July 27 - 1903

Dear Sir -

Thank you for your kind letter - I should much like to see you here for a talk about Charles Lamb & other matters - for I remember more than one courtesy that you have shown me in past years. The difficulty is that I am leaving London for Thursday for some weeks, and in consequence the next few days are rather inconveniently full with me. You do not mention how long your stay in London is going to be. Indeed

MASTER'S HOUSE,
TEMPLE, E.C.

from the wording of your letter I do not feel sure that you have not come to "stay" altogether. If you are to be in England ~~at the~~ ^{until} the end of the year, I should much hope to see you in October, when (all being well) I shall be once more at the Temple. But if you are really making only a flying visit to London, & this is my only chance, I would ask if you could give me a call ~~then~~ on Wednesday afternoon between four & five, when I could give you a cup tea. My difficulties at present are made greater that I am only just recovering from an attack of influenza, w. has left me very weak - as that viridious disease is in the habit of doing. The Temple Church closes after next Sunday for two months. Partly because of my late illness, leaving ^{from} before the end of the service - & the preacher on Sunday next will be Bishop Willdon. But I hope, in view of your kind words as to hearing me preach, that you may be still among
