THE SALT SHAKER

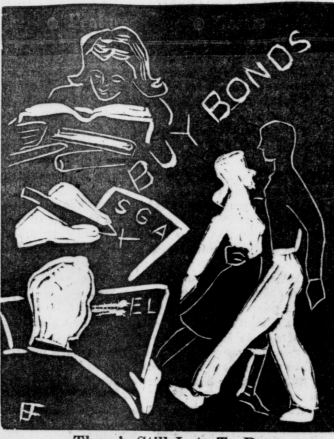

Now that we're settled comfortably in our spacious room in the dorm, and we've figured out a way to make a three-star trip out without getting it's all over but the shouting. Where else would you find two and get fifteen, we can under the Christmas tree be reminded a little. We are convinced that there is no other place but New York for an exciting Christmas vacation. On U. of K.'s in Madison Square Garden. . . The riotous train ride back to school, which reminds us: If anyone is planning to play poker with Dutch Campbell, take our advice and DON'T!

We also heard another story. It was about a man who walked into a bakery and asked if he could have a cake made to order. The baker said he could, and the customer explained that he wanted it to be eight inches in diameter, and six layers high. Between the first and second layers he wanted lemon filling; second and third, custard; third and fourth, almond paste; fourth and fifth, grape paste; and between the fifth and sixth he wanted meringue with jelly. The frosting had to be meringue, and the icing had to be pink. On top of the cake, he explained, was to appear the letter "U" in Old English style. The baker told him to return the following day.

The man came back the next morning and was shown the magnificent cake. He carefully checked the filling between each layer, and looked at the frosting. Suddenly, he jumped back and shouted, "My God! You've printed a Gothic 'U' instead of an Old English 'U'!"

The nervous baker apologized profusely and promised to have the cake ready in a few hours. The little man went away. Later in the day, he returned and asked for the cake. It was brought to him by the beaming baker, who pointed out that there was a beautiful Old English "U" on top of it. The customer scolded it. The baker asked if he should wrap it. "No," said the man, "I'll eat but where the AST situation is here."

There's Still Lots To Do

What Goes On There...

Spring will come again (we hope);
Sleet and ice will vanish;
Detested rays will go,
And legs be painted tanish.
Now to be an A-Student
Hunting for a short-cut to a straight A average?
If you are, heed the following seven-point program for scholastic success—a program formulated for you by the ever-helpful editors of "The Midland" of Midland College:

1. Don't give your profs apples. Too obvious.
2. Find out his hobby and follow this up with well-planned questions to draw him out.
3. If the entire class walks out of the classroom when the prof is 10 minutes late, be the only one to wait, even if it's half an hour. This procedure is good for a B-plus any day.
4. Always greet an instructor pleasantly, never using his first name, but a cheery "Good morning, professor."
5. Apple polishing procedure in classrooms includes sitting in the front row, responding to professorial humor with loud, hearty snufflers and liberal use of big words. This is important—never use a two-syllable word where a five-syllable word will do.
6. Carry a lot of big reference books around. This is tremendously important and is worth an A minus in any class.
7. If you must close your eyes while in deep thought, wrinkle your forehead and otherwise look worried, or the professor may get the wrong impression—and grade accordingly. (You might try studying too!)

Sur-Meis-Ing

By Shirley Meister
Having finished making out the usual five schedules and settling on the one our advisor made in the first place, we are again in that blissful existence known as college.

It's wonderful to slide to school these cold, sleeting days. While slipping down Mcvey hall steps we were asked why we didn't have our slick galoshes returned. What will the OPA think of next?

WANTED: By Betty Harris and Martha Jacobs: Two twin sailors male to stand alone, over thirteen, furnish our beer.

There isn't any football to talk about until next fall so basketball comments are in order. At one of the recent games, a friend of ours asked if those cuts on Johnny Stough's face were getting better. "What cuts," I asked. "Can't you see the tape that's been on his face all season," she gasped. Hours later, I explained to her that the tape was for his glasses, not for any cuts.

The most surprising part of the games have been the loud cheering and the wonderful school spirit of the student body. Most people were astonished at the sudden burst of enthusiasm. Let's keep it up and keep those "Wildcats" winning.

EYE CATCHERS ON THIS WEEK'S CAMPUS: Jimmy Wood's picturesque sweaters, the newly painted rooms in Jewell hall, the pointed plants and lattice work in the cafeteria, and the AST's name tags on their uniforms.

The main topic of conversation on the campus this week is where to go now that dancing has been prohibited in any Lexington place where food or drink are sold. We hope that this ordinance will be short-lived so that students will have something to do besides attend movies and visit the local "ice cream" bars.

A soldier wrote his mother that his buddy had received a CDD from the Army and was back at the University. His mother wrote back saying she thought that was lovely. "But what branch of the Army was that?"

A Challenge For 1945

1945 is just another year. But as we find ourselves starting a new quarter something seems to cloud the possibilities for the adjustment. It isn't hard to take off our shoes and recline in the comfortable chairs of the dormitories and just complain—complain about the length of the war, wonder why the OPA keeps making things harder, finding fault with the elections of the Student Government Assembly, getting riled up because we can't have big name bands on the campus every week, or grumbling about there not being anything "going on" anymore. It isn't hard at all.

But we're wrong. There's more to do this year than ever before if we hope to keep the University on the high level it has established. Perhaps the war has curtailed a number of peacetime activities, but now that there is a challenge to do something else—to enter wholeheartedly into the school organizations that need us—it doesn't seem right to hear the old "nothing to do" attitude flaunted about.

A general education should develop in a broad way, the individual's capacities for living, and, at the same time, stimulate his social consciousness. But there are more ways than regular class attendance to achieve this end. The SCA, attempting to exhibit harmonious coordination of the various organizations on campus and to " . . . promote the general welfare of the student body" still remains the most representative group and by so achieving this distinction offers opportunity for the broadening of this general education.

It's a body of students elected by popular vote and that's why an active interest in its function by everyone on the campus is necessary. Maybe we don't realize that they have the last word in University representation. Maybe we don't realize that they have the power to decide what action should be taken on problems that arise. So there's something to do right there—get interested enough to write letters of criticism or praise to this governing body, attend some of the meetings and discover for yourself if you think these students you elected are doing the things you want done around the campus. If you can put yourself at the top of the list of those who didn't quite make it over to the Union to vote for your representatives, then your criticism will be appreciated.

Not much has been said about the Sunday afternoon musicales. Of these concerts Dr. Herman L. Donovan stated earlier in the year that "this is one of the programs we felt so essential for the spiritual and cultural uplift of our students and friends that we have not permitted the exigencies of war to interrupt it." We might like them if we tried them out.

The YW-YMCA organizations need more attendance and the War Loan Drives are the most important wartime college activities. The function of a college is supposed to serve society. This it does in numerous ways but sometimes fails to get across the idea that besides giving the student the academic training it may overlook the opportunity of serving its own community. Lexington offers the Veterans Hospital and the Red Cross as much as any other city. There's plenty to do here!

Measuring Up!

By Adele Denman
1. There is a difficulty on the campus that has probably been discussed more than any one topic by college students. The war has increased the midnight activities of certain anonymous men more than ever. It is not only dangerous for unaccompanied girls to walk the streets after dark, but it seems that city and university police are doing nothing whatsoever about the situation. I would suggest that someone make an appeal to these law officers to double their vigil. Housemothers should be more thoughtful about allowing small groups of girls to leave their houses after dark. My references are any number of published incidents dealing with cuttings, attempted house breakings, and other violations occurring in the vicinity of our own residence halls. Why take a chance?

2. Cheer! Cheer! arose from the ranks of the Anti-Hepep League, composed of old maids, with broken legs and hopes of ever getting any innocent joys out of life, when the new city ruling which banned all concerned, and especially the more athletic younger set from dancing in local juke joints. These individuals of the league who believed few should only be used for walking to and place under a bridge table overlooked the fact that University dances were still permitted. But they will begin on them next In.

fact, one of the leagues was heard to exclaim that it was shocking that the University should have Johnny Long, a name band, during war time. I should like to remind these persons that as long as there is a University, there will be dances. Maybe they don't like dancing. Students are for the most part, represented by the thousands on every battlefield in the world. I am sure those who are fighting would want us at home to enjoy this innocent phase of our life that they are striving to make secure. So I say, let's make up for this enjoyment rating by way of appealing to the dance committee to try us bigger and better dances. Maybe we shouldn't dance, maybe we should resort to the more drastic forms of amusement that are still permitted, but we didn't know the older generation approved of them until now.

'One Less' Say Coeds

By Jane Clark
Are you doing anything special this week-end? No? Why not try get married? It's the latest craze, simply everyone is doing it.

During and since the Christmas holidays, many of our Miss Singles have become Mrs. Marrieds, usually without enough time to plan large weddings.

It seems that Sergeant Johnny manages a three-day pass on Friday morning, and Mary (who just loathes those week-end assignments anyway) cuts her classes and becomes Mrs. Johnny on Friday afternoon.

And why not? She can always make up that French quip on Monday morning.

There is still the question, however, of how to break the news to her dear old professor. She could say, "Well, the race is over—I won!" But that would sound like boasting so it is better to say merely, "I've quit worrying about the manpower shortage!" (The above statement is purely fiction, and does not constitute the opinion of the newswyeds.)

The bride will, in time, settle all her problems, and the wedding presents will begin to flow like wine. At this point Mrs. Married will feel an inner glow of satisfaction. She will see this glow reflected in the eyes of her pals as they wish her eternal happiness and success.

What she will not know is that the glow is really a gleam and that her pals will meet secretly, sigh, and say, "Well, one less, girls!"

Lexington, Kentucky
Dear Editor:

As I sit in my company C. P. thinking of what's coming up next, I just can't keep from slipping in a few thoughts about school.

The last few days Lt. Walter C. Cox and myself have met many of our classmates. I thought perhaps the Kernel would be interested in know of the great reunion in France, so here's the list of boys who have gotten together to discuss "old times" at UK:

Lt. Dan Van Sant, Lt. John Seay, Lt. Charles D. Elden, Lt. George Dudley, Lt. Walter Cox, Pfc. Richard Steffer, Pvt. Lloyd Waddell and myself. We were all juniors who returned to school year under the ASTP. Pfc. Glenn Weatherpoon and Major Paul J. Durbin, former UK students were also there.

What a field day for Kentucky!

UK-Way Back When

Captain Britain's Return Brings Confidence to Team

The outlook for a Wildcat team is growing brighter since the last year's Cats, who were thought would not return, suddenly displayed their beaming faces on campus. It is probable that these are the only old "K" men who will return, since most are engaged in war service.

Dr. P. B. Boyd, acting president of the University, spoke in the first chapel of the year. He asked the student body to voluntarily refrain from this form of freshman hazing, which consisted of shearing the first year's locks.

WLW Panel To Visit UK Will Discuss World Events

Discussing world news and the events behind it, radio station WLW's panel of four commentators will be presented by the University Student Government association at 7:30 Tuesday night in Memorial hall.

The forum is the first in a series of timely programs planned by SGA to bring students top-flight speakers on important topics.

Townpeople are also welcome, and special invitations have been extended to Lexington business clubs.

Major-General Edmonds, former commanding officer at Camp Lee, Va., is the panel's military expert and the author of articles on international trade. His book, "Fighting Double," published in 1942, pleaded for American readiness for what General Edmonds believed an imminent conflict.

Investigation Conducted Investigation of fees charged by honorary, social and professional fraternities will be conducted by a committee whose appointment is declaring "this interest shows that the students are taking responsibility upon themselves for raising the tone and morale of the campus."

Vocational Guidance Vocational guidance and particularly vocational rehabilitation will assume great importance in the University's peacetime program as it will direct teaching methods, citizenship training, and discussion classes abreast of developments in the world. The "textbook rehab" and the never-changing lecture course will disappear with the advent of new and alert post-war instructional techniques, the committee feels.

Wildcats Rate Number One Quintet in Nation

Rated the nation's number one basketball team, Kentucky's "right-line" Wildcats in a walk-over victory last night won a record of ten straight victories over top-flight quintets—and ahead of over a dozen more battles in which they must defend their title against even stronger teams. Sportswriters and the men who make the prognostications, dub the Cats probable victors against Michigan State, Notre Dame and the others, by virtue of their power and skill in crushing successively three Yankee rivals on a single Northern jaunt. They call the Cats the "team to beat."

Sparked by the play of Alex Groza, Captain Jack Tingle, Wilbur Schu, Jack Parkinson, Johnny Stough and Buddy Parker, the team rolled up impressive victories over such top ranking teams of the country as Ohio State, Wyoming, Temple, and Long Island university. Coming from behind on numerous occasions, the Wildcats played an impressive brand of ball that won the approval of all basketball enthusiasts and merited the rating given them by sports authorities.

Kentucky, 61; Indiana, 43
Never trailing in a one-sided affair, the Wildcats defeated the University of Indiana 61-43 at the Jefferson County armory. Indiana tied the score 1-1 but after that were never in the game.

The UK quintet piled up a 10-lead in the first 10 minutes of play and was well on their way to victory, sustaining a 24-18 advantage at the half. With eight minutes of the second half gone the Big Blue were out in front 45-27 and remained from 17 to 24 points ahead the remainder of the contest.

Wilbur Schu dropped in 16 points with Alex Groza and Jack Tingle following closely with 15 and 12 points respectively.

Kentucky, 55; Ohio State, 45
The Wildcats outlasted the Ohio State Buckeyes in the first overtime game of the season to win 55-48 at the Alumni gym.

The victory, which came in an overtime period after the score was tied 44-44 at the end of the regulation game, was the first defeat for Ohio State and ran the number of victories to five, in as many games as Kentucky.

Groza carried off top scoring honors as he outplayed his opponent, center Arnold Brink, 87 1/2 led from Williamstown. Don Grant, All-American forward for the Buckeyes, equalled Groza's total but Tingle and Parkinson each tallied 15 points to add to the winning score.

Ohio State grabbed a 4-0 lead but trailed 22-20 at the half. The Cats started the second half in a blaze tied 30-22. With the score 44-43, Sims tossed in a free throw to tie the score at the end of the regulation game and sent it into overtime. UK then went ahead in the five minutes to win, scoring nine points to Ohio's five, with the game placing them among the country's top ranking basketball teams.

Groza opened the game with a jump-in shot and then Mueller, U. C. center, followed by tossing in a free throw, but UK proceeded to run the score up, holding a 17-lead with only 10 minutes of the game completed. Mueller scored half of the opponent's tallies by virtue of five field goals and two free throws. Kentucky was charged with 14 fouls whereas the Cincinnati five committed 18.

Kentucky Trims Bobcats 59-46 In Ninth Triumph

Groza High Man With 25 Points
The stands packed to the rafters by an overflowing crowd, the Wildcats defeated the Ohio university Bobcats 59-46 at the Alumni gym Saturday. Alex Groza paced the attack with 25 points as the Wildcats chalked up their ninth consecutive triumph.

Groza brought the Cats from behind midway in the first half and scored time after time to total 25 points in 30 minutes of playing. He scored 18 points in the first half and it is to be conceded that he would have set a new record at UK had he played the entire game. His record and tip-in put Kentucky in the lead 12-12 with 10 minutes gone and built up an advantage of 12-2 at the end of the first half. Ohio would have gone down to a much greater defeat had it not been for a rank score of 12-10 in the second half.

Jack Parkinson put the Wildcats to rank second in the scoring. Jack Parkinson put the Wildcats to rank second in the scoring. Jack Parkinson put the Wildcats to rank second in the scoring.

December 30
Kentucky, 45; Temple, 44
A last minute field goal by Groza carried the Cats to a 45-44 victory at Convention hall in Philadelphia, Pa. The victory was the seventh straight for Kentucky and the first loss for the Owls.

The Wildcats rallied to overcome a 26-23 deficit at the half and tied the Owls 45-45 with three minutes to go. Groza's last minute basket pulled 44-43 in the lead after trailing 44-43 when Bullo had dropped in a field goal a minute earlier. The Wildcats effectively force the ball until the end of the game and held on to their slim margin of victory.

After the second half was under way Groza reduced the advantage to 45-44 with a field goal a minute before the end of play. The score hung tied 44-44 at the end of the regulation game. UK held full control in the overtime as Groza chalked up six of the winning points in one of the most exciting games of the whole season.

The Wildcats trailed 16-10 and then worked the ball in scoring position time after time to hold an even margin 26-26 at the half. Tingle put the Wildcats ahead to start the second half and with the score tied 29-29 L.L.U. scored 15 points to tie the score and force a start 48-47.

Then with a tie score of 51-51 at the game's end, a five-minute overtime was played with Kentucky holding L.L.U. to one free toss while scoring 11 points. Groza, Schu and Parkinson contributed the winning margin in the overtime. Groza paced the Wildcats' attack with 25 markers, as Schu scored 16 points with Tingle's 10 points. Benyak and Rathman each scored 15 points for L.L.U.

January 1
Kentucky, 62; Long Island U., 52
Overcoming a 15-point deficit in the last ten minutes of play, the Wildcats forced L.I.U. into an overtime and then went on to win 62-52 at Madison Square Garden before a crowd of 13,896.

Kentucky was behind 44-29 after L.U. scored its 15 straight points, and then came ahead to hold a 48-47 lead with two and a half minutes of play left. The score hung tied 51-51 at the end of the regulation game. UK held full control in the overtime as Groza chalked up six of the winning points in one of the most exciting games of the whole season.

Cats Defeat Arkansas 75-6 On Home Court

Opponents Scoreless In Second Half
In one of the most top-sided contests this year, one that resembled a wrestling match rather than a basketball game in the last stages, Kentucky defeated Arkansas State 75-6 in the Alumni gym Monday night.

Coach Rupp used the starting five only long enough to score 20 points and then substituted freely using 18 players. The first team watched the game from the stands during the second half as their teammates rolled the score upward to reach the highest mark so far this season and hold the opposition scoreless the final period.

Every member of the squad contributed to the score except Wilbur Schu and he was only in the game about 15 minutes. Jim Howe paced the attack sinking six field goals for a total of 12 points with Dutch Campbell, replacing Groza who was at his home but will be on hand for the Michigan State game, followed closely with eight tallies.

Campbell put Kentucky in front on the opening play, taking a pass and dropping a field goal from the foul circle. Then Wells was fouled by Campbell and made good the first of his five points (incidentally he scored five of the six points made by Arkansas). The first team then ran the score up to 30-3 before being replaced. Wells dropped in two field goals as Kinley added the only other point in the scoring column of Arkansas for the entire game. Kentucky led 41-4 at the intermission.

Jim Howe dropped in three baskets in a hurry to start the second half and the riot was on again. Shutting out a team in basketball is an unusual occurrence but the Kentucky reserves pulled the trick in the final period while scoring 36 points. Howe dropped in four goals and Compton added three more to pace the last frame. Coach Rupp was given a chance to see his reserves in action as they have to pick someone to fill Alex Groza's shoes, who will play his last game against Michigan State.
