'Dixie' Referendum To Be Presented To SG Tonight

By LARRY DALE KEELING
Assistant Managing Editor

A bill calling for a student referendum on whether or not "Dixie" should be played at major University athletic events will be introduced at the Student Government Assembly tonight according to Raymond Vail, an SG representative.

Vail said that he would introduce the bill "hopefully, to give the students a chance to express their views, if we can get it through Student Government, or shall we say the obstructionist element therein."

According to Vail, the referendum would ask the students, "Do you support the playing of 'Dixie' by the University of Kentucky Band at major athletic events?"

The "obstructionist element" Vail referred to is probably the Students for Action and Responsibility (SAR). SAR members opposed the "Dixie" bill that was defeated last week. That bill would have requested the playing of "Dixie" at future athletic events.

Vail said that the referendum does not request or demand the playing of "Dixie." It simply asks the students to express their views.

Thom Pat Juul, a member of SAR, said earlier that if a referendum was brought up he would oppose calling it from committee in order to give the issue a chance to cool down.

He said that he could not speak for SAR but that they would probably oppose calling it from committee also.

If the bill is brought up tonight, it will receive its first reading and be referred to a committee. A motion can then be made to suspend the rules and bring it to the floor immediately. A motion of this sort requires a two-thirds majority to pass.

Juul said the students should know that there is nothing that Student Government can do to force the band to play "Dixie." He added that no matter how many students were for it, if interim President A. D. Kirwan is against it there is nothing they can do about it.

President Kirwan has already expressed his distaste of the playing of the song.

Juul said that if this had something to do with student affairs it would be different, but that the band comes under the Athletic Association.

"I, personally, will vote against calling it (the bill) from committee," he added.

Presidential Convocation Asked For Socialist Workers Candidate

By DARRELL RICE
Managing Editor

The Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) is initiating a petition for presentation before the Faculty Senate in an effort to secure a presidential convocation for Socialist Workers Party candidate Fred Halstead.

Halstead is to speak here Oct. 27 as a result of an invitation issued earlier this year by SDS.

The petition has been endorsed by SDS and the Community Alliance for Responsible Social Action (CARSA) and support from other campus political groups also is being sought.

The petition is to be presented before the Faculty Senate Monday by Dr. Joseph Engelberg of the bio-physics department.

It is to read as follows:

"Acting upon a request by President Kirwan, the Faculty Senate recently approved the calling of special presidential convocations at which three presidential candidates—Richard Nixon, George Wallace and Hubert Humphrey—would be permitted to address the students, faculty or staff. These convocations are open also to the general public.

"There are four presidential candidates on the 1968 ballot of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Three of the candidates are cited above. The fourth candidate is Fred Halstead, representing the Socialist Workers Party. (Mr. Halstead is also on the ballot of 20 other states.)

"The undersigned respectfully request that the Senate extend its permission for a special presidential convocation to the case of Fred Halstead. By this act the Senate would assure that all presidential candidates on the Kentucky ballot would have an equal opportunity to present their views at the University of Kentucky."

The story appearing in Wednesday's Kernel on Halstead's coming to UK was in error in saying the Faculty Senate must approve the speaking appearance.

No approval is required for Halstead to address an SDS meeting open only to the University community.

SDS also says it is inviting Halstead as a presidential candidate and not in any way as a challenge to the relevant speakers policy pending before the Board of Trustees.

Has Already Returned Draft Card

UK Student Will Return Induction Notice

By GUY MENDES
Associate Editor

"After several months of prayer, meditation and reading, I have decided to return my draft card. Conscience compels me to refuse all further cooperation with a system that promotes and condones killing and violence. I cannot have any part of such an anti-human system, and I will do everything in my power to non-violently overcome such a system. I am firm in my convictions and I am doing this fully aware of the consequences."

Michael J. Fallahay
Letter to his draft board
August 26, 1968

With those words of explanation Mike Fallahay, a University senior, returned his draft card to his local board two months ago.

Before this month is over he expects to receive his notice of induction into the armed forces. As he did with the card, Fallahay will return the induction notice and then await arrest by the FBI.

In time, he will be convicted of not cooperating with the Selective Service System and will be sentenced to five years in jail and possibly fined $10,000.

Fallahay, who studied for the Roman Catholic priesthood for two and a half years before coming to UK last January, said he "fully expected the penalty" when he took the initial action.

Having been opposed to the war in Vietnam for over two years, he said he wasn't sure of which course of action to follow. He thought of applying for Conscientious Objector status but decided against the idea because it would have been "acknowledging the right of existence of the Selective Service System, which I can't in conscience agree with."

He said his decision not to cooperate with the draft system was influenced by his reading, mainly the works of Ghandi, Martin Luther King, Henry David Thoreau and Thomas Merton.

From them he came to "fully accept" the idea of civil disobedience. He said his is a "deliberate violation in a system that is intrinsically evil" and that he is willing to pay the consequences of his violation.

In mid-September Fallahay received a 1-A classification, having forfeited his 2-S student deferment by turning in his card. With his 1-A classification he also got a delinquency notice and a standard sheet on "Advice of right to personal appearance and appeal." He returned all three items to his local board in New Rochelle, N.Y. with a note stating that he intended to remain firm in his convictions.

Fallahay will remain in school at UK until his trial comes up. He expects the trial to be held in New York where his draft board is located, even though his present residence is officially in Louisville.

He is the second UK student to refuse to comply with the draft. Don Pratt refused induction last spring and was subsequently convicted and sentenced. His case is now pending appeal in United States circuit court in Cincinnati. The appeal will probably be heard in November or December.

Fallahay attended Maryknoll Theological Seminary in Glen Ellyn, Ill. before coming to UK. He is currently a member of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and is on the steering committee of that organization.

He did not inform his parents of his decision before he returned the card but he said they now completely support him.

Fallahay has been very active in the Civil Rights movement in the past few years. While attending Maryknoll he spent two summers working in Simpson County, Mississippi.

There he did voter registration work and taught "Freedom School" classes which were set up to help prepare black children who were going to attend white schools for the first time.

KUAC To Begin Hearings In Pikeville

FRANKFORT (AP)—The Kentucky Un-American Activities Committee will begin its second investigation Oct. 15—public hearings in Pikeville on Appalachian problems.

The hearings are expected to last at least two, possibly three days according to Tim McCall, director of the legislative joint committee.

McCall declined to disclose the nature of the Pikeville investigation. He would not reveal the names of witnesses subpoenaed to appear.

It is speculated that the investigation will involve sedition charges brought against three anti-poverty workers by Pike County officials last year.

The case was never heard. The Sixth U.S. District Court in Lexington ruled Kentucky's sedition law unconstitutional.

Mass Takes Folk Twist For Football Players

Take a football team and a Catholic church. Add guitars, a drum and an organ. Plus a priest and a coach at the Newman Center.

Put them all together at 9:00 a.m. on this Saturday morning before the Oregon State game and what do you have? A pep rally? No, a folk mass for the football team.

Everyone talks about being sick and tired of doing the same old things. Well the Newman Center is sponsoring a new twist. Not only are the football team and Coach Bradshaw invited to attend the folk mass, but also anyone interested in supporting the Wildcats in a new way before a tense Saturday evening game.

The traditional altar will be reconstructed by the football players to conform to those used in Protestant services. In addition, the subject of football will be taken up at the Offertory, one of the main parts of the mass.

Following the folk mass will be a reception open to all.

WKU Welcomes Legality Action

BOWLING GREEN (AP)—The president of Western Kentucky University said Wednesday he welcomes any action to determine the legality of its plan to underwrite a bond issue for Kentucky Southern College.

Kelly Thompson, in an address to the board of regents, said Western had only one objective in agreeing to back the $4.2 million bond issue: "We wanted to save Kentucky Southern from financial disaster." Thompson said Western "won't be placed on the defensive by criticism of a plan not based on fact."

His comments were the first from a Western official since the state Council on Public Higher Education announced it would ask the attorney general for an opinion on the proposal.

Thompson recalled that the regents had been informed that "I considered it (the proposal) was covered under the canopy of legality. If there are questions about the legality, I am as anxious as others to find out whether it is legal."

Western's regents approved the idea on Sept. 21 after a personal appeal from Rollin S. Burhans, president of Kentucky Southern.

Real-World Link

The University, through its Placement Service, is attempting to offer the students a necessary service. The fact that about 60 percent of the last year's senior class registered with the Service in order to find jobs after graduation is a tribute to Col. James Alcorn and the rest of his staff.

In a world as complex as ours and in a University as impersonal as this one, it is encouraging to know that those people over in the Old Ag Building are interested in the individual, and are willing to help students long after graduation.

Members of the faculty and administrators should realize, however, that the University's responsibility to the business world begins and ends at the Placement Service doors. Faculty members particularly should understand that their duty is not one of job training, but of education, using that word in its broadest meaning.

Students should be stimulated in class, not taught. Students should be challenged in the classroom, not pampered. Spoon-fed knowledge is useless, and the educator should not rely upon it.

The state furnishes trade schools for those who want them, and these schools do an adequate job of training persons for jobs. The trade school is the place where the trade should be learned, not the university. The University should be the center of learning, the place where ideas are fostered. In this way the University serves its duty to the real world.

The Placement Service can and should serve as a link between the center of knowledge and learning and those on the outside who want and need this rare value. At present, it seems to be doing just that.

Kernel Forum: the readers write

To the Editor of the Kernel:

Time—1943; Place—University of Kentucky. The campus is relatively inactive because many of the young men are away fighting for the very existence of freedom. A sociology professor who had two pictures upon his office door, one of Mussolini and one of Hitler, and who had been quoted as saying, "I... would like to see more of Mussolini spread around," and of Hitler, "... Here is a leader..." has just been arrested.

One student was overheard to say to her boyfriend, "I hope they go easy on him because he must be insane." WE WON WORLD WAR II!

Time—1968; Place—University of Kentucky. The campus is very active with SDS members everywhere collecting supplies for the Viet Cong. A Sociology professor has upon his office door a picture of Karl Marx and Ho Chi Minh and has been quoted as saying, "I... would like to see more of Marx spread around," and of Ho Chi Minh, "... Here is a leader..."

One student was overheard to say to her boyfriend, "I have the most wonderful professor, so broadminded and intelligent. Any one who says anything against him or against Karl Marx or Ho Chi Minh must be insane." WE ARE LOSING THE WAR IN VIETNAM AT HOME!

John Kirk
Law Student

To the Editor of the Kernel:

One of the paradoxes frequently faced in a democratic system is that of supporters of democracy employing tactics much more appropriate to ideological systems which they wish to oppose than to that which they say they support. John Kirk, a UK law student, has given us an ideal example of such tactics in a recent letter to the editor concerning Professor Leonard Jordan of the Sociology Department. We reply to Mr. Kirk out of concern for simple justice for Prof. Jordan, and to clarify the role which an effective department of sociology must play.

An analysis of Mr. Kirk's letter from the standpoint of the propaganda techniques involved exposes the workings of his mind and the falseness of his argument perhaps better than anything else can. Kirk tears out of context and juxtaposes badly mangled quotes from Prof. Jordan and interposes emotion-ridden facts on Vietnam. He mourns the losses in Vietnam. So do we. Prof. Jordan has been deeply concerned also and out of that concern he gave his support to a Democrat, Senator Eugene McCarthy.

As Prof. Jordan makes eminently clear in the published interview, his chief concern is with "the younger Marx, the humanist, the Marx who was interested in the question of alienation." Any distortions of Marx which are expressed as rigid ideological positions by present day devotees of "Marxism" would stand necessarily in opposition to that Marx. Karl Marx had a theory of society and social change which is quite separate from his ideological position. Further, Marx, like Hitler, Jesus Christ, Ho Chi Minh, and John Kennedy, was a leader of his time and has had a profound effect, in turn, upon this society in our time. These are reasons enough why sociologists must and should take note of and analyze his impact. We don't believe that a naive conception of "communism" nor a distorted conception of the relationship of the historical Karl Marx to the various modern forms of "communism," such as that displayed by Mr. Kirk, is a tolerable position for a man of intellect. Simplistic approaches have no place among educated people.

Mr. Kirk has suggested that Governor Nunn's office should get a copy of the Kernel interview. We think we have a much better suggestion. We think that instead of sending the article on Prof. Jordan to Governor Nunn's office, perhaps, it would be more apropos if Mr. Kirk's letter were sent to the office of the Dean of the Law School in commentary on Mr. Kirk's ability to understand the bases of American law—especially the First Amendment. Mr. Kirk gives us reason to pause and wonder if he, when he attains his law degree, will be able to defend clients whose rights to free speech under First Amendment have been threatened. We want lawyers who will defend our rights to freedom of speech. We want no totalitarian society from either the left or the right. We want neither the silence which has been brought by the Russian guns and tanks in Czechoslovakia nor the silence which Mr. Kirk would like to bring to bear from Governor Nunn's office. We want a free society and a free university where the significant intellectual figures of every field are presented, discussed and understood and where our professors know they are safe from harassment on the part of campus, state and national representatives of totalitarian thinking.

And we offer a final thought on Prof. Jordan. Some professors sleep through their days in the university, some eagerly play academic politics and some carry on a dialogue with their times. Leonard Jordan is a master of dialogue. It is an uncommon talent in this place where it should be an everyday way of life. We not only want to hold on to the masters of dialogue that we have, like Leonard Jordan, but, in addition, we want their numbers to grow.

To the Editor of the Kernel:

This letter is from one who enjoys hearing "Dixie." It is tuneful, it is rousing, and has no racist wording. I have enjoyed it many times without any thought whatsoever of the race question.

However, if it is offensive to persons, I really can see no good reason for its continued use. There are many other songs for sports events including the UK school song.

There are three points which I would like to suggest in this discussion of Dixie pro and con. (1) It is contended that Dixie is a regional song and not racist—it symbolizes the south as a region. A quick check in the library will reveal that with every legal action to end racial discrimination there have come anguished cries contending that such legislation or enforcement will "end the Southern way of life." In such instances racism (i.e. discrimination because of race) is equated with the southern regional life. Thus Dixie—the regional song—inescapably as the symbol of the region is associated with the "southern way of life." is also a symbol of what that way of life represents in racial discrimination.

(2) Never have I met a person who considers himself a racist. The word has a multitude of connotations. Yet, discrimination according to race continues so somewhere among us there must be those who make distinctions by race.

(3) It is sad that the question of Dixie has become a game with many saying they are contending for Dixie because demands were made for its exclusion. This is a reactionary position which does not reveal the best side of an educational institution. Let us attempt to decide the issue on its own merit rather than by reaction.

I am sorry that in the past I have enjoyed the music without thought of the meaning. Many people want Dixie played without having racist intentions. How many do have racist intentions is impossible to determine. At the best, the continued playing of Dixie is thoughtless insensitivity to the feelings of many UK students.

To the Editor of the Kernel:

During the time I have attended this University I have watched this newspaper, The Kentucky Kernel, swing more and more to the radical Left. It is the unwritten duty of every editor to print truthfully and objectively both sides of the story. The Kentucky Kernel has certainly not done this.

Although I am a conservative, I recognize and respect the opinions of campus liberals, most of whom are genuine patriots of another philosophy. My quarrel is not with them, but rather with your newspaper and its policy of over-representing left wing articles. The Conservative or right wing student elements, although not so well organized, are a potent force on the nations campuses as witnessed at the recent George Wallace speech. It is high time the Kernel realized this and printed some ideas other than those of its editor and staff.

Nationwide Election Day Protests Planned

NEW YORK (CP3)—With the presidential elections one month away, leftist student and peace organizations across a broad spectrum have begun planning a "fall election offensive," opening a new phase in the national protest of the electoral system which began in Chicago last month and which will continue through the inauguration in January.

The National Mobilization to End the War in Vietnam (known as "Mobe" for short), a loosely formed organization which in the past has coordinated many of the mass anti-war demonstrations and which earlier this year called for the protest in Chicago, is the one group so far to become specific about its plans.

Mobe leaders say they are calling on students to "find new ways of voting this year—in the streets rather than in polling places" since voting for one of the three major candidates gives no chance to vote for ending the Vietnam war now.

At an initial planning session this week in New York, Paul Potter, a former SDS president who is now on the Mobe steering committee, said his organization is aiming at a series of national, "decentralized" protest activities "leading up to, but not including, disruption of polling places."

The thrust of the activities, he said, will be to link the continuing war in Vietnam with the concept that our present political system, rather than dealing with the situation, tends to perpetuate it. The program's main features are to include:

► On the weekend prior to the elections, possible presentation of anti-war generals at public hearings at which the issues surrounding the war would be presented, combined with

► Delegations of anti-war demonstrators visiting the nation's "35 key military bases," located mostly in the East and South, staging marches and "love-ins," concluding with

► The declaration of November 2 as Vietnam Sunday and urging clergymen opposed to the war to speak out against it to their congregations;

► The organization of mass rallies on the eve of election day supporting a boycott of the elections as irrelevant and illegitimate, combined with activities the following day including ► Mass demonstrations at polling places of the major candidates plus various other activities, including leafleting and guerrilla theatre performances, at other polling places all across the country.

"The important point about Mobe's planning," Potter said, "is that it provides a chance to re-introduce the war in Vietnam as an issue nationally."

The gathering, attended by about 20, marked the first such meeting in the city of radical campus and peace groups interested in protesting the elections, but already the lines of political difference could be seen emerging.

Jeff Shero, editor of the New York underground newspaper, Rat, objected to so strong a connection between the elections and the war. "We should try to tie the protest more to the on-going demands of the movement," he said without becoming more specific. "The war is kind of an old issue."

Objections were also raised to the idea of counter-election polls at which persons opposed to the three major candidates could cast their vote at an alternative polling place set up for the day by the protestors.

"That tends to give the idea that we just don't have a choice this time," Shero said, "when in fact we've never had a choice."

Other speakers emphasized the need for clear explanation of why the election protest is being staged. While supporting the proposal for a boycott, one activist contended, "This is going to be the first day of the rest of the movement. We have to give people good reasons for what they're doing."

Students, Mobe says, are "drawing the connections between the war and society as they see the relationship of their universities to both the war and the federal government." On election day, it urges them to center their activities on "pointing out the ties that exist between the war machinery and the university, through all-day teach-ins, confrontations with draft boards or other actions aimed at forcing universities to end military research." Students are also urged not to attend classes November 5.

There was also some unspecific talk about the possibility that high school students from several public schools will walk out on election day in protest. That day is normally a city-wide school holiday, but this year the day off has been cancelled because of the teachers' strike.

The political discussions and planning sessions will intensify in the coming week as the various groups begin firming up their plans. Potter said Mobe will begin releasing publicity on its plans sometime next week.

Pikes, Cans In Final

By GREG BOECK

Quick scores in the first and second halves enabled Pi Kappa Alpha to turn back Tower "C" 18-0 in Wednesday's All-Campus semi-final to send the Pikes into tonight's championship game.

The undefeated Pikes will meet the Chicago Cans, 7-6 winner over the Judges, Monday. Gametime is 5 p.m. on the Sports Center field.

A 65-yard drive capped by a 50-yard scoring pass from quarterback Gary Frederick to end Chuck Theiler gave the Pikes an early first half lead which they never relinquished.

The solid PKA defense held Tower "C" to one first down in the first half, forcing them to punt twice and picking off one Rick Wunderlich pass. Tower "C" never penetrated into Pike territory in that half.

A similar drive, covering 50 yards in just four plays, sent Pi Kappa Alpha into a 12-0 lead within four minutes of the second half. Two passes to Chuck Theiler set up an 11-yard run by Frederick for the Pikes' second score.

Tower "C" managed to penetrate to the PKA seven yardline midway in the half on the strength of a 15-yard toss to Bo Partin from Wunderlich, but the Pi Kap defense held.

Stuart Lifts Track Hopes

By DON CASSADY
Kernel Staff Writer

Two years ago about this time there was much talk in Glasgow, Ky., of a boy named John Stuart who could toss the shot put farther than any other boy in Kentucky.

People didn't believe it until he became the state shot put champion in his junior year.

In his senior year at Glasgow, Stuart broke the Kentucky shot put record time after time and gained national recognition.

Wooed by more than 150 schools (among them UCLA, USC, Tennessee, and Indiana), Stuart chose to attend UK.

"It was pretty close to home," said the 242-pound freshman. "UK was supposed to get an indoor facility, and the track program here is pretty good."

Brightens UK Hopes

So now the shot put champion is at UK, which has considerably brightened the Wildcats' hopes for a strong finish in the SEC track circle.

Stuart's best throw of the high school shot in competition was 66 feet 5 3/4 inches, more than seven feet farther than the previous state high school record.

With the 16-pound college shot (the high school shot is 12 pounds) the UK freshman has already bettered the SEC record in that division. Stuart threw it 58 feet 1 1/2 inches, while the SEC record is 58.

The best throw ever of the college shot by a high school boy is 61 feet 1 1/4 inches.

Goal 62-65 Feet

"My goal by the spring of this year is to hit 62-65 feet," said Stuart. "But as far as future goals are concerned, that will have to wait."

Besides being a champion shot putter, Stuart is the current AAU weightlifting champion in the 242-pound class. He will go on to compete in the Ohio Valley Championships November 30.

"If I qualify for the Nationals (he will need to lift about 975 pounds in total weight) I will definitely compete," said Stuart.

"John is definitely a hard worker," said his coach Press Whelan. "Let's face it. You don't get these records by not working hard. John has self-motivation, and that's what makes him a champion athlete."

Where have all the heroes gone?

A young woman cries out her agony to
The Brooklyn sky
As good citizens dim their lights
So they may watch unseen
The late show in the streets.
A pregnant mother is harassed by hoodlums
While spectators stand mutely by.
And the young men?
The young men stand aside
Too smart to get involved.
In the current lingo they "keep their cool".
Well, listen here
No great civilizations have been built
By men who kept their cool . . .
No frontiers conquered
No revolutions waged
No brave new societies forged
By men who kept their cool.
All of mankind's shining achievements
Have been propelled into being
By hot-blooded young men, fired by an idea.
When the heroes take to the sidelines
Civilizations decline and disappear.
Right now this country needs heroes
To stick out their necks
For better schools
Better housing
Better jobs
Better government.
It's up to you to take it on.
You are our life insurance.

Sponsors Help Boost Morale In ROTC

By ELLEN ESSIC
Kernel Staff Writer

The University has three military affiliated organizations for girls: Kentucky Babes (the counterpart of Pershing Rifle Team), Air Force ROTC sponsors (Angel Flight), and Army ROTC sponsors.

All three organizations are open to any interested coed. Ky. Babes have 53 members after choosing 36 new ones last week. After choosing 8 last week, Army ROTC now has 15 sponsors. Angel Flight this week received 125 applications and has the task of choosing 10 to be Angels.

Ky. Babes are strictly a drill group. The girls drill in competition two or three times each year with other coed drill teams across the nation. They also usher for UK Band concerts, graduation, Focus programs, and welcome visiting athletic teams. The girls will march Nov. 9 in Lexington's "I Am an American" parade.

Angel Flight is a national organization of Air Force ROTC sponsors. The girls attend several regional and national conclaves or conventions each year. The function of Angel Flight is to promote the UK Air Force. Each Angel is required to attend corps training sessions one hour each Wednesday morning.

The girls marched in the Governor's inaugural parade and hope to represent the state in the presidential inaugural parade in January. They acted as official hostesses of the state by escorting Gov. Louie B. Nunn at last year's Kentucky Derby. The Angels in cooperation with Army ROTC sponsors plan and organize the annual Military Ball. Angels wear their Air Force Blue uniforms each Wednesday as do AFROTC cadets.

Army ROTC sponsors sometimes march in local parades but also have a variety of good will projects. They visit patients in the Army Hospital at Fort Knox, give parties for patients at Cardinal Hill Hospital for Crippled Children. Last year they wrote letters to soldiers in Vietnam. Some of the girls were asked to comment on their views of the Vietnam war.

One Army ROTC sponsor summed up the general feeling that girls of all three groups hold, "Due to the situation in Vietnam, any activity of this type is morale-boosting to our servicemen, and this is rewarding to me."

Debate Starts Here Today

The Kentucky Thoroughbred Debates will be held October 10-12, at the University of Kentucky Student Center.

There will be eighteen teams participating in this event. Each team will debate the resolution: RESOLVED that executive control of United States foreign policy should be significantly curtailed.

Participants will include Alabama, Boston College, Emory, Florida, Georgetown University, Georgia, Kentucky, Miami, Michigan, Northwestern, Notre Dame, Oberlin, Ohio State, Pittsburgh, South Carolina, Southwest Missouri, Wake Forest, and Wisconsin State.
