Dear Sir, we expect you of course tomorrow. As to the time, 6 is pleasanter to us than 7, & 7 than 8. But at any hour we shall be most glad to see you & sisters.

Yours

Dear Sir,
I have just been employed in reading Nos. 2. of your Every Day Book, and promise myself much pleasure through the year with it.
It is capitally begun. - You have not found me out yet at Colebrooke Cottage, where we dine at 4 o' Sundays.
When you can pick out a fine and leisure one, we shall be gladdened by your dropping in. But the particular occasion of my writing is to beg you will put me down as a Subscriber to your Parody Book, from which I
