Wright or Wrong Letters To The Editor

By Orman Wright

One of the nice (if I didn't have such a deep bias in the essential goodness of my fellow man, I wouldn't leave myself open like this) things about this column is that you never know what next week will bring. I admit sometimes it even puzzles me. However, it might be that this situation has its good aspects. I doubt if this column has over twenty regular readers. I read it of course because I write it. My kinkfolds read it because I worry them to death if they don't. The Phi Delta pledges read because they love me (those boys aren't dumb). And the editor reads it because she has to. Then I suspect I have at least one other reader whom I have purposefully neglected to mention. But to get back to the original topic, I think this has its advantages because most of the people who read this read it because I have a lot more readers when I do something bad. Of course, in either circumstances the number is not very large, but regardless, if I had a good many people have asked me at one time or another how I persist in writing it, and a lot of other foolish questions. Well, it's a long story—at least 18 inches of story, I hope.

Here's how it began: Last summer I had a class with Patsy Burnett, who had just been appointed editor of the paper. Patricia was having a lot of trouble filling up two pages and was vaguely looking for a nice trick if a column to go on the editorial page. After a week of going to an eight o'clock class with me, Patsy was a completely captivated by my charming personality. I introduced to a girl, I click my heels, genuflect three times and kiss her hand; a various mixture of the oriental and continental customs) and asked me if I would try writing a column. Being a woman, Pat embellished her request with a little flattery and said she thought I had a lot of interesting ideas she said "interesting," but she was thinking "radical". That did it. I told her I would.

When I turned in the first copy, the only slug-line on it was my name. In my hurry to deposit the thing in The Kernel office and get out before I lost my nerve, I had neglected to select a title for the column. This posed a problem. I don't customarily to run columns without heads. So a head had to be thought up. In a moment of inspiration, "Wright or Wrong" flashed into Tom Duncan's head and I wasn't there to defend myself. Duncan has known me all my life and, no doubt, thought this entitled him to take such liberties with my brain-child. So the column was named "Wright or Wrong." I am still looking for a chance to get even.

The column is now going into its third quarter and the gods willing, I hope to make it through June. So far, the column has been distinguished by little more than my excessive use of parentheses and the fact that this is about the only 600 words in the paper that manages to stay absolutely nothing.

UK Rifle Team Wins Two Matches

The Kentucky varsity rifle team defeated Indiana, 1873-1829, and Lehigh, 1804-1874, in two postal matches last week. The squad has 19 more meets scheduled for this season with possible addition of some shoulder-to-shoulder matches. The individual scoring for UK was: Waters 373-277; Hay 373-285; however, caused him to change plans the second time and returned to his press wire in Louisville. By this time new offices had been obtained by the telegraph company, and Edison was content to be a Kentuckian. He surrounded himself with books and apparatus for experiments, and all would have gone well except for a rule which forbade operators to use office equipment and batteries except in their regular work.

It seems that these rules didn't bother Edison and one might be tempted to think that he was somewhat deaf, didn't hear the somewhat acid with which to carry out an experiment.

"The carboy tipped over," Edison explained later. "The acid ran out

Editor, Kentucky Kernel:
"Wright or Wrong" gave a very good answer to Messrs. Tribble, Crutchfield and Chesnut, Jr., or should they be addressed by "Masters"? Certainly they are very childish in their letter printed week before last in The Kernel.

Why keep dragging the veteran into everything that goes wrong? My husband is an ex-GI and after discussing the letter with him, we both came to the same conclusion: that a grown man back from service would be less likely to wear a high school letter than one just out of high school. They've "put away childish things." Wearing a high school letter in college is a little like a gal who's no longer engaged to a man continuing to wear his diamond because she's afraid she'll never get another. If the three students have to wear their high school letters, it's probably because they can't or won't try to earn a "K." When I entered the University I had three earned high school letters from my school. I didn't wear them because I had graduated and was in a new school, where, incidentally, I wasn't graduated from UK in 1904 and as far as I was concerned cause that didn't suit him a trumped up "cause".

As for the loyalty angle, look Tribble, Crutchfield and Chesnut, Jr. I resent your crack about "there aren't ten men out of 100 loyal to this school." My father graduated from UK in 1904 and as far as I was concerned cause that didn't suit him a trumped up "cause".

my choice, and there are a lot more like me who resent it too—if you don't like it, leave—there are many who would be more than grateful for the space you take up!

I grant the fact that when you have a lot of mature men and women returning to school after a war, you won't have the youthful exuberance displayed by recent high school graduates in their terms (and don't get me wrong there, either; that exuberance is wonderful too). However, I'm sure their loyalty will be a deep down, lasting good thing for the University.

Instead of the organizations on the campus for this and that, each one made up of recent high school students, veterans, etc., each "yipping" for his "rights," why don't the students get together and each give of his own enthusiasm and experience for the good and rights of the school, and in the long run the students' own personal gain. Clean up your morale and make it something to be proud of! From what I've observed while on many recent visits to Lexington it wouldn't hurt the faculty to work on theirs! It is a shame that a letter like "Wright vs. UK" has to appear in the next column. It was enlightening, and the students certainly ought to take it to heart and try to do something, and quick.

Several months ago I attended an alumni meeting here in Chicago. About 50 men and women, alumni of UK, attended, who'd graduated during the past fifty years, and they could have shown you school spirit and loyalty, and they numbered among them well known and very successful business and professional people.

As for hoping the "Cats" would get a beating by Kentucky Wesleyan, why don't you three go over there, get on the team, and see what you can do? You're square pegs in round holes boys, you "wise up" before you're just three more for "section B".

Very truly yours,
Margaret Fry Grisel,
Grad. Engineering, 1920.

Post-Office Line Unsigned Letters

The line at the post-office window during the between-class periods has become so long that many students wishing to mail letters and then get to class on time find it impossible. Students who want only to get through the post office to the book store have an equal amount of trouble fighting the crowd. Yet only one window of the post office is open for sale of stamps and receipt of packages.

Formerly both windows were kept open. Now that the student body has increased, only one window remains open, and the student finds that purchase of a three-cent stamp requires ten minutes of his valuable quarter-system time. Plus the two or three minutes necessary to fight back through the line to reach the letter slots, this must result in a tremendous loss of man-hours daily.

During the period while classes are in session, there is little need for more than one window. But the post office employees should open both windows at least during the ten-minute between-class periods and preferably for five minutes before and after.

If more employees are necessary for such a step, they should be hired. The student body and the faculty should receive better service.

Two letters which were publishable were received by The Kernel last week, but students who wrote them had neglected to sign their names. Because of policy dictated by the fact that a writer may be needed in case trouble should come from publication of a letter and by courtesy, The Kernel can publish no unsigned letters.

However, names of letter-writers will be withheld upon request.

Anything worth writing is worth signing. An editor who would heed correction or comment in a signed letter often—and usually—will disregard any statement in an unsigned one as something from "some crackpot who had his feelings hurt." Such unsigned letters often are never even read when the recipient sees that they bear no signature.

If the writers of the two letters mentioned above will call at The Kernel office and identify themselves, the letters will be published.

The latest themosong of University veterans is "Just a Shanty in Old Shavencourt."

Now that we have safer steps and Denman's dictionary, how about University unity?

Edison Was Telegrapher While Living In Louisville

Next Wednesday, February 11, is located on the second floor of a dilapidated down town building. The office of Thomas Alva Edison, probably the greatest of American inventors, is located in the Most Americans learn about Edison from the school that Edison was born in New Jersey and is most renowned for his electrical inventions, particularly the incandescent light and phonograph. But few of them know that he lived in Kentucky at one time working and experimenting in newspaper telegraph offices.

The fact is that Edison spent nearly two years in Louisville as a telegraph operator. During that time he took the press reports and was well known in Louisville's newspaper fraternity. He was finally fired for ruining the boss's office with acid when an experiment went very wrong.

Edison came to Louisville from Memphis soon after the end of the War Between the States and obtained a job in the telegraph office. Even as a youth he was recognized as an expert receiver of telegraphic code and in Louisville he soon was given the honor of taking the press reports. It was while he was so engaged that he made one of his first "discoveries." This invention was a verbal style of writing which he perfected, after much experimenting in order to speed up his transcription of his press reports. This style of writing later became a fad and was used largely by teachers of penmanship.

The problem of developing a speedy method of writing had been very real to Edison because he was receiving between eight and fifteen columns of news every day while working in Louisville. The news was being transmitted by way of Cincinnati on a wire which Edison could not interrupt if he missed a word or sentence. The wires often worked badly but still the words piled in upon him at the rate of 25 to 40 a minute.

This problem had to be solved, so Edison went about experimenting. The result was the style of writing, for which he was recognized for the rest of his life. Edison worked in the old telegraph offices for a while. These were in Cincinnati an urgent message from the War Office came in for immediate transmission to Louisville. The message was not understood, and finally arrangements were made to get the message through via Indianapolis.

In due time the trouble in Louisville was explained. One of the operators had been in Jeffersonville where he had fallen off a horse and had suffered a broken leg; another operator had been stabbed in a keno room brawl; and the third had gone to Cynthiana to see a man hanged, and failed to catch the train returning to Louisville.

In his association with Louisville newspapermen Edison came upon what may be the explanation of the origin of the modern humorist. It was the practice of the early telegraph operators to use the hulls in transmission of news and messages for the exchange of jokes and stories. These items were put on the wire all the way from New York to St. Louis, and the operators copied them and passed them around the offices before passing them on the bulletin board. The newspapermen would come into the office and copy the items which were printable—about three per cent of those posted, according to Edison.

Edison had experience with bullets in Louisville. The first time was when a tramp operator wandered into the office and insisted on throwing cartridges into the fire. Two of the bullets struck Edison, but inflicted no serious injury. On

Shall I be lame because I am imprisoned?
Shall I be blind for bars that split the sun?
Shall I be deaf because my ear is pained?

My eyes are fuller if my feet are captive.
My ear is richer in the silent hours.
And suffering bestows a monstrous power.

When I was in the world I saw no people.
When I was in the garden smelled no roses.

I listened to the strings yet heard no music.
I kissed warm lips and yet my own were frozen.

I saw the sky but not the eternal.
I sniffed the bloom but did not smell the seed.

I harkened to music but heard no Jehovah.

In large blocks, enabling them to sell the tickets as much as $5 each when the tickets on sale had run out.

"Report: Mrs. Evans reports that it has been a general practice in the past, when the tickets have been hard to sell, to allow representatives of fraternities, societies, or other organizations, to take as many as they would normally require and to bring back the money, or the left-over tickets to her office.

This method was evidently employed as one of the easiest ways of distributing the tickets and as one of the most convenient to a large number of students. Not realizing the unusual demand for the Stan Kenton tickets, Mrs. Evans took them to the Interfraternity council meeting on Tuesday night, ten days before the dance.

Only nine fraternities out of seventeen, wanted tickets and no group exceeded its quota. It seems logical to assume, then, that what scapling was done, was done by individual students, and was not sanctioned by any organization. All in all, the fraternities received 405 of the 1600 tickets.

The following morning the other 1195 tickets were placed on sale in the SUB for the general public. The misunderstanding possibly arose from the fact that after the tickets were sold out, the persons wanting them were told that there were none to be had, unless fraternity groups returned some.

In future circumstances when the demand for tickets is great they will be placed on general sale in the SUB for several days before they are offered to organizations.

"Subject: Complaining has been received concerning the townspeople eating in the cafeteria.

"Report: Miss Trigg, first of all, pointed out that it is impossible to keep figures as to the number of people from town eating here. The reasons are that townspeople are generally indistinguishable from students, veterans wives, and persons meeting on the campus for educational or religious purposes.

However, Miss Trigg expressed the opinion that since the spring and summer, there has been a decrease of approximately 75 percent of people from town eating at the cafeteria. The fact that townspeople helped the University during the war when customers were scarce makes the University hesitant to say that they are forbidden to use the cafeteria now.

"Miss Trigg stated that they are not encouraged, in fact they are discouraged from eating here. Thus, if a Lexingtonian asked permission, he is told that while the University does say no emphatically, he is to consider the fact that he, but not the students, has a place to take his meals off the campus.

"Subject: Someone has charged that the bookstore makes unreasonable profits on books, particularly in the buying and selling of used books. Report of conference with Mr. Peterson and Mr. Morris: The Book Store sells at contract list prices furnished by the book corporation from which the book store purchases books. These lists may be found by anyone desiring to check them, in the Library.

The Book Store gets a 20 percent discount from these prices as gross profits. A. Ten percent of Book Store profits goes to the University for use of building equipment, etc. B. The Book Store bears the cost of putting these books before the students, that is, costs of shipping books are absorbed by the Book Store. The margin of profit on used books is 23.33 percent, i.e., the Book Store will pay $2 for a book which it sells at three dollars. Of this marginal profit, 30 percent goes to the University.

"If used books are bought by the Book Store and are discontinued by the University, the Book Store may incur a loss, for it must sell them to jobbers at a very low price—sometimes as low as 10 cents per book. If the Book Store purchases used books, knowing at the time that they cannot be resold to students here, the price given must be lower than it would be, were it possible to resell the books here.

Jobbers refuse to pay more than 10 to 25 cents per book. As stated above, the Book Store pays half price, when new, for used books. Question—Can anyone point out to students here, the price given must be lower than it would be, were it possible to resell the books here.

"The Book Store often carries a burden over a long period of time. Thus it buys books in November which it cannot sell until January. To do this, money must be borrowed at 5 percent interest. This is important in view of the fact that two-thirds of the students are veterans whose books are not paid for, for a considerable period of time.

"Any student is cordially invited at any time to discuss with Mr. Morris how the Book Store is operated, and to check the invoices against the prices being charged for the books.

"SGA: Suggest you send a member to Purdue, Columbia, Cincinnati, or other University and compare prices.

Ruppen Routs Irish, 60-30, Knock Tide From Undeclared

By Baxter Melton
Onward and onward to Coach A. O'Neil Rupp's all-conquering teams who now list 22 wins in 23 starts. Latest victims were Notre Dame, second to Kentucky in national rankings, and Alabama, undefeated and co-leader of the Southeastern conference until the Cats came calling.

A time-worn expression of "the bigger they are the harder they fall" might be applied to the Notre Dame game. The Irish, picked to give the Ruppen their toughest test, were routed, 60-30, with the ease a varsity enjoys over reserves in inter-team practice. Only when the S. Bend's real work is realized is Kentucky's genuine greatness appreciated. "Was not that the Irish were not a good team in their own right, the game remains that the Wildcats were just that much better."

Cats Near Perfection
Saturday night's victory in Louisville will be recorded as one of the best cage exhibits in the city's history, may reach the No. 1 spot in the minds of those who saw it, anyway. Not only were the Wildcats playing heads-up ball offensively, but they were blanketing the Notre Dame attack with an almost invulnerable defense. The losers made only nine field goals all night, could register only two during the entire second half.

Mention of individual stars among Kentucky's gallants is a facetious venture for the most part, because teamwork, determination and all-around efficiency combined to reward the Lexington lads with victory. Alex Gross paced the point parade with 18, was followed closely by Ralph Beard with 17, and these two turned in excellent floor games. Gross's rebounding and tip-in work kept the Irish from getting any ground, was invaluable in his floor general role, excelled on defense. Jack Tingle, Wallace Jones and Joe Holland were likewise noteworthy during their respective stints at forward. Holland's work under the baskets, and all three's ball-hawking were something to watch.

Frankie Curran topped the looting cause with nine tallies, Leo Barnum scored seven, The Irish missed 12 free throws, Kentucky 7. Twenty-three fouls were called on the Wildcats, 13 on Notre Dame. The loss was Notre Dame's third in 14 tries.

Second only to the game inside was the excitement outside in the streets as hundreds tried vainly to obtain tickets. Snappers asked and got as high as $40 for duets. Even after the game had started, would-be spectators jammed the outer entrances trying to get a glimpse of the game, maybe "get in."

Kentucky 48, Alabama 27.

The largest basketball crowd in Tusculoo history, 5,000 saw Rupp's Raiders parry with Alabama's Crimson Tide, fed out the foe, then go on to a 48-27 decision. Roughness marred the tilt, as the host cagers were determined not to relinquish their tie for the league lead, had pointed for the start a long time. They might as well have pointed for the moon, however, for the Kentuckians, obviously off form, still had enough power to withstand any critter. The blue-tinted Kappas have met with little opposition since their 15-13 tie with the KD's in their opener. Kappa victims include the Zetas, 19-11; and Tri-Delts, 26-12. The Kappas-Thetas tilt ended in a dispute and will be replayed. Holding high the KKC banner are Dunlap, Wade, Storey and McCauley. Foremost of the Tri-Delts are Gray and Metcalfe.

The Chi'O's, paced by Mary Kassenbrock, have been slow starters, but appear stronger in recent games, as have the Alpha 2's and Alpha Gamma. Leading scorers in the meet so far are Wilde, KD; Lutes, ADP; Knapp, KAT; Knuckles, Alpha XI; Kassenbrock, Ohio; Rhoads, Alpha Gamma; Davis, Zeta; Dunlap, Kappa; and Gray, Tri-Delt.

The bowling tournament begins Monday, February 10, and each sport may enter four girls. Entry fee is fifty cents, payable at the gym office. Names of girls and sororities may enter four girls. Basketball Play-Off Begins Next Week

Sigma Chi's Beat Sigma Nus, 45-26; ATO's Upset SAE's

The round-robin tournament in intramural basketball winds-up tonight, and next Tuesday play will begin in the elimination tournament with the upper half of each division battling it out for the top honors. Eight teams will be pitted in the first bracket, while 12 independent teams clash in their bracket.

It's been an interesting tournament with many hard fought contests in each league. In fact, Bill McCubbin, intramural manager, asks that all team managers check the intramural bulletin board today and make sure their team isn't slated to participate in a play-off game tonight to determine top teams in each division.

Kappas, KD's Tied in Girls' Tourney
By Ann Embury

The Kappas and KD's are tied for first place in the inter-sorority round robin tourney, featuring broken fingernails, and being held each afternoon in the Women's gym.

Until Tuesday the Thetas had been ahead of the pack, but the black and gold clad girls were handed a 23-16 upset by the KD's, paced by Ruth Wilde. Wilde scored the amazing total of 26 points, previously the Thetas had trimmed Alpha 2's, 25-11; the Chi'O's, 26-12; the ADP's, 26-16 and tied the Tri-Delts, 14-14, earlier in the tourney.

The blue-tinted Kappas have met with little opposition since their 15-13 tie with the KD's in their opener. Kappa victims include the Zetas, 19-11; and Tri-Delts, 26-12. The Kappas-Thetas tilt ended in a dispute and will be replayed. Holding high the KKC banner are Dunlap, Wade, Storey and McCauley. Foremost of the Tri-Delts are Gray and Metcalfe.

out a 12-11 upset over the KA's, and a 28-27 edge over the KA's, they have a tough battle on their hands in beating out the Sig Eps and Phi Dels for one of the remaining two positions in the division.

Division II saw the pre-tourney favorite, Sigma Chi's, walk over the Sigma Nus in the closing minutes of their game this week by a 45-26 score, and gain undisputed lead in the division. However, both teams have records which automatically place them in the finals. The Kappa Sig's probably will get one of the other spots, but they dropped a close one earlier to the Delta Chi's. Then there are the AGH's who aren't out of the running yet.

Sigma Chi's Again

Of the frat teams mentioned the four strongest, and the ones who will probably make the semi-finals in their league are, the SX's, SN's, and the Psi Kaps. Then the way it looks, the final game will be another Sigma Chi-Sigma Nu scrap, with the boys from Limestone street coming out on top again, only this time the score will be closer.

The Kentucky Aggies have things under control in division III, with the Turbines as the only really strong threat. The remaining spot to be filled in the finals from this division may go either to the Eight Balls or the Aces.

Dorm I and Atonies
Division IV finds the Cuckoos and Briar Jumpers the winning automatic positions in the play-off, with the Bell Boys probably dropping in to number three. Dorm I is the big gun in division V along with the Atonies. Both teams will be in the eliminations, and the Gas House Gang could be the other.

Collins' North Kyans are outstanding in division VI, and will be in the play-off. The remaining two teams should be the Ichabods and the G.D.I's.

The independent league semi-finals will almost surely feature the Kentucky Aggies, Turbines, Collins' N. Kyans, and Dorm I. As for the finals, all four teams are so evenly matched that any two could come through, but a very slight nod is given the Aggies and Dorm I, with the winner anybody's guess.

Other Intramurals
The ping pong tourney is progressing with all play being held in the basement of the Men's gym. Tables and all equipment will be furnished by the intramural department. Players should check the bulletin board and make arrangements to play their matches as soon as possible.

Bowling and badminton will get moving soon. The deadline date for registration in badminton is February 14, and the birds will start flying the 18th. The bowling deadline is February 18, and things will start rolling the 24th with games being played in the afternoons at the Bowl.

I want to whisper all my plans
And what I hope to be
And then I want to ask you dear,
To share your life with me.
'Twas just the other evening,
In a fortune telling place,
A pretty gypsy read Dempsey's mind
And then she slapped his face.

Cat Clippings...

By Tom Diskin
Malcolm McMullen, the six-foot-five-inch center, has left for Xavier University in Cincinnati. His departure last week was overshadowed by the Wildcat-Notre Dame contest. This season McMullen had played in 13 games (45 minutes) and scored eight points. The 20-year-old Hamilton, Ohio, boy left the Wildcats because he was "tired of sitting on the bench," according to reports. Since McMullen knew Lew Hirt, Xavier member, from his high school days when Hirt was coach at both the public and Catholic schools at different times, the big cager chose the Cincinnati school. Xavier intends to use McMullen immediately although the Adolph Rupp indicated that the Wildcats were not eager to play schools which "picked up" Kentucky players. One Xavier official said, however, that he thought if Kentucky pushed the transfer very far, "Big Mac" might not be allowed to play anymore this season.

lower South extensively this winter, looking for future Wildcat football material.

The University of Georgia football coaches are worried over the coming gridiron season. They claim that all opponents will be laying for them, in order to break their 16 game winning streak. The Bulldogs face North Carolina, LSU, Kentucky, Oklahoma A&M, and Alabama on successive week-ends, and Wally Butts figures all these games will be tough. Georgia still have a powerful eleven this fall, even without Charlie Trippi, he predict.

MUSING with Melton

By Baxter Melton, Kernel Sports Editor
The inevitable has happened. Coach Adolph Rupp, perennial producer of basketball champions, is being baited by a lucrative offer from the pay-for-play side of meadow. If the Baron will let leave his boys in Blue here at the University, he can make at least $10,000 a year as skipper of the professional Louisville Dads, newly organized cage combine in the Falls City.

That's the gist of developments this week. Willis W. Wyatt, soft drink bottler, heads of group incorporating the club which will bear his product's name. Others are Irvine Wayne, manager of the Jefferson county Armory; Thomas Edwards, former owner of the Toledo entry in the National Basketball League; and Freeman R. Robinson, Louisville attorney.

$50,000 State Maximum
Under state statute, Coach Rupp can draw only $5,000 annually as director of Cal court districts. Mr. Wyatt and associates have gone on record as willing to offer the Baron a contract whereby he can realize as much as $15,000 or more each year by salary and bonus. In fact, they will offer a five year guarantee of $10,000 per annum right now.

Following their filing of official papers in Frankfort Wednesday, these men came out to Lexington for a talk with the UK coach. After the meeting Rupp released this statement for publication: "I feel highly honored to be considered for his position. Professional basketball in Louisville is a natural. At present any thoughts and efforts should be directed to bringing my present University team through his schedule. Until our team has completely carried out its obligations, I am in no position to consider any other plans."

Second Coach Problem
The ruckus over Rupp marks the second time this school year that the University has faced such a problem. Late last fall rumors flew that Paul Bryant, football coach, would move to Alabama, his alma mater, to replace Frank Thomas, retiring because of ill health. That situation was met by the Board's acceptance of a 10-year contract with a boost in pay. An active organization, directed by downtown businessmen and interested athletes, has collected funds to supplement his salary. Will they be able to do the same with Rupp, keep the colorful coach?

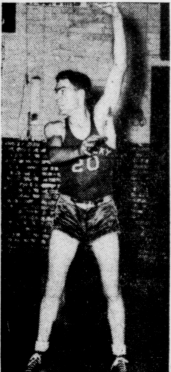

Sideline chatter will wax long and vigorously in the next few weeks, as the Kentuckians complete their schedule and whatever post-season journeys in which they participate. Pros and cons by the dozens will be advanced about the Baron's leaving or staying. That he can "write his own ticket" is obviously apparent, but can the University outbid the professionals, and will they be able? The Kansas-born mentor has led here 17 years, has

by O. C. Hatyard
Kentucky, the nation's wonder team, leaves by train this morning for Chicago where tomorrow night the Cats meet the DePaul Blue Demons in the second contest between the teams this season. It will be the first performance the Wildcats have put on in the Windy City in a couple of years.

Following their rout of the Notre Dame Irish last week-end, which made them an unanimous selection as the country's best, and their halting of Alabama's undefeated reign, the Wildcats move into the last phase of their regular season play which holds Temple as the only opponent that hasn't already felt the Cats' fury this season.

Georgia Monday
After Saturday night's scrap, the Kentuckians return home to meet the Georgia Bulldogs Monday night in the first of a series of return bouts with SEC teams. Both teams proved to be rather easy foes for the Kentucky Wonder Boys, in their initial engagements, and thus the Cats draw the familiar favored position. The Cats stopped all talk of DePaul being a strong threat to their claims for the nation's crown by pounding them, 65-45, back in December. The Georgia Bulldogs were the third team the Cats met on a four day trip around conference circles, and succumbed, 94-45.

Ed For George
This year the Blue Demons have failed to present a team to compare with the one during the years George Mikan played college ball, although his little brother, 6 foot 8 inch Ed, has been heralded as just as good a ball player. Ed is definitely the big spear plug of the team, and accounted for six field goals and four out of six free tosses against the Wildcats in the first game.

Adolph Rupp, Kentucky's famous basketball coach, says he will not consider a lucrative offer from a Louisville professional club until his Cats have completed their schedule.

Kentucky will be trying for win No. 11 since losing to Oklahoma 37-21, and No. 22 for the season. DePaul will enter the game with a less impressive record of 11 victories and six losses. Among the teams who have conquered the Demons are the Oklahoma Aggies who stopped them 44-27, and Bowling Green (Ohio), which marked up a 22-point, 68-47 victory.

DePaul has knocked off Rice, St. Mary's, North Carolina U. and recently best Murray, 50-47, and Michigan State, 52-45. The Cats stomped the Spartans, 86-36. Possessors of even number books will be admitted to Monday night's game when the Georgia Bulldogs arrive here from a scrap with Tennessee in Knoxville. The Bulldogs offer a poor record of three wins in 11 starts, and probably will drop Saturday night's tilt with Tennessee, as the Vols overcame them earlier in the year, 48-23.

Georgia's three wins have been against Chattanooga, Old Miss, and Auburn, the Bulldogs having stopped weak Auburn only 44-40. In the first Kentucky-Georgia game the Georgians gave the Cats a tough fight for five minutes and had the score knotted at 6-all. However, the half time score was 47-20, and Kentucky coasted to an easy win.

Healey led the Georgia attack with 15 points, and Lorenzo pitched in 10. Harvell was third for the Bulldogs with eight.

UK-Louisville Fencers Duel Saturday In Women's Gym

by Winfield Leathers
Despite the presence of Albert Wolff, national duelling sword champion, in the Louisville YMCA lineup, the Kentucky sword thrusters are expected to win the match from them in the Women's gym at 4 p. m., Saturday afternoon.

Kentucky's lineup pits Louie Brown and Charles LeGette against Wolff in the duelling sword. Both Brown and LeGette turned in excellent performances against the Charleston semi-professional club in a match here January 18.

On Saturday afternoon Brown took starting honors and furnished the backbone of UK's offense, although it lost 16-10, by copying three wins in fobs and two with the duelling sword. LeGette also turned in a perfect record against the Charlestonians.

With the brilliant performance turned in during practice sessions this week Coach Kent Miller Holland stated, "We are expecting to win the fobs and saber divisions, maybe in the duelling sword, too." Saber and sword duelling matches will be held early in the program.

Holland Continued, "because these are the most active matches and of the most interest from the spectators' point-of-view."
Full team entries for Kentucky include Brown, who is a double-duty bladesman, Micky Kaufman, Prebert Thompson, Bill Scherle, and a fifth man to be named.

Against the relatively "green" Louisville entrants in sabers the Kentuckians are expected to dominate with player-coach Miller Holland, George Christen, and Rembrandt Mainie, all experienced thrusters.
Other UK men who may see action are Albert Hurst, Lionel King, John Brotenstein, Joel Unglerleider, and Linton.

Future Matches
The Falls City team will act as host in about two weeks in a return match in Louisville. The following week will find the local fencers journeying to Charleston, W. Va., for a match on March 1.

"There will be no admission charged for the match tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Women's gym. All students and townspeople are cordially invited to witness the match, the second one held here in three weeks, after an absence of over five years."
