3. Jan. 1927

My dear North,

I was acknowledging various books sent me from American friends this morning, when your Orcutt book arrived and added a very fine one to my debts. I have been staying in to-day, as a cold I caught on my journey to Bath on Dec. 23 has ended in a rather trouble-some cough & as the day was damp I thought I was better at home, though it is a horrid symptom of old age. I started Orcutt book at lunch & finished it at a sitting. He is very clever in the way in which he blends his three main threads, anecdotes of interesting acquaintances, the history of illustration in manuscripts & printed books and contemporary history of printing. It was he who took me round Boston when I was over in 1909, so his personality also interests me, as well as his work. Very many thanks.

|| I enclose you a cutting from The Times of last Friday on the Society's exhibition of Books of 1925 & 1926 at University College, Gower Street. you might about the same date as you get this to receive a copy of the Catalogue, which I did myself (!), and I also arranged the Show. It was quite interesting work, but coming as it did at Christmas took too much time. The Bib. Soc. indeed is becoming rather too heavy a job even with two Hon. Secretaries, or perhaps I should say that I have too much work for it, especially since I have departed from my early rule of never offering anything more than a paper to its publications. However the Short Title Catalogue is now at the Borders, & I only hope that it won't involve me in ceaseless correspondence for the rest of my life.

(D) Can you tell me whether The Printing Art is still being published & if so who is the publisher? years ago I wrote several articles for it and I should rather like to reprint some of them in a volume over here if the proprietors will give me leave. But I have so many jobs on hand, which move very slowly, that I daresay I shouldn't have time to see about it, so don't bother if you can't get me the answer off hand.

Please remember me to Mrs. North. —

Believe me ever yours sincerely Alfred W. Pollard
