THE KENTUCKY ALUMNUS

A UNIVERSITY IS A PLACE;
IT IS A SPIRIT . . . II

"... a man whose life has been an embodiment and fulfillment of those ideals which rekindle faith in man's belief in his own humanity."

This was the description of Professor John Sherman Horine delivered at the University of Kentucky's 1961 commencement exercises. The citation was read during ceremonies in which Prof. Horine was presented the Sullivan Medallion, awarded each year by the University to an outstanding citizen of the commonwealth.

A dedicated educator and a member of the University's engineering faculty since 1910, Prof. Horine taught mechanical drawing and descriptive geometry to an estimated 100,000 students during his teaching career. He is also remembered by thousands of his former students for his kindly advice and guidance.

Education wasn't easily acquired when John Horine was a young man, but he acquired a B.S. degree in mechanical engineering from the University in three years. And he did it by commuting daily by train from Nicholasville to Lexington. He left Nicholasville at 7 a.m., and the train home didn't return until 7 p.m. Many times he walked home instead of waiting for the late train.

This attitude of dedication to his tasks has remained with him during his half-century of service. His "retirement" in 1957 was on paper only. He still reports daily to his desk and drawing board in Anderson Hall and continues to add drawing handiwork to the institution which already bears many tangible signs of his work. Prof. Horine is another outstanding example of the type of men who make a University great.

UK PLACEMENT SERVICE AIDS STUDENTS AND ALUMNI

One of the busiest offices on the UK campus is the Placement Service, located on the second floor of the Administration Building. Mrs. Katherine Kemper, director, has provided guidance and assistance to thousands of students trained in various professions. This year, more requests have been received from employers interested in persons with two to ten years experience, and the office is interested in hearing from UK alumni who may be seeking job opportunities.

The office, which serves all colleges, was established in 1953 and its record of placement runs from 70% to 75% of those registered. This has been the average over the past eight-year period. Students register voluntarily at the beginning of their senior year. Credentials are compiled for them and these credentials are made available to employers both on the request of the employer and the registrant.

The office may be used as a repository for credentials which include a comprehensive history and qualification record for all registrants. A permanent record is kept of all registrants and the staff works closely with the administration and the faculty whose assistance is invaluable. Recruiters for college-trained men and women from business, industry, government and other fields of work look to the University as a prime source for trained manpower.

This past year, the Placement Service received requests for 19,424 teachers, the greatest in the history of organized placement work at the University of Kentucky. Representatives from seventy school systems scheduled recruiting visits on the campus. Not only was the demand for teachers high, but also representatives from 1,027 businesses, industries, and government agencies asked the University to assist in locating qualified persons and 450 of these requests were filled. In 1953, the scientific and professional fields continue to show an increase. Dozens of industry and government recruiters are available to the average student. The average industry and teachers' salaries are in a Career Center Coliseum. In addition, Placement activities. graduates fied personnel for technical and non-technical positions, and 450 of these organizations scheduled recruiting visits to the campus during the year.

In 1959-60, the electrical engineer, the salesman and the scientist were in greatest demand. Opportunities continue to be excellent for all engineering graduates, accountants, mathematicians and physical scientists, and requests for non-technical graduates have shown an increase. Doctoral candidates in engineering, physics, chemistry and mathematics have been "courted" by the recruiters and an increase has been noted in opportunities available to women graduates.

The average monthly salary for people in business, industry and government is up $24 per month while teachers' salaries are up $447 per year.

In an effort to attract recruiters to the University, a Career Carnival is held every two years in Memorial Coliseum. Organizations from government, business and industry are invited to have exhibits.

In addition to the usual work with graduating students, alumni and prospective employers, the staff of the Placement Service has been involved in several related activities. Screening tests have been administered to graduates for several companies and a few state and municipal merit tests have been given. As a convenience to University students, arrangements were made to hold the November Federal Service Entrance examination on the campus. An interviewing workshop was planned and conducted in the offices for one of the visiting companies desiring to introduce new company recruiters to established interviewing techniques. Each year, Mrs. Kemper devotes many hours to meeting with University classes and with various student organizations.

The list of alumni directed toward jobs by the Placement Service is impressive. The recruiting season runs from October to mid-April and visits from employers are scheduled well in advance. Some recruiters spend three to four days on the campus. Job opportunities are publicized to students through the monthly placement bulletins which are mailed to all registrants. These also will be sent to alumni requesting them.

The UK Placement Service is doing a tremendous job for students and alumni. Since there is a greater demand for persons with experience, the alumni should keep the office informed of their addresses and biographical records. The Placement Service is for your use. Be wise and use it!

We Shall Not Forget

For the second time in a matter of months the hand of Death has struck a dedicated leader from the ranks of University of Kentucky alumni, a man, who, for as long as we can remember, has given of his time, his love and his loyalty to the University which trained him for life.

H. D. Palmore, former alumnus member of the University of Kentucky Board of Trustees, past president of the Alumni Association and one of the four alumni leaders ever elected to honorary membership on the Alumni Executive Committee, has been called to his Maker.

"Mr. Pal," as he was known to his close associates on the Executive Committee was the Dean of this group of volunteer leaders. To him were referred many problems, both general and personal, for sage advice and wise counsel, and problems dissolved and anxieties faded under the jovial, happy influence of this dedicated man.

His lovely, bereaved wife and his son and daughter, both University of Kentucky graduates, have our heartfelt and lasting sympathy and so, also, have the men and women of this great University family whose lives his own life touched with such gentle yet decisive influence.

"Mr. Pal" was not a person to flaunt his creed or intrude his philosophy upon his fellow-men, but we who worked with him and loved and admired his dauntless spirit believe that he served God for the love of service and the good to others and that, at last, he has come to enjoy the glories of God's Kingdom.

ALUMNI HOUSE PLANS UNDER WAY

A DREAM COMES TRUE

By HELEN G. KING
Director of Alumni Affairs

(An architect's sketch of the entrance to the Alumni Center appears on the front cover of this issue)

Eons ago, or, more practically, a matter of twelve years or more, at an alumni meeting in the New York area, your alumni director made an appeal to that group to support what was then just one woman's dream—an Alumni House on the campus of the University of Kentucky.

Today, twelve years and many disappointments later, this dream is about to become a reality due, in great part, to volunteer alumni leadership and administrative support, and to a tenacious belief that an on-campus center for alumni will be the binding link between the University and her children.

On the front cover of this issue of the ALUMNUS is a view of the architect's drawing of the exterior of the projected building. Hugh Meriwether, '24, of the firm of Meriwether and Marye, is the architect.

Many volunteer alumni leaders have been involved in the money-raising, the planning and the execution of this new campus home for alumni, but among those who have implemented both the fund drive and the business-like planning of the building program the names of Dr. Ralph J. Angelucci, Mr. L. Berkley Davis, Mr. William M. Gant, Mr. Robert Hillenmeyer, all past-presidents of the Alumni Association, and Mrs. Hampton C. Adams, Chairman of the Century Club Committee, are in the forefront. From the administration, encouragement, strong financial support, and active participation have stemmed from President Frank G. Dickey, President Emeritus H. L. Donovan, Vice President Frank D. Peterson, O. Clay Maupin, Director of Accounts and Controls, Chief Engineer Elgan B. Farris, and B. A. Shively, Athletic Director, all devoted to the total University- alumni program.

A capital gifts campaign, begun in 1959 and still underway, set the stage for alumni to participate in an eight-point program of University support which was headed by the proposed Alumni Center. This drive was designed to ask at least 500 alumni to contribute $100 a year for five years to the Alumni Century Club Fund, in order that we might raise a minimum of $250,000 part of which was to be used to erect an alumni house on campus as a gift to the University of Kentucky at her centennial celebration in 1965.

Generous alumni and friends of the University have responded to this Century Club campaign, and while we have not yet reached our total goal, enough funds are available to begin building late this fall and it is hoped that enough more alumni will volunteer to contribute to make the total pledges exceed the quarter-million goal originally set.

The alumni and friends who have and will contribute to the Alumni Century Club Fund will be immortalized on a bronze plaque which will have a prominent place in the great hall of the new building, which will be constructed on the south-east corner of Rose St. and Euclid Avenue, opposite the stadium. Dr. Ralph Angelucci, chairman of the planning committee, has announced that the building will be a two-story structure of colonial design and will provide Alumni Association quarters in one wing. The association offices now occupy space in the Student Union. The remainder of the building, which will have a full basement with kitchen facilities, will include conference rooms, a service kitchen, dining space for 300 persons, a lounge, the great hall for receptions and other general alumni or University events and a gathering place for alumni near the heart of the campus.

It is hoped that the first shovel-full of earth will be turned during the 1961 Homecoming, and that by Homecoming-1962, the building will be completed and ready for dedication ceremonies.

The Planning Committee for the Alumni Center is headed by Dr. Angelucci and the Building Committee, in charge of construction, is composed of James B. Allen, Winchester, chairman; R. R. Dawson, Bloomfield, H. C. Adams, Elgan B. Farris and Joe Morris, all of Lexington.

Many "Firsts" Feature '61 Reunions

THREE DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI HONORED

For the first time in University of Kentucky history an alumnus-member of the President's Cabinet was the speaker at the annual Alumni Reunion banquet held last June 3 in the Bluegrass Room of the Student Union, and, for the first time the University of Kentucky Alumni Association presented Distinguished Service Awards to three graduates of the University who have distinguished themselves in their respective fields and have brought honor to the University.

The Hon. Elvis J. Stahr, Jr., '36, Secretary of the Army and president of the 25th reunion class was the guest speaker at the banquet at which his class had the largest representation of any reuniting class in the history of the University.

The three alumni singled out for Distinguished Service Awards were among many who were nominated by ballots sent out to the active members of the Alumni Association last fall and whose final selection from all nominees were made by a secret committee appointed by the president of the Alumni Association. They were: Louis E. Hillenmeyer, '07, Lexington nurseryman; Mr. Stahr and Virgil L. Couch, '30, Director, Industry Office, U.S.

Civil Defense Administration and one of the principal speakers at the Alumni Seminar which preceded Reunion Day.

Mr. Hillenmeyer has distinguished himself in civic and church affairs, and received the highest honor conferred upon a Catholic layman when he was knighted in recent years by the Pope. He served for many years as alumnus member of the University's Board of Trustees and has four children, all of whom are University graduates and one of whom, Robert H., is now an alumnus member of the Board of Trustees and a past president of the Alumni Association.

Mr. Stahr has had a distinguished public record as University Rhodes Scholar; attorney, dean of the University Law School, provost of the University, vice chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, President of the University of West Virginia, executive director of President Eisenhower's Commission on Education Beyond The High School and special assistant to Secretary of the Army, Frank Pace.

Mr. Couch has had a long and distinguished career in government service and heads the office which is responsible for keeping American industry informed on survival.

More than 525 persons attended the reunion banquet, which featured, for the first time, the return of an alumnus, Matt Cabot, '35, from the 50th state, Honolulu and the presentation of a silver cup to Secretary Stahr from the Lexington Chamber of Commerce. Paul Ward, '97, of Cynthiana was given the award for representing the oldest class present.

The Class of 1911 was honored with Golden Jubilee Certificates, presented jointly by President Dickey and by Dr. Harry Denham, Maysville, newly elected president of the Alumni Association.

Outgoing President L. Berkley Davis presided at the festivities and was presented with a certificate by President Dickey in appreciation of his services to the University and to the Alumni Association.

The reunion banquet closed a day of alumni activities which opened Saturday morning with the final session of the Alumni Seminar at which the Hon. John Sherman Cooper, senior U.S. Senator from Kentucky was the principal speaker. The annual picnic lunch for all seminar participants and reunion classes was held at 12:30 Saturday on the grounds at Carnahan House, followed by the annual meeting of the Alumni Association, a full report from which is published in this issue of the ALUMNUS. That afternoon President and Mrs. Dickey were at home to reuniting classes, faculty, seniors, their families and friends at a reception at Maxwell Place.

UNIVERSITY  OF KENTUCKY

Maysville, Kentucky
July 1, 1961

Dear Fellow Alumni:

The challenge and the problems of the sixties are upon us, and the conditions in our State and nation make it imperative that our primary and secondary educational systems be improved. It is a technical age and there is no place for the uneducated.

Our own State is rapidly becoming industrialized and even our agricultural enterprises are becoming so specialized that they require special education in their management.

In the state where less than 15% of our young people of college age, attend college, there must be stimulation to higher education. In some states, such as California, almost 70% of college age students attend college. Our Alumni Association, as a group and as individuals, must stimulate interest in higher education, and must see that there are facilities to educate our young people.

The officers of your Alumni Association have a very ambitious program for the coming year. This program is as follows:

1. Begin construction and possibly completion of the Century Club Alumni Center on the campus.
2. Support a program of building and improving our higher educational facilities throughout the state.
3. Continue to support improved educational standards at the University.
4. Continue to promote and support recognition for outstanding faculty and student achievements at the University.
5. Increase Alumni Association memberships, and participation by more active solicitation by the Executive Committee and the staff of the Alumni Association.

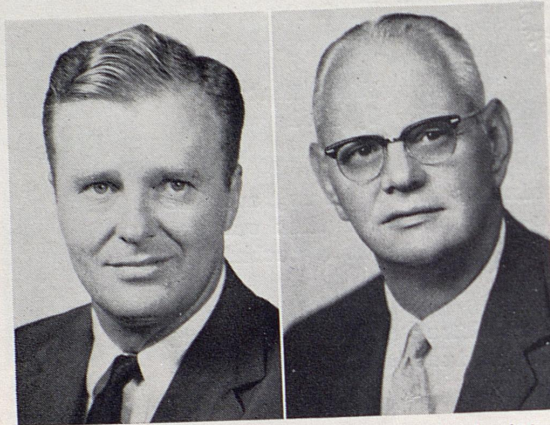

I welcome the support of each and every alumnus, and I know that the year 1961-1962 will be a very successful one.

Very truly yours,

Harry C. Denham

NEW ALUMNI LEADERS CHOSEN FOR 1961-62

Dr. Harry C. Denham, '41 President
Mr. B. A. Shively, '36 Vice-President

Dr. Harry C. Denham, '41, of Maysville, Kentucky is the newly elected president of the UK Alumni Association. The other new officer is B. A. Shively, UK Director of Athletics, vice-president. He has been treasurer of the Alumni Association since 1946.

Newly elected members of the executive committee are James B. Allen, Winchester; Dr. Glenn U. Dorroh, Lexington; George W. Griffin, Jr., London; Mrs. Jane Irvin Morris, Lexington; and Richard C. Wells, Jr., Pikeville. Each will serve a term of three years.

Dr. Denham, a practicing physician, is a former member of the UK Board of Trustees. He has appointed the following persons to serve one-year terms as UK alumni directors: James A. Sutherland and R. R. Dawson, both of Bloomfield; Gil Kingsbury, Ft. Mitchell; Herndon Evans, Lexington; Hilary Boone, Lexington; William Calvert and Dr. George Estill, both of Maysville; Dr. C. C. Lowry, Murray; and N. W. Neel, Henderson.

ANNUAL REPORT TO THE ALUMNI

The annual meeting of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association was held in conjunction with the Fourth Alumni Seminar and Alumni Picnic on June 3, 1961 on the lawn of Carnahan House, Coldstream Farm, Newtown Pike, Lexington.

Mr. L. Berkley Davis of Owensboro, out-going president of the Alumni Association, presided. Present for the meeting were approximately 350 alumni, Seminar participants, UK administrative officers and distinguished guests.

Mrs. H. C. Adams of Lexington made a motion that the minutes of the 1960 annual alumni meeting on May 28th, be approved as published in the August 1960 ALUMNUS magazine. Seconded by Dr. William McCubbin, the motion carried unanimously. Miss Helen G. King, Director of Alumni Affairs at the University, gave her annual report as follows:

Mr. President and Members of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association: Ex-President Lowell of Harvard is quoted as having said: "If I read history aright, human institutions have rarely been killed while they retain vitality. They commit suicide or die from lack of vigor and then the adversary comes and buries them. So long as an institution conduces to human welfare, so long as a university gives its youth strong, active methods of life, so long as its scholarship does not degenerate into pedantry, nothing can prevent its going on to greater prosperity. In spite of the condition of many things in the world I have confidence in the future."

That, ladies and gentlemen, sums up the attitudes, the hopes, the ambitions and the confidence which your presence here today gives to the administrative officers of your University, and to the alumni leaders who direct the programs of your Alumni Association throughout the year.

This, the 72nd annual meeting of your Alumni Association brings to a close another year of hard work, of achievements and of failures, of moments of high hope and moments of disappointment and discouragement, but a year which, despite momentary setbacks and disappointments, has brought us closer to our goal.

There is no lack of vitality in your Alumni Association. You have chosen wisely and well in selecting your elected officers and executive committee members and these volunteer alumni leaders have given to you and to your University the last full measure of devotion in time, effort and financial aid. It has been a pleasure and a privilege to work with them and with our dedicated University President and I am grateful for the opportunity to have the guidance and counsel of such wise and unselfish Kentuckians. It is difficult to summarize, in a brief report, the program of a year's activities in which we have attempted to serve you and your Alma Mater and at the same administer your contributions wisely and well.

Your treasurer will give you the financial report today for our fiscal year which ended May 31. It will show that although your budget committee established a modest operating budget estimate of $24,000 for the year just closed, that we failed to reach that total by a little more than $3,000. Like the race-track handicappers of your beloved Blue Grass, we based this estimate on past performance and on the fact that we are increasing annually our alumni rolls by the addition of more than 1,000 graduates; but our estimate of the generosity of more than 28,000 living alumni fell below the mark. It is my obligation to note here that if these more than 28,000 felt the urge to contribute a minimum of $5.00 annually to the Alumni Fund, we would have more than $120,000 each year with which to supplement the varied programs of the University. I would remind you that Calvin Coolidge said once: "To plant your name, by gift or bequest, in the keeping of an active University or college is to be sure that the name and project with which it is associated will continue down the centuries to quicken the minds and hearts of youth and to make a permanent contribution to the welfare of humanity."

Last year at this time, by the vote of the total alumni body here assembled you authorized your Alumni Association to set up an endowment fund, the purpose of which, according to the minutes of the annual meeting, was "to aid in the financing of the Association's programs and activities by receiving gifts and bequests from members and friends of the association." Since that time we have invested $5,130.80 in the endowment fund and while it is a beginning it is an insignificant one when we consider the needs of the University in these demanding and troublesome times. Unless and until the alumni of this University come to recognize the need and the importance of supplementing state appropriations through gifts and bequests, not now nor in the future will your University attain the stature which is her right and heritage. Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes is quoted as having said: "Our taxes buy civilization." In today's world we are in the market not only to buy civilization but to finance the purchase of freedom for the confused and captive minds of many men. Support of your University through financial aid is a small price to pay.

John B. Bowman, first regent of the old A&M College, now the University, said in 1865: "I want to build up a peoples' institution, a great free University, eventually open and accessible to the poorest boy in the land who may come and receive an education practical and suitable for any business and profession in life. I want to cheapen this whole matter of education so that, under the broad and expansive influence of our republican institutions, and our advancing civilization, it may run free, as our great rivers, and bless the coming millions." What a privilege and an opportunity—"to bless the coming millions."

It is appropriate to report at this point that, since our last annual meeting, an alumnus who was imbued with this desire "to bless the coming millions" has bequeathed to the University and the Alumni Association a $10,000 gift for the establishment of a scholarship for a student from his home county and that two other alumni have made long distance calls to the office inquiring as to the procedure in making out life insurance policies to the scholarship fund.

It is also pleasing to report that the Century Club Fund, established two years ago this June for the purpose of raising a quarter of a million dollars before the University's 100th birthday in 1965, has almost reached its goal and that to date $118,141.69 has been deposited in this fund. It is the hope of your executive committee to begin the construction of an alumni building, on or near the campus, with part of this money, so that you will have a "home away from home" when you return to visit and so that we may have a building in which to house the alumni offices and in which the University may hold conferences and meetings. This is an urgent need on campus and the University administration has assisted and cooperated wholeheartedly in this objective. Now, with your permission, I would like to list the various projects successfully undertaken by your Alumni Association in the year just closed. We have awarded another $2,800 four-year scholarship to a deserving freshman who will enter the University next fall. In addition we supported four such scholarships, one for a student in each class, during the 1960-61 school year and will continue this support until their graduation.

Again this past spring the Alumni Association presented four $500 awards to four faculty members—three for outstanding writing and/or research and one to a great teacher.

You have had the privilege this weekend of participating in the fourth annual Alumni Seminar, probably one of the most distinctive and distinguished programs that any large university alumni association sponsors.

A report of these seminars is published annually in cooperation with the University and these brochures have brought nation-wide attention to the program.

Tonight your Alumni Association is initiating the presentation of Distinguished Service awards to three of your fellow-alumni who have brought distinction to the University and credit to themselves.

Through the contact work of your Alumni Association three new scholarships have accrued to the University during the past year: two in engineering and one in ornamental horticulture.

In an effort to involve the memberships of local alumni clubs in the programs of the general association we have adopted and will carry through this fall for the third straight year, the policy of inviting local clubs to "host" the homecoming activities. Fayette County, Daviess County and now Jefferson County club presidents have volunteered as chairmen of these events.

Club activities have increased greatly during 1960-61, due to the good offices of our field secretary, Dick Rushing, who has reactivated many of these groups. In addition President Berkley Davis has been instrumental in organizing a new club in Syracuse, N. Y., your Alumni Director has organized a club in Knoxville, Tenn., and Mr. Rushing has attended meetings in Chicago and Atlanta, while Mr. Davis and I visited the Pittsburgh Club and Mr. Rushing and I the Washington, D. C. club. We are indebted also to Dr. R. D. Johnson, dean of extended programs and Dr. Morris Scherago, head of the department of microbiology who attended, respectively, club meetings in Los Angeles and Washington.

The Daviess County club and Fayette and Jefferson County clubs have been especially active this year, and many alumni leaders in Kentucky have given much time and interest to the University's programs through student recruitment and other phases of the University's programs.

Over 150,000 mailings went out to you from the alumni office last summer and fall, resulting in the return of the Kentucky-Tennessee membership challenge trophy to our campus. In addition, one of the top professional fundraising firms in the country listed the University of Kentucky Alumni Association as one of the ten educational institutions in the country doing the most effective job in direct mail promotion and the American Alumni Council awarded a certificate to your Alumni Association last summer for a top job in direct mail.

Your alumni director took office last January for a two-year term as chairman of the Southern District of the American Alumni Council which group will hold its 1962 conference in Lexington.

Noteworthy in our list of achievements this year has been the revamping and reorganization of the format of the KENTUCKY ALUMNUS magazine, which we hope you will like and for which we earnestly solicit materials and constructive criticism. This past spring the alumni of the Law School held an organizational meeting and drew up by-laws which include, in the section on membership, a combination membership in their school group and in the general association.

During the past year several members of the alumni executive committee have been invited by deans and administrative heads to serve as advisory committees to several University administrative committees in an effort to communicate to the public, through alumni leadership. Members of your office personnel also have participated in off-campus meetings with prospective students and parents at various locations in Kentucky and also have taken an active part in joint alumni meetings of the Joint Alumni Council of Kentucky, a cooperative group composed of the five public colleges and the University. The Alumni Association, in addition to the various expenditures outlined above and in the treasurer's report, contributed $3,000 to the University for the purpose of sending the Kentucky band to Washington for the inaugural parade.

Probably the most significant contribution your alumni leaders have made to the University, and they have been legion, has been the annual self-study sessions which the executive committee has held during the past two years. In 1959 and again in 1960 your committee, at its own expense, has spent three days at French Lick Springs in a work session planned to analyze, with the President of the University and other administrators the alumni program and its place in the total university program.

From these self-study sessions have come many constructive ideas and innovations designed to assist the University both through financial aid and volunteer leadership and we feel that it has been a unique and successful approach to a closer alliance between the institution and her alumni.

From these self-study sessions has been developed a plan whereby the executive committee of your Alumni Association takes one or more of its monthly board meetings out into the state each year. In 1960-'61 your executive committee, again at its personal expense, will have held its meetings in Louisville, Frankfort, Pikeville and Owensboro in addition to those meetings held in Lexington.

It is amazing and inspiring that these, your volunteer alumni leaders, find the time and the money to make these magnificent contributions to the success of the alumni program and to President Davis and his fine officers and board members I express deep gratitude today.

I would like to add here the sincere thanks of the Alumni Association to the Faculty Awards Committee; to the members of Mortar Board and O.D.K. for their fine work in the selection of the "great teacher" for 1960-'61; to Dr. Karl O. Lange and his Alumni Seminar Committee; to vice presidents, Frank D. Peterson and Leo M. Chamberlain and to O. Clay Maupin, Director of Accounts and Control, without whom the Alumni Association could not operate so effectively.

To President Dickey patient, kind and, above all understanding, I express the appreciation of your officers and directors and my own gratitude for the privilege of working under such wonderful direction. And finally, a salute and heartfelt thanks to the finest office staff ever assembled—without whom the books would not be kept, the mail would not go out, the meetings would not be held and your director would lose her sanity. It is my privilege at this time to announce the new officers you have chosen to serve for 1961-'62: Your new president, Dr. Harry Denham, Maysville; your vice president, Bernie A. Shively, Lexington and the five directors whom you have elected for three-year terms: Dr. Glenn U. Dorroh, Lexington, Mr. George Griffin, London, Mr. Richard C. Wells, Jr., Pikeville, James B. Allen, Winchester and Mrs. Jane Irvin Morris, Lexington.

And now, just one more word from the Keeper of the Door. YOU are the Alumni Association; we, the professional alumni workers are your employees; attempting, insofar as it is humanly possible to be to you all of the things which you expect and to be to your University the passageway of communication between you and her. It devolves upon us to anticipate your desires and the urgent needs of your Alma Mater, but the success or failure of the total problem should be shared by you. Your responsibility does not end at the conclusion of reunion day; it goes with you as you leave the campus and should become a part of your thinking and planning for tomorrow for, just as the severance of a limb reduces man's automation, so, the severance of one small fraction of the total alumni body reduces the effectiveness of the University which that body represents. That is why it is so important that a few minutes of every day you spend should be spent in thinking of, planning for and working with the institution which has contributed so much to your success and which will continue to have a part in the future of your children. The poet has said it thus:

I have only just a minute,
Only sixty seconds in it,
Forced upon me, can't refuse it,
Didn't seek it, didn't choose it,
But it's up to me to use it,
I must suffer if I lose it,
Give account if I abuse it,
Just a tiny minute . . .
But eternity is in it.

Respectfully submitted,
Helen G. King
Director of Alumni Affairs

Mr. Palmore of Frankfort made a motion that the Director's report be approved as read. Seconded by Mr. Gant of Owensboro, the motion carried unanimously.

Mr. Davis then called on Mr. Rushing to give the Field Secretary's report as follows:

During the past year, I have represented the Alumni Association at six meetings of the Joint Alumni Council held throughout the state. These meetings have given me an opportunity to contact our alumni in these areas. Also, I was a member of the University visitation team which went to UK centers in order to contact prospective students.

Alumni club meetings have been held in various parts of Kentucky and in certain cities of the country. The University's Speakers' Bureau has sent members of the faculty to some of these club meetings and they have spoken on affairs concerning the University and the Association.

The cultivation of the student while at the University is a major factor in making a good alumnus. With this in mind, the Association has carried on annually the coffee and coke session during final examinations and I have served as an adviser for the SuKy Circle and attended several meetings of the Student Congress. Next fall Student Congress has planned a "Parents Day" and I have been asked to serve on the committee in charge of arrangements. I believe this will help with the organization of the Parents Association which is still in the planning stage. This will give us an opportunity to inform both students and parents that the Alumni Association wants to assist students while they are in school.

This year the annual drive for funds and memberships for the Alumni Association has been set on a definite schedule and the state has been divided into 15 major areas with members of the Executive Committee serving as area chairmen.

This year a goal of 30% activity throughout the state has been set. We have no doubt that this can be reached but it can only be accomplished with your volunteer assistance and I would appreciate a little of your time and help when I am in your area.

My main function for the coming year will be the activation of alumni clubs in each county. The other is further cultivation of students. I have received ideas from student organizations on campus concerning student alumni relations. Working with students and weighing their ideas will increase their interest in the Alumni Association.

Following Mr. Rushing's report, Mr. Davis called on Mr. Shively, treasurer of the Alumni Association to give the Treasurer's Report on the financial operations and status as follows:

for the fiscal year ended that date. My examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and, accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as I considered necessary in the circumstances.

In my opinion the accompanying balance sheet and the related statement of income and expense fairly present the financial position of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association at May 31, 1961, and the results of its operations for the fiscal year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Hagan, Ramsey To Play In Coliseum October 17

The world professional basketball champion Boston Celtics and perennial NBA western division kingpin St. Louis Hawks, starring former Kentucky All-Americans Frank Ramsey and Cliff Hagan as rivals, will stage an exhibition game in UK's Memorial Coliseum Oct. 17.

Announcing plans for this outstanding attraction, Dr. Ralph Angelucci, game chairman of the sponsoring UK Alumni Association, said proceeds of the exhibition will go into the Alumni Association Endowment Fund and Scholarships.

Permission to use the Coliseum was granted by the UK Athletic Board and University administration due to the worthiness of the cause and because two former UK athletes are to be honored.

The exhibition, which will match the two teams which have fought it out for top basketball honors for the last two straight years, is designed to honor two of Kentucky's greatest basketball players who have brought additional fame to their school through play in the pro ranks.

The two natives of Western Kentucky, Ramsey from Madisonville and Hagan from Owensboro, achieved All-America fame at UK in 1952 and 1954 while leading the Wildcats to No. 1 national ranking, an NCAA Tournament title and three Southeastern Conference titles. During their careers as Wildcats, the pair saw their team lose only six games in 107 starts and climaxed their cage play in sensational fashion in 1954 by serving as co-captains and finishing one-two in scoring as Kentucky raced through 25 games without defeat.

After graduation, both Ramsey (a 6-3 guard) and Hagan (6-4 center) were drafted for pro play by the Boston Celtics. Ramsey has played with Boston ever since while Hagan ended up at St. Louis after being traded while he was serving a post-graduation hitch in the Air Force.

Tickets, priced at $2.60 for sideline reserved seats and $1.55 for end zone and balcony seating are on sale. Orders must be addressed to the UK Alumni Office, Room 124, Student Union Bldg. University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky. "Basketball Tickets" should be marked on the envelope. Checks should be made payable to UK Alumni Association. Downtown sales will get underway September 1 at Graves-Cox.

Kentucky Football Outlook - 1961

It might seem like hedging or outright evasion of the issue to begin thinking about prospects for Kentucky football in 1961 by first referring to the past, but such a procedure best points up the outlook of the Wildcats for the coming season.

The explanation is simple: Last year's Kentucky grid outfit was a good one, far better than their final 5-4-1 record might seem to indicate, and there is a lot of hope and a surprising amount of optimism in the Wildcat camp that they can again be as good despite severe losses.

Seventeen letter winners of last year return to form the nucleus of a potentially fine unit to build on, but the depth so necessary for making a good showing in one of the nation's toughest leagues must be supplied for the most part by a group of 40-odd sophomores or generally untested juniors.

The schedule confronting Head Coach Blanton Collier's eighth edition of Wildcats is not an easy one by any stretch of the imagination. In fact, there is only one major change from the assignment that has faced the team for the past several years. This change could be an important one, however.

Georgia Tech, opening foe in four out of the last five seasons, has been replaced with Miami's Hurricanes, due to be one of the country's best independents. Principal reason behind the change was a reasonable desire to rid the Wildcats of their back-breaking assignment of facing three conference powerhouses in the opening three weeks of the season. With no chance to point for any one of the trio, Kentucky generally found itself saddled with at least two league losses before mid-season—a morale-busting factor since the circumstances very adversely affected the team's chances at the league title or a bowl berth.

There was no hesitancy in the Kentucky camp to meet the Engineers, but it was felt the early SEC opener with a team of Tech's calibre was not in the best interests of UK. No late date could be worked out. Although there may be little change in strength of the schedule with Miami as a replacement, even a loss to the Hurricanes could be interpreted as helpful in preparation for the SEC championship. Only other schedule change is Kansas State, a Big Eight team, the way back to prominence.
