

141

THE DEANERY,
CANTERBURY.

Jul. 21

My dear Bishop,

I can fully enter
into what you say about the uncertainty of things:
but it will be delightful to look forward towards the swift-flowing day, &
look to the great Thirteenth Centenary of next year, & to the hope of having you with the Archbishop & others, one

guests, at the largest assemblage of Bishops
w. who have ever been gathered in England since its history began.

I trust that you
will soon take a thorough holiday, & with kind regards to Mrs Westcott, I am
w.

Yours truly,
am

your affectionately

W. Faraday.