

a you are.

Believe me

Dear Lady Stangford

very truly yours

A. Kinglake.

28, Hyde Park Place,
Marble Arch, W.

May 11. 1879.

Dear Lady Stangford

I read your Paper in the "Nineteenth Century" with much interest, & I think,
with a real gain of knowledge acquired
in a very pleasant way, because your treatment, clear, decisive manner of writing

conveys a good deal in few words.

You are not able, I see, to represent them as an attractive
people at present & your account
in that respect
sustains my

68.38R.3

prejudices against the people who have managed to become a cause of so much
misery to themselves & to others of nobler breed. However,
you happily see
a future for them when brought into a state of higher cultivation, & I suppose no one is so competent to form a judgment
about these people

35R3

Alex. W. Kinglake
1809-1891
Historian of the Crimean War
Author M.P. et.