramural Championship Tuesday

LEAGUE LEADERS SURVIVE TESTS

By FRED HILL.
The Sigma Nus, representing the Greeks, and the K club, spearheading the Independent faction will tangle at 7:45 in the Gym annex Tuesday, March 19, for the coveted intramural basketball championship.

The Sigma Nus defeated the KAs Wednesday night in the finals of the first tournament, 31-15. With Charlie Harris leading the scoring they climbed into a 20-5 lead in the first half, and though the KAs made a desperate attempt to overtake them, never relinquished it. In the first half Harris blistered the basket with four field goals and four fouls, while in the second half he dropped through another to bring his total to 14.
Wince Carnes rated top position on the KA score card with six points and played a good defensive game, limiting his man to only two points.

In the first half, Preston dropped five field goals through to pace the winners, while Jones scored five points for the losers.
C League
With Bill Moore scoring seven points, the Delis registered a 23-15 victory over the Alpha Gamma Rho in the finals of the frat C league Wednesday night.
Alpha Gamma Rho led the winners during the first half of the contest, but were held to two points in the last frame while the Delis were racking up 11. Leroy, playing for the "Pioaghshare" boys was co-holder of the scoring record with seven points to his credit.

K Men Almost Upset
The Floyd County Mountaineers almost upset the highly-touted K club in the finals of the independent tournament, and only a foul loss by "Junie" Jones in the last 10 seconds of play thwarted their efforts to win. Jones' marker broke a 20-20 tie and gave the K club a narrow 21-20 win.
Minus their previous smoothness, the "blue-sweater" boys were seriously in danger throughout the game, for the upstart Floyd countians refused to allow Larry Spears to get his hands on the ball, which distinctly lessened the potency of the winners. Previously no team had finished within 10 points of them in league play.

B League
In the fraternity B League, the Lambda Chi Alphas, who would stack up favorably against any A League club, defeated the SAEs 20-17.
The SAE five, composed mainly of freshmen, completely outplayed the Lambda Chis in the second half of the duel, but failed to erase the 16-4 lead the Lambda Chis built up

Semi-finals
In the semi-finals of the A League, the KAs squeaked out SAE by a single field goal on Tuesday night. Gough paced the winners to the 24-22 upset, dropping five field goals through the hoop, while Billy Speiser registered four for the SAEs. The KAs trailed at the end of the first half, 10-15, but Gough made himself the hero of the encounter by laying in three baskets in the last half to lead his team's comeback.
The Sigma Nus rolled over the PI Kaps with little trouble, despite the determined attempts of Knight and Overstreet to bring their hooping squad in ahead.
Pete Young was high point man for the winners, with 10 points, while teammate Harris was racking up eight. Knight and Overstreet registered six each.
With Sonny Hall basketing five field goals, the SAEs outscored the KAs in the semi-finals of the B League 25-22. Malcolm Alfrey dropped through eight points to lead the ATO quietest in scoring.

Rainey is entering the contest by virtue of having passed a preliminary try-out last month. The final contest will held sometime in May.

Cat Grid Card Includes Game With Xavier Under Arc Lights

Transfer of the Xavier game to Friday night, September 27 will mark the first appearance of a Kentucky football team in a night game since 1929, a check-up of the 1940 Wildcat grid menu revealed.
The Xavier bout, to be played in Cincinnati, was originally set for Saturday, September 28, but at the request of Musketier officials, the date was changed to avoid conflicting with the Cincinnati-Pittsburgh baseball game at Crosley field the same afternoon.
Incidentally, Kentucky's last game under the arcs was against Xavier in 1928, when the Cats, paced by Bert Johnson, pounded out a 19-0 win.
Now regarded as definitely settled, the Cat schedule includes 10 games, five being against South-eastern Conference opponents. Two new foes, Baldwin-Wallace and George Washington university, also have been billed to show against Coach Al Kirwan's Cats. But four of the bouts will be on the home Stoll field sod, although a fifth "home" game is slated against Georgia Tech in Louisville.
With Old Man Weather cooperating very little, most of the spring drills, which were started two weeks ago, have been held in Alumni gym. However, a lengthy session was held on the practice lot Wednesday afternoon.
While Coaches Bernie Shively and Gene Myers sent the guards and tackles against the blocking gummy, Coach Kirwan, Frank Moseley and Joe Rupert supervised passing defense.
Led by Captain John Elmer, all-conference tackle, approximately 35 hopefuls are taking part in the rehearsals. The main problem facing Kirwan and his coaching faculty is all uncovering a blocking back to fill the shoes of graduating captain, Joe Shapher.

Kentucky's completed schedule:
Sept. 21—Baldwin-Wallace, home.
Sept. 27—Xavier at Cincinnati (night).
Oct. 5—Wash. and Lee, home.
Oct. 12—Vanderbilt at Nashville.
Oct. 19 — George Washington, home.
Oct. 26—Georgia at Athens, Ga.
Nov. 2—Alabama, home.
Nov. 9—Georgia Tech at Louisville.
Nov. 16—West Va. at Morgantown.
Nov. 23—Tennessee at Knoxville.

Cat Net Squad Begins Intensive Spring Drill

Back from an extensive tour on the banquet circuit, Coach Adolph Rupp put in his initial appearance at Kentucky spring basketball practice Wednesday afternoon and personally supervised exhaustive goal shooting drills.
Although the spring drills officially started for members of the undefeated freshman team and non-lettermen the Monday after the Cat varsity returned home with its four to Southeastern Conference championship, it was not until this week that Coach Rupp and most of his letter winners joined the rehearsals.
Meanwhile, both Rupp and Paul McBrayer, assistant cage furbur, have been busy on speaking and scouting engagements. Rupp's wanderings were highlighted last week when he addressed the annual feast given in honor of the Notre Dame Ramblers in South Bend.
To date some 30 candidates have been taking part in the drills. This number includes 8 forwards, 4 centers and 7 guards. Absent from the drills thus far have been Lee Huber, regular guard who is still recuperating from the flu, Don Orme, and Harry Denham, "Hoot" Combs and Ernal Allen, who have transferred their playing to the football squad.

Heading the list of forwards is Keith Farnley, whose left-handed pivot shooting earned him a position on the all-conference squad this year, and Waller White. From the "lost battalion," a squad composed of five year men, come Jim Mathewson and Lloyd Ramsey, a set of rangy cage hawks, while the freshman team that was unscathed in 18 games yields Mill Tico, Cliff Barker, Frank Elsom and Mark Harris.
Jim King, who turned in some brilliant playing as understudy to cloud-bumping Marlon Clughrif during the last season, heads the center list. Stan Clughrif is another tested veteran and Mel Brewer and Dave Dilard, from the Kitten squad, help ease the pivot strain.
One of the touchy spots to cover on next season's team will be the guard spot vacated by Captain "Mickey" Rouse, all-conference man who graduates in June. To cover the back court posts Coach Rupp will look to veterans Huber, Combs and Carl Staker, from the varsity squad, and Ken England and Marvin Akers from the "lost battalion."
The freshman team ends Lewis and J. S. Robertson, Bob Reynolds and Omar Hallif.

The Pulse of Spring!

the mood

Tailoring softened by smooth lines. Freshness. A military touch. Your suits must be casual, marked by simplicity. No tricks, no eccentricity. Have a suit, a hat ... and a heart.

Slogan: (fem.) Dress for one man, not for many.

the time

Class-time, coke-time, dinner-time, dance-time in McVey, the Grill, Maxwell Place, the cafeteria, the Bluegrass room, in town.

the togs

For women: pastel sweaters, white and baby pink blouses with rows of lace worn over striped wool skirts with jackets to match. Casual frocks have lots of pleats below the natural waistline, torso length jackets. Required: black dress with round neck finished with rows of white braid, saddle pockets in white braid fastened with gold buttons.

For men: A glen plaid sport coat. Fewer buttons. Hand stitching. Two and one half inch flaps on pockets. An ultra new fly-front 3-button coat. Straight lines at the waist. Flaps on breast pockets. Wider coat lapels. Cuffless trousers that flirt with shoe tops. "Post boy" vests. And you'll wear longer shirt collars, knit ties and heavier jewelry.

the cloth

For dresses: silk jersey, silk surah, rayon faille, cotton, chiffon, and silk jersey.

For suits: flannel, covert, gabardine, bedford cords.

the colors

On serious dates the lady will wear barley beige, haze blue, cavalry tan, and grey. For gayer moments she'll be in hot pink, camelia, shocking blue, scandal red, and brass hat gold. And he'll wear lighter and softer colors, pastel solid shades, colonial tan, green, cocoa brown, blue.

Campus Coeds Will Bring Bright New Styles From Downtown Stores

When masculinity sighs, "Whew," and femininity breathes a low "I want that" at the fashion show tonight, the show will be pronounced a success. Attractive models wearing just the type of clothes to produce those effects will put their share of grace and beauty into the show.

Each model will show clothes from one Lexington store. Jean Harpring, representing the Four Seasons, will appear dressed for the races in a slate blue flowered silk print, with a slate blue double-breasted coat to match. She will wear a navy blue hat with the outfit. The dress and coat are priced at about $25; the hat, about $10.

Beach brown is the color of a Wragge plaid suit and hat which Jean will wear. The skirt and coat are each about $11; the hat, about $6. An afternoon dress of pink and grey silk print with a pink wool bolero jacket, (about $25) and a pink hat, (about $6), will make an attractive outfit. Jean will model a beige chiffon formal for evening. A rayon jacket, trimmed in red, is a feature of the dress, which is about $20.

Virginia Smith, modeling for Perkins, will wear a navy and white print dress beneath a redingote of the same material. An unusual feature is the velvet collar. The price is about $25. Virginia will appear in a sports outfit, the skirt of an imported fabric in diagonal weave of pink, blue, and grey, (about $8); the sweaters, a pink cardigan and blue slip-over, (about $4). She will wear a Draper French felt hat (about $5) in dusky rose with the outfit.

Necklaces Of Fruit Foretell New Trend

New necklaces, of metallic oranges, grapes, bananas, and other fruit are being offered in local jewelry and department stores as the fashion note foretelling the colorful decorations which are to be part of the new trend toward more realistic adornments.

Another fashion note, one which will have everyone playing "rich-man, poor man, beggar man, thief" is the swing toward more and more buttons on dresses, sweaters, and skirts, this season.

Reversing the accepted idea of buttons down the front of dresses, active sportswear is being shown buttoning down the back. Even Schuprell has pulled a new idea from her bag of tricks, with her "corset back buttons."

STUDENT RECITAL

Four students were presented in the weekly student music recital at 8:30 last night, in the Music room of the Union building. Trilby McKeehan presented a soprano solo; Frank Mamons and Eleanor Rubin, a violin duet; and Joan Taylor, a piano solo.

If I should be allowed to choose one out of all the books published a hundred years after my death, I would take the fashion magazine to see how women were dressing. Their fripperies would tell me more about the society of that future day than all the philosophers and preschers. Anatole France.

During the time of Edward II and Edward III of England men dressed half the body in one color, the other half in another; frequently both colors appeared in stripes on one leg.

Winter Clothes Are Out . . .

. . . and spring means lighter, whiter materials. Men are wearing three-button, athletic drape, browns, and the girls prefer angora sweaters and white flannel skirts.

Gabardine's Cost Goes Down, Popularity Goes Up

By SHOP SNOOP

This season we will see more color in men's clothing than ever before. Women will have to go to it a fast pace to keep ahead of the men as far as color is concerned. It will be most noticeable in sport coats and slacks. Watch for the bright large glen-plaid and district check sport coat. These will be in the rough Scotch tweeds and shetlands, well-blended to please the discriminating eye even though they may be brighter than usual.

Slacks, as we have said, will also be more colorful, but they will be plain in pattern to soften the brightness of the coats. As in previous seasons, the natural grey flannel slacks will continue to be a popular leader. This shade blends nicely with most sport coats. However, watch for the pastel solid shades later in the season. You will see soft shades of green, blue, tan, and buff, that always harmonize well with most sport ensembles. The favorite cloths for slacks will be flannel, covert, gabardine and bedford cords.

In suits, the favorite cloths, as indicated by early buying and from style information from eastern university campuses, will be flannels, in all of their pleasing new shades. The trend in this cloth will be toward solid colors in a wide selection of new shades. Gabardines are coming back stronger than ever in smart new colors that have never before been seen in this material. Watch, especially, for the new colonial tan gabardine. This is the outstanding shade for the season. It is entirely different from any of the other tans that have been shown before.

The tri-resistant gabardines are making their appearance in the less expensive field. These are new and very colorful, being shown in deep tones as well as soft pastel shades. The solid weave gabardine will be the most popular, with the one-fourth inch wide herringbone next, and the faint plaid effect third. The spring weight covert cloth will be keeping close pace with the two just mentioned. This material will also be shown in unusual heather mix shades, that are entirely different from ones shown in previous seasons. This cloth is exceedingly durable and it holds the crease exceptionally well.

Spring-weight tweeds continue to be almost as popular as the heavier weights were during the fall season. The colors for this season are lighter and softer, always most popular in single-breasted sport suits in all of the new models that are appearing on the campus. In this type cloth we must include chevrons and shetlands, as they are soft and light in weight, and are always ideal for smart sport suits. You will see very few worsted suits worn by the smarter dressed college men.

In sport coats and suits, the by-word is comfort through the shoulders, chest, and back. Be sure that the coats are long enough. These coats should extend one to two inches below the seat, but don't be too extreme and appear in a finger-tip coat.

The most popular sport coat model will be the three button, straight front coat slightly rounded at the bottom. The collars are low, the pockets are regular with a two and one-half inch wide flap, and usually have a cash pocket with a two-inch flap above the right lower pocket is wanted. This coat should always have an eight and one-half or nine inch vest depending on the height of the wearer. Hand saddle stitching and regular one-fourth inch stitching is usually liked on these coats. Sometimes, when the one-fourth inch stitching is desired, the pocket flaps and collar will carry two rows of stitching, one-fourth inch apart. The hand stitching looks best on the gabardine and flannel, and the one-fourth stitching is considered best on tweeds, shetlands and chevrons.

The newest sport coat, but not yet as popular as either of these mentioned before, is the smart fly-front, three button coat. On this you will see very few buttons. It is best with no buttons on the sleeves and looks smartest when worn with the top two buttons unbuttoned. The lines are the same as the other two coats. The sleeves are well tapered, and a flap on the breast pocket is a very smart touch.

Double-breasted suits continue to be exceedingly popular. Comfort, also, is the by-word here, the lounge model coat being most popular. The lapels are wide, measuring four and three-fourths to five inches. The opening is low, showing plenty of shirt and tie. Often this suit is preferred with no vest, another comfort angle. Also, the sleeves of this coat are well tapered. The two buttoned coat is most popular, with the top button as near the waist line as possible. The waist line is straighter than usual.

Definition Sought For Socialized Medicine

With the plea, "Can't Somebody Define Socialized Medicine?" the Observer-Journal yesterday printed the following editorial which Tim Knauss considers of special interest to college students.

We are not foolish enough to be dogmatic on the subject of socialized medicine. But we do resent those busy-bodies who condemn an idea out of hand, without understanding what it means.

For example: That ridiculous questionnaire which the Journal Modern Medicine propounded to 20,000 American doctors. "Would you cooperate with a Federal-social program tending toward drastic curtailment of private practice medicine?"

The question itself is inciting. It lacks, utterly, that quality of calm which ought to pervade any fact-finding expedition. Its very phraseology argues violently for an extreme "No!"

The miracle is not that 88 per cent of the doctors did say "No!" It is rather that 12 per cent answered "Yes!"

The loose, opinionated phrasing of this query testifies eloquently that even those who do not know precisely what is meant by socialized medicine. We, to be sure, do not know either, but we have notions as to what it does not mean.

It does not mean, necessarily, a "drastic curtailment" of private practice among those who can afford to pay regular medical fees.

Nor does it necessarily mean uniformly free medical services rendered at beck and call of every body by men on the public payroll.

These would (or might) be attributes of State Medicine, which is something quite different, and possibly undesirable.

Everybody remembers what a furore was raised when Group Hospitalization was first suggested. Then, too, we had rantings about socialism, and communism, and all the other philosophical bogey men. But it worked beautifully once somebody defined the concept, and keyed it to an orderly regime.

Medical men do have a stake in solving the problem of getting adequate health services for which they will receive some compensation; to those multitudes who can afford to pay perhaps a little—perhaps nothing at all.

It will never be resolved so long as we fall even to define the issue in unemotional terms.

Spruce Trees Lend A Hand To Fashion

There'll be a wearing to the green when women get their new spring prints this year, and not because of any Irish favoritism either. Dance Fashion has decreed washable silks will reign and these are synthetics made from spruce trees.

In making the synthetics, cellulose is derived from spruce trees and converted into sheets under pressure. These sheets are in turn shredded into alkali crumbs and mixed with carbon bisulfide, which turns them to an orange color.

These crumbs called xanthate crumbs, are dissolved in caustic soda, a dark honey-colored spinning solution from which threads for the material can be spun.

The active and inactive of Alpha Gamma Delta will entertain with a buffet supper Saturday night at the chapter house in honor of Miss Margaret Hiltch, Toronto, Canada, national inspector and director of the Welland summer camp maintained by the Alpha Gams for underprivileged children.

The house will be decorated with spring flowers and lighted tapers. Mrs. John Hagan, housemother, will be in charge of arrangements for the party.

ATOs To Honor ChiOs With Open House

The members of Alpha Tau Omega will entertain the active and pledges of Chi Omega with an open house and buffet supper Friday.

Spring flowers will be used as decorations. Mrs. Fannie Embry, housemother, is in charge of the arrangements for the party.

Delta Zeta Pledges Announce Officers

The pledge class of Delta Zeta announces the election of the following officers: president, Mary Agnes Gabbard; vice-president, Frances Taylor; secretary, Florina Greener; treasurer, Frances Terrell; social chairman, Margaret Collins.

Alpha Xis Are Guests At Delta's Supper

Delta Tau Delta gave a buffet supper last Friday for the Alpha Xi Deltas instead of for the Delta Zetas as was erroneously stated in Tuesday's Kernel. After refreshments and dancing at the Alpha Xi House, the Deltas entertained with a buffet supper at their house.

Guests were Dorothy Beeber, Ann Adams, Mary Hume, Lois Oeder, Ann Johnson, Lady Gray, Ann Spicer, Jean Reynolds, Martha Hixson, Betty Jane Chapman, Geneva Houser, Phyllis Gerald, Jae Marshall, Marcia Willing, Mary Jo Moloney, and Alice McCaughey.

Mrs. Jack Burbridge, Delta housemother, was in charge of the arrangements.

Recent dinner guests included Lois Oeder, Roberts Birkshire, and Judge Thomas Moore.

Well Dressed Men on the Campus

and
with
PEG DENNY

These two well dressed men were snapped escorting Peg Denny to the Union building.

Like many University men of discriminating taste they are attired in clothes from Thorpes.

Pat's combination of covert sport coat and brown flannel slacks is well related and the accessories of white shirt, brown foulard tie are admirably suited to his attire.

Jim is dressed in a smartly conservative grey flannel suit, correct for any occasion. The white Manhattan shirt with radior collar, maroon knit tie, and white handkerchief complete the sartorial effect.
