Stock Rectory

July 31. 1891.

Dear Sir,

Perhaps I ought to have written to you sooner, but I have been moving about
a good deal, and the duty escaped my thought.

I think one of my Shakspere lectures
would be the best

for the audience you
offer me - Either Hamlet, Macbeth, or King Lear.
It might be well for you to choose among the three.

The address above
will hold till the end of September.

Yours truly
George MacDonald.
