WESTBOURNE SQUARE, W.

My dear Sir

I send you today
the story of the Falgout portrait, so written that it may go, as it is, straight into the article, if you approve, & if Mr. Rossetti does not mind alloying his gold with a drop of my silver. I hope you now have from Edwards satisfactory prints.

A few days ago

The Pall Mall Gazette asked what had become of Munro's medalion of Browning. I wish I knew, but until 3 weeks ago
it hung in the vestibule of the house of Mr. W. B.
Scott in Chelsea, where it was sold together with the rest of his London effects. I wanted to secure it, but lost it

Through a blunder.

Believe me
Dear Sir

Yours very truly

Edmund Gosse

W. H. Spielmann Esq.
