Dear Miss Mason,

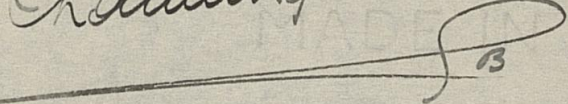

Many, many thanks for your charming note of the 4th. I feel that part of my job in life is doing whatever my limited influence enables me to do in behalf of plans like yours, and I shall not forget that responsibility.

Thank you so much for reporting Mr. Elliott's flattering reference to "The Fool". It recalls to me our discussion of public honors. The year "The Fool" was produced, the Pulitzer Prize went to a play called "Icebound". I don't think anybody remembers it -- including the author.

Under these conditions, a statement like Mr. Elliott's is peculiarly grateful.

With warmest regards,

Cordially yours,

Channing Pollock
