Women's Club Scholarship

Miss Anne Hatcher, UK education junior from Portsmouth, Ohio, receives the first Metropolitan Women's Club of Lexington scholarship from Mrs. Tom Rogers Smith, president of the group, as Dr. E. W. Ockerman, chairman of UK Committee on Scholarships and Loans, looks on. The $1,000 a year award is to be presented every other year to a junior majoring in speech therapy or an allied field, and will be repeated for the senior year if the student's progress is acceptable. Funds for the scholarship come from the proceeds of the Miss Lexington Pageant, sponsored by the Metropolitan Club. Miss Hatcher is a 1960 graduate of Portsmouth High School.

Disarmament Talk Scheduled At SUB

English instructor Edward Morin will present a case for world disarmament at 7 p.m. tomorrow in the Y-Lounge of the Student Union Building.

Entitled "Disarmament without Defeat: A Dream Come of Age," the talk is the last of the YMCA Forum Series of the spring semester.

In a preview of his talk, Mr. Morin said he will survey the possibilities of nuclear war, its estimated effect upon the social structure, and some of the reasons and methods usually given for disarmament.

"Although eventual disarmament has recently been stated as an official policy goal of the U.S.," Morin says he will argue "from a theoretical and practical standpoint national governments themselves will continue to obstruct disarmament progress."

"Technology has made the nation-state obsolete," he continued. "Either the nation-state with its idea of national sovereignty will die by its own hand in nuclear war, taking along with it most of the world's people, or else people must nonviolently hasten the nation-state's process of bloodless decay and use technology to build a good society."

Debaters Travel To Tennessee

The University debate team will travel to the University of Tennessee for a regular debate and to Eastern State College to participate in a cross examination tournament this weekend.

Four students from UK will debate at UT. Debating the affirmative will be Kevin Hennessey and Dave McCracken. Richard Ford and Donald Clapp will present the negative.

The cross examination tournament, to be held at Eastern State College, "utilizes the courtroom procedure," said Dr. Gifford Blyton, sponsor of the debate team. "A student will talk for about 10 minutes and then a member of the opposite team will cross-examine the speaker," he added.

Those debating for the affirmative on the varsity team will be Paul Chelegren and John Patton, and for the negative Michele Cleveland and Jim Crockarell. On the novice team will be Lionel Hawse and Stanley Crais for the affirmative, and Steve Beshear and David Emerson for the negative.

The question in both debates will be, "Resolved that non-Communist nations should establish an economic community."

Peace Corps Members To Visit UK

United States Peace Corps representatives, Mr. and Mrs. A. McDaniel, will be on the University campus today through Friday to talk to students and faculty members who may be interested in the corps.

Mr. and Mrs. McDaniel were formerly associated with Camp Bradley, a Peace Corps training center in Puerto Rico.

They will meet with all interested students in Haggin Hall from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Wednesday; Thursday, 3 to 5 p.m. in the Y-Lounge of the Student Union Building, and from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the recreation room of Holmes Hall.

All those interested in talking to the McDaniels should call the Office of Institutional Studies.

Construction Postponed?

Greek House Bids 20% Over Estimate

By BILL GRANT, Kernet Staff Writer

Construction of the Zeta Beta Tau fraternity house and the Delta Gamma sorority house may be postponed.

Bids have been submitted for the two houses and are 20 percent over the cost estimate.

George R. Kavanaugh, UK associate business manager, said the major consideration will be whether funds are available for the construction.

"The Housing and Home Finance Agency has allocated $630, 000 for these two houses and the Sigma Nu and Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity houses," he said.

"We have several alternatives," Mr. Kavanaugh said. "We can reject these bids and readvertise, we can reject one and advertise it with the other two (the Sigma Nu and SAE houses), or we can attempt to negotiate. We have some time yet to make our decision."

The bids were submitted on March 15 and have to be accepted or rejected in 30 days.

Bids have not yet been asked for the Sigma Nu or the Sigma Alpha Epsilon houses. Sites for all four of the houses have been obtained.

Mr. Kavanaugh said that the Delta Gamma house would be the largest and therefore the bid for its construction was the least out of line with the previous estimates.

SC Officer Nominations Scheduled

Student Congress officers for 1963-64 will be nominated at the Student Congress meeting on Tuesday, April 2.

Officer nominations will be made from the members of Student Congress from the floor. Officers will be elected in an all-campus election on April 18.

Jackie Robinson, chairman of the Student Congress elections committee, said that it was hoped the officers could be listed on an IBM sheet so that the votes could be counted electrically.

Army Sponsor's Meet

There will be an important Army ROTC Sponsor's meeting at 4 p.m. today in the military library in Buell Armory.

LKD Festivities Include Parents

A parents weekend is being planned this year for the Little Kentucky Derby. In addition to the Saturday afternoon bicycle race and the concert, activities will be added which will interest the parents.

"The idea to include parents and alumni is part of the LKD committee's plans to make the derby weekend a larger event," said Jack Davis, chairman of LKD steering committee.

"As the derby gets stronger and attracts more people, we can offer bigger scholarships. The ones we offer now are limited to $500."

He added that LKD is still too small considering this its seventh year. "At Indiana University, where the idea of a college derby was pioneered, they draw about 15,000 people compared to about the 2,000 which usually attend ours."

In the housing units, there will be lists posted for students to sign their parent's name and address. Letters will be sent to these parents explaining the derby and listing a variety of activities for the derby weekend, April 26 and 27.

Davis said after parents check the events they would be interested in attending and then return the letters, more definite plans can be formulated.

Possible activities include a golf tournament featuring professionals, a luncheon, a meeting with Dr. Frank G. Dickey, a tour of the campus and Bluegrass area, and a Blue and White intersquad football game.

"We have also considered reserving a block of rooms in various motels for the parents. Of course, plans are very tentative and we will have to wait until we get a response from the parents before things are actually decided," Davis commented.

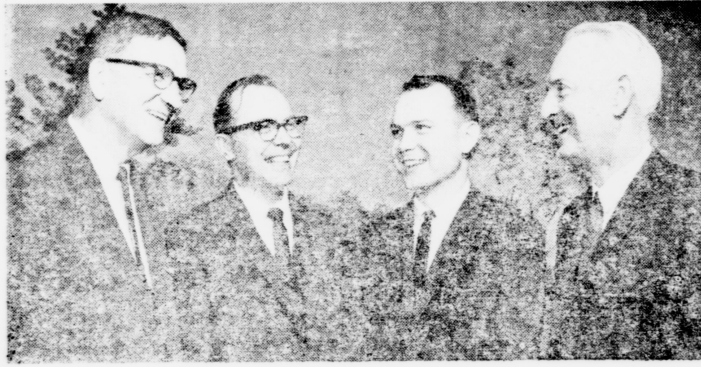

Students who have not signed their names on lists in their dormitories, may do so in the LKD office in the Student Union Building. Names have to be in by April 6.

SU Board Candidates

The election for Student Union Board officers will be held tomorrow from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Student Union Building, the Fine Arts Building, and Donovan Hall. From the 10 candidates six will be elected officers. Candidates for the the

Dr. A. D. Kirwan, University professor of history and dean of the Graduate School, was presented the Alice Hallam book award Monday night at the Phi Alpha Theta history honorary society dinner at the Phoenix Hotel. From the left are

Dean Kirwan Receives History Book Award

Dr. A. D. Kirwan, University professor of history and dean of the UK Graduate School, was presented the Alice Hallam Book Award Monday night at a Phi Alpha Theta history honorary dinner at the Phoenix Hotel.

The award was presented for his recent book, "John J. Crittenden: The Struggle for the Union."

The annual award recognizes the best book or essay published by a member of the history department during the year, and was established in honor of Miss Alice Hallam of Covington, a benefactor of the history department.

Dean Kirwan's book, called a "signal contribution to 20th century scholarship — notable particularly for its discernment and lively style" by noted historian Givaudan Van Deusen, was begun in 1959.

During his research Kirwan spent some six months at the Library of Congress, and worked for a year under a Guggenheim Fellowship.

He is the editor of "The Confederacy," a social and political history of the Confederate States, and is author of "Revolt of the Red Necks" and "Johnny Green of the Orphan Brigade."

The banquet speaker, Dr. Paul Frederick Sharp, president of Hiram College, spoke on "The Kingdom of the Mind." The hearthand of this kingdom, he explained, is the campus.

Dr. Sharp defined an intellectual as anyone in society who uses his mind for the benefit of society. He emphasized the fact that the divorce between intellect and either areas of life "must be bridged if we are to understand each other's roles and contributions."

"The whole of society must come to appreciate the power and dignity of ideas," he concluded.

Earlier in the evening, more than 20 UK students and one faculty member were initiated into the history honorary.

Initiated were Janice A. Adams, Mayfield; Paul Bensley, Georgetown; William A. Bucknell, Paris; Donald K. Carson,

Oncida, Tenn.; Henry Clowgry, Taylorville, N. C.;

Charles Dollan, Memphis, Tenn.; Burnett and Jane Donoho, Paducah; Frederick Gardner, Hopkinsville; Demetrius Georgides, Athens, Greece; DeLores J. Hall, Louisville; Mrs. Bernice Hopkins, Lexington.

Robert Hay, Rockdale, Tenn.; Barbara Johnson and Charlene Vincent, Ashland; Calvin Jones, Pikeville; Carl W. Leistner, Covington; Marilyn Meredith, Smith Grove; Jay Mullen, Medford, Oregon, and Prof. Byron Tsangades, Detroit, Mich.

Speakers Discuss Eastern Ky.

The Patterson School of Diplomacy will hold a dinner discussion at noon tomorrow in Room S of the Donovan Hall cafeteria. The topic will be "Eastern Kentucky as an Underdeveloped Region."

Speakers for the discussion are Dr. Jim Brown of the Department of Rural Sociology, Mr. Keith Kelley, head of the Eastern Kentucky Research Development Commission, and Dr. Harold Guthrie of the Department of Economics.

Art Club

The Art Club will present a film on Jackson Pollock, and two experimental films on the data period, entitled "Emak Bakia" and "Etoile de Mer" which will be directed by the artist Mon Ray. The showings will be today at 8 p.m. in Room 208 of the Fine Arts Building.

The Art Club is sponsoring an exhibition of student works in the School of Architecture Gallery on South Broadway this week.

Exports

U.S. total exports in 1961 of domestic merchandise were valued at $20.6 billion, according to the Census Bureau.

AMONG MY KINFOLK

My favorite cousin, Mandolin Glebe, a sweet, unspoiled country boy, has just started college. Today I got a letter from him which I will reprint here because I know Mandolin's problems are so much like your own, Mandolin writes:

Dear Mandolin (he thinks my name is Mandolin too), I see by the college paper that you are writing a column for Marlboro Cigarettes. I think Marlboros are jim-dandy cigarettes with real nice tobacco and a ginger-peachy filter, and I want to tell you why I don't smoke them.

It all started the very first day I arrived at college. I was walking across the campus, swinging my paper valise and singing traditional airs like Blue Tail Fly and Death and Transfiguration, when all of a sudden I ran into this here collegiate-looking fellow with a monogram on his breast pocket. He asked me was I a freshman. I said yes. He asked me did I want to be a BMOC and the envy of all the in crowd. I said yes. He said the only way to make these keen things happen was to join a fraternity. Fortunately he happened to have a pledge card with him, so he pricked my thumb and I signed. He didn't tell me the name of the fraternity or where it is located, but I suppose I'll find out when I go active.

Meanwhile this fellow comes around every week to collect the dues, which are $100, plus a $10 fine for missing the weekly meeting, plus a $5 assessment to buy a headstone for Spot, the late, beloved beagle who was the fraternity mascot.

I have never regretted joining the fraternity, because it is my dearest wish to be a BMOC and the envy of all the in crowd, but you can see that it is not cheap. It wouldn't be so bad if I slept at the frat house, but you must agree that I can't sleep at the house if I don't know where the house is.

I have rented a room which is not only grotesquely expensive, but it is not at all the kind of room I was looking for. I wanted someone reasonably priced, clean, comfortable, and within easy walking distance of classes, the shopping district, and San Francisco and New York. What I found was a bedroom in the home of a local costermonger which is dingy, expensive, and uncomfortable—and I don't even get to use the bed till 7 a.m. when my landlord goes out to mow his cesters.

Well anyhow, I got settled and the next thing I did, naturally, was to look for a girl. And I found her. Harriet, her name is, a beautiful creature standing just under seven feet high and weighing 385 pounds. I first spied her leaning against the statue of the Founder, dozing lightly. I talked to her for several hours without effect. Only when I mentioned dinner did she stir. Her milky little eyes opened, she raised a brawny arm, seized my nose, and carried me to a chic French restaurant called Le Clippind where she consumed, according to my calculations, her own weight in chateaubriand.

After dinner she lapsed into a torpor from which I could not rouse her, no matter how I tried. I bonuzed my glass with a fork, I pinched her great pendulous jowls, I rubbed the legs of my cowboy pants together. But nothing worked, and finally I slung her over my shoulder and carried her to the girls dorm, slipping several discs in the process.

Fortunately, medical care for students is provided free at the college infirmary. All I had to pay for were a few extras, like X-rays, anesthesia, forceps, hemostats, scalpels, catgut, linen, towels, amortization, and nurses. They would not, however, let me keep the nurses.

So, dear cousin, it is lack of funds, not lack of enthusiasm, that is keeping me from Marlboro Cigarettes—dear, good Marlboros with their fine blend of choice tobaccos and their pure white Selectrate filter and their soft pack and their flip top box.

Well, I must close now. My pencil is wore out and I can't afford another. Keep 'em flying.

Yr. cousin Mandolin Glebe

The hearts of the makers of Marlboro go out to poor Mandolin—and to poor anyone else who is missing out on our fine cigarettes—available in all 50 of these United States.

The Cat's Meow

By Clark McClure

Hi gang! Welcome to Experimental Journalism 202-5. The idea of a column in which we reflect bits of the passing campus show (without sneaking in those Marlboro ads) has been flipping from one "way out" basket to another in the Kernel office. Let's run it through Ole Miss and see if it registers:

KERNEL KORN DEPT.—College can be correlated with bread. It's a year-long loaf on pa's dough.

Recently overheard at ROT-SEE lab: "All right you're supposed to be MEN now. Pull those stomachs in. Throw those chests out. Look tough. Okay, you're now going to march over to that table and receive your white gloves. . . ."

SWINGIN' SALUTATIONS: (Heard along frat row) "Hon, hi are you?"

But nay, I say. 'Tis time to dwell on more urgent matters, like, man, the status of our campus: Fraternity. Just what do Yale, Harvard and places like that there have that we don't? What makes them so great already? (Besides a few wet roadrats and dry idears.) We can point with pride at our at-risk young men who puff earnestly on philogogic pipes while angrily walking from class to angry class. Sure, we've got girls in shades; growling sports cars smeared with frat stickers and all that jazz (Erubeck, of course.) But our Disneyland-of-the-South lacks the most crucial prop of all: Like, where's our IVY? That's right, the green Instant Tradition stuff that made Yale and Harvard what they are today!

Why, a little ivy would do wonders for us! Our ivy-covered stadium would host never-lose football games.

STRATIGEM: Opposing teams will not be used to running through three feet of lush ivy. BONUS: Alcohol makes things grow, too. Make the green scene at the Coliseum and Mr. Hupp's troubles are all over. (Ever try to score through an ivy rim?)

An ivy-covered Splinter Hall would last forever (but it already has, you cry) because that green stuff just won't burn.

Students will work off hostilities by hacking their way from class to class with their new M & O machets. Yes, the future looks bright and green. But we must act now! We must organize, light our torches, charter buses and so East to seize the House of Ivy. (Seeds available in Creeping Academic Green or Radcliffe Pink.) Then we'll be on top as we prove to the world that the ivy isn't always greener in the other Harvard yard. Yes, we'll be about as popular as a flashlight at the Sports Center lot on Saturday night. Which reminds me of a girl I took over there once (well, the library was CLOSED!) I'll never take her there again, though. She gave me an ivy-league kiss—a belt in the mouth.

Anyone For High Places?

ANY ONE FOR HIGHPLACES... MENAGGIO, Italy (AP)—About 130 women mountain climbers will tackle Europe's tallest peak this July.

The Italian Alpine Club of Monte Rosa, a resort on the shore of Lake Como, has organized what it calls "One Hundred Women on Mount Blanc"—although more will participate. The idea is to mark the centenary of Italian Alps clubs and to honor the memory of Isabella Stratton.

The British woman climber was the first of her sex to scale the 15,782-foot peak in winter. She did it Jan. 31, 1876, and later married her guide, Jean Charlet.

Third-Grade Geometry BLOXOM, Va. (AP)—A third-grade geometry class in Bloxom School has been acclaimed a success.

The experiment has been carried on daily for 20 to 30 minutes, according to Principal S. Mason Spatone.

The pupils are required to read carefully, break down problems analytically and painstakingly follow instructions step by step. They learn to handle such technical terms as equilateral, triangle, precision and quadrilateral. They work with a straight edge and drawing compass.

The faculty reports that the children have increased comprehension and vocabulary and that their muscular coordination has been improved. They also have increased comprehension of related subjects such as arithmetic and reading.

The modern-day organizers are taking no chances with winter's hazards. They announced that the climb will be sometime in the first half of July—and then only when atmospheric conditions are just right.

The club has invited foreign Alpine clubs' lady members to apply, saying that preference for inclusion in the 120-woman group will be given to those who enter by twos and threes as representatives of their clubs.

French and Italian professional guides will be stationed along the way. The ladies, roped together in 45 groups, will be followed by Alpine medical specialists.

The organizing committee said there would be a party and souvenirs for all when the climb is finished.

"If I had it to do over again, would I take Army R.O.T.C.?"

Look at it this way. I like the idea of doing challenging work. That's why I volunteered for Special Forces. So you can see why I felt pretty good when the Army assigned me to Europe! Here I really feel I'm doing something for the cause of my country in these important times. How many jobs can you think of that start you off with this kind of responsibility? My wife's here, too, and she loves it. We get a chance to travel. We meet the people, learn new languages, customs. And there's a pretty active social life on post, too. But above all, I'm an officer with a job to do and with responsibilities to shoulder. I like it that way, and I have a hunch that my leadership training and experience will help me out whatever I do. Take it from me, if you're already half-way towards your commission, see it through. It's a good deal. I know."

SEC Integration: Further Comments

It may not be necessary for the University to withdraw from the Southeastern Conference in order to integrate its athletic teams. First we think it should challenge the "unwritten law" which says that no SEC school can have Negroes on its team.

When questioned about this "law" Bernie Shively, UK Athletic Director, said he knows of no formal ruling but, "It is just understood."

What would happen if the school announced that it would recruit Negro athletes and play them by a certain date? Mr. Shively believes that "the University would be kicked out of the conference." But, when Bernie Moore, Commissioner of the SEC, was contacted by the Kernel yesterday and asked if the University would be ousted from the conference if it used Negro athletes, Mr. Moore said he couldn't comment and that such questions would have to be discussed by the conference members.

If there is no written law that prevents the University from using Negro Athletes, we would like to know on what grounds the SEC would dismiss UK from its ranks.

UK has the opportunity to pave the way for other members of the conference by being the first member school to integrate its athletic teams. Such a policy has already been followed successfully by another state supported institution, Morehead State College, which was the first member of the Ohio Valley Conference to play Negro athletes. Marshall Banks ran track for the Eagles in 1958 and set a state record in the 100-yard dash. Later Banks was voted the college's most valuable player by the school's athletic board.

Morehead was also the first OVC school to integrate its football ranks. Howard Murphy, now a senior, was not only the first member of his race to play football in the conference but was also the first Negro to be selected on the All-OVC football squad.

Other Kentucky colleges have been recruiting Negro athletes and will continue to do so while the University, which should be a leader in such areas, is dragging its feet because, as Mr. Shively said, "We would lose too much prestige." What is more important, the supposed loss of prestige by the University or equal rights for all of our students?

We recognize, of course, that the problem may be greater in the SEC which involves some "Deep South" institutions. The problem of scheduling has been presented as an argument for not integrating our teams right away. If a team declines to play us on its home ground in order to avoid possible racial trouble then it could easily play the game at a neutral location where there would be no racial problems. This solution was proposed and accepted during the Meredith situation in Oxford when the University of Mississippi played Houston in Memphis, Tenn., rather than in Oxford because officials were afraid a riot might occur.

Looking at still another possible solution, the University does not have to play all of the SEC member schools. There appears to be no reason why we could not arrange our schedule with only those institutions which will play against integrated teams.

There are many fine Negro athletes in Kentucky, including five of the state's 10 All-State High School basketball players. We can see no good reason why these boys should not have the opportunity to play for us instead of against us.

An Outstanding Achievement

The Harper Lecture Series is the newest and finest institution to become a part of the University. With the introduction of this promising series Student Congress has continued its work toward making UK the outstanding university of the South.

The Kernel cannot say enough in praise of the first three lectures in what we hope will become a UK tradition. Dr. Huston Smith's lectures on "The Perspective of Man" have but one drawback. They will be hard to equal. Students seldom have the opportunity to hear such an interesting, articulate, and informed speaker. To those who missed these excellent talks we can only suggest they avail themselves of the pamphlets printed from the lectures, and that they make a well-directed effort to attend future lecture in the series.

To Student Congress we would like to say a heartfelt "Thank you." This effort even surpasses the Washington Seminar because it reaches a far larger segment of the University community. We look with eager anticipation for future speakers. May they all be as good as this one.

Congress Debates ROTC Legislation

WASHINGTON (CPS)—An intraservice debate is currently delaying Congressional action on a drastic revision of Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) programs at U.S. colleges and universities.

Pentagon officials hope to have the revised ROTC program on its way to Capitol Hill within two weeks for hearings by the House Armed Services Committee. But a debate between Army, Navy, and Air Force officials will have to be ironed out first.

Essentially, the revised ROTC legislation will end compulsory ROTC at land-grant universities, where male students now normally take one or two years of military training. The new program would be selective and voluntary, with outstanding participants becoming eligible for government scholarships ranging from $1,000 to $2,000.

The new proposal grew out of a marriage of Air Force and Navy thinking on the efficacy and efficiency of the compulsory ROTC program. All three services, however, are not yet agreed on certain important aspects, such as the amount of scholarships, the length of training in college, and the degree of selectivity of the program.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and the Bureau of the Budget have approved the new program in principle—but are leaving the services to thrash out their lined points of difference before the final proposal goes to Congress.

If the reserve representatives of the three branches of the armed services reach a stalemate in the negotiations of the ROTC question, it will be up to Navy Capt. W. S. Bradway Jr. to smooth over the debated points. Bradway is the Pentagon officer, assigned to the development of the new program by the Defense Department. He described the current negotiations between the service branches as "crucial" to the success of the proposal.

The Navy pioneered the new plan when it introduced the so-called "Holloway Plan" offering scholarships to outstanding students who would plan on a Navy career. The NROTC "regular" program provides books, fees, tuition, and a living allowance for students on the program.

Air Force officials soon borrowed the Navy idea: after instituting a few changes of its own, the Air Force came up with essentially the program currently being debated. As envisioned, the new program would enroll only juniors and seniors. Freshmen would be interviewed each year, and those selected would enter training during the summer preceding their junior year. Formal military training would begin after completion of the summer camp, and would continue through the senior year, with a second summer training period after graduation.

Also being debated when the student would be commissioned. One faction says after graduation, another says after the summer camp.

The section of the new proposal expected to come under the closest Congressional scrutiny is the size of the scholarships the services hope to be able to offer. The Pentagon, however, isn't too worried about passage of the measure. The new program would certainly be cheaper than the tremendous overhead now required by mass compulsory ROTC.

The financial aspects of the new plan are also eliciting support of many college and university officials, Pentagon proponents assert. The smaller, selective ROTC program will be a boon to many schools with crowded physical plants burdened by large ROTC units. And, Pentagon officials are hopeful that all three services can be represented at many schools under the new plan.

Pentagon officials also note that many universities have decided not to wait for Congressional action to unburden themselves of compulsory ROTC programs. Land grant colleges and universities are required by law only to maintain military training programs—not mandatory ones, and a number of schools have switched to voluntary ROTC in the past few years, often after concerted student pressure had worked for some time to effect the change.

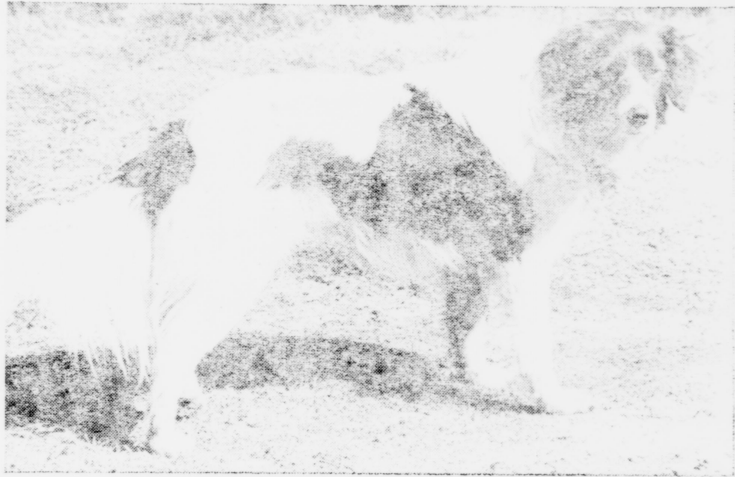

Pentagon personnel report that over a dozen schools have already eliminated compulsory ROTC in anticipation of the new plan, and many are offering only an advanced two-year program.

It is expected that the final version of the plan, as approved by the Defense Department, will be unveiled in Congress by the first of April.

Oregon State Guard Declines All-Star Bid

Oregon State's All-America quarterback and basketball starting guard, Terry Baker, has withdrawn from Saturday's National Collegiate Athletic Association East-West All-Star game.

The 1962 Heisman Trophy winner will be replaced by Gordon Martin, 6-7 forward from Southern California. Also added to the roster for the annual game was Kentucky's Roy Roberts, who will fill in as an alternate on either squad if one of the present players is unable to participate.

HARKNESS

Baker reportedly declined the All-Star tilt invitation because "his performance in the NCAA tournament wouldn't justify an appearance in the game," which is set for 8 a.m. in the Coliseum.

Also reported in relation to Baker's decision was that he will fly to Los Angeles this week to sign a professional football contract with the Rams, who made the signal-caller their number one draft choice.

The coaches, Harold Anderson of the East and Cliff Wells of the West, have a tough job ahead of them in the selection of the starting lineups from merely press clippings and publicity booklets. The players are due to arrive in Lexington on Thursday and Friday.

Martin averaged 12.6 during the past season by hitting 42 percent from the field and 78.3 on the free throw line. As a three-year starter, he moved into the number six spot in Southern Cal's scoring history.

Other players on the West squad who will be seeing action on the front line are David Siegmund of SMU and Lyle Harger of Houston, both standing 6-7. Also in the upper height bracket will be Ken Charlton of Colorado and Bill Green of Colorado State, who measure 6-6 each.

The East will be supported by three players who were entered in the recent NCAA tournament finals at Louisville. Duke's 6-5 forward Art Heyman, who was chosen as the tourney's most valuable player, will join Cincinnati's Tom Thacker and Loyola's All-America Jerry Harkness.

Two other All-America selections will be participating for the East in the presence of Rod Thorn, West Virginia, and Jimmey Rayl of Indiana. Most of the height will be seen in Nate Thurmond, Bowling Green's 6-11 center, and 6-7 Layton Johns, who led Auburn this year against UK.

Thus far, the pre-game ticket sales has amassed a total of 4,000 buyers, an amount which assures the sponsoring Jaycees that their financial obligations will be met and that any future sales will be clear money for the Natsmith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame.

There was a report that a total sellout would assure Lexington of keeping the event for years to come. The tickets are being offered for advance sale at Daware's and Graves, Cox.

Coaches Pick Nash To Second Squad

Cotton Nash, 6-5 Kentucky forward-center, was named Saturday to the second team All-America selection which is announced annually by the National Association of College Basketball Coaches.

The blond-bomber was joined on the second squad by Walt Hazzard of UCLA, Mel Counts of Oregon State, Rod Thorn of West Virginia, and Nick Werikman of Seton Hall.

Duke's Art Heyman was named as the nation's outstanding performer and two Cincinnati Bearcats were elected to join him on the first team.

Ron Bonham and Tom Thacker of the number one ranked Bearcats, Bill Green of Colorado State, and Jerry Harkness of Loyola were the other four members of the first team balloting which is done for the Wheaties Sports Federation by 400 coaches.

The 6-5 Heyman, who moved up from the top spot on last year's second team, received 2-171 total points to top this year's voting. Bonham ranked second with 1,701.

By being a senior, Heyman will be participating in the annual East-West All-Star game held in Memorial Coliseum Saturday night at 8 p.m. He will bring a 25-point average into Lexington's NCAA supported tilt.

Another of the East's team will be 6-2 Thacker, who supports a 16-point average. His teammate, Bonham, stands 6-5 and is the only junior on the first team. Throughout the season, he led Cincinnati in scoring with 21 points a contest.

Green, a senior and biggest of this year's All-Americans at 6-6 and 233 pounds, averaged better than 28 points per game for Colorado State this year. Harkness, only 6-2, captain of Loyola's Ramblers, who won the National Championship last weekend in an overtime, scored over 1,500 points in three seasons at the Chicago school.

Third team members are Gary Bradds of Ohio State, Berry Kamer of NYU, Tony Yates of Cincinnati, Bill Bradley of Princeton, and Joe Caldwell of Arizona State.

From the NCAA district three selections, Nash was named to the first team along with Heyman and his teammate Ted Mullins, a Louisville product. Also on the first five was Layton Johns of Auburn and W. D. Stroud of Mississippi State.

Loyola, Cincy, Providence Major Cage Teams In '63; Ohio Reign Comes To Close

Another basketball season has come to a close. It was a season of mixed feelings and emotions, one of vast confusion.

Loyola of Chicago, rated second or third all season long, won the NCAA championship by taking a classic thriller from defending champion Cincinnati last Saturday. The Bearcats lost on an attempt to top three national titles in a row.

Providence College took the National Invitational honors by beating Canisus, 81-66, in the Madison Square Garden classic. Providence earlier disposed of journey favored St. Louis.

The Southeastern Conference and Big Ten sent strange representatives to the NCAA, Mississippi State, throwing out its unwritten law of not participating against a team which plays Negroes, went from the SEC only to lose a 61-51 decision to Loyola, who started four Negroes.

Illinois, meanwhile, ended Ohio State's Big Ten domination although the Buckeyes and Illinois tied for the title. Illinois went to the tourney because a conference rule states that in case of a tie the team not having represented the league in the longest gets the bid.

But Illinois met the same fate as State, running into Loyola, bowing out to the tune of 79-64.

The Ohio Valley Conference went to a bit of trouble to settle what amounted to nothing. Tennessee Tech, East Tennessee, and Morehead fought down the stretch for the league's NCAA berth at Evanston, Ill. Morehead appeared to have had the race sewed up when the Eagles suddenly collapsed. East Tennessee's Buccaneers then moved ahead only to follow suit and be eliminated from the chase by lovely Middle Tennessee.

So Morehead and Tennessee Tech wound up in a tie and had to play it off.

Tech won the playoff, 80-68, but what was the use? The Golden Eagles ran head on into Loyola, who would be playing its first NCAA game. When the firing was over the Golden Eagles were massacred, 111-42, a tournament record.

The strange collapse at Kentucky still remains a mystery. The Wildcats returned three starters from last year's 23-3 squad. The record this year was 15-9, worst in Coach Adolph Rupp's career. The Cats lost their first home opener ever and then appeared to have found the range when it won its own invitational tournament by trouncing Iowa and beating West Virginia. But then came St. Louis, Georgia Tech, and Tennessee and the roof fell in.

It was even worse at Bowling Green where Western Kentucky's defending OVC champions were picked to run third behind Murray and Eastern. But the Big Toppers ran dead last, Murray fourth and Eastern fifth in this topsy-turvy league.

Western fell flat on its face as Ed Diddle, America's winningest coach, saw his team lose 21 of 26 games. The Toppers closed out a long career in their old gym and next year will move across the street to Riddle Arena.

Eastern will also be in a new playhall next season. Both will have 8,000 plus capacities.

The South produced two major surprises, Davidson and Alabama. Both rose to recognition on the strength of pulling upsets of tremendous proportions. Bama downed Mississippi State only a week after Davidson shocked previously unbeaten Duke, 72-69. Davidson finished with a record of 20-7 while Alabama was among the Southeastern Conference leaders for several weeks.

A team with the most accomplishments yet failing to reach the NCAA tournament was Wichita. The Shockers had to settle for an NIT berth even though holding victories over both Loyola and Cincinnati as well as Ohio State. Rex Stallworth was the hero in the Cincy game, scoring 46 points in a 65-64 upset.

Sports Shorts

When Loyola won the NCAA tournament last week it became the first independent team to win the national title since LaSalle's Explorers pulled the trick in 1954. Holy Cross and C.C.N.Y. had previously turned the trick.

Even though Cincinnati failed to become the first team to win the NCAA three times in a row it did manage one thing. Combined with Ohio State's championship in 1960, the state of Ohio has had at least one finalist for the past four years.

Attempt To Sell SEC Negro Recruiting Plan May Be Offered By UK

A Kernel editorial last week has spurred an attempt to sell the Southeastern Conference on the idea of recruiting Negro athletes.

This word came from a highly placed source at the University. The source, who declined to be named, said the University feels integration of athletics in the conference is inevitable. Presently, the SEC is the only major loop in the country which does not allow participation of Negroes.

"We have had under consideration for some time a proposal that we try to sell the conference on the idea of lowering the racial barrier in sports. This is something that won't be easy and may take a long time."

"This suggestion that we pull out of the Southeastern Conference because no Negroes are on its athletic teams is not a good idea," the source said.

He added that "the University is one of the strongest members of the SEC, and to pull out would mean financial disaster for our athletic program here."

The source also said that it is untrue that an unwritten rule in the conference bars Negroes from competition. "There is no such rule and any school in the conference that wishes to add Negroes to its athletic teams may do so," the source said.

But, he explained that in so doing, several schools, "probably Mississippi State, Mississippi, Auburn, Alabama, and Louisiana State would ask to be released from their contracts with the school which integrated its teams."

The source continued by saying that any school in the SEC can recruit Negroes and play them against all non-league opponents and against any SEC school that did not object.

UK Athletic Director Bernie Shively confirmed that there is no rule of any kind concerning the recruiting of Negroes, but declined to comment on the report of a plan to push for integration of SEC athletics.

The source said that University officials definitely believe Negroes should be allowed to take part in SEC athletics. "It's a shame such fine Negro athletes as the South produces must leave their home states to compete."

Boxer's Death Brings Ban Cries

Monday's death of Davey Moore, who had been unconscious since receiving brain injuries in a fight with Sugar Ramos last Thursday, has brought an onrush of cries to ban the sport.

California Governor Edmund Brown said he hopes the sport will be abolished in California.

Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee had more to say. "Davey Moore's death is another tragic milestone in the boxing industry's history of mishandled human beings. It underlines the crying need for a national boxing commission with the authority to require thorough physical examinations."

Pope John XXIII said that fist fights are contrary to natural principles. "It is barbaric to pit brother against brother."

Representative Hugh L. Carey, New York, announced plans to outlaw boxing. "We have lost two courageous champions in a year—Benny Paret and Davey Moore. Who will be next?"

Mets (?) Lead N.L.; Yanks In Ninth Place

Baseball's wonderous wonders, the New York Mets, are atop the National League standings in spring training's Grapefruit League.

The Mets, who won 40 and lost 22 in their major league debut in 1962, are practically a unanimous choice to repeat that feat this season. But, at least for the present, the New Yorkers are leading the parade even though the real firing doesn't begin until next week.

Jim Hickman's 11th inning home run accounted for a Met victory over the Milwaukee Braves on Monday and that, compared with Houston's 11-3 setback at the hands of Cleveland, pushed Casey Stengel's boys into the lead.

The American League exhibition standings are nearly as startling with Baltimore on top and the other New York entry, a bunch called the Yankees, down at the other end in ninth place.

The Orioles are looking good, especially in the infield positions now that Luis Aparicio has been acquired to play shortstop. The Yankees have been in a tailspin during most of spring training but have shown signs in recent games that they will once again be ready when the real firing begins.

The Mets closest pursuers are the Houston Colt 45's, another new member of the National League. The Mets have but 15 who were originals last spring and have gone into a movement to acquire more youth on the squad.

Latest acquisition was that of Milwaukee pitcher Carlton Willey. The New Yorkers are obviously hoping that Willey will have the luck of another Brave costoff, Joey Jay, now a leading hurler for Cincinnati.

The defending National League champions, the San Francisco Giants, are suffering as much as the Yankees, also being in ninth place.

Hospital Council Meets At UK

The new Appalachian Council of University Hospitals is to hold its first group meeting at the University Hospital tomorrow and Friday.

The group, similar to other organizations in the nation, is organized to discuss problems unique to University owned and operated teaching hospitals. Richard D. Wittrup, UK Hospital administrator, said.

Nine universities are in the organization. They are Vanderbilt, Medical College of Virginia, University of Virginia, University of West Virginia, University of North Carolina, Duke University, University of Maryland and George Washington University. The council is composed of administrators of the hospitals.

Participants will discuss such topics as organization and management of outpatient departments, the relationship of university hospitals to schools of dentistry and schools of nursing, control of costs in teaching hospitals and relationship of university hospitals to the administrative policies and organization of parent universities.

Registration Deadline

March 30 is the deadline for the May primary registration. Anyone of voting age not registered on or before this date will be ineligible to vote in the May primary.

Anyone who will be 18 or before November 5 may register now.

Lecture Series Initiated

The Harper Lecture Series had its beginning early this week when Dr. Huston Smith delivered three lectures entitled "Perspective on Man."

Raleigh Lane, Student Congress president said the series would be a continuing feature at the University.

The idea of such a lecture series came into being when Lane took office last year. The plan was approved by the SC board, and the Board of Trustees appropriated funds for the event, Lane explained.

"The series is named in honor of Dr. Harper because he has done a lot for the University," Lane said.

Presently the Student Congress is corresponding with Carl Sandburg and J. Edgar Hoover with the intention of having them speak on the campus next year. No definite arrangements have been made as yet, Lane explained.

"The Harper Lecture Series will be a continuing thing. There will be at least two speakers per year from now on, with the hope of having more in the coming years," Lane stated.
