MOTHERS OF CO-EDS VISITING HERE TOMORROW

OBSERVANCE OF ANNUAL 'AG DAY' HELD ON CAMPUS

Interesting Program is Planned for Visitors to College

DISPLAY OF WORK

Style Shows and Stunts To be Given in the Afternoon

Today is Ag Day! In the agricultural calendar this is the one big day of the year. Stewart Graham is in charge of all the activities for the occasion. The program for the day includes displays made by the students of the Agricultural college, feature of which is the annual style show by the Home Ec students. They are to act as models for their own dresses. On account of the extreme popularity of the style show last year, there will be two performances, one at 2:30 and the other at 4:00.

The display includes: Model farm (small) under the direction of Marshall Harris and J. W. Drake.

Kentucky Field Crops and Grain: C. A. Hollowell, R. B. McClure, Ed Ford, John Blue, L. W. Stamper.

Beef Cattle, Sheep Hogs: Percy Gooding, B. Y. Redford, Lucy Holt, Otto Gaffin.

Dairy Cattle: Clark Walls, J. A. McCoy, John Wattleington, Elmer Leachman.

Dairy Manufactures, Farm Machinery: C. B. Godbey, J. E. Withrow, Donald Griffith.

Horticulture: C. E. Hubbuch, Leland Scott.

Dietetics: Ritchie Stevenson.

Biscuit Making: Virginia Newman.

Style Show: Lana Martine Coates.

Furniture: Eleanor Smith.

Table Service: Emma Forkner.

Nutrition: Elizabeth Galloway.

Reception Committee: "Pinky" Atkins.

During the afternoon there will be various stunts as a horse-power contest between two teams of mules; annual milking contest (open to Home Ec students only) which is to be judged by the present champion, Miss Mary Graham Williams; and a sheep shearing contest.

At night there will be an informal ball dance at the university gym from 9 until 1. The committee in charge of the dance is: Jameson Jones, Eugenia Herrington, Elizabeth Morris, Reed Miller, Hughes Hamilton, and Powell Owens.

"HALL OF FAME" TO BE FEATURE

Week of June 1 Will be Important in Lexington

One of the outstanding features of sesqui-centennial week, which will be observed in Lexington the week of June 1, is the historical "Hall of Fame" at Morrison Chapel, Transylvania College, June 4 and 5, where there will be a display of various historical relics collected from over the entire state of Kentucky. Allen Swisher, of the department of Art, will be in charge of the hanging of portraits and Professor W. S. Webb, also of the university, will be in charge of Indian relics.

The week of June 1 is to observe the birthday of the city of Lexington, and relics, consisting of china, portraits, Indian relics and various other antiques will be collected by the committee in charge.

Besides the celebration of the sesqui-centennial, the week of June 1 also includes the reunion of the Boone family, descendants of the Boone family will come from all parts of the United States to assemble at the convention to be held in Lexington.

LOST—A small brown leather purse, on the campus between the Science building and White Hall. Has letter "M" tooled on back. Finder please return to Thelma McElroy, 120 East Maxwell street.

NOTICE TO KERNEL STAFF!

There will be a meeting of the entire staff on Monday, May 11, at the fifth hour, in Professor Grehan's room. It is very necessary that every member of the staff be present. Any member absent from this meeting without a good excuse will be discharged from the staff. The purpose of the meeting is to consider purchasing a press for next year.

The Managing Editor.

KENTUCKIAN IS OUT EARLY FOR THE FIRST TIME

Beautifully Bound Copy Divided Into Six Books

F. H. CARTER EDITOR

Entire Staff to be Congratulated on Fine Issue

Tuesday there appeared on the campus a beautiful blue and gold bound book. Everyone was all excited, students were hurrying everywhere to get one of these volumes or to find someone to look on with. To the surprise and joy of all it was found upon close inspection to be the 1925 Kentuckian. This is the first time the Annual has ever been given to the students so early, and only the second time it has made its appearance before the end of the regular school year.

The 1925 Kentuckian is dedicated to Dr. Frank LeRond McVey, our own President. The volume is divided into six books, University, Athletics, Popular Women, Fraternities, Organizations, and Feature respectively. A detailed and well written account of the stadium is given, and it is gratifying to note that our pep song, "On! On! U. of K.," has been copyrighted and published.

Never before have the pictures of the building composing our university been so well done. They are a marvel of tinted photography. Ours is a beautiful campus and these pictures more than do it justice.

In the first book, "The University," appear the respective buildings and a picture of the officers of the senior class. Then follow many pages on which appear the photographs of ten handsome seniors, snapped just before they go forth to conquer the world. The other classes follow in order with the pictures of their class officers and the class roll.

"THE DOVER ROAD" NEW ROMANY PLAY

Production Will be Presented on May 18

"The Dover Road," a special performance not included in the regular season of five plays, is being rehearsed at the Romany Theatre for production the week of May 18.

The cast is small, having but six persons, one of whom has not yet been chosen. The part of Mr. Lattimer will be played by Churchill Newcomb, who was the blind major in the "Enchanted Cottage." Eustasia will be taken by Miss Margot Semmes, of Mexico City, who so successfully portrayed the part of Mrs. Smallwood in the same play. Junius Millard and Leland Westfall have the parts Leonard and Nicholas, respectively, and Miss Frances Smith, the leading lady in the university Stroller play, "Lady Windemere's Fan," has the part of Ann.

"The Dover Road," by A. A. Milne, author of "Mr. Pim Passes By," which met with success here last year, is a delightful comedy. Miss Ann Callahan, of the university Art department, has charge of the setting of the play, which is to be in an English interior.

U. K. JOURNALISTS PUBLISH A FINE EDITION OF THE LEXINGTON HERALD

Co-Eds Working in Mechanical Department Cause Riot; Many Retire After Lunch at 11 O'CLOCK

At 4 o'clock Tuesday morning eight students from the department of journalism were seen meandering their weary way through the downtown streets of Lexington. They were tired—dog tired. Those eight students were the last of the overgrown staff that had participated in the publishing of the Lexington Herald and they would not have exchanged places with the Prince of Wales, regardless of where he was at the time.

At 6 o'clock Monday afternoon it would have been impossible to convince any one of the assembled maids and knights that he would leave the office before the edition were prepared, but after the hot-dogs were devoured at 11 o'clock, many early retirees, much to the relief of the editors, announced their intentions of going home.

When the ladies left, the male reporters did their most brilliant piece of work. With the courtesy of Galahads they escorted the maids home and only hung on so as to share in the prizes that they deserve honorable mention for this service: Bob Mitchell, Kyle Whitehead, Turner Gregg, John Bullock, and Roland Roberts. The aforementioned "kams" were responsible for the safe arrival home of Jean Wolf, Lois Hargett, Lydia Fremel, Frances Green, Dorothy Stebbins, Edna Lewis Wells, Nellie Torian, Eugenia O'Hara, Rachelle Shacklette, and Curtis Bauer. "Turkey" Hughes came down and graciously accompanied the King sisters home.

Frances Kane, who lives out in the country where the chickens and peepers retire simultaneously, and who acted as state editor during the night, did not yawn until 8:30. After her first yawn she became very inefficient and only hung on so as to share in the cats at 11 o'clock. It is reported by Amanda Gordon, who with Miss Kane spent the night, that Frances had been occupying a K. D. bed for three days.

DR. FUNKHOUSER DRAMATIC CLASS PUBLISHES BOOK TO GIVE COMEDY

'Wild Life in Kentucky' is Title of Geological Catalogue To Run the Entire Week at the Romany Theatre

"Wild Life in Kentucky," by Doctor W. D. Funkhouser, head of the department of Zoology of the university, and published by the State Geological Survey, is out of the press. It is the first published catalogue of the reptiles birds and mammals of the state and it is thought that it will be the most popular book that has ever been issued by the Survey.

The book is attractively bound and contains 385 pages and 89 illustrations. Maps and diagrams also make the book a valuable contribution to the archives of the state.

In predicting its popularity, Dr. William Rouse Jilison, State Geologist, said that the book would no doubt serve as the first text book in the state to discuss intelligently wild life with a minimum of technicalities.

Written for the layman, the book is interestingly and accurately presented. He also said that children particularly will be able to gain a constructive knowledge of geological and zoological facts about their state from a study of it.

The frontispiece is an original painting of a Kentucky cardinal, by Leonard Giovannoli, son of Harry Giovannoli, Lexington publisher. Gi-vannoli is a senior in the college of Arts and Science.

INSTRUCTIONS TO STUDENTS FOR MOTHERS' DAY

Miss Blandish wishes to meet the mothers, who arrive Friday morning, in her office in order to become acquainted with them before the official program begins at 2:30. A drive through the Blue Grass will open the festivities and all mothers and daughters are asked to meet at the men's gymnasium at 2:30. Following the drive, Doctor and Mrs. McVey will entertain with a tea at their home.

"MESSIAH" HOLDS 2,000 PERSONS SPELL-BOUND

Greatest of Oratorios is Presented by 300 Voices

LAMPERT PRAISED

Famous Soloists From Chicago and New York Sing

Not one of the 2,000 people, who filled the auditorium of the basketball building Thursday, April 30, will ever forget the glorious, soul-stirring, awe-inspiring music of the night—the music of "The Messiah." It was of surpassing beauty—the kind of beauty that lies deep in the soul of the musician, the beauty that singers feel and that the audience must experience if they would be appreciative.

As the prophetic, sonorous, dignified lines, which exhort the people to prepare for the coming of the Saviour, are chanted, one feels that he is in the hills with the shepherds keeping watch. The chant gradually develops into a clear, sweet melody and then with a majestic sweep the chorus carries it on to the impressive climax ending in the phrase "Unto Us a Child is Born. Unto Us a Son is Given."

From the note of joy it suddenly falls to one of sorrow. The rejection of the Messiah is told, followed by His crucifixion—it is a time of darkness, a time of blackest despair, when all hope seems lost.

Then comes His resurrection and the oratorio ends on this note; ends in a blaze of glory with the chorus praising "God in the Highest."

It is not possible for a person to be in that auditorium without feeling that truly his "Redeemer liveth." "The Messiah" is real, one of the real things there is. Although it was written in another time and for another people, its message is universal; it can still move the hearts of men as well shown Thursday.

DATES ANNOUNCED FOR GRADUATION

293 Will Receive Degrees at Exercises June 1

One more month will terminate the four-year struggle for degrees of over three hundred students at the university, 293 of whom are candidates for bachelor degrees and 27 for master degrees.

Plans for Commencement week have not been completed, but several have been announced. The baccalaureate sermon for the class of '25 will be delivered at 3 o'clock on May 31 in the university gymnasium by the Rt. Rev. Lewis William Burton, bishop of the diocese of Kentucky.

WILL BE HONOR GUESTS DURING NEXT TWO DAYS

Elaborate Program is Planned for Their Entertainment

McVEY WILL SPEAK

Purpose is to Further Parents' Interests in University

Parents from all over the state will be guests at the University of Kentucky next Friday and Saturday, May 9 and 10. Although the mothers are to be special guests, the fathers are cordially invited to be present.

The object of Mothers' Day is to arouse a keen interest in the university and its program, to give a chance for the parents to meet the faculty with whom the students have classes, and to awaken a real appreciation of the many worthy things the university is endeavoring to accomplish.

The mothers will be taken care of in the women's residence halls and fraternity houses. Already there have been great number of acceptances from mothers from various parts of the state.

The program for the visitors includes a drive, visit to the Romany Theatre, the Art department, the college of Engineering, the Home Economics department, the Practice House, the Experiment Station, and farm.

Saturday afternoon President and Mrs. McVey will entertain with a tea at the President's home, Maxwell Place, at which time Doctor McVey will address the guests.

Saturday night a reception will be given at Patterson Hall at which time all the faculty members and their wives will be present. On Sunday each girl will take her mother to church. Sunday night the Y. W. C. A. will conduct a special Mothers' Day vesper service on the lawn at Patterson Hall. Following the vesper service the Woman's Self Government Association will serve tea.

KIRWAN SPEAKS TO LEX. HI-Y CLUB

Chose as His Subject, "Sportsmanship and Athletics"

Ab Kirwan, who was the principal speaker of the Hi-Y Club at the City Y. M. C. A. last Thursday night, took as his subject, "Sportsmanship and Athletics." There were about fifty high school boys in attendance at the meeting. After the talk the usual "pork and beans supper" was served.

Mr. Kirwan uses as the theme of his speech that both the spectators and the athletes should live up to the athletic code, and always bear in mind that it is better to lose honorably than to win unfairly. That he was well fitted to make this talk is shown by the fact that he was elected captain for the University of Kentucky football team next year.

Mr. Kirwan, who is a junior in the college of Engineering, was recently pledged to Lamp and Cross, men's senior honorary fraternity.

SENIORS, NOTICE!

Those seniors who have not obtained their invitations may do so Saturday morning, May 9, in the hall of the administration building. All seniors whose names were left off the invitation please see the committee at this time.

UNIVERSITY JOURNALISTS

Among the more than three hundred students who will be welcomed into the ranks of the alumni, the senior members of the classes in the department of Journalism have probably been first to demonstrate as a class the mark they will make for themselves in the world.

They edited and published the May 5th issue of the Lexington Herald. For that number the "regulars" left and the students took complete charge.

The general sentiment was expressed in an editorial appearing in the Herald on the morning of May 6, which is, in part as follows: "There was a springtime freshness about this newspaper published by the students of the school of Journalism. Reflecting the spirit of these young men and women, alert, energetic, courageous and with a vision it answered that description 'live' which, in a newspaper, is so much to be desired."

"There was nothing amateurish about the edition which came from the press the work of the brains and hands of these ambitious sons and daughters of the commonwealth. Their finished work as dignified and clean as it was bright and peppery, the students who edited this newspaper and prepared the copy for its advertisements showed that they were conscious of a serious duty which a newspaper must perform, of an obligation which the newspaper fulfills as a servant of the sovereign public interest."

"Once in a while there appear those crisy newspapermen who still are unconvinced concerning schools of newspaper training. They say that his fingers before learning to walk. There are undoubtedly certain talents, training and interests which prepare a man better for certain work than for other work, so that the choice of a profession seems, in fact, to be the answer to a calling."

"The newspaper profession, however, is a profession which demands trained workers. It is necessary for those who progress in it to prepare themselves by careful study."

"But there are more important things in any life work than what is commonly referred to as 'knowing the game.' The copywriters who lent their talents to the Herald Monday night knew how to count on their fingers, which is essential to the writing of headlines. They 'told the story and made them fit.' The reporters managed to 'cover the beats' without being 'scopped.' The advertising solicitors 'sold' and 'laid out' their copy. The news editors 'made up' the forms and 'put them to bed' and then 'made over' for the 'overseer.' The editorial writers avowed, and averred, exposed and exploited."

"The Herald can express its satisfaction with the results and its belief that a real benefit has been accomplished not only in offering a means to the students of Journalism for putting into actual practice in a real newspaper plant the lessons learned in the classrooms but also furnishing a live and interesting newspaper to its readers than to ask that the custom be made an annual one."

"One day a year, hereafter, The Herald extends the same invitation to the students of the university school of Journalism in the hope that they will see fit to accept it with the pleasant results as those obtained this year."

GRAD RETURNS AS INSTRUCTOR

C. C. Jett '99, Returns to University in September

C. C. Jett, '99, formerly engineer with Arthur G. McKee & Company, blast furnace engineers and contractors of Cleveland, has been appointed a full professor at the University of Kentucky by the board of trustees. Mr. Jett will assume his duties on the opening of the University in September.

Mr. Jett has for the past 20 years been engaged as a responsible engineer in machine designing at Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Cleveland.

He was president of the Pittsburgh Alumni club in 1923-24, and the Association remembers with satisfaction the definite progress made by the club during his administration.

LOUISVILLE SENDS OUT BULLETIN

C. V. Watson, '22, is the Editor

The following bulletin was received by the Alumni office last week:

The largest number we have ever had out were present the last meeting, 39. Good, but better this time, 50. There were so many that we cannot list each member's name, you know if you were there anyway.

K. E. A. is over Many of us had the pleasure of seeing old friends. We hope their visit here was profitable as well as enjoyable. The K. E. A. banquet was a success. The largest number that ever attended, about 300. President Hoehster was toastmaster, and to say he filled the place admirably would be giving him little credit. We are sorry for you who failed to be at the K. E. A. banquet at the Brown. President McVey gave a splendid talk and outlined the progress our Alma Mater had been making. Eddie Mims of Vanderbilt, an honored guest, paid President McVey and the university a deserved compliment.

The Strollers were here. We thought we had better mention it at this time, for judging from the crowd we had out few knew they were here on the 24th. Come on out to the luncheon Saturday, for we will not be asking for money.

Messrs. Watson, Morgan, Bamber, Mesdames, Morgan, Bamber, Meguire and Misses Blatz, Conroy and Lavlin did splendid work on the ticket committee.

Those who have paid their dues and joined since the last meeting are: Hedden, Lee, Marx, Greig, Campbell and Pennington. We want more. Come add your name to the list. Two dollars a year for the Alumni dues and twenty-five cents for the local Association.

A splendid program for the meeting Saturday has been arranged by the program committee. Those on the program are: Mrs. Harry Speyer, Miss Emily Denbitz, and "Sunshine" Brains.

From the above artists that will appear on the program for the entertainment, Judge Gregory will be the principal speaker. Judge Gregory, that is the name, is all that could be added if we were to try and say anything about him. This meeting will be open to the Alumni to bring their friends, wives, husbands, sweethearts, or what nos. Come and enjoy one hour with us.

The program committee which sold advertising space for the Stroller program should be congratulated for selling the entire space. Morgan, Bamber and Speyer did great work.

You have a friend who went to State who has never been out to these luncheons, so bring her or she along for this meeting.

C. V. WATSON, Editor.

CLASS PERSONALS

91 In the Kernel of April 24 there was an error made in the item about Garnet Ross Klein. It should have stated that Mr. Klein was a heating and ventilating engineer, and that his address is 632 Florence street.

94 The address of James H. Gardner has been changed from 121 East Sixth street to 505 Exchange National Bank building, Tulsa, Okla.

J. Harry Clo writes: "Will you kindly change my address from Co. A. Schrader's Son, Brooklyn, N. Y., to 390 Argle Road, Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Clo received his M. S. in '05, and his Ph. D. from Chicago in '11.

A. Thornton Lewis, vice-president and general manager of the York Heating and Ventilating Corporation of Philadelphia, arrived last Friday to be with his father, J. B. Lewis of Versailles, veteran newspaper man, who was stricken last week.

97 Walter McKinney, from whom we had not heard for some time, recently sent in dues and advice that he was farming at Mt. Salem, Ky. Mr. McKinney married Miss Mary Lee Givens, April 21, 1923.

99 The wedding of Miss Ruby Ringo Fleming and Walter Van Barney was solemnized on April 1 at Washington, D. C. They will live at 1620 R Street. Mrs. Van Barney was a law student at the George Washington Washington.

12 "Will you please change my address from 758 Commonwealth avenue Massillon, Ohio to 14 East Dix street, North East, Penna. I am now with the Lake Shore Sand and Gravel company, in charge of their production at North East.

"I also wish to announce the birth of Thos. E. Jr., born April 28, 1925. "Y. E. Earle."

13 George Atwell Scott, until recently on our "lost list" is now with Howard and Ash, Kansas City, Mo. Alumni dues D and Subscription to the Kernel $2.00.

14 Harry N. Woodson, formerly a 'lost member has been located at Buckingham, Iowa.

15 J. T. Gooch, Madisonville, Ky., in addition to sending in addresses of three "lost" alumni, whose whereabouts appear in this issue of the Kernel, writes: "I am pleased to read the Kernel and more especially the 'Class Personals.' Through that column I keep in touch with many of my old friends and classmates.

"This is the year for the election of county officers, and I am trying my hand at the County Attorney office." H. E. Barth has changed his address to 1456 David Whitney building Detroit, Mich., where he is District Sales manager of the American Blower company, who was formerly district manager for this company in Cleveland, Ohio.

24 The Woodford Sun has the following notice: "Mr. Albert B. Chandler, secretary of the Versailles Optimist club and member of the International Optimists' committee on inter-club relations went to Henderson, Ky., his old home, last week in place of District Gov. Maurice T. Stitt of Louisville, to officially present the charter to the newly organized Henderson Optimist club. Enroute, he stopped at Owensboro to make an address before the Optimist club of that city. He received enthusiastic welcomes at both places."

"The Henderson Daily Gleaner, in a lengthy, complimentary notice of Mr. Chandler's address says: 'The railroad now rest.

Optimist International is to be congratulated on having such a wonderful young lad as Chandler. He and Henderson was proud to have him make the charter presentation. . . . President Pentecost opened his address by saying that the speech of Mr. Chandler was the best, sweetest and cleanest address he had ever heard."

"The Owensboro Messenger's leading editorial in its Sunday issue, on helping the boys, was devoted to Mr. Chandler and his address. The Owensboro Inquirer also complimented him."

Mr. Chandler will be remembered as "Happy" Chandler of undergraduate days.

Harry B. Lane is assistant county agent of Crittenden county. He is living at Marion, Ky.

Miss Florence Brewer is Red Cross Nutrition Worker at Princeton, Ky.

INSTALLATION OF HONORARY HELD

Is National for Campus Leaders and Faculty Members

Nu Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary fraternity for campus leaders, of the university, was installed last Monday night at the Lafayette hotel. The group receiving the charter is composed of four faculty members and 19 students.

The purpose of the fraternity is to bring together into one group the faculty and campus leaders in the various fields of campus activities. Eminence in scholarship, athletics, campus life, forensic attainments and publications form the basis upon which membership into the fraternity is determined.

The local circle was installed by Professor H. L. Hewlett, faculty member of the circle at Centre College, and vice-president of the national fraternity. He was assisted in the ceremonies by Minos Gordy, William Shndon and Edgar Newland, members of Zeta Circle at Centre.

Founded at Washington and Lee University in 1914, the organization has grown rapidly and today has circles in many of the large universities and colleges, including Pittsburgh, Alabama, Johns Hopkins, Williams and Marys College, North Carolina, and Centre. A circle is to be installed at Leigh University the tenth of the month and will make the circle roll 16.

L. T. HARZA WILL DELIVER LECTURE

Dix River Dam Engineer Speaks Here Thursday

L. T. Harza, designing engineer for the Dix River Dam, will deliver an illustrated lecture on its construction Thursday morning at 11:30 o'clock in Dickler Hall. The lecture will consist of descriptions of the dam, the many engineering problems involved and its economic value to Kentucky.

Mr. Harza comes from Pittsburg to deliver this lecture and will be assisted by George W. Howson, resident engineer for the dam. All students and residents of Lexington are urged to attend the lecture, as it will be highly beneficial as well as interesting.

FIRST LOCOMOTIVE TO BE REPRODUCED

Prof. Anderson Working on Engine for Exposition

One of the most interesting displays in the sesqui-centennial exposition to be held June 1-6, will be the reproduction of the original locomotive that was run on the old Lexington and Ohio railroad in 1832. The reproduction of the locomotive and one-passenger coach are being built by Professor Charles A. Anderson, of the college of engineering. He is patterning these from sketches of the engine and car invented by Thomas Barlow. This locomotive was the first successful steam railroad engine ever constructed in America. After the exposition, the engine and car will be placed on permanent exhibition on the platform in front of Mechanical Hall, where part of the original track and stone sills of the old railroad now rest.

DEBATE WON BY FORMER STUDENT LOUISIANA GIRLS EDITOR OF PAPER

Men's Team Faces Its Hardest Test Thursday Night

Louisiana's women debating team defeated the girls of the university on Tuesday evening at the Maxwell street Presbyterian church. Kentucky had the affirmative and Louisiana the negative of the proposition, "Resolved: That the Child Labor Amendment Should be Adopted."

Misses Martha Reed and Ruby Rush represented Kentucky in this debate, while the visiting aggregation consisted of Misses Cary Johnson and Aimee De Goeffroy, with Miss Gaud Schill as alternate, and Miss Julia M. Jolly as coach.

The judges of the debate were Prof. Clarence Shute, of Ashbury College; Prof. W. B. Hughes of Kentucky Wesleyan College, and Prof. C. A. Keith, of Kentucky State Normal School.

What promises* to be one of the most exciting debates of the year will be held on Thursday night at the Maxwell Presbyterian Church when the men's team of the university will contest with North Carolina. On this occasion the university will be represented by Messrs. John Y. Brown and W. O. Keller and these men are out for revenge, as earlier in the season North Carolina defeated them at Chapel Hill. The subject for this debate will be "Resolved: That Congress Should be Empowered to Override by a Two-thirds Vote Decisions of the Supreme Court Declaring Congressional Action Unconstitutional."

Raymond Kirk Attains Success on Paintsville Herald

A newspaper, the Paintsville Herald, edited by Raymond Kirk, has been recently received at the Kernel office. The Kernel wishes to commend its editor as a former university student.

"The criterion of the newspaper, 'Keeping everlastingly at it brings success,' seems to be realized. His headlines are good and his news is current and well written. Not only has the paper local news, but a wide field of national and international interest. It is full of large and attractive advertisements, which are a compliment to its advertising manager."

The paper contains an eight page comic section in which are many of our old favorites, such as "Slim Jim." There is a fashion story for the women and a thrilling mystery story, "The Blue Circle," by Elizabeth Jordan, for the readers of fiction, while the sport page is full of news and well written with the cuts clear and distinct. In fact, the paper has everything from a picture of Jackie Coogan to a cross-word puzzle.

The editor, Raymond Kirk, was graduated from the university with the class of '24 and during his last year in school was the editor in chief of the Kernel. He was one of the most popular boys in school and was a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity.

SEWANEEN TRACK TEAM DEFEATED BY 'CAT ARTISTS

Hughes Wins Jumps—Brady Takes 100, Pole Vault

DOWDEN IS IN FORM

Wildcats Win Majority of First Places in Meet

The cats completely redeemed themselves in the eyes of the student body last Saturday when they overwhelmingly defeated Sewanee at Sewanee, Tenn., in the second track meet of the season by the score of 76 to 36.

"Turkey" Hughes again proved that he is anybody's superior in the high and broad jumps, winning these events by comfortable margins.

An unknown Wildcat performer, Dowden, came to the front and demonstrated in this meet that he is to be reckoned with on any track team.

The men who made the trip were: Coach Applegram, Manager Norris, Captain Woolf, Brady, Lindie, Brown, Hughes, Brame, Dowden, Anglin, Gregg, and Dewhurst.

The team will journey to Bloomington, Ind., Saturday to take on Indiana University.

The summaries: 2-mile run—Brame K first, Dowden K second.

100-yard dash—Brady K first, Nash S second.

Shot put—Hegvay S first, Anglin K second.

440-yard dash—Brown K first, Myers S second.

120-yard high hurdles—Nash S first, Lindie K second.

Pole vault—Brady and Gregg K tied.

1-mile run—Williams S first, Dowden K second.

Javelin throw—Woolf K first, Dewhurst K second.

220-yard hurdles—Nash S first, Brady K second.

Half mile run—Williams S first, Brown K second.

Discus throw—Pelvey S first, Anglin K second.

High jump—Hughes K first, Brady K second.

Broad jump—Hughes K first, Brady K second.

10-KERNEL ENGLISH SCULPTOR FINISHES STATUES

Gamour Airdale Dogs of Prof. Anderson Modeled

Kathleen Wheeler, noted English sculptor, who has made statues of the renowned race horses, including Man o' War, Zev, Epinar and others, has just completed a statue of Jerry and his son, Jerry, Jr., the famous Airdale dogs of F. Paul Anderson, dean of the college of Engineering.

The statue, which is a remarkable likeness of the two dogs, has been presented to the college and has been placed in the office of Dean Anderson.

Miss Wheeler is now in Lexington and is working on several statues of horses.

FROSH AGAIN BEAT BUFFALOES

Charley Wert Performs Like Big Leaguer; Mates Win

The Kitten baseball team defeated the Georgetown high school baseball team Wednesday afternoon at Georgetown 13 to 0.

The Kitten team showed more baseball ability in this game than in any game played so far this season. There was more pep in the players and they showed this to a great extent while on the playing field.

Every freshman seemed set for the game each one performing his individual duty in great style. Few errors were made and the hitting was of high caliber.

The pitching of Charlie Wert, Kitten pitcher, was the feature of the game. Wert pitched like a big leaguer at all times during the fray. Never was he in danger of being scored on. Only twenty-nine men faced him.

Two of this number did reach first base. For while it looked as if Wert was going to pitch a no-hit-no-run game, but failure of the outfield to be awake caused two hits to be registered against the sterling freshman pitcher.

Francey, left fielder for the first termers, played a spectacular game both in the field and at the bat. He made several difficult catches in the outfield and one long drive, especially was turned into an out; after a long run, the speedy fellow dove through the air and caught the ball just before it hit the ground. He also was the batting luminary of the game, collecting four hits out of five times at bat. Three of his hits were for extra bases.

Stone, pitcher for Georgetown, was handled with ease by the Kitten batters. They knocked him to all corners of the lot and he finally had to leave the game in the fifth inning. Stone is regarded as the best pitcher in Kentucky's inter-scholastic baseball circles. The Georgetown team played very ragged ball, making several errors during the afternoon.

DR. RUSH NAMED ON COMMITTEE

Appointed on Welfare League Executive Committee

Dr. J. E. Rush, head of the department of Hygiene and Public Health, has been appointed a member of the executive committee of the Welfare League to fill the vacancy brought about by the resignation of Carter Hale, former scout master executive of the Lexington council, who will take a position in Chicago.

Rush says that the notice Saturday of his appointment came as a complete surprise to him.

The executive committee of the Welfare League is composed of representatives from each organization in the League; and, since its members are selected for their special knowledge in particular fields, the appointment carries with it the recognition of Doctor Rush as an outstanding figure in the work that he is doing here.

Doctor Rush is on the executive board of the Lexington council and has served as chairman of the leadership and training committee, which recently conducted a course for the training of scout masters.

The Boy Scouts have two representatives on the executive committee of the League, C. T. Roszell serving as president of the council.

SIX WILDCATS WILL REPRESENT KENTUCKY IN S. I. C. TRACK MEET

Brady, Hughes, Davis, Dewhurst, Lindie, and Woolf Will Attempt to Bring Home Victory

The University of Kentucky will have six representatives at the Southern Interscholastic Conference track and field meet, which is to be held under the auspices of the University of the South, at Sewanee, Tennessee, May 15 and 16. These men are: Brady, Hughes, Davis, Dewhurst, Lindie and Woolf.

Brady placed in the pole vault last year and should be able to get first this year with the added experience and practice since then. Gordon Davis will be entered in the dashes.

"Turkey" Hughes, holder of the S. I. C. broad jump record, was disqualified last year in the high jump after he had won the event by clearing the bar at five feet, eleven. Dewhurst and Lindie will be entered in the hurdles and middle distance events.

George Woolf, captain of this year's track team, should make a good showing in the javelin throw.

Besides participating in the pole vault, Brady is expected to win or place in the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

U. K. TENNIS TEAM DISPLAYS CLASS IN TAKING BEREA, TIEING LOUISVILLE

Coach Downing's Squad Sweeps All Matches With the Bereans—Play Louisville Again May 15

The University of Kentucky tennis team journeyed to Berea last Thursday and took everything in sight. Had not rain intervened, there is no doubt that they would have won every match.

Jasper McClure and Arthur Lewis won easily over Barbe and Porter in the doubles with a score of 6-3, 6-3. McFarland and Ragland defeated Watson and Sherman 4-6, 6-3, 6-2. This match was played in a drizzling rain. Bobbitt was defeating Barbe when the match was called on account of rain. The score was 4-1 in Bobbitt's favor when the match was called off.

Those men making the trip were: McFarland, Ragland, McClure, Greenbaum, Lewis and Coach Downing.

On Friday the University of Louisville tennis team played the local team on the university courts. Weber, the state champion, of Louisville, defeated McFarland in the singles, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4. Girdler of Louisville defeated Greenbaum 6-1, 3-6, 6-2, and Ragland of Kentucky defeated Keintze of Louisville by a score of 6-4, 6-2.

In the doubles, McFarland and Greenbaum defeated Girdler and Lafen of Louisville, 6-3, 6-2. In the doubles match between McFarland and Ragland and Weber and Keintze, the Louisville boys won the first set 8-6. The second set was interrupted by rain with McFarland and Ragland leading the set by a score of 5-2.

It was agreed to call the match a tie with each team having 2-1-2 points each. Kentucky will play at Louisville on the 15th for the state championship. On the 14th Berea will come to Lexington for a return match.

TRAVIS, SOPHOMORE WINS SCHOLARSHIP

Given by Pullman Co. at Live Stock Exposition

Hamil Travis, Little Cypress, Ky., a sophomore in the college of Agriculture, won the scholarship at the International Live Stock Exposition. This scholarship amounts to $250 and was given by the Pullman Company. The award was made on the basis of the need of an applicant for financial assistance, and on his desire to obtain an education.

The $250 is in the form of a loan and is paid in quarterly installments over a period of twelve months.

INABILITY TO HIT COSTS WILDCATS LAST OF SERIES

Kentucky Gets 9 Puny Blows and Loses the Game

ALBERTS IS STAR

Chancellor is Ineffective Against Alabama Nine

The Wildcat baseball nine suffered its second consecutive defeat at the hands of the hard hitting Alabama baseball team Tuesday afternoon by the score of 10 to 5.

Inability to hit in the pinches and the wildness of Chancellor, cat pitcher, coupled with 'cat errors, gave the second game of the series to the Red and White.

The Wildcats and Alabama secured nine bingles each, but the Blue team failed to hit when needed.

For Alabama the outstanding performers in the second game were Hutto, who besides pitching a heady game, collected two safeties out of two trips to the plate, Sewell, Barnes and Cohen, whose hitting and fielding ability was death to the Kentuckians.

Miller, Alberts Star

Kentucky's stars in the hectic struggle were Captain Reed Miller, who led the hitting attack with two safe hits, Hughes and Rife, Alberts, who played bang-up games afield.

In the first inning, with Chancellor on the mound for the Wildcats, the Alabama nine marked up two scores without making a hit. An error, two sacrifice hits, and a walk brought home the first two runs for the visitors. The 'Bamas made one or more scores in the next three innings and again in the sixth, but not after this. Chancellor tightened up after the sixth inning and pitched superb ball for the rest of the game.

The Blue and White hurler had his left hand injured on a line drive by Rosenfield, but finished the game after the wound had been taped.

Kentucky's big inning came in the fourth when they scored three times. A single, a walk, a sacrifice hit, an infield out and two singles tallied 3 men. They added two more in the fifth on two hits and two errors. After this they were helpless. With men on base a hit was a thing of the past with the Wildcat nine and nine men died on the sacks.

Hughes Pulls Prize Play

"Turkey" Hughes pulled the prize play of the afternoon in the fourth inning. When caught first, he turned and outran the first sacker to the second bag. The first baseman for Alabama could have tagged him easily, but Hughes, with a quick turn, eluded the touch.

Fourteen players will leave for Knoxville over the Southern tonight and will meet the Volunteers of the University of Tennessee tomorrow afternoon. On Monday and Tuesday the Blue and White will be in Tuscaloosa playing Alabama in a return two-game series.

After the two games with the Crimson, Coach Murphy will take his

FRANCES FIELD COLEMAN AMONG LEADING SENIORS

Holds Membership in Several Honorary Organizations

PROMINENT IN Y. W.

Will be Graduated From A. and S. College in June

Frances Field Coleman, former president of the university Y. W. C. A., is a senior in the college of Arts and Sciences, and it is to the credit of her fellow students that she was chosen for the kernel as one of the outstanding representative members of the senior class. She has been one of the best students in the university during her four years here, and has also taken an active part in the promotion of the Y. W. activities, having been sent as a delegate to the Y. W. convention in New York last fall.

Frances Field is the executive type of girl who makes a success of everything she undertakes, the proof of this being the fact that she was elected to Mortar Board, senior honorary fraternity for women, last spring, this honor being reserved for girls in the junior class who have done noteworthy work in campus activities and scholarship.

She is a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma social fraternity, the Phi-Phi Phi Literary Society, the English Club, the Women's Administrative Council, and during her junior year, was executive head of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet. To girls like Frances, praise and respect of the university student body is paid. To the careful observer it would seem that the Kentucky students have a wonderful appreciation of values.

KY. MATHEMATIC ASSOCIATION MET

Is Ninth Annual Meeting of Kentucky Section

The Kentucky section of the Mathematical Association of America held its ninth annual meeting in the physics building on the campus on May 2. Sessions were held both in the morning and afternoon.

The meeting was presided over by J. Morton Davis, president of the association, and of the university faculty.

The program included addresses on the following: "Certain Aspects of Quartic Curves," by Smith Park, a graduate student of the university; "LI'ospital's Solutions of Equations by Means of Algebraic Curves," by P. P. Boyd, of the university; "Probabilities as Applied to Life Insurance," by T. A. Martin of Berea College; "The Distribution of Means, a Problem in Sampling," by C. H. Richardson of Georgetown College; "Order of Signs in a Series," by H. H. Downing, of the university; "How Much Mathematics Should be Taught in High School," by C. E. Caldwell, of Eastern Kentucky Teachers' College; and "The Freshman Course in Mathematical Analysis," by Charles A. Maney, of Transylvania College.

At the conclusion of the program, a brief business session was held at which the following officers were elected: Professor T. A. Martin, of Berea College, chairman; and Prof. A. R. Tehu, of Centre College, secretary. The meeting of next year will be held at Berea. About thirty-five members of the association were present at the meeting.

BOOST THE KERNEL ADVERTISERS

Student Edition of The Herald

On Tuesday of the current week, at the invitation of the management of the Lexington Herald, the students of Journalism of the University of Kentucky published the regular edition of that paper. The paper in its entirety, editorially, reportorially, and advertising output, was in complete charge of students of the University of Kentucky, the regular staff retiring gracefully to the background and giving their young successors free rein.

It was a day and night that will long be remembered by the upper classmen and women and others who were chosen to make up the staff. It will be remembered not only because of the thrill it gave these young folk to see their work reflected in print in a regular newspaper, but for the emphatic gratification that was theirs through this opportunity to come in contact with so courteous, so generous and helpful an organization as the men and women who compose the mechanical and other staffs of the Herald. They seemed never to tire in their purpose to make their guests feel at home; to offer words of encouragement, and above all, to give praise in generous measure for the completed work in the "gray dawn of the morning after."

This new venture of the Herald is in line with the policy of both papers in their uniform efforts to promote the well being of the institutions of learning in Lexington.

The Kernel sees a new day dawning for popular education in Kentucky, when institutions like the Lexington Herald are willing to entrust valuable mechanical and newspaper organizations in the hands of an immature body of young men and women, who had been trained in this profession; when business houses encourage enterprises by giving an added volume of advertising; when the community expresses its interest by demanding several thousand additional copies of this issue of the paper.

The Pleasure Was Ours

In Tuesday's edition of the Herald, which was published by the students of the school of journalism of the University of Kentucky, the young men and women of the department over which Prof. Enoch Grehan presides expressed their gratitude to the Herald for inviting them to occupy the tripod for a day. The Herald feels that in a responding acknowledgement and expression of appreciation it voices the opinion not only of the management and of those of the staff who enjoyed a vacation, but also of the subscribers and readers who perhaps enjoyed the vacation taken by the regular force as much as those did who were off duty.

There was nothing amateurish about the edition which came from the press, the work of the brains and hands of those ambitious sons and daughters of the commonwealth. Their finished work as dignified and clean as it was bright and peppery, the students who edited this newspaper and prepared it for its advertisement showed that they were conscious of a serious duty which a newspaper must perform, of an obligation which the newspaper fulfills as a servant of the sovereign public interest.

Once in a while there appear those crusty newspapermen who still are unconvinced concerning schools of newspaper training. They say that a newspaperman should be cradled on a flatbed press and have ink on his fingers before learning to walk. There are undoubtedly certain talents, training and interests which prepare a man better for certain work, so that the choice of a professor seems, in fact, to be the answer to a "calling."

The newspaper profession, however, is a profession which demands trained workers. It is necessary for those who progress in it to prepare themselves by careful study.

But there are more important things in any life work than what is commonly referred to as "knowing the game." The copyreaders who lent their talents to the Herald Monday night knew how to count on their fingers, which is essential to the writing of headlines. They "told the story and made them fit." The reporters managed to "cover the beats" without being "scooped." The advertising solicitors "sold" and "laid out" their copy. The news editors "made up" the forms and "put them to bed" and then "made over" for the "overcast." The editorial writers avowed and avowed, exposed and exploited.

The Herald can express its satisfaction with the results and its belief that a real benefit has been not only in offering a means to the students of journalism for putting into actual practice in a real newspaper plant the lessons learned in the classrooms, but also furnishing a live and interesting newspaper to its readers than to ask that the custom be made an annual one.

One day a year, hereafter, the Herald extends the same invitation to the students of the university school of journalism, in the hope that they will see fit to accept it with as pleasant results as those obtained this year.

Note:—The above is an editorial quoted from the Herald, issue of May 6.

MISS KING TO SPEAK AT KY. CONVENTION

Convention of Kentucky Librarians to Middlesboro

Miss Margaret King, librarian of the university, will be one of the speakers at the convention of Kentucky librarians to be held May 7 and 8 in Middlesboro. One day will be given over to book reviews. Miss Bernice W. Bell, children's librarian of Louisville, and E. A. Jonas, of Louisville, will be among the principal speakers. Others are, Miss Fannie Rawson, secretary of the Kentucky library commission; Miss Euphemia K. Corwin, librarian of Berea College, and Dr. Willard R. Jillson, state geologist.

PARIS TEAM WINS IN ANNUAL HIGH SCHOOL TOURNEY

200 Schools Take Part In Speaking, Music Contests

MEDALS AWARDED

Bowling Green Runner Up in the Debating Contest

With a bitterly contested debate on Friday evening in which Paris defeated the team representing Bowling Green, the annual high school tournament held at the university came to an end. More than 200 high school students took part in the speaking and music contests, and in quality and interest shown, the tournament was one of the most successful ever held here.

Debating was the big feature of the tournament. Fourteen high schools, winners in district tournaments, held throughout the state, participated. The members of the winning team were awarded gold medals and the school given a silver cup to retain until next year. Paris' championship team was composed of Louise Daily, Sara Bradley and Earl Boen. The members of the Bowling Green team, who were the runners up in the debate, were, Elizabeth Phillips, Camilla Herdman and Virgil Fletcher. These youthful debaters were awarded silver medals by the Extension department of the university, under whose auspices the tournament was held.

The winners of the various contests were: Oratory, Dan Lindsey of Frankfort; Declamatory Helen Watson of Clay; Public Discussion for Boys, Franklin Bell of Frankfort; Public Discussion for Girls, Emily Miller of Lexington; Orchestra, Cynthia High School; Violin, David Young of Lexington; Quartette, Frankfort team, composed of Carolyn Macklin, Frances Bealmer, Henrietta Blackburn and Sue Green; Vocal solo, Lillian Dorsey of Lexington; Journalism, Millersburg Military Institute.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF DELTA PROVINCE MEETS

The first annual convention of Delta Province of Zeta Tau Alpha fraternity will be held in Lexington Friday and Saturday, with Alpha Chi of the University of Kentucky, as hostess chapter.

Mrs. W. E. Davis, of Lexington, is president of this province and will be in charge of the convention. The morning hours of Friday will be devoted to registration and welcome of the delegates, with luncheon at noon. Delegates will be represented from Theta, Bethany College, Bethany, W. Va.; Zeta, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, Tenn.; Alpha Pi, Ohio University, Athens, Ohio; Alpha Eta, University of Cincinnati, Cincinnati, O.; Alpha Zeta, Ohio State University, Columbus; Alpha Omega, Ohio Wesleyan, Delaware, Ohio.

The program for the convention follows: Friday—9-12—Registration, Welcome address, Response, Election of Secretary. 12-2—Luncheon. 2-4—Reports continued. 4-6—Drive. 7:00—Banquet. Saturday—9-12—Round Table Discussion, Alnae Discussion, Chapter Problems, etc. 12-2—Luncheon.

2-5—Business Session, Recommendations to National Convention, Reading of Last Minutes. 5:00—Adjournment.

6:30—Buffet at Zeta Tau Alpha House.

The hostess chapter is composed of the following members: the active members: Misses Mavis Stornberg, Louise Smathers, Mary Riley, Glennie B. Fisher, Datsy Taylor, Pauline Ashcraft, Kitty Satterfield, Margaret Arnold, Mary Thomas, Mary Louise Fleming, LaVergne Lester, Mary Page Milton, Nancy Mary Wilson, Ruth Kennedy, Yolinda Irvine, Madelle VanCleve, and pledges: Margaret Walker and Marjorie Bass.

night. The audience was swayed, held as if in a vice, gripped by the music. At the conclusion of each chorus there was for a minute the utmost stillness and then round after round of stirring applause. The great appeal of "The Messiah" was due not only to the exquisite, heavenly theme of the music but also to the harmonious atmosphere; the perfect harmony which seemed to exist between the chorus and the audience and the feeling that each singer was putting his whole soul into it and contributing to the magnificent whole.

The four soloists aided in the success of "The Messiah." Mr. Dan Beddoe, who with his lyrical voice and precise enunciation gave as his first number, "Comfort Ye My People," and Mr. Glenn Crowder Stables, who put all the power and feeling at his command into the singing of, "Thus Saith the Lord," were both impressive. Miss Ethel Jones, of Chicago, charmed her audience by the way in which she interpreted her part and Miss Ruth Basden, of New York, with her smooth, even manner of expression, received the greatest ovation given any number on the program. The orchestra of the Philharmonic Society, augmented by musicians from neighboring towns, played the accompaniment with a fine touch.

Although the soloists, the chorus, the orchestra and the supporting organizations cannot be over praised, the guiding hand behind it all, the man who made the presentation of "The Messiah" possible, was Professor Carl A. Lampert. He, loving music for music's sake, and giving freely of his time and effort, determined to place before the public music that would elevate the soul and stimulate the mind. And this was just what he did. It is to be hoped that this step toward a better music appreciation will continue until Lexington becomes the music center of the south. She can with such men as Professor Lampert to point the way.

players, teams, and exciting moments of various major contests, with a brief account of some of the prominent games, bring vividly to mind the events of the past athletic year. Book three, "Women," is given over to the fair co-eds who were elected the most popular girls on the campus. "Fraternities," book number four, is an attractive section. The book pictures are uniform and it is hoped that this custom started this year will prevail in the Kentuckians to follow. Book five, "Organizations," is composed of the R. O. T. C., SuKy, Men's and Women's Student Government bodies, Y. M. and Y. W. C. A., and the various clubs on the campus. Book six, "Feature," is cleverly done and much wit and sarcasm are there for the reading. The whole Kentuckian staff is to be congratulated on this excellent work, and the class of 1925 owes to them a debt of gratitude. Especial credit should go to Herb Carter, editor, William H. Skinner, business manager, and Lucile Bush, art editor. Not only did the Annual come out ahead of time, but it is one of the best year books ever turned out at the University of Kentucky. The work of Lucile Bush is exceptional. She is a past master of the paint brush, and it will be a sad blow to the Art department when she graduates.

Student Sketches

Mr. Emmett Bradley, son of Mr. W. S. Bradley of 131 University avenue is a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, University of Kentucky. He is majoring in English and minor-ing in journalism and education. Mr. Bradley is one of the outstanding students on the campus. He is a member of the Alpha Gamma Epsilon fraternity, Alpha Delta Sigma honorary journalistic fraternity, and of the Catholic club. During his freshman year he was sports editor of The Kernel, student newspaper on the campus; and in his sophomore year sports editor of The Kentuckian. Mr. Bradley was graduated from the University high school, as president of the senior class and editor-in-chief of the high school annual. Mr. Joseph Jacob Bradley, the second son of Mr. W. S. Bradley, is now a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences, University of Kentucky. He is majoring in law. Mr. Bradley is well-known and equally well-liked on the campus. He is a member of the Alpha Gamma Epsilon fraternity, also a member of the Catholic club. He was graduated from the University high school. During his time there he played foot ball two seasons; he was class officer during his senior year, and took part in the senior play. —Lexington Leader.

A CRANE PRESSURE REGULATOR WHICH TRANSFORMS HIGHER PRESSURES TO ANY CONSTANT PRESSURE

LOW PRESSURE STEAM FROM HIGH PRESSURE MAINS

Low pressure steam or air delivery direct from higher pressure mains is made uniform and dependable by Crane pressure regulators. Steam for small power units or low pressure heating, constant pressure steam for process heating, and compressed air for blasts, heaters and low pressure tools can be taken from higher pressure mains through this automatic valve at the highest possible efficiency. Crane regulators are furnished with unions or flanged connections for any ordinary temperatures or working pressure. The economy of operation and unfailing delivery of these pressure regulators are typical of all Crane products. Crane country-wide service provides a complete line of valves, fittings and piping for any steam, water, oil or air system.

Such Popularity Must Be Deserved

SQUIRREL FOOD

A friend of mine asks why we call it the Kelschief club. Someone else may be reading this stuff, so for the peace of mind of them both I hasten to explain:

The name was inevitable. Obviously, it combines K. E. L., stranger, and the chief. But the final, irresistible argument was the Scottish twang of "Kelschief." Roll it on your tongue. Don't you immediately think of gorse and heather, braces and breeks, kilts and tartans, and—well, something that is more than hard to get at present? If you don't please don't come round applying for membership.

So many interesting and amusing things have happened this week, that the column perforce suffers. It is no trouble to write airy triviality about nothing in particular, but to write humorously of something, in itself funny, would stagger Steve Leacock.

What, then, is one to do, when in one and the same week: the Dells are holding an inter-chapter track meet; the races are in town; and May Day comes, bearing in its train processions and pageantry? Speaking of the Delt track meet, there is no poetic justice if Gene Moore doesn't run the hundred-yard dash.

The club itself was hardly as banal as usual. We decided to make of May day a gala occasion, to elect some member king, have appropriate (Oh, quite) ceremonies, and all of that. Urged on by admiring clubmates, the chief and I announced our candidacy. I don't wish to sling any mud, but I can't refrain from stating that the club made a decided error in its choice of a king. My race was clean-cut, honest, and (seeming paradox) convincing. Blow after telling blow was delivered on my opponent's rebuttal of graft and corruption. However, indiscriminate bribery, many cigarettes, and subtle flattery told their fateful tales. After twenty-four hours of unceasing labor, the boys who counted the ballots announcing the final result to be: two for the chief and one for me. I think I know the fellow who played me the dirty trick.

The chief was crowned with appropriate festoons—or was it spitoons?—of ebony. Then we held contests. First was the juggling contest, in which we stood on an ivory balustrade and juggled glittering words. The stranger knew too many polysyllables and won handsily. Next was the marksmanship contest, that had for its object the impaling of raindrops on slender laynets. The first heat was a tie, and I managed to win in the play-off. Last came the piece de resistance of the evening, the contest to decide who perpetrates the most pernicious pun. The chief and myself had trained in vain, for the stranger won the stalactite statuette of Lee Shubert with this one:

It seems that the one and only girl was bent on having her hair bobbed, so the stranger accompanied her in to the barber shop. Just as they walked in the door, some elderly gentleman in a white coat pointed his finger at the girl and said in an authoritative tone of voice, "Nex!"

The stranger was inconsiderable. We played "Farmer in the Dell," then left, voting the Kelschief club a charming host.

On the way home we talked of imagery, pathos, cadence, repetition, onomatopoeia, and all the mechanics of verse. We should have realized the danger, for before we could prevent it, this ballad sprang into being. No one remembers who is most to be blamed.

The chief rightly says too many harsh "s" sounds are present, and the meter is ragged. Maybe the abundance of pathos will atone for the other defects.

Ballad of the Doleful Senior
Four years have passed, this last of May.

Since I wore freshman greenery—
And put most all my cares away,
Enthralled by foreign scenery,
Now father's ending Arcadie,
His letters often make me sob,
When he talks harsh economy—
I wish I had Coles Phillips' job.

So I'll to work some doleful day,
Soon after I get my A. B.
And bid goodbye to merry play,
Mayhap for all eternity,
Can one with equanimity
Think to join the toiling mob?
Wealth has no lure for 'povertyised me—
I wish I had Coles Phillips' job.

Some I know would draw their pay
As sheik in Lasky's new movie,
Or write some brave and stirring lay
To bring the popularity,
It may be I'm a rarity,
Who craves to be no wealthy snob,
I hereby state emphatically,
I wish I had Coles Phillips' job.

L'Envoi
Prince, speak me soft, and please say
"Oui!"
To this small favor, high nabob,
I want not cash; Oh, hear my plea!
I wish I had Coles Phillips' job!

STUDENT MAKES $712 IN 40 DAYS

Unusual New Plan Used by A. G. Davis Devised by Successful Business Man Who Struggled Through College.

Every University of Kentucky student is interested in a good sound method of adding dollars to his bank account. Not only the student earning his way through college, but every one can use several hundred extra dollars.

The same plan used by Albert G. Davis is now open to students of the University of Kentucky. The St. Louis business man who made it possible for Davis to earn $712 in just 40 days knows the student's financial handicap. He earned his way thru college. Now that he is in a position to do it, he is making it easy for other students to earn the money they need.

The unusual money making plan that helped Davis is too lengthy to cover in these columns, but he suggests, for every student write Mr. M. H. Rhodes, 1400 Pendleton St. Louis, Mo. Mr. Rhodes has offered to outline the details of this dignified, business plan to students who are sincere about wanting to earn good money through conscientious effort. The number of students to participate in this opportunity is limited and you should write Mr. Rhodes at once. Just ask for his "College Student's Proposal."

Rex—Our team does entirely too much holding.

Doll—I don't know about the whole team. I've only been out with seven of them.

The chief has been morose this week. Possibly because he hasn't been able to sleep. Accustomed to first and second hour classes, he doesn't feel at home in bed during the morning. Furthermore he is an indecisive sort of goof. He should have known better than to have bought two new suits of pajamas, one mauve, the other coral. He can't make up his mind which best matches his complexion, consequently he sets the clock for 2 a. m., gets up and changes. What the stranger and I are kidding about, is that he permits insomnia to tinge his conversations with us.

It is 1 a. m. Inspiration seizes me. In a sudden burst of enthusiasm I massage the typewriter with the lightning-like speed of four (count 'em, four) words to the minute. The change of rhythm awakens my cellmates. They pile down stairs, armed with pillows, brooms, ashtrays, and some of the more fortunate ones even with bedroom slippers. If the lock on the door holds, you'll read this. If it doesn't, number me with my fathers.

Goodbye, Cherry blossoms.
