

PARADISE ROAD,
NORTHAMPTON, MASS.,

May 22, 1891.

Dear Johnson:

I sent you this morning by express the MS of about one third of my projected novel.

Thank you for your offer to read it with as much expedition as possible. It is very hard to go on with the work with all the back work out of reach.

If you think you should find yourself ready to ~~start~~ as soon as next Tuesday and will send a ^{letter by} messenger-boy to be left with the keeper of the package-rooms Grand Central Depot 42^d Street, to be called for by me before 9 o'clock Tuesday morning it shall be saved an extra trip to New York.

Yours truly
J. W. Cable

4
bottom