Ag Convention to Meet Here January 27-30

Featured speakers at the general sessions of the Farm and Home Convention to be held here January 27-30, will be Dr. Karl D. Butler of the American Institute of Cooperation, Washington, D. C.; H. L. Donovan, dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics. Dr. Butler will address delegates at the first general session to be held at 11 a. m. Tuesday on "Cooperative Look Ahead." President Donovan will address the Wednesday session. His subject will be "About Kentucky - Information Please." Dr. Butler will address delegates at the second general session, scheduled for the Thursday session, to be "Opportunity Ahead."

All representatives of Westinghouse Electric Corporation, will address the women's section Tuesday morning on "New Horizons in Lighting." Tuesday's feature will be "Can You Be Happy in a Confused World?" an address by Mrs. Luella Canterbury, of Chicago. She will speak to women delegates on Thursday, on "Outfitting Year."

Women delegates to the convention will hear a feature of the Associated Country Women of the World, held in Highland last September. Delegates and Miss Myrtle Weston, state leader of home demonstration work, will discuss various phases of their trip.

One of the sections meeting at the convention will deal entirely with tobacco production. Speakers will discuss control of tobacco diseases, fertilizing tobacco, the growing of new and improved varieties, priming, and curing. This meeting will be held in the livestock pavilion arena at 9:30 a. m. Friday.

Building run-down land into paying farms will be one of the subjects discussed at the farm management section of the meet. Included will be interviews with farmers who have combined soil improvement and livestock raising to improve farm income. Speakers will discuss making high crop yields, the growing of grasses, control of plant diseases, fertilizer use, and weed control.

The national save-grain program will have a part in the animal husbandry program. Speakers will discuss feeding and disease control, and the outlook for the year.

Artificial breeding, control of disease, selection of stock, and other animal husbandry problems will be considered in the dairy section. Other special sessions will be devoted to farm engineering and trust schools, roads, churches, and trade centers will be discussed at a section meeting on the rural community and church on Friday.

Speakers will include Dr. Kendall Weisger, Atlanta; Dr. Morton Hanna, Louisville; Emory Rogers, Maysville; Fran Jett, Covington; and number of country church pastors; and members of the faculty of the University. The Kentucky Rural Church Fellowship will meet at the close of the conference.

Meals for the convention delegates will be served at the pavilion and at the agriculture and home economics building. Men will be served in the dining room of the University. Nearly one thousand people will be served each day.

Pledges Raid Dormitories
"We'll give 'em a paddling that'll be more than anything their fraternity ever thought of," explained a men's dormitory resident, slightly embarrassed by souvenir-hunting frat pledges Saturday night.

"Signs and various utensils" were removed from the dorms by raising pledges in a burst of pre-war-type campus activity, and dorm men were reported to be more than a little peeved.

Campus Needs Parking Space Kirwan Says

2000 Cars Won't Go In 512 Places

By Haskell Short
What's the solution to the parking problem here on the campus? That's what everyone who drives and especially a faculty-student committee headed by Dean A. D. Kirwan was thinking to know. And they say the problem isn't an easy one to solve. Their problem, in few words, is how to fit some 2000 cars into 512 parking places. Isn't that?

No answer
"Nobody has found the answer," says Dean of Men Kirwan who has the unhappy task of deciding who can park and who gets a bunk fine if he does.

"I certainly would like to talk to you about this problem," says Kirwan. He explains he inherited the present system by Joseph Hall, but that everyone else admits it's outdated and isn't the answer now that the campus has about twice as many automobiles as ever before.

As Dr. Kirwan sees it, parking is the big problem everywhere and no city or university has yet solved the question. Where there are automobiles there are headaches, he points out.

"Most cities and universities were laid out before the automobile age and at that time little if any thought was given to automobile parking," he says. "I inherited a problem," Dean Kirwan explains.

Take our campus here. We have only 512 parking spaces on the central campus. There are unregulated parking spaces by Jewell Hall, behind the College of Education, and on the Administration Station, but the situation is such that it is likely those areas will soon require two.

"Now with all these automobiles and back of them what we're going to do? It's a question that demands an answer, but how about the situation presents two problems. One is the immediate problem. The other is the long-range problem.

Turning to the immediate problem, Kirwan says he has always been in the issue parking permits for all the faculty and staff and he has issued 349 of the 512 parking permits to this group.

"But," he says, "this policy is open to question. For instance, it would work a hardship on many of the faculty not to be allowed to park on the campus, but how about the younger members who don't live far away? Where are we going to drive for them?"

After issuing permits to the faculty, Kirwan says he has always been in the issue parking permits for all the faculty and staff and he has issued 349 of the 512 parking permits to this group.

No Negroes Have Applied Officials Say

University officials said Thursday that no applications for admission have been made by Negroes although James A. Crumlin, president of the Louisville branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said that a Negro girl would seek admission to the College of Law.

President H. L. Donovan said he had "no comment" on press dispatches telling of the Negro student seeking admission to the University.

Last week the Supreme Court ruled that Oklahoma must admit a Negro girl who seeks entrance to its state university law school or provide equal facilities for her.

Among the leaders to visit the University campus for religious emphasis week are shown above. Dr. Claude Broach, pastor of St. John's Baptist Church, Charlotte, N.C., and Charles M. Jones, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at the University of North Carolina; Kendall Weisger, a member of the Episcopal Church; and Mrs. Warren Hastings, Disciples of Christ teacher and adviser.

Other speakers include: Dr. James S. Stoner, director of the University Christian Mission for the Federal Council of Churches; Dr. R. D. Ruslander, Rabbi of Temple Israel, Dayton, Ohio; Claude Broach, minister of St. John's Baptist Church in Charlotte, N.C.; Miss Nellie Morton, general secretary of the Fellowship of Southern Churches; and Dr. Gabriel Nallas, representing the United Reformed Church of France (Calvinist).

A schedule of the meetings follows:
SEMINARS - Monday through Thursday, 4:00 p. m.
Race Equality - Charles M. Jones - Young Student Union.
Courtship Clinic - Claude Broach - Prater Hall, 802.
Get Your Faith Straight - Mrs. Hastings - Music Room, SUB.
Dollars and Sense - Miss Morton - Room 128, SUB.
Prayer and Sense - Mrs. Morton - Weisger - Prater, Room 201.

One World? - Dr. Young, Dr. Nallas, Rabbi Ruslander - Prater, Room 204.
FUNDAMENTAL SERIES - Monday through Thursday, 5:00 p. m., Music Room, SUB.
Tuesday: Bishop Mulloy - Fundamentals of Christian Science.
Wednesday: Dr. Todd - Fundamentals of Christian Science.
Thursday: Rev. Jones - Fundamentals of Protestantism.

EVENING FORUMS - 7:30 p. m., Memorial Hall (MH) or Christian School (CS).
Sunday: (MH) "The Christian Challenge to World Confusion" - Dr. Young.
Monday: (MH) Topic unannounced - Bishop Mulloy.
Tuesday: (MH) "Christian Radicals on the Campus" - Rev. Jones.
Wednesday: (MH) "No for Negroes" - Mr. Weisger.
Thursday: (US) "To Be a Slave Whistler" - Mrs. Hastings.

Speakers on this series will be:
Sororities Schedule Basketball Tourney
Sorority basketball begins Feb. 2. A round robin tournament will be played within three divisions and then the division winners will play off to end the tournament, winner and runner up. Practice began last week.

All entry fees are due before the tournament begins and entry lists must be in the intramural office not later than Jan. 26. Teams may register now for practice periods and coaching is available from the University of Kentucky. Umpires and referees will be WAA members while sororities will furnish a timer and a scorer for each game. Tennis shoes and shorts are required.

At the end of the tournament each team will select two players for an all-star game.

President's Welcome

Message from the President:
We of the University of Kentucky are indeed pleased that the campus has been selected by the Federal Council of Churches of America in co-operation in the observance of Religious Emphasis Week, January 24 to 30. It is a pleasure to welcome the outstanding religious leaders who will be here as speakers for this occasion. It is our hope that the faculty and students will manifest their interest by their wholehearted participation.

H. L. DONOVAN, President

Staff Member World Famous For Research

By Helen Henry
Dr. James S. McFarquhar, head of the department of research chemistry at the University Agricultural Experiment Station, whose change of occupation has been approved by the Board of Trustees, is perhaps the most widely known man to serve on the staff of the University. He is internationally famous for his research in the field of soil and minor elements in soils and in the study of the chemical elements in the growth of plants and the metabolism of the plant.

A native of Laurel county, Dr. McFarquhar was graduated from the University in 1908 with a major in chemistry. As a student and for a time after graduation he worked in the laboratories of Dr. A. M. Peter, long-time head of the department of research chemistry. He was later associated with the standards in Washington, then carried on research investigations in the Hygienic Laboratory, Washington, under the supervision of Dr. J. H. Kastle, who later became director of the University department.

In 1907 Dr. McFarquhar returned to the University to work under the supervision of Dr. Peter in the Kentucky Geological Survey. In 1912 he was transferred to the department of research chemistry as research chemist. He became head of the department when Dr. Peter retired in 1927.

Dr. McFarquhar received the M.S. degree in chemistry from the University in 1913 and the doctorate in chemistry from Washington. His extensive investigations and writings have brought Dr. McFarquhar recognition throughout the scientific world. An article in a scientific magazine published in 1921, in which he reported work that led to the finding in Florida, Australia, and New Zealand of a new element, copper in the soil, was seriously affected by the health of livestock. This work was done indirectly by the work of McFarquhar at the University Agricultural Experiment Station, which is designed for beginning students.

Free bridge lessons, sponsored by the Student Union Activities Committee, will begin at 8 p. m. Thursday in the SUB. Frances White, committee chairman, has announced.

Dr. Wall has a busy life with dorm director's duties. There's never a dull moment in the life of Dr. Robert H. Wall, who, when not teaching his history classes, is kept busy as the director of the University's dormitories for men students. Frequently the dormitory resident halls from morning till late at night.

Two professors and 14 monitors assist Dr. Wall in supervising the 430 dormitory students in the 100 Breckinridge halls. When Bowman Hall is completed, 108 more students will be added and Dr. Wall, the masculine version of "the old woman who lived in a shoe," will then direct about 538 men.

Religious Emphasis To Begin Tomorrow

A meeting of the Committee of 100 with the visiting religious leaders in the Student Union building tomorrow will begin the University's annual Religious Emphasis Week program which continues through January 30.

Designed to stimulate student interest in religion, the inter-denominational program of emphasis on faith is being sponsored by the Interfaith Council in cooperation with the University Christian Mission of the Federal Council of Churches (Protestant), Washington. Diocese (Catholic), Jewish Chautauque (Jewish), and Christian Science Conference (Christian Science).

Larry Fleisher, president of Interfaith Council, has announced that the program for the coming week will feature forums, seminars, personal conferences and classroom visits conducted by ten religious leaders of the several faiths.

Wendell Poundstone, in charge of the program, called particular attention to the Penitential Series, which are one-hour meetings to be held in the Music Room of the Student Union. Representatives of the different faiths will explain the meaning and of their beliefs. Sessions will attempt to clarify the significance of the various doctrines in the world of religion.

The theme of the week, however, will be "The Challenge of Religion." Poundstone said, keynote question to be emphasized will be "Is religion only something to exhibit to the Executive Committee chairman Ann O'Neil stated that the program has been designed to help students develop a workable, personal, religious philosophy of living."

Seminars will be conducted at 4:00 p. m. daily, Monday through Thursday. Students will discuss problems ranging from the subject of one world to courtship.

Sponsors of the week have arranged to hold open public meetings each evening, Sunday through Thursday, at which nationally known leaders of all faiths will be the principal speakers.

Opening the series will be Dr. Herriek B. Young, executive secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions. His talk at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, in Memorial Hall, will be entitled, "The Christian Challenge to World Confusion."

Speakers on this series will be:

Dr. Wall Has A Busy Life With Dorm Director's Duties

There's never a dull moment in the life of Dr. Robert H. Wall, who, when not teaching his history classes, is kept busy as the director of the University's dormitories for men students. Frequently the dormitory resident halls from morning till late at night.

Two professors and 14 monitors assist Dr. Wall in supervising the 430 dormitory students in the 100 Breckinridge halls. When Bowman Hall is completed, 108 more students will be added and Dr. Wall, the masculine version of "the old woman who lived in a shoe," will then direct about 538 men.

Living in the dormitories are students from many parts of the world. Among them are Turkey, China, India, Palestine, Cuba, Rhodesia, Puerto Rico and Greece—not to mention Brooklyn and Boston.

For his boys, Dr. Wall acts as an athletic director, gives advice to the male lovers, sates worried history students, runs an information center for the more studious residents, and occasionally operates an "escort" bureau for dateless men, and young ladies in distress, who call up the halls at the last minute seeking an eligible male for the 15 of them.

Adjacent to Dr. B. H. Wall's office in Kincaid Hall is the main information center for the 15 of them. Here most of the incoming telephone calls for the students are received. This office is open daily from 8 a. m. until 10:30 p. m., and estimates are that the average number of calls received is somewhat over 200 per day, with about 300 on Fridays and Saturdays. Clerks have to hunt more than 100 persons daily to answer their questions.

Used In Lab

The first steel ever cast from Kentucky iron ore by electric furnaces was recently produced in the Metallurgical laboratory of the College of Engineering, according to C. S. Cromie, head of the department of Mining and Metallurgical Engineering, and C. S. Cromie.

The ore, which came from Western Kentucky in a region near the Cumberland River, was cast in the electric furnaces in the laboratory. Mr. Cromie said that "the steel was produced with the hope that metallurgists might develop an economical process by which to use Kentucky iron ore."

Metallurgists who cast the steel were James Wyatt, Carl Duncan, and C. S. Cromie.

Famous Film To Be Shown

University students and faculty members will be able to see "Henry V" starring Laurence Olivier Tuesday morning in the SUB.

Reserved seats tickets went on sale this morning in Dr. George K. Brady's office in Room 19, McVey Hall. Tickets for the matinee performance each day at 2:30 will be sold for The and for the evening performance at 8:30 for one dollar.

Acclaimed by critics and audiences across the nation as a cinematic masterpiece, "Henry V" is scheduled for a limited performance of two weeks at the State Theatre.

Final nominations will be made at a gathering of the organization on Wednesday night in the SUB. Dr. Cecil N. McVey is the principal speaker.

The Spice Of Life

By Amy Price and Helen Dorr
The KA's decision to secede from the Union in honor of Robert E. Lee's birthday sounds like something John (Clyland) the Irish thought up. They even went so far as to send a letter to Secretary Marshall asking permission to withdraw from the Union for twenty-four hours in honor of the great day. We wonder, are they starting a Confederacy of their own?
When Cotton Wisner was torn between Dell (Miss) and Jim (Miss) by trying to get his date to pour water on him. They turned the tables by pouring water on Cotton. Too bad he wasn't absorbed.
The unbelievable has happened. Jolly Rodgers is pinned. The lucky girl is Mary Anne Goodson.
Six Ep pledges have a habit of taking the actives for a ride but the lowest blow of all happened last week when they kidnapped Crusty Christ as he and his date were waiting for a bus. The poor girl had to go home alone.
The most unusual gift of the week was the penicillin sally branch got from a Yale man. It was inscribed, "For God, For Country, For Yale and for Sally."
It is true that Tom Perkins and Elvira Mullman are planning to be married as soon as possible. By the way, Tom's edition of "Readin', Rivin', Rhythmin'" is getting better all the time.
Just to show the influence of the American press, Mary Sue McWhirter and Buddy Thurman were pinned as predicted in last week's column. The event happened on Saturday afternoon.
In case you're wondering what happened to all the books the bookstore didn't have this quarter, we know of one solution. One of the male help that she just kept on buying.
Jean Henry and Beta Jack Pogge from Miami University got pinned last weekend. They've been dating since high school days.
Jean's sister, Louise Henry, and Margaret Collier, student councilors in Jewell, say they don't have time.

Veteran Enrollment Shows Decrease

Of the 1294 students registered for the winter quarter, 4219 are veterans. Miss Maple Moore, assistant registrar, announced.
This figure, which excludes the 145 veterans enrolled in the College of Pharmacy, shows a decrease from the 4316 attending school under the GI Bill of Rights in the previous quarter.
The total veteran and non-veteran enrollment topped all previous records for the winter quarter, Miss Moore said. It surpassed the highest previous winter term enrollment by 747 students and is more than 96 per cent greater than the largest pre-war registration for a similar period in 1929.
Dr. Maurice F. Seay, dean and registrar, said the percentage of decrease in veteran enrollment was not as high as the normal decrease from the Fall quarter.

Created Equal?

In 1938 Lloyd Gains, Negro, applied for admission into the University of Missouri and was refused. The matter was taken to court and was so bitterly contested that it finally made its way into the Supreme Court of the United States where the case was decided in favor of Gains and against the University of Missouri.
The decision was that "failure to afford equal educational advantages within the state for all citizens, regardless of race or color, constitutes discrimination in violation of the Constitution."
The Negro mail carrier, who had already obtained his bachelor's degree at a northern university, applied for entry into the law college of the University of Texas, basing his request upon an act passed by the state legislature in that same year. The act provided that the directors of Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College admit Negroes or provide equivalent courses, a ruling which applied to all state colleges.
Glover Sellers, attorney-general of Texas, ruled that a Negro was entitled to enter the University of Texas if he could not get the training he desired at a Negro college. Sellers further decided that as soon as there was a demand for any course offered white students, the Negro must be admitted or equal facilities be provided.
Last week the United States Supreme Court held that Oklahoma must admit a Negro girl who seeks admission to its state university law school or provide equal facilities for her. (Since that time, Oklahoma has avoided admitting her to the school by making the provision demanded by the Supreme Court.)
James A. Crumlin, president of the Louisville branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, also made a statement last week. He said that a Negro girl soon would apply for admission to the University of Kentucky law school.
Negroes have always been denied admission to southern colleges and universities and, in spite of two Supreme Court decisions on the matter, this application also probably will be contested as has been the case in the past when a Negro applied for the equal educational advantages guaranteed him by the Constitution.
But the real tragedy in the repeated attempts to bar the Negro from education lies even deeper than the fact that the majority attempts to deprive the minority of equal opportunities and rights. The truth is that here we have men and women going to extreme lengths - educationally, financially, and socially - to uphold a principle that runs counter to the religion and the political philosophy in which they profess to believe.
Whatever develops affecting the University in the next few months, let students act calmly and reasonably on the issue - as befits university men and women. And if there be a handful of hoodlums, who are more noisy than numerous, let no one be misled and let no one conduct himself in a way to bring discredit to himself, his university, and his commonwealth.

Barker Voted ODK Head

George Barker, law junior from Lexington, was elected president of Omicron Delta Kappa, national men's leadership honorary fraternity, at a meeting held in the SUB Tuesday night.
Other officers selected were vice president, William Tombs Jr., Louisville; secretary, Edward T. Brewster Jr., Hopkinsville; and treasurer, Dr. Dewey Steele, Lexington.

Engineering Society Elects Brontson

William Brontson has been elected president of the Norwood Mining and Metallurgical Engineering Society.
Other officers are Fred Dupree, vice president; Ted Haley, secretary; Tom Roney, treasurer; Ben Whitmer, president at arms; Ed Jones, student council representative; Mel Tinsley and Ken Barker, program committee.

Dimes Effort

Under the chairmanship of Martin T. Swanson, the Alpha Phi Omega, National Service Fraternity, has assisted in the effort to raise money for the 10th Annual March of Dimes campaign which began this week in Fayette County.
Bob Cox, Fayette county head of the Dimes Drive, stated that coin collectors have been placed in 15 different spots about the campus by the APO group, and that every fraternity and sorority on the campus will be solicited during the next two weeks.

Editor's Letters

Editor, Kentucky Kernel:
The soldier was a "great guy" during the war to the girls. He was the guy who was winning the war and protecting them from the enemy.
The war is over now and the veteran is being forgotten, just as he was forgotten after the last war. The dead are always forgotten, and the living soldier wants to be forgotten, as he himself tries to forget.
Then there is a third group; the boys who can't forget, because the mark of war has been branded on their minds and bodies. They should never be forgotten by those whom they fought to protect.
The government is doing all that it possibly can to help them recover physically at veterans' hospitals. Here the one just outside Lexington. However, they need more than physical assistance; they need encouragement and inspiration. In this field, very little is being done for them by the ones who can aid them the most - the young womanhood of this country, whom they fought to protect.
Are there any girls in Lexington who would like to remember, and help broken soldiers to face the world again unafraid? If there are any who are interested, and can spare the time on Thursday nights, they can help out by going to the dances at the veterans' hospital.
These dances are supervised by the Recreation Department, and sponsored by local service organizations. They not only benefit those who can dance, but also those who come to watch with the hope that they too will dance again some day.
FRANK R. DORNHEIM
Editor's Note: Those who are interested in the Veterans' Hospital, YWCA office, SUB, or the Red Cross office, VA Hospital, Transient Home provided to the dances which take place each Thursday evening from 9:15-11:30.

Lydia Brown, KD's Win Room Contest

Rooms in Lydia Brown House won first place in the annual room judging contest, Miss Margaret Storey, director of residence halls announced.
The House Presidents Council, the contest sponsor, awarded two cups, one for the dormitory-room winner and one for the best room in a sorority house. Second place among dormitories was won by Boyd Hall, with Jewell hall taking third place. Alpha Gamma Delta and Zeta Phi Alpha were second and third in the sorority competition.

Kentucky Veterans Receive 404 Cars

Latest Veterans Administration figures show that 2323 seriously disabled World War II veterans in Ohio, Michigan, and Kentucky have received automotive vehicles at government expense under the law passed by Congress in August, 1946.
Cost of these vehicles was $3,662,652. In Kentucky, 404 persons received vehicles, valued at $642,124.
The law provides an automobile or other conveyance at a cost not to exceed $1,600 for any World War II veteran who lost, or lost the use of, one or both legs or above the ankle as the result of service-incurred injuries.

Dr. Wall in Lebanon and Harrodsburg.
Dr. Wall, who serves as trainer, manager and assistant coach for his basketball team, is also the No. 1 supporter. He has wangled supplies and equipment for his team from many sources. For example, some old uniforms were borrowed from Coach Adolph Rupp for use in the coming season. He has entered in the Wall apartment, located in Kincaid Hall, and devotes much time caring for her two daughters. Occasionally, Mrs. Wall is called upon to act as a seamstress, paint-presenter, cook, nurse or social adviser for many of the boys.
Annual Happenings
The resident halls have not been without their "personality" days. A unorthodox freshman some months ago had the rather disturbing habit of setting off firecrackers in order to break the monotonous silence on his particular floor. Eventually he was discovered and shortly thereafter he was "exploded" right out of the resident halls.
Another "scholar" tried to practice his bugle "when the notion struck him" until his monitor informed him that the dorm was not the proper place to sound off and requested him to practice his reveille calls elsewhere.

Kappa Alpha Rebels Secede In Honor Of 'Patron Saint'

By Nancy Gaskin and Dudley Saunders
Two hundred staunch rebels stood in reverent silence as the Kappa Alpha fraternity lowered the Confederate flag in front of the Administration building Monday afternoon to conclude a day's celebration in honor of their "patron saint," General Robert E. Lee.

Sixty-five KA's took the day off from classes. They paraded in cars equipped with loud speakers and played "Dixie" during two parades which were formed to publicize the annual event and to salute all the local fraternities, sororities, and high schools.

General Robert E. Lee. The parade was interrupted by campus police, who said the noise was disturbing classes. The KA's, who pointed out that the parade was scheduled during the ten-minute interval while classes changed, said there must be a lot of "damnyankees" in Lexington.

A telegram to Secretary of State George C. Marshall, a KA himself, asked that the chapter here be allowed to secede from the Union January 19. Another message, sent to Lexington's Mayor Tom Mason, requesting that the name of South Limestone St. be changed to "Robert E. Lee Boulevard" for the day, both requests were unanswered.

The KA's were rather doubtful about the unusual idea put forth by Harry House. House suggested that the Confederate flag be flown on the flagpole in front of the Administration Building flanked by the members of the chapter in drill formation. The plan was carried out, and at 7:30 Monday morning the Stars and Stripes were lowered and the flag of the CSA hoisted to the top. Until 8:30 the flag remained aloft. At that time Col. G. T. McKee, professor of military science and tactics and head of the ROTC, ordered the flag to be taken down.

The KA's immediately sent two representatives to explain the situation to Col. McKee and President H. L. Donovan. The KA's were then given permission to fly their halcyon flag under the Stars and Stripes for the rest of the day.

At 4 o'clock the KA's gathered once more on the "parade grounds" in front of the Administration building. There Bartley Green, well-known treasurer, blew "Retreat" and the Confederate banner was respectfully lowered.

Several days local radio stations broadcast up-to-the-minute accounts of the birthday celebrations on the campus. Tom Perkins, disc jockey, dedicated "The Old Gray Mare" to Traveler, Lee's famous horse.

Parking

those who are physically disabled, 200 permits were issued. This makes a total of 500 permits, but Dean Kirwan says the campus police explained that because all cars would not often be here at the same time, no problem would be created by issuance of 38 additional permits.

Explains
"I limited student permits to commuters and the physically handicapped. I felt it best to give commuters parking places because if they were forced to live in Lexington it would aggravate our housing problem. And I felt the physically handicapped should have parking permits. About 40 of this group are commuters," Dr. Kirwan said.

"Well, what are we going to do with the other persons who want to drive their automobiles to school?" he asks.

No Student Cars?
"Some of the committee members are in favor of not allowing students to drive automobiles on the campus," Dr. Kirwan says.

"Of course we wouldn't have any problem if these persons without permits wouldn't drive their cars to school," he points out. But he says this isn't the way it works and it is difficult for the University to prevent students without permits from parking on campus.

He points out that the costs of keeping policemen on duty at each of the five campus entrances or at the nine parking areas makes this prohibitive.

Cooperation
And it would create traffic jams as permit holders or questioned persons supposedly only waiting to drive on campus to deliver documents to the various buildings and then drive on away from the campus.

"We would like to have the student's cooperation in this matter," he points out. "If a student without a registration every student who has an automobile is given a copy of the parking regulations and asked to register his car."

Some students registered their cars, but "the smart boys don't."
"And what happens?" he asks. "Students with unregistered cars park on the campus. The police tag them and they get checked through the county clerk and finally catch up with the guilty person."

$1 Fines
Persons who are reported for illegal parking are fined one dollar. "This isn't so much a punishment as an effort to impress on students that they shouldn't park without a permit," Dr. Kirwan says, "but a dollar is a dollar and the $801 we collected last fall is an awful lot to tax students."

Dean Kirwan asked 25 other universities how they handled their parking problem. Some issue permits on the same basis as the University, to certain students to drive automobiles to campus.

Plastered Windshields
At the University of Michigan the penalty is severe. When a policeman finds a car without a permit, he pastes a sheet of heavy dark paper over the windshield.

"Sounds fine and would be if the offender was always a husky freshman who lives on Woodland Avenue," Dean Kirwan says. But he asks if this would be a nice way to treat parents of students visiting the University, or the many other persons who visit the campus for business reasons.

President's Office Requests Record

The President's office wishes to have a record of the children of students who are enrolled in the University of Kentucky. Dr. H. L. Donovan announced this week.

"We have on file a list of those children whose parents enrolled at the beginning of the Fall quarter and those whose parents enrolled for the first time at the beginning of the Winter quarter. We do not have the names of those married students who have attended the University before and who have just returned to take up their work in the Winter quarter," he said.

Those married students who are returning to resume their work in the Winter quarter after an absence from the campus are requested to call at the Office of Information, Room 107, Administration building and leave their Lexington or commuting addresses. If they have children a card will be furnished on which their names and dates of birth can be given.

Miss Frances Yeend, lyric soprano, will open the winter series of Sunday Afternoon Musicales with a concert in Memorial Hall at 4 p.m. Sunday. Dr. Alexander Capurso, head of the Music Department, announced Thursday.

The program will be the fifth in a series that annually brings outstanding visiting artists to the campus, and presents members of the music faculty and student groups in concert appearances. The Music Department of the University sponsors the program.

Miss Yeend has been soprano soloist in three Berkshire Festival performances of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony in Boston, and performed as Micaela in the Columbia Concert's production of "Carmen." She has appeared on such radio programs as the NBC Symphony's "Serenade to America," and "Hour of Charm," in special work with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, and with the Naumberg Orchestra in open air concerts at New York's Central Park.

The young soprano was born in Vancouver, Wash., and was educated in Portland, Ore. Her early career included appearances in concerts, local operas, oratorios and dramas throughout the Northwest.

The musical will be open to the public. It will be broadcast by radio station WKLF.

Southeastern Round-up

By Dudley Sanders

Kentucky cage fans, so long engrossed in the adventures of their beloved Wildcats, are beginning to ask questions about the conference team play in quite often they hear storm warnings that some rival league team is "out to lynch the Cats, but usually these warnings turn out to be false alarms.

This year especially, deep rumblings have come up from the South, involving an early end to Kentucky cage superiority. Most of these teams don't see Kentucky weakening, but merely their own teams growing stronger.

Most of the SEC teams are in the building stage at present, and probably won't be serious title contenders for several months. Some teams like Tulane, Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia are already beginning to show marked signs of improvement.

For the benefit of those who are willing to admit the Wildcats aren't the only team in the SEC, a thumbnail sketch of some team follows.

Despite several decisive setbacks, including a 62-30 thrashing by Tulane, Florida boasts a record of six wins and four losses for the season. The Gators have won three and lost two in loop competition.

Another mediocre SEC team is Louisiana State, victors in five of thirteen games. The Bayou Tigers have a one and three record in the conference. Tech dropped their 52-46, and you don't have to be reminded that the Wildcats clipped the Engineers, 71-56.

Vanderbilt, struggling along with a young squad of ten players, has an overall record of four wins against six losses, and a league standing of two wins and three setbacks. They've dropped two to Xavier, 79-42 and 62-40 and remember that Kentucky's choice X, 79-37.

Winner of 14 out of 15 games, Tulane is everyone's choice to make things hot for Kentucky in the SEC. Beaten only by the nation's number four team, New York University by 41-37 in Madison Square Garden, the Green Wave has six consecutive conference victories behind them. They are rated 18th in the nation and second in the SEC by the Liberator's Rating System.

Beaten in the finals of the SEC tournament last year by Kentucky, 55-38, Tulane will have a good incentive behind their championship drive. Don't be surprised if anything the up-and-coming Green Wave does.

One of the four better teams in the conference and quite possibly a runner-up to Kentucky, the Tennessee Vols have a season record of nine victories and three defeats, including two wins and one loss within the loop. The Wildcats had all they could handle when they met them 65-54, so this Tennessee threat isn't to be taken lightly.

Alabama, under the direction of Floyd Burdette, former Murray and Oklahoma A&M star, has won most of the SEC teams. Bama might prove tough on their home court on a hot night.

Georgia Tech's Hambling Wreck shouldn't cause any real concern in the SEC. Monday night the Wildcats slipped them 71-56 without breathing deeply, and the exciting question Tulane team dropped Tech 54-29.

Georgia's Bulldogs opened the season with a bang, won 11 straight games, barring the nets for 49, 70 and 80 points, and then Auburn and Alabama dumped them on consecutive nights 52-41 and 48-47. Staggering from these two blows, the Bulldogs grooved at the Wildcats Tuesday night and were chased punch-drunk 88-41. It was a gallant effort on Georgia's part (Continued on Page Six)

Shively, Bryant At Atlanta SEC Confab

Head Football Coach Paul Bryant and Athletic Director Bernie Shively are representing the University of Kentucky at a meeting of the Association of Athletic Directors and Coaches of the Southeastern Conference being held this week at Georgia Tech in Atlanta.

The association, of which Bob Neeland of Tennessee is president and Shively secretary, is meeting to discuss the NCAA "purity code," which would drastically cut the grants-in-aid awarded to athletes in the conference.

Up to this time, the SEC has been allowing players $10 a month spending money for their toilet articles, in addition to their tuition, books, and board.

If the SEC grants are reduced to conform to the NCAA standards, Kentucky may be able to schedule athletes with the teams of the "Big Nine." The members of that conference have objected for a long time to the grant-in-aid program in the southeast, and have even threatened to leave the SEC to play Kentucky and other SEC segregations.

Introducing... Captain Kenny Rollins

By Stan Schill

Kenneth Herman Rollins, captain of a University of Kentucky basketball team that has won one conference championship, and is well on its way to another, is under consideration for the job of hoopster coach at Murray State Teachers College, Murray, Kentucky.

Rollins, who is regarded by competent observers as one of the most polished guards to ever wear a basketball uniform, would probably be a great aid to the Murray State cause if selected, that is, if a knowledge of actual court play is considered helpful.

Kenny has spent very little time sitting on the bench during these past couple of years. Last season he managed to collect a total of 310 points for the season, to rank fifth in scoring, just under Alex Groza and Ralph Beard with 333 and 282 respectively.

Rollins, who is married man, makes a specialty of a one hand jump shot from the foul line which is very effective. Don't get the impression, however, that he is a one-shot man. Kenny is deadly accurate from just about anywhere on the front court.

To fans watching a game, number 26 seems to be the most busy inhabitant on the floor. And they're probably right. Kenny definitely does not loaf. He's always moving.

Rollins has professed an interest in coaching after graduation, and since he's a senior now, we believe he would do a terrific job coaching any team.

Murray could make few better choices than Kenny Rollins for their future basketball coach.

combination in the country that can compare with the duet of Rollins and his terrific little partner, the incomparable Ralph Beard.

It's a tribute to the all-conference player's prowess and clear-headedness on the court, that his team-mates have elected him to pilot them to the championship again this year.

Before going into the Navy, Kenny played a bang-up game here during his sophomore year. He didn't waste his time with the sailors either, as his record with the Great Lakes quintet will testify.

Intramural Cage Tourney Lists 42 Teams In Prelims

McCubbin Divides Play Into Six Groups

Arriving like Lexington's "Great Snow" — all at once — the intramural basketball tournament, dribbled into action Monday evening at Alumni gymnasium with a grand total of 42 quintets charted to compete in the affair, according to official records held by the intramural director, Bill McCubbin.

Because of the large number of entries in the sport and shoot event, six divisions were made with six squads in the first, second, third and sixth divisions and eight teams in the fourth and fifth divisions.

Of the 42 quintets entered in the event, 23 of the total are independent teams and the remaining 19 are fraternity squads. Breaking down the entries further, it is found that the teams going under the names of Jewell Hall, Patt Hall, and the "K" club are composed of "Bear" Bryant's football players, while one of the fraternity teams, the Tau Kappa outfit, is an honorary society.

Rules for the tournament say that the four teams with the highest percentage of wins and losses from each division will go into the elimination tourney which is scheduled to begin February 11, after the round robin contest ends.

The time limit for all games but the semi-finals and the finals is a 30-minute battle with 15 minute halves. The semi-finals will have 20-minute halves and the final still will be played with regulation time tables.

To date, the fourth and fifth divisions have gone through their first round of play.

In the first division the Phi Delt defeated the Sigma Nus 21-15. Lambda Chi Alpha rolled in a decisive 35-23 victory over the Phi Tau, and Delta Chi won 39-22 from the AOR's.

Second division play found ASP beating ZET 26-22, Phi Sig's edged out the SigEps 26-18 and Sigma Chi outlasting the PKA's for a 26-14 triumph.

In the third division the SAE's Kappa Sig's two pointed out on the ATO's 21-19, and the Delta whipped the Tau Kappa's 13-2.

The sixth division fight found Kinlead Hall ahead of the Atomics 39-14, the YMCA aggregation one point in front of the White Kids, 26-28, and the Turtles slaughtering the nose away from the KA's 29-16, Bultles 37-9.

Cats Down Vols 65-54

The bout between the brothers, Wah Jones starting at forward for the Wildcats and his brother, Hugh, starting at guard for the Volunteers, ended in a split decision, both scoring 11 points, as Kentucky beat Tennessee, 65-54.

Tennessee, sparked by Capt. Hawkins, who hit the basket for 19 points, fought on even terms with the Wildcats throughout the first half, scoring 29 points to Kentucky's 23. But the powerful Kentucky quintet came back strong in the

Cat Cagers Take Three SEC Foes In Tow On Southern Journey

By Kent Hollingsworth

For 73 years, Georgians have lamented General Sherman, but now Coach Rupp's man, No longer do Georgia mothers warn, "If you don't behave, General Sherman will get you!" Now it's "Behave, or Mr. Rupp'll come down here, and ralloo get you!"

Coch Rupp and his Wildcats did more in two nights to Georgia, more than Sherman did in two weeks.

Not up to their usual form, but still battling 500 on their shots in the first half, the Wildcats listlessly burned up Georgia Tech's gymnasium and first team, winning by a score of 71 to 56.

The stizzling pace of the Wildcats was slowed down to a snail's pace by bad passing and erratic free play. Anderson, Yellow Jacket guard, tried vainly to keep his team in the ball game by scoring 19 points, but his three teammates, there were no Tech substitutes—couldn't go along with him.

Fireball Ralph Beard got 6 field goals and 4 fouls, to rack up 16 points, high for the Kentuckians, while Barker and Rollins followed with 14 and 11 respectively.

Wah Jones, teaming with Big Alex to hog all the rebounds, played his best game of the year, collecting 10 fielders and 2 fouls. Ralph Beard, pitted against diminutive Joe Jordan, Georgia's All America candidate, the Wildcats marched to Athens, where they met the University of Georgia, Tuesday night. Georgia, who won 11 straight at the start of the season, was expected to give the 'Cats a tough scrap, but the Wildcats put on one of their finest displays of basketball this season, to crush the Bulldogs, 88-51.

All-American Al Groza looked the part as he dumped in 22 points on 13 points.

TIPS ON TOGS by Link

STUMPED—Yep, I'm stumped — can't decide "which terrible boy to tell you value-wise people about first". Because I have sport shirts (by Van Heusen, Cisco and Rombro of California), dress shirts of all styles (Van Heusen), leather gloves, scarf, box and raincoats at the often saluted for but seldom found "it" price — in fact — one lot of wool plaid shirts for $3.95 — bargain, eh?

SEEING DOUBLE — (With no help from the brew department I hasten to add) every man's fashion magazine, every shipment of suits and seven out of ten customers favor double-breasted suits — so-o-o — being obliging folk, we ordered and received a large hunk of double-breasted suits in a variety of patterns and materials. They, too, have been hung on the sales rack and left at a price to please any one.

MORALE LIFTERS — That's what I have entitled the new bow tie and handkerchief sets that are brightening up — and I do mean "brightening up," our store and shelves — in solid colors of yellow — tobacco brown — green — maroon — chocolate brown — black. Give your eight to five you'll like them —

HALYARD'S SPORT SIDE SHOW
Featuring Today —
"Dr. Wall" Helps Dorms Get Out Of Red

In every major intramural sport for the past two years, there has been a strong team participating for the Men's Dorm. Sure we know that also a half dozen fraternities have consistently had teams in intramurals, and, that's good, but it's to be expected.

A fraternity is a social organization in which is bred a keen competitive group spirit. It produces a strong feeling of brotherly love, and a great desire to beat the Chaga Ina Jug boys down the street.

Fraternities have treasury funds from which to finance their sporting programs, or at least their strong organization provides a big enough stick to successfully assure members to meet the bill.

On the first of these two points, the Men's Dorm can stand up with the frats. Because just like the frats, the boys in the Dorm, although they have a faster turnover of personnel than the Greeks, like to play for the exercise, enjoyment of participating, and greatest of all, the thrill of winning.

But the matter of financing the project has always been and may always be a hard row to hoe for the independents.

The Dorm has been managing to scrape by on the meager profits from its Coke machines. With the help of "Doc Wall" they have managed to keep even some equipment valued from $300 to $400 worth of equipment, some given them, but a good portion purchased with their funds.

This equipment is used by all residents of the halls as well as the barracks to timber up stiff joints. Whenever the sun comes through for a couple of consecutive hours, footballs, softballs, and baseballs begin whirling through the air around the Dorms, like a bunch of flying saucers.

However, when the Dorm began to slip into the red, something had to be done. The genial "Doc" and

Distance Men Start Track Practice Soon

The Lexington Trotting track, stamping ground for some of the fastest horses in the world, will be the practice site of Kentucky's distant runners, who, although not the fastest men in the world, will probably run with all the determination in the world.

Track coach Don Cash Season announced that distant runners would be in practice either there or at nearby Poodoms at 3:30 p.m. February 2.

At the same time Dr. Seaton repeated his plea for more men in every event, stating that berths were open for every one of them. He insisted that anyone with two legs and the desire to work would be given a chance even if as many as 100 prospects turned out.

If enough freshmen answer his call, a fresh schedule can probably be arranged. However, upperclassmen are also requested to try out because all the fresh prospects will not be eligible for varsity duty this spring. The freshman team would be composed of those boys who entered school after July 1, 1947.

First meet of the coming spring is scheduled for March 27, when a squad will participate in the Indoor Purdue Relays at Lafayette, Indiana. A tentative schedule of eight to ten meets is now being drawn up for the varsity squad.

Kentucky's "Zip Kids" Meet Cincinnati; Trying For 59th Straight Home Win

The Kentucky "Zip Kids" will be after their 59th consecutive win in Alumni gymnasium tomorrow night when they encounter the University of Cincinnati Bearcats—the team that beat Utah.

In their first meeting of this season (December 13), the Tucky Tabbies had little trouble with Cincinnati, winning 67-31, in the Queen City's Music Hall before a capacity crowd of 5,000 persons.

Since that time, however, the UC sagers have improved somewhat and are expected to put up a stronger game against the Ruppman than before. Coach John (Sooko) Weithe's charges have been facing top-flight opposition and although their record isn't too impressive, the Ohio hoopers are a stronger-than-average aggregation at several of their games have since proven.

Early in the campaign, the Cincy basketballers whipped a good Southern Methodist University (Dallas), but lost three straight to Kentucky, the Villanova College and North Carolina State—all powerhouse. The latter outfit got a real surprise from UC in their game, with the Southrons finally winning by a six-point margin after a real struggle.

The Bearcats then pulled the biggest surprise of the year as far as Southern Ohio cage fans are concerned when they upset a favored Utah quintet, 56-49, on January 3.

Westerfeld is Big Gun UC's captain and center, Bill Westerfeld, is the big gun in the Bearcats' barrage. After scoring 354 points last season in 26 games, Big Bill was selected as All-Mid-American Conference center, which includes Miami (Ohio) and Bob Brown, the guy who tossed in 19 UC-Utah game to lead both teams in individual scoring.

The Red and Black's other starting forward, Dick Dallmer, a six-foot-two, 185-pound hooper, is good on rebounds and is claimed to be a great one hand shot when he is "right." Rounding out the starting five is Bill Anderson, a 73-inch guard, who plays a cautious, steady game. Another guard, Alkie Richards, will see considerable action against UC. Richards is the Bearcats' speedy halfback who finished right behind Roger Stephens in scoring for the 1947 grid season.

The Kentucky Cats, making their first appearance in Alumni gym, after three weeks of playing "on the road," will get a short rest after the Cincinnati fray. Their next game, after UC, will be against the DePaul Demons next Saturday (January 31) in Chicago.

Forward Ralph Richter is perhaps Cincinnati's most promising player. After being quite a sensation in amateur basketball ranks around Cincinnati last year, Coach Sooko Weithe brought the lanky cager to the UC campus and it has proved a very smart move. In several games, the six-foot, four-inch Richter has been little short of superb. He scored 18 tallies in his UC-Utah game to lead both teams in individual scoring.

UC Upset Dayton Tuesday

In their last game, Tuesday night, the UC quintet trimmed Dayton 61-45, in the Gem City. Dick Dallmer and reserve forward Chuck Chickner led the scoring with 13 points each.

Ralph Richter leads the Bearcats in team scoring with 121 markers.

Round-Up

but their young team just couldn't keep up the pace. Definitely one of the top four in the conference, the Bulldogs have an overall record of 11-3, and a two and three conference record. Tab Georgia for the future.

Mississippi State has played all five of its games within the conference, winning two and losing three. They split a two game series with Vanderbilt and Auburn, and should provide a good warm-up game for someone. Draw your own conclusion.

The Rebels from Ole Miss can boast of but one achievement this year: they got beat by the Gem City, 61-45, in the Gem City.

They have a season record of three wins and four losses, including one victory and three defeats in the conference. Georgia beat them 74-56.

Spurring a season record of four wins and four losses, Auburn's Plainsmen haven't done anything this year except stop Georgia's 11 game winning streak 52-41. In con-reference play they have won three and lost three, breaking even in a two-game series with Mississippi State and Florida.

Washington U., Kentucky's opponent for February 7, at Memphis, beat them 39-23, and Tulane rolled over them 70-27.
