Dean Matthews of the College of Law presented resolutions on the death of Professor Alfred B. McEwen and the University Faculty voted to include these resolutions in the minutes of the Faculty and to send a copy to Professor McEwen's family.

RESOLUTION ON THE DEATH
PROFESSOR ALFRED B. McEWEN

Professor Alfred Buffin McEwen, a member of the University of Kentucky Law faculty, was accidentally killed by lightning on June 22, 1957. His students, colleagues and many friends were deeply moved by this tragic loss to his family, to the University, and to the community.

A native Virginian, Professor McEwen was educated at the University of Virginia. He received the B. S. and M. S. degrees there and was Bayley-Tiffany Instructor in English before studying law. After receiving the LL. B. degree he practiced law in Richmond, Virginia, and served in the Navy during World War II as a lieutenant on combat duty in the Western Pacific. He entered law teaching after the war, first at his alma mater and then at Mercer University. He and his family, to whom he was very devoted, came to Lexington in 1948, and he had spent nine years as Professor of Law at the University of Kentucky.

Al McEwen was a man of warm personality, with many talents. He was an avid sportsman, a sound lawyer, and a fundamentalist in legal teaching. His rare grasp on the whole field of civil procedure made him greatly impatient with the easy conclusion that modern legal procedure should abandon the historical learning, and he could demonstrate with eloquence that his first love, common law pleading, was a basic framework for all legal analysis. He was a person without pretenses, and he had real scholarly ability. Most of all, he had a way of establishing an unusually close friendship with students and faculty colleagues based on mutual understanding and respect. Thus he was able in a comparatively short time to make an invaluable contribution to legal education, to the College of Law and to the University of Kentucky.

Professor McEwen's passing has left all who knew him with a deep and abiding sense of personal loss, and this feeling is shared in full measure by the whole University community. The University Faculty, therefore, resolves that this resolution be placed on the minutes in his memory and that a copy be sent to his family.

Dean White presented recommendations from the College of Arts and Sciences covering course changes and new and dropped courses which were approved by the University Faculty.

President Dickey presented to the Faculty Dr. Doris N. Seward, the new Dean of Women. He also welcomed Dean Spivey who had returned from leave of absence and expressed appreciation to Dr. Weaver for his services as Acting Dean of the Graduate School.

President Dickey discussed Faculty committee assignments and stated that he had been working with the AAUP Committee on University government. He suggested that the University Faculty should have a Committee on Committees who will be charged with the duty of recommending persons to be placed on the regular standing committees of the University Faculty. He suggested that the Library Committee should be made a Faculty Committee rather than an administrative committee and that there should be a committee on University exercises to study and supervise the functions and personnel of such committees as the Committee on Honors Day and the Committee on Founders Day.

Dr. Beers moved that the University Faculty authorize the President to designate a Committee on Committees from the present membership of the representative faculty and that the membership of this Committee be so distributed as to provide representation of each college, this Committee to nominate the personnel for the present four standing committees of the University Faculty, the Library Committee, and a newly established Committee on University Exercises; that personnel eligible for committees be not restricted to the representative faculty but to all who are eligible for service on the University Faculty; that this Committee consider further the possibilities of the nature and functions of the standing committees and that it be prepared to make recommendations to the Faculty at the appropriate time. The motion was approved by the University Faculty.

President Dickey announced the reception for new students in the Bluegrass Room of the Student Union Building on the afternoon of September 15 and asked the support of the University Faculty by their attendance. He also announced the University Commencement on Friday evening, August 2, at 7:00 p.m., C.S.T.

The Faculty adjourned.
