My dear Sir,

It gives me great pleasure to learn that we shall see you here so soon; but I regret to say that your precursor, ~~the~~ ~~letter~~ has not yet reached us. I should have answered your letter yesterday but from the hope that today I might have had it in my power to tell you that the carriage had arrived. Remember that my house is only a mile and a half beyond Abbotside so that if you come by a stage ^{or cab} from Sherdell you will have ~~only~~ no occasion to stop ~~at~~ at Abbotside. The coach Cover sheetal every morning between 7 and 8 o'clock, and paper just under my hair a little after ten. If you come by that conveyance in the morning from here, by all means travel on the ~~road~~ outside for the sake of the fine view.

I remain dear Sir very faithfully yours
W. Woodworth

My dear Thomas
Dear Amherst
I have a day home I pray remember that you are to be my guest, on this point be much insist. — and if possible make such arrange ment as will allow you to see time to see, under my guidance, some things of the beauties of ~~the~~ this charming Country -
